

Chapter 1992 I Am The Young Master Of The Sanderson...

Hearing Kurt's offer, the fire team leader became excited. He couldn't believe he could earn an additional thirty thousand just like that.

Kurt quickly explained to him the exact location of the documents, as well as a description of what they looked like. Having received all the necessary information, the man hurriedly grabbed an oxygen mask from the car before rushing straight into the flames.

Trevor didn't fail to notice how anxious Kurt seemed about those documents, and his curiosity was piqued. "Didn't you take all the money out of the house earlier? What else could be so important in the house that you're so anxious?"

Kurt cast a cold glance at Trevor and sneered, "During my time in prison, I heard rumors that the Sanderson Construction Company has been attracting investors lately. I personally have a construction company and not the least important one. I am certain that I could strike a business partnership deal with the Sanderson Construction Company. I unfortunately forgot the partnership proposal at home and that's what I'm trying to get back. Once I successfully close the cooperation deal with them, I will be really rich."

Trevor didn't expect such a combination of circumstances at all, and for a moment he was speechless. Then suddenly he burst out laughing.

Did Kurt just mention the Sanderson Construction Company?

That was actually the company Trevor had just registered after he got the new building materials from Abram.

So it turned out that Kurt was eager to work with him..

Kurt was puzzled when Trevor started laughing.

Looking at Trevor with resentment, he muttered inwardly, "Son of a bitch! Just wait and see. By the time I successfully close the cooperation deal, my family will be powerful. At that time, I will have no issues dealing with someone like you. Just wait and see!"

As Kurt swore and cursed Trevor in his heart, he saw the fire chief rush out of the burninghouse.

"So? Did you find it?" Kurt asked anxiously.

The fire chief took off his fire helmet and shook his head.

"The fire is too strong! I couldn't get in," he explained.

At this moment, Trevor chipped in, "Of course the fire is so strong. After all, Kurt lit it himself."

Hearing Trevor's words, the fire chief was utterly shocked.

He frowned tightly and glared at Kurt.

"You set the fire?" he asked angrily.

Kurt was scared by the look in the fire chief's eyes and he stepped back unconsciously avoiding eye contact with him.

He didn't even need to say anything as his expression alone was enough to confirm to the fire chief that what Trevor said was true.

"Damn it! Have you lost your mind? You started the fire and it was still you who called the fire brigade? Is this a joke? Guys! Let's go! We won't deal with this fire!"

Seeing that the fire chief was furious and had changed his mind about putting out the fire, Kurt became so anxious that he was sweating profusely.

At the same time, Kurt could see that the fire chief was determined to leave with his men and it was impossible to change his mind.

He didn't have time to think too much. The documents were still in the house and he didn't have a backup of them.

He had no choice but to rush into the fire himself.

The fire chief was stunned by what he saw.

He opened his mouth but was unable to say anything.

This man was truly a complete idiot. Not only had he set the house on fire, but he rushed into the flames without even taking a fire suit.

"Damn it! This man's a lunatic!" the fire chief cursed. He then pulled out his phone and called the police at once.

Trevor and Luisa watched the whole scene and couldn't help but laugh.

After a while, they all saw Kurt running out of the villa.

His eyebrow was completely burned and his hair was on fire too.

He cried and shouted, waving his empty hands. It seemed that he didn't find the documents in the villa.

Looking at Kurt, Trevor smiled and said, "Stop wasting your time looking for those documents. Even if you find them, they won't be of any use to you anyway."

Kurt was gasping for breath, and Trevor's remark infuriated him. He glared at Trevor and roared, "What do you mean? Who do you think you are?"

He was so furious at this moment that if Trevor didn't have the means to send him to rot in jail, he would have killed Trevor then and there.

Unfazed by Kurt's anger, Trevor curled his lips and said casually, "You know that Sanderson Construction Company has started operating, but have you ever asked who is the owner of the company?"

"Are you going to tell me that you are the boss of that company?" Kurt said mockingly.

Trevor nodded and retorted with a smile, "You are smart!"

After saying that, he took out his ID card and showed it to Kurt.

With a frown, Kurt leaned forward to get a closer look and he was shocked by what he saw.

He couldn't believe it.

"You... Are you really the young master of the Sanderson family? Isn't this some sort of trick you are playing on me?"

Kurt was so scared that his hands and feet were cold as ice. At this moment, he thought of all the times he had offended Trevor.

It was now impossible for him to ever win the cooperation with the Sanderson Construction Company.

He could really consider himself lucky that Trevor hadn't decided to destroy him after he had been provoking Trevor for so long.

Trevor could see fear written all over Kurt's face. He smiled and said, "Don't worry. I'm a kind person. I have no intention of taking revenge on you. After all, the fire chief has already called the police to arrest you just now."

Hearing that, Kurt frowned and asked confusedly, "Why did he call the police?"

Luisa, who had been quiet the whole time, couldn't stand Kurt's stupidity anymore. How could someone be so ignorant about the law?

"You are so stupid. Any arson is illegal, even if it is your own home you set on fire," she said with disdain.
