Chapter 2022 In Great Danger

Trevor felt like he was in a daze, and suddenly, everything around him started shaking violently.

He made an effort to catch up with Kenny.

Only when he reached the end of the passageway did he spot a secret passage!

Kenny must have fled through here!

Trevor attempted to open the secret passage door, but to his dismay, it was locked.

Seeing Trevor in a confused state, Henrik became deeply concerned. He gently hoisted Trevor onto his back and left the backup power room.

As they made their way, tears filled Henrik's eyes, and he wore a remorseful expression. "Bro, it's all my fault! I'm sorry, I shouldn't have acted on impulse."

Trevor smiled and gently shook his head. He felt as though a vast ocean had surged into his mind, its relentless waves causing a dizzying sensation.

Lost in his thoughts, Trevor's mind wandered to memories of his grandfather.

Considering that Kenny was aware of the drug's secret, his grandfather, who was the head of the Sanderson family, should know more.

With this in mind, Trevor made a determined effort to gather himself. He grabbed his phone and called his grandfather.

The phone was answered by Elwood immediately. "Hello, Trevor. What's the matter?"

Suppressing his drowsiness, Trevor told the incident to Elwood.

Hearing this, Elwood was both surprised and deeply concerned. "What?!"

After taking a deep breath, Elwood continued, "Trevor, pay attention. You're at a critical juncture, and all we can do now is take a chance! I'll provide you with the Sanderson family's special oral medicine to unlock the limitless potential within your body.

If you manage to succeed, you can overcome the side effects of the Wright family's drug. It's really a matter of luck. However, from my studies, it seems that this drug is most effective for direct descendants of the three major families. Considering your physical condition and bloodline, your chances of success and potential should be even higher! I'll have someone deliver the medicine to you immediately! Trevor, you have to hang in there..."

Trevor struggled to hear out Elwood's words as they became increasingly unclear.

In that moment, his eyelids felt incredibly heavy.

Sleepiness overwhelmed him, and dizziness took hold.

The next thing Trevor knew, he had lost consciousness..

When he eventually regained consciousness, he discovered himself lying on a hospital bed made of steel plate.

Luisa, who had been watching by his bedside, was taken aback to see Trevor awake. Tears streamed down her face as she tightly held his right hand.

"Luisa, please don't cry. I'm okay."

Trevor gently reached out with his left hand to touch Luisa's head and was surprised to find that there was no pain when he used his left hand!

Upon examination, he realized that the gunshot wound on his left shoulder had miraculously healed!

Trevor's mind raced as he remembered the drug from the Wright family and the medicine his grandfather had promised to send before he passed out.

He reached up to touch his nose.

Fortunately, his nose didn't turn to the aquiline nose that indicated the side effect of the Wright family's drug.

Trevor finally felt relieved.

And he suddenly noticed the scalds on Luisa's hands.

He recalled the intense heat generated by the Wright family's medicine injection. All of a sudden, Trevor realized that Luisa had suffered burns from the intense heat emanating from his body while she had been tending to him.

Trevor gently held Luisa's hand, deeply moved by what she had done. "Luisa, thank you so much."

Luisa sobbed heavily and shook her head. She wanted to convey something, but all that came out were choked sobs as she witnessed Trevor's waking up.

The door of the ward opened, and Nasir, clad in a white gown, entered.

He too was taken aback to find that Trevor had woken up. He approached Trevor, performed a thorough checkup to ensure there were no hidden health risks, and then smiled warmly.

Nasir sighed. "You've been unconscious for a whole day and night. Throughout this time, Miss Burke was extremely anxious. By the way, I've already had the hospital erase all your medical records, so there's no need to worry about them being leaked."

Trevor nodded in appreciation. "Thank you, Nasir."

Nasir waved his hand, shedding his usual serious demeanor in the presence of hospital staff, and remarked casually, "It's no big deal. Don't be so formal with me. It was my pleasure to help."

Trevor nodded with a smile. "I'd like you to bring some soothing lotion. Luisa burned her hands while taking care of me."

"Sure," replied Nasir. "I'll go get it."

Once Nasir had departed, Luisa's emotions settled. She ceased her sobbing and said, "Trevor, Cecelia is missing. Henrik managed to open the secret passage, but Kenny is still nowhere to be found."

Trevor pondered for a moment.

Then he lifted his head, wearing a confident smile. "I think I might know where Kenny is!"

Then he rose from the bed with a full of strength!

With a gleam of determination in his eyes, Trevor abruptly spoke in a firm, icy tone. "Now, it's time for him to face the consequences!"
