Chapter 2030 It's Time To Find The Best Man

Gordon now knew Trevor's identity, and he dared not show his arrogance in front of him anymore.

He knelt, tears streaming down his face. "Mr. Sanderson, I apologize for not recognizing you earlier and causing offense. It's a mistake! Please pardon me. Let me be on my way!"

This individual was Henrik's buddy and the eldest son of the Sanderson family. If Trevor desired trouble, he was done for.

Gordon was on the verge of sheer terror.

By provoking someone he couldn't afford to, he had gotten himself into serious trouble.

Gordon pleaded while on his knees, leaving Zoie in astonishment.

Luisa sneered, "Aren't you trying to snatch the position of chairman of the company away from me? Here you are, personally placing an order for a latte with less sugar. How can you possibly not drink it?"

Trembling, Gordon hurriedly confessed, "The truth is... I misled Zoie. I lack the ability to secure company shares."

Henrik, seething with anger, seized the latte from Zoie and promptly poured it over Gordon's head. "How dare you! How dare you flaunt yourself in front of my friend? If you won't drink coffee, I'll make sure you do it under my watch!"

Gordon screamed as the scalding coffee made contact with his body, but he refrained from resisting.

Observing the scene, Trevor chuckled. He inquired, "Are you still contemplating a twenty percent price increase?"

Enduring the pain in his head, Gordon refuted that.

Henrik kicked him to the floor, reprimanding "What's the meaning of raising prices? Lower them!"

Gordon quivered as he stood and exclaimed, "Alright! I'll lower the price! Mr. Wright, I'll reduce it by ten percent!"

Henrik remained silent, casting a cold gaze upon Gordon.

Sensing Henrik's dissatisfaction, Gordon clenched his teeth and declared, "Mr. Wright, I'll slash the price by twenty percent!"

Wiping away tears, Gordon pleaded, "Mr. Wright, I can't further reduce the price. My company will face bankruptcy!"

Turning to Trevor, Henrik inquired, "Trevor, what's your opinion? Are you content?"

After pondering for a moment, Trevor remarked, "I recall the internal assessment data for Newmere Cosmetics regarding suppliers. Lowering the price by twenty percent does seem to align with Gordon's constraints."

With that, he nodded in agreement. "Alright. Zoie, draft a contract. Set the validity term at thirty years."

Zoie was taken aback but quickly attended to the task.

Before long, she returned with the contract in hand.

Gordon grasped the pen and proceeded to sign the contract.

Henrik observed the proceedings with a sneer. Spotting Gordon's signature, he exchanged a smile with Trevor. "Trevor, if there's nothing else, I'll take my leave."

Henrik seized Gordon by the collar, ushering him out with a command. "Leave!"

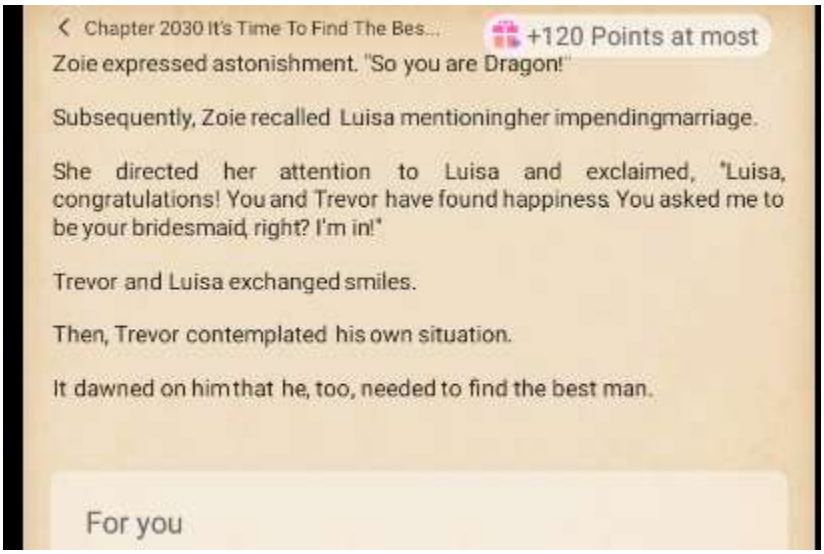

Zoie felt a sense of relief once the matter was resolved.

At the same time, she regarded Trevor with a curious expression and inquired, "Trevor, how do you have access to the detailed internal data of Newmere Cosmetics?"

Trevor chuckled. At this point, he saw no need to conceal it from Zoie. "Because I am the major shareholder, Dragon."

If Trevor had disclosed this information earlier, Zoie might have been skeptical.

However, Luisa had hinted at it, and Trevor even summoned Henrik. Now, there was no doubt in Zoie's mind that Trevor was Dragon.

Zoie expressed astonishment. "So you are Dragon!"
Subsequently, Zoie recalled Luisa mentioningher impendingmarriage.
She directed her attention to Luisa and exclaimed, "Luisa, congratulations! You and Trevor have found happiness. You asked me to be your bridesmaid, right? I'm in!"
Trevor and Luisa exchanged smiles.
Then, Trevor contemplated his own situation.
It dawned on himthat he, too, needed to find the best man.
