Chapter 2036 Deputy Police Chief

Elwood smiled and said to Trevor, "You know, inviting the police to keep things in order at your wedding might be a good idea."

Marriage was a significant event, after all, and having everything run smoothly was important.

Trevor nodded in agreement. "I think I'll pay a visit to the police station. Something about it just doesn't sit right with me," he said thoughtfully.

Curious, Elwood asked, "What makes you think there's something off about the police station?"

Trevor was open about his concerns. "It's about Nola's bizarre car accident. The driver in the crash had been drugged with a substance from the Wright family, and he even had a syringe of their drug. Although the police caught him, he committed suicide in custody. And the strangest part? The Wright family's drug vanished with him. It's all very odd."

Elwood was taken aback by this revelation.

Trevor was most worried about potential issues within the police department. If he carelessly asked them to oversee his wedding, it might not only disrupt the ceremony but could also lead to worse outcomes.

With this in mind, Trevor decided to check out the police station himself.

After leaving the Sanderson family's old castle, he headed to the police station.

The station chief was out on duty, leaving only the deputy chief in charge.

Trevor stood at the door of the deputy chief's office and gave a gentle knock. A woman's voice from inside responded, "Come in."

As Trevor opened the door, he was greeted by the sight of Zayden's deputy police chief, a tall woman leisurely playing with her phone at her desk.

In front of her, he noticed the prominently displayed nameplate: Francesca Aston.

"Glad to meet you, Mrs. Aston. I'm Trevor, from the Sanderson family. I've come to Zayden's police station to visit Ruben," Trevor introduced himself.

Upon hearing this, Francesca lifted her gaze.

When she learned that Trevor belonged to the Sanderson family, the surprise in her eyes swiftly faded.

Although it happened quickly, Trevor still caught it.

She then responded with a hint of sarcasm, "So, the Sanderson family, who brought Ruben here, now sends someone to visit him? Why are you pretending to care and visiting him now? Seems like you're just making my job harder."

Trevor brushed off Francesca's sarcastic comments. This woman was casually using her phone at the office without taking her tasks seriously. How could she assert that it would make her job harder?

He cleared his throat and persisted, "Mrs. Aston, I just want a moment to see Ruben. It won't take much of your time."

Francesca set her phone aside and replied briskly, "Well, the case is under Chief Alexander Chavez. You'll need his approval to see Ruben. But he's away on business, so you'll have to come back another time."

Trevor's expression turned icy when Francesca declined to assist. He couldn't believe that as a deputy police chief, she wouldn't have the authority to grant him a visit.

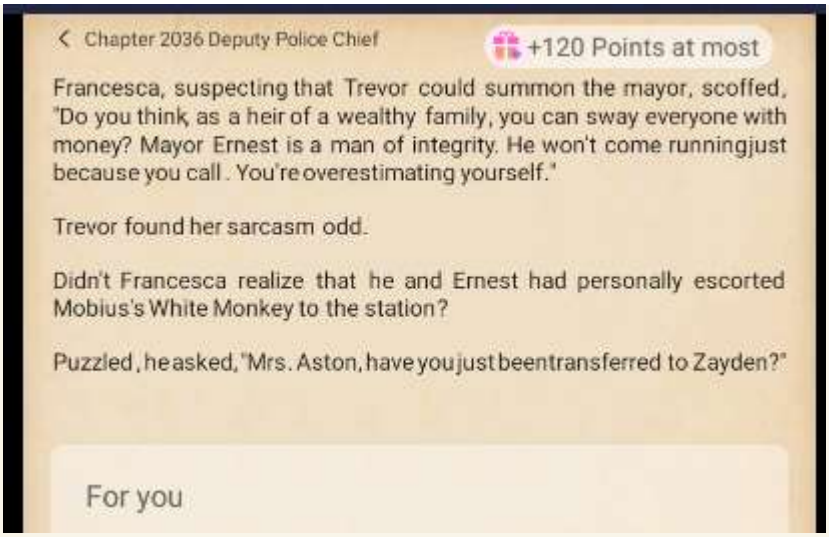

"Mrs. Aston, are you deliberately making this difficult for me?" he asked sharply.

Francesca just shrugged and replied with a sneer, "I'm simply following the rules."

Trevor realized Francesca was intentionally obstructing him. Choosing not to pursue it further, he pulled out his phone and dialed Mayor Ernest.

Ernest, who was part of the fraternity association, was thrilled to get the call.

Trevor quickly explained why he was there and urged Ernest to come quickly, then ended the call.

Francesca, suspecting that Trevor could summon the mayor, scoffed, "Do you think as a heir of a wealthy family, you can sway everyone with money? Mayor Ernest is a man of integrity. He won't come runningjust because you call . You're overestimating yourself."
Trevor found her sarcasm odd.
Didn't Francesca realize that he and Ernest had personally escorted Mobius's White Monkey to the station?
Puzzled, he asked, "Mrs. Aston, have you just beentransferred to Zayden?"
