Chapter 2042 Apologize

The piercingmockery reverberated withinthe jewelry store.

Guillermo's countenance deteriorated progressively. He refrained from shoutinguntil Trevor signaled, "Enough! Chamberlain, your golden-level membershipat this jewelry store is revoked!"

Chamberlain was taken aback. WitnessingGuillermo genuinelynullify his membership, a disconcertingsuspiciondawned on him.

Could this unsophisticated individual truly be the direct heir of the Sanderson family?

His girlfriend, wearing an air of arrogance, expressed discontent with Guillermo's decision. "Guillermo, why are you doing this? An explanation is in order!"

Guillermo, with a stern expression, glanced at the woman before turning to Trevor respectfully. "Mr. Sanderson, how may I assist you further?"

Speaking on Trevor's behalf, Luisa declared, "My fiancé is a man who keeps his word. Today, this individual either apologizes to Serenity, or we'll utilize the Sanderson family's connections to have himarrested by the police!"

Trevor smiled and chimed in, "I'm confident that with the Sanderson family's resources, no one in Zayden has the authority to arrange bail for himahead of time!"

Serenity stood aside, her face veiled by her hands, moved that Trevor was standing up for her.

Guillermo grasped Trevor's intentions.

He turned to Chamberlain with a stern countenance and admonished, "Chamberlain, the decisionis yours to make!"

Chamberlain seized Guillermo's hand and implored, "Guillermo, are we not friends?"

Guillermo sneered and withdrew his hand, saying, "Who's your friend? Chamberlain, you made a credit purchase at our store last month, and the payment is still pending"

Trevor chuckled. "No wonder you hesitated to summon Guillermo through Serenity. It seems you avoided him because of an outstanding debt."

Chamberlain harbored a silent irritation. Guillermo's revelation undoubtedly caused him embarrassment before his girlfriend.

With an icy expression, Chamberlain extended his card and stated, "Swipe the card! I'll never visit this store again! Apologize to a salesperson? That's impossible! Let's see how influential you are, a country bumpkin, to the point where my father can't arrange bail for me."

Trevor sneered and directed his gaze at Guillermo. "Guillermo, make the introductions."

Guillermo nodded with respect and uttered each word deliberately. "Pay attention, Chamberlain. The individual standing in front of you isn't a country person. He is Trevor Sanderson, the eldest son of the Sanderson family."

At the mention of "Trevor," Chamberlain froze, his face draining of color.

His girlfriend, equally alarmed, hastily fled.

Trevor made no effort to detain her.

However, upon noticing Chamberlain's attempt to escape, he intervened and halted Chamberlain.

Sporting a smile, he remarked, "Chamberlain, no need to apologize. Await the arrival of the police. Furthermore, should you depart without offering an apology, all Sanderson family businesses will deny your access. I'll also urge families that have partnerships with Truman Construction Company to terminate those partnerships, which will result in your family facing bankruptcy. If you doubt me, feel free to test it out."

Having spoken his piece, Trevor released his hold.

Chamberlain, terror-stricken, crumpled to the floor, overwhelmed with remorse for his past actions.

The next moment, he crawled toward Trevor, grasped his leg, and sobbed, "Mr. Sanderson, I apologize! It's my mistake. Please spare me!"

Luisa declared icily, "Apologize to Serenity."

Chamberlain caught her words and hastened to position himself before Serenity. "Serenity, I apologize. Please forgive me. I won't repeat such actions."

Serenity gazed at Chamberlain in bewilderment as she heard his apology. After a moment, a realization dawned on her.

He was the son of Truman Construction Company's owner.

He extended an apology to her in this manner.

Unwilling to provoke Chamberlain, Serenity nodded in forgiveness.

Observing Serenity's reluctance to censure Chamberlain, Trevor eased the pressure on him and scoffed, "Leave! Don't appear before me causing harm to others again!"

Chamberlain nodded and fled the jewelry store, tears and mucus streaming down his face.

Serenity felt profoundly moved, tears brimming in her eyes as she expressed gratitude to Trevor and Luisa. "Mr. Sanderson and Mrs. Sanderson, thank you!"

Trevor and Luisa smiled, proceeding to finalize their wedding ring selections.
