

Multiverse 101

Chapter 101: A shock to the world

An hour later a huge shock jolted the whole world. All the news channels were buzzing with the same news and it was "Death of John Jameson". People were astounded by this news.

Nobody had expected that John would die and that too was murdered in broad daylight. John was the most upstanding person the people could think of. He had a very clean image, did loads of charity work and made such incredible movies that almost everybody loved him.

Jameson closed the office of 'Daily Bugle' and gave the employees a week off from all work when the news came upon him. His eyes were red when he had announced this. He was very close to tears but didn't want to show it to people. After the last employee left the premises he burst into tears.

The people who left the offices could hear his sobs from outside. Everybody felt sad and pity for their boss. John was loved here too.

Due to his death the stock markets had a field day. It fluctuated violently. John death affected many people emotionally. At evening Tony came out for a press conference.

"This has been a very sad day for humanity. My friend, my colleague and a great person had left us. I don't know who was his murderer but I assure you this that the name of 'Avengers' isn't for a show. All of us will band together and get to the bottom of this. We won't sleep until the culprit is caught." saying this Tony left with a very sad face without entertaining any questions.

Nick Fury too started searching for the culprit using SHIELD as John was a consultant and as a member of SHIELD it was necessary to find out the murderer and bring him to justice.

Hydra on the other hand sighed in relief. Even though John had knowledge of alchemy and had huge power but he still couldn't save himself from a bullet. This proved that John didn't have any extra security and couldn't have any influence on the people who comes to this world.

Hydra even checked on the dead body of John and matched with the records and found that it was really John who died. Whitehall who saw this news was rejoicing as the last doubts of his plan being a huge back stab in the future went down the drain. Now it was time for the last phase of his plan to be executed.

4 days went by after that. Hydra became more sure that John had really died. The Avengers went into a searching frenzy after this. Batman went out at night and hell rose for the underworld people. Tony went to Europe and Middle East to search for information and even Diana joined this search. SHIELD too dispatched work forces to find the culprit.

On the 5th day the scheduled meeting between high levels of Hydra and politicians affiliated with them came to a secluded island. Every high level member came including Pierce, Whitehall and others. Only Strucker and some of the agents under him didn't come as he was busy with Loki's scepter and his experiments.

The lords of the countries of Naruto's world arrived soon after. Hydra had built a temporary shelter in the island before so after arriving everybody took their seats inside the shelter. There was an environment of joy inside as Hydra and the lords had almost won the war. Hydra's agents had informed from the Naruto's world that there was a turmoil after the death of Kages and there was a huge unrest and an air of uncertainty in the villages.

"Cheers to our victory and taking over the world." Pierce said holding a glass of wine. Standing behind him was a man with metal arm, Bucky Barnes, a.k.a. the Winter soldier.

"Cheers!" Whitehall. Sunil Bakshi, who was the right hand man of Whitehall was present. They all cheered and everybody had wide smiles in their faces.

"It's our collective victory." said the lord of the fire country.

"Now let's plan the second phase." Pierce said. Everybody who were in a jubilant mood got serious.

"Let's discuss the Insight Project, Zola is ready with the algorithm and soon we will launch the the satellite from the Lemurian Star. We have made huge machines that can produce huge poison and it will be administered in the villages killing everyone in it...."

The lords who had some idea about the satellites and Insight Project listened to the plan of Pierce. The idea of killing all the people in their villages kind of disgusted them but it was necessary. But as they were listening the lords of the countries felt their heads being dizzy. They felt as if the world was spinning rapidly.

"You poisoned us? How? We had all administered with antidotes." the lord of fire country said as he realized what had happened and saw even the ninjas who he brought for personal safety was acting the same way as them.

"We derived a less lethal poison from the main one. The previous antidotes don't work on them. Even though it won't kill the ninjas, it's enough to get you killed and get the ninjas unconscious for few hours."

"In these four days we conducted an experiment on ninjas who went out so we know the results. We have already spread it across the island and the secret ninjas which you have sent to ambush us has all inhaled this poison." said Whitehall.

"You all really played us. I thought we had the jump on you." said the lord of earth country.

Chapter 102: UNO reverse card

The feudal lords died while the hidden ninjas who came for assassination lost consciousness when the lords were in the meeting. Whitehall looked at all of this with a huge grin. This was executed perfectly by him. Since the kages and the lords were dead their dimension would close off by itself. Since the key to entering and leaving the dimension rested on them, killing both of them have plugged the hole of their dimensions.

Hydra won't even need to deal with the world of Naruto while they have these many unconscious ninjas on whom Hydra could experiment upon and even get to the bottom of so called chakra. This would be a huge step in world domination and even step their foot into the universe later with this power.

"Alright! Wrap up everything. We need to take over the headquarters. I have already sent a bunch of agents to the Triskelion." Pierce said as he had been recalling hydra agents to the headquarters so that the takeover would be faster. The helicarriers were already a month away from launch.

Thanks to the fear of Naruto's world, the world council had approved of the Insight Project at a much earlier time, and it became more easy for Pierce. As the agents were picking the unconscious ninjas to the quinjets, all the quinjets suddenly exploded.

Everybody was surprised by this sudden explosions and the high levels of Hydra knew that something was wrong. Before they could react, many of the high levels of Hydra got a bunch of notifications in the phone. Pierce opened his mobile only to see a notification that two missiles have been launched by SHIELD.

One was heading towards the Lemurian Star and other to the old training ground where Captain Rogers first trained which was also the place where Arnim Zola's whole system was stored.

Now all of them knew that this was a planned ambush but they weren't sure who was behind this. As they were thinking of how to escape from the island they saw two quinjets approaching. It slowed down in an empty space and landed. From inside came out people whom Hydra never expected to be here.

Nick Fury was the first person to come out followed by the Avengers and a person whom Hydra thought to be dead already.

"What a bunch of snakes. Even after all these years Hydra still lived on." Steve said in a furious tone.

"Pierce do you have anything to say in your defense?" Fury said calmly to his previous superior.

"From when did you know about the presence of Hydra?" Pierce asked.

"From the very first day Mr. Pierce. I was just too lazy to handle you all. But I didn't expect you to make such big flashy moves. Especially you Whitehall. Living after so many years and feeding off on the body of another person, I thought you would be more knowledgeable. It turned out I over estimated you." the last person who came out from the quinjet said.

Yes. It was John.

John always knew about the presence of Hydra's agents in the Naruto's world. He had deliberately let Hydra steal poison from the laboratory of Kankuro as he was the master of poison. Hydra took the bait and experimented on the poison as the poison was secured in such a way that it showed everybody that it was very deadly poison. John even let Hydra take away notes of antidotes of the poison.

Hydra did the experiment on the first test subject, that is the ninja, they were extremely sure that the poison was very effective against ninjas. Little did they know that all of this was a huge sham pulled by John. He let the ninja, with the use of genjutsu and some real elements, made Hydra believe that the experiment was a huge success. John couldn't let Hydra catch a body of any ninja so he showed Hydra the most horrible way to die.

After he knew that Hydra had experimented upon the ninja, John called over all the members of the Avengers and Nick Fury. Except for Diana and Bruce who knew the presence of Hydra everyone was taken aback. In fact Fury didn't believe John at first but when John showed him video of the meeting of Hydra and the feudal lords and the killing of ninja he believed.

Steve particularly was very angry. During the world war 2, he had almost sacrificed his life to take down Hydra and Redskull but after so many years Hydra still remained and was more powerful than before.

"Disband SHIELD." Steve said. As he thought it would be better to disband SHIELD and all the lurking agents of Hydra could be uprooted. Tony, Clint and even Natasha thought it would be better to stop SHIELD all the way. They have heard about how deep Hydra had invaded into SHIELD and it would be very difficult to put all of them out.

"No. We can't disband SHIELD." said John suddenly.

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donation by the end of the day.

Chapter 103: Hidden moves

"What do you mean no? I thought you will be the first to accept that SHIELD is a rotten pot. And in this way we won't have any restrictions on us by this one eyed guy." Tony said. He didn't even hesitate to mock Fury as finally Tony has the jump on him.

"Tony you are naive if you think disbanding SHIELD will restrict us. Do you think the governments will allow us to move freely? One day or other we will commit mistakes and these politicians won't even take a second to vilify us. At least with SHIELD we have a better management. It's not perfect but it keeps these self centred people at bay." John said. Everybody was silent when they heard it. They knew what John said was right.

Even though the hearing senate had the hands of SHIELD but it was pretty apparent that even White House wanted to control Tony before.

"Another reason of not disbanding SHIELD is that another world will merge soon in coming years. And this new world won't be in a separate dimension but totally adapting in broad daylight. Do you think Avengers would be able to handle such a huge thing?"

"Huh! A new world? Which world? Seven deadly sins? I hope it's not that. Humanity will be in peril if that happens." Clint said as he loved watching that anime. Fury and others all looked for an answer but John didn't reveal which world would merge.

Fury who was listening silently to all this finally said "Then how do you propose we clean SHIELD?" He had clear eye as he felt with John he might be able to salvage the situation.

"Cleaning SHIELD is easy. We can ask Naruto and Sasuke to filter the Hydra agents with Naruto's sage mode and Sasuke's Sharingan. It might take sometime but it can be done. This will make SHIELD weak. But you can ask the kages for help in this regard. I am sure they will be more than happy to eradicate Hydra. Even though it was our joint plan, I don't think the kages would take such an infringement of their territory lightly. Especially after the betrayal of lords."

"This would let to a better cooperation between SHIELD and them. Add some ninjas into SHIELD till you get enough manpower. Who knows maybe you, Fury, would be able to convince some ninjas to work for you specifically."

John had ideas of controlling SHIELD in this way. If many ninjas get incorporated in SHIELD he would be able to control many situations and have a proper knowledge of everything through SHIELD.

Fury had a glint in his eye but didn't say anything. They finally planned to use the end meeting which Whitehall proposed involving all the major players of Hydra to banish Hydra to hell. "We would need a full proof plan. Nobody could know this plan except us." Bruce, who was listening too all of this finally said and they started planning accordingly.

Steve who was still not happy with it finally accepted that SHIELD won't be disband but he had added a condition.

"I will accept your proposal but only in one condition. Bruce Wayne will be the Secretary of the World Council. Among us only Wayne is more paranoid than you Fury. Him sitting at top will ensure that SHIELD never goes in a wrong path again."

John and Wayne was taken aback by this suggestion. He never expected that Captain America would suggest such a crazy condition.

"I will have to convince the world council for this?" Fury said with hesitation.

"Isn't Gideon Mallick a member of world council? Doesn't he belong to Hydra? We haven't even asked for proper compensation about the nuke they sent. They better put Wayne as the secretary otherwise I won't mind inputting some sense into them. Tell them we have removed a tumor and if they don't do it I will release all the dirty files of Hydra. I will see how governments deal with the aftermath. " This time it was Tony who added. Bruce was his close friend and someone who saved him multiple times. Having him as the Secretary would be a huge bonus.

"Fine I will convince them." Fury said with a sigh.

"You haven't even asked me if I want to be the Secretary?" Bruce interjected.

"Bruce you need a platform to show your face to people. Nobody will ever doubt you being Batman while serving as the Secretary. You don't have Wayne Enterprises here anymore. With this you will have more access to many things." Tony said. Bruce thought for a minute and finally accepted this new management role. He could let Alfred take care of the most part while him continuing his own research.

"We will have to play all our roles accordingly. They will try to assassinate me. After my assassination you all better act well. Any doubts by Hydra will take us back to square one." John said.

"Will you be fine?" Tony asked with a little worry in his face.

"I will be fine. I have already contacted Sasuke to help me in staging my death. I will make it look real. It was him who had been running around and spying on them."

"OK people. We should go back to our places. Can't let Hydra know of this move of ours." Diana said.

Chapter 104: Acting cool

The plan was perfectly laid out and Hydra didn't even doubt a thing. John didn't even inform his father of this plan. He wanted everything to be real. This was the perfect time to uproot Hydra and stop more evil to bloom. The helicarriers didn't really bother John and others. What really bothered them was the hidden agents in SHIELD which continued doing wrong to the world.

The story planned by them went perfectly. Hydra and the feudal lords went to the secluded island as they had discussed before. It was this moment all the Avengers made their moves. Fury closed the Triskelion and Naruto went the headquarters to kill all the hydra agents inside. Fury made sure that none of the information goes out so he cut all the communication in the headquarter.

Even though it won't kill all the agents but this was a start. Sasuke has already started his journey to visit the SHIELD bases all over the world to root out the agents.

Present Time

"How did you survive our assassination? We had sent our best assassin." Pierce said.

"Do you think sending Bucky Barnes after me was enough?" John replied.

"What? Bucky? My friend Bucky? What are you saying John?" Steve who was listened almost jumped.

"Yes Captain. Your friend Bucky is alive. That guy behind Pierce with a metal arm is your friend Bucky. But Natasha here knows him with another name. The winter soldier." John said. This was an absolute new information for them as they never expected Bucky was live. John had never spoken of this before to the members. Natasha too was taken aback. Then she proceeded to tell the story where she was shot long ago in a mission by the winter soldier.

"My friend will never be a Hydra agent." Steve said as he couldn't process that Bucky was an agent of Hydra and how was his friend alive after all these years.

"You are right Captain. He was brainwashed. Take Bucky away. I will tell his story later. The others can rot in hell." John said.

"You all have inhaled our poison. Do you think you can survive?" Pierce said cutting off the conversation between Natasha and others while directing the agents to point their guns at Captain and the others with a smile. The poison was still lingering in the air when Fury and others landed. While Hydra had antidote but he was sure that Fury wouldn't be able to conjure an antidote in a small time.

"How did you think Hydra were able to steal the poison from Kankuro's lab. We let you . You all had been under our plan from the beginning. Do you really think you can easily kill a kage? Haah. You all really think that technology can solve everything. Some things can never be overcome by technology. And even if it was possible you are not smart enough yet."

"That's a lie. If the poison was so ineffective why did the ninjas around here fell unconscious?" Whitehall screamed when he said that.

"Do you really think they are unconscious?" John said and the next moment all the unconscious ninjas lying around suddenly vanished from their spots. Before Whitehall could react there was a kunai placed under his chin touching the skin of the neck. Whitehall instantly knew that making a small move would just result to his death.

Many of the agents around who were already pointing their guns at Fury and others saw kunais being placed in their necks. New ninjas emerged from the shadows, some were sitting on the branches of trees while some were standing behind agents ready to make moves if the agents tried to do any funny thing.

"You see Whitehall, how stupid you are. Your plan was flawless but you forgot a basic thing. Only power reigns supreme. Having fake control over power doesn't really amount to anything. OK guys you can disarm all the agents here and leave. Trust me you all don't want to be in this island after few minutes." John said as the agents were disarmed. John and others were returning to their quinjets.

This was basically John showing how cool he was in front of his enemies. John had always wanted to stage a show where he shows his face at the end and act cool while making the enemies know that he has won the war. This was John fulfilling his vanity a little.

"Haah Fury. When did you become such a man with soft spot?" said Pierce as he was being disarmed like all others. Only Bucky was caught by two ninjas and was led to the quinjet after making him fall unconscious.

"Do you think we are going to just leave you all in this island? Your deaths should be meaningful to the world. Didn't you want a better world? Your death will serve a greater purpose and help us experiment on many things. Thank you." Steve said with a evil smile. He had too much hatred against Hydra and John had already laid out plans involving their death.

Chapter 105: The legendary stone

Whitehall and others had a bad premonition when Rogers said that. He was the last to enter the quinjet. The ninjas walked away from the island and stood a distance away from the island as John had directed them to. There were other quinjets hovering outside over the sea to take them away.

John actually let the lords die. Even though he gave free will to all his summons they could never act against John or his friends. So when Hydra first contacted them with the notion of making plans, it was doomed to fail. John later contacted Orochimaru to help him set up bodies and set the whole plot. The lords were led to death because their death didn't really matter to him and it would make the story more believable. Even in his previous life John didn't like the lords.

He will make kages as the lords of the countries. It was better that way and everything would be in better control. The ninjas stood on the water looking out for agents and people who might try to swim away. Some even tried to swim but the ninjas attacked and made them unable to take a single more step outside. Now everybody were desperate.

Most of the members of Hydra present in the island were high level members, like Gideon Mallick, Whitehall, Pierce, Rumlow, Mitchell Carlson and various others. Now they had no idea what was going to happen and they could do nothing to stop.

After Fury and their quinjets hovered few meters away from the island, Tony finally couldn't stand it and said

"Shall we start? I can't wait for these maggots to die."

"Haha.. Fine. Trigger the transmutation circle." John said. Tony clicked a remote button and the next moment everybody could see a red thin lightning all over the island. The red lightning was so bright that it was visible from many kilometres away.

The red lightning didn't actually harm anybody in the island instantly and everybody were confused about what happened. Rumlow who was watching this finally remembered a story and he screamed

"You piece of st! You want to make philosophers stone from our dead souls. This is inhumane even for you."

Sadly nobody in the quinjet could hear Rumlow. After couple of seconds as the lightning galloped over the island all the agents died without leaving anything. This was the transmutation circle for making philosophers stone. A stone with which a person can perform alchemy while ignoring the rule of equivalent exchange.

It means a person can create anything out of thin air if he knows alchemy. But the philosophers stone that John had now created would be an incomplete one. In order to make a complete one, probably a country needed to be sacrificed.

After a minute or so when the lightning died, John and others returned to the island. Tony switched off the working of the circle and all went in to the center of the island. John and Tony had drawn the circle long before Hydra arrived at the island. So hydra never noticed the drawings on the ground which was hidden by leaves and sand.

At the center of the island there was a small red stone lying on the ground. John went and picked it up. He could feel the power of the stone already from the alchemic reactions on the tattoos. He snapped his fingers while directing his hands above. Instantly a huge burst of red fire blasted above.

The heat of the fire was so high that everybody had to step behind. The fire reached a massive distance of almost a kilometre.

"So this is the power of philosophers stone. Man the stone in Harry Potter movie is a joke. This is what real power looks like. What are you going to do with it John?" Tony said as he didn't ask for the stone. The knowledge of alchemy wasn't his to belong with.

"Keep it for rainy weather. This experimentation never happened and no records would be made for it." John said as he looked at Fury.

"Yes. This thing never happened. This much power should not ever come in public." Steve said. As he too saw the power of a snap, though John could always create fire before with a snap but this was too much. A kilometre long fire trail sent chills in everybody's spine.

Fury nodded to it as he too felt it was too strong. "Sure on the condition that the stone will only be used in emergencies."

"What do you think of me? A world conqueror? Do you think I have so much free time to do that." John retorted.

"Okay lets go back. We have work to do and you John have a lot of apologizing to do. What are you going to say to the public?" Tony said with a mocking smile. Even though they were friends, in business point of view they were rivals.

"What are you smiling for? Did you forget the new company we just created?" John said.

"Fine.. Fine.. This little head can't even take a joke." Tony lamented.

Chapter 106: Apologizing

Everybody had tons of work to do after the demise of Hydra's top levels. Fury had to make a huge report to the world council about Hydra and the hidden moves he just made without consulting the world council. Of course appointing Bruce as the new secretary would also count itself in the report.

Tony and others were dispatched to kill the remaining Hydra agents. Since almost all the high levels were dead they needed to root out smaller agents before there is unrest in SHIELD. Fury asked for help from the kages and they happily dispatched many ninjas to deal with them.

John assured Bucky's story would be dealt with after proper time. Bucky was taken to an isolated chamber and only Steve had access to meet Bucky. Only Steve could trigger his hidden memories. John knew that getting back to normal would take time so he had just left it to others.

John reached home the next day. He was little trembling inside as he knew that his actions had hurt his father. He knocked at the door of his old home early morning. He had to wait for almost 5 minutes before the door opened.

What presented in front of him was a person who seemed that aged a lot and reeked of alcohol. Jameson looked disheveled and unkempt. John felt very guilty seeing his father in this situation.

"Dad. I am back."

Jameson who didn't even open his eyes properly trembled when he heard that voice. When he finally opened his eye fully and looked at his son, he was struck. The next moment he threw himself to John and hugged him tightly. Jameson didn't want to let go as he felt that he would loose his son again. After minute he finally let go.

"Son. You are back? You are really back? Back alive?"

"Yes dad. Sorry for all the pain. I was on a secret mission of SHIELD. I had to stage my death and make it as realistic as possible. I am sorry to hurt you."

Jameson looked at his son and finally believed his son to be real and that he wasn't hallucinating.

"Dad let's go inside and talk. You need to go and shower. You reek of strong alcohol. Where is Val?"

"Don't teach me what I need to do and what not. Val is at home. I sent her away. She was in tears everyday. It was hard for both of us. I will call her back now." Jameson said as he went to reach out for his phone.

"You should go have a bath first. I will call Val. I will make some breakfast for us."

"Ok. Don't run away again son. I don't want to loose you."

"Rest assured Dad. I will not run away again."

John informed Val to come back. Val was overjoyed to hear the voice of John again and rushed to their home. By the time she reached, breakfast was ready and Jameson came out of the shower looking fresh.

John apologized profusely to both of them and explained why he pulled such a huge prank. The story of Hydra and it's history and how the Avengers needed to stage such a huge net to catch it.

Jameson and Val finally forgave John as it was involved in world security. But Jameson was surprised that John had such close connections with Avengers group. The group of Avengers became famous after the New York War and Tony himself propagated the name of Avengers publicly.

Though he didn't reveal all the people but the people knew that from videos there were Thor, Diana, Bruce Wayne, Hulk and three other people. The most mysterious one was the man in Anbu mask. Most people didn't consider Green Lantern as an avenger as he didn't belong to Earth and his playground was the galaxy. Many people thought like Batman and Wonder Woman this new guy was a ninja but his powers weren't consistent with ninja powers and they were on the alchemy side.

That's why the people were very confused. Though many people speculated that it might be John Jameson, but he was just one of the suspects and there were many suspects.

"How will you deal with the press and public? They won't let you go after the huge prank you pulled on the world." Jameson said while eating.

"I will deal with them as I had always dealt with things. Using half truth." John said. They continued talking of how they managed to catch Hydra. Of course John didn't mention his powers. And conjured a half truth about how Avengers and SHIELD dealt with Hydra.

Though he doubted that John had alchemic powers but he never asked John as he felt it might be invasion of privacy. John was old enough to handle his private matters himself. In fact, Jameson felt proud of his son after what he had achieved of his age.

He had achieved what few people could not even dream in their whole life. If his son was a superhero too so be it.

Chapter 107: The planned movies.

The next day a press conference was called by both Disney and Stark Industries together. It was said that Tony Stark will address about the death of John Jameson. The reporters came flocking by as the rumors itself was interesting enough. Soon the stage was set and the reporters took the seats.

After few minutes Tony emerged from behind and came up.

"So, the last few days had been traumatizing for you all I presume. With all the running around after the death of John. Well I am here to say that we have solved the puzzle of John's death. The truth is John Jameson is alive and well." Tony said as he pointed his finger to the stage behind.

The reporters were shocked by this sudden revelation and turned their heads to look at the direction where Tony pointed. John emerged from behind the stage with a smile. He came upto the center and said

"Good morning all. I know this comes as a shock to you all about me staging my death. I will explain it in a very concise way possible. My life was in danger and I was being hunted by a certain individual. We didn't know when I would be attacked. So I let myself in the open so that I could be assassinated openly. Of course that was a huge drama staged by me. The Avengers helped me in this regard. In the past few days when I was hiding the Avengers were able to catch the culprit and put him into jail. He would be seeing trial soon for an attempt to murder."

"This was all a joint operation of me and the Avengers." John said.

The reporters immediately got up from their seats and flocked around John for questions. John answered the best he could. Answering the reporters was probably his toughest work. After half an hour of answering, John left. He needed to go back to Disney to continue his work and handle the management again.

The people in Disney had already got the information that John faked his death. Bob and Kevin thanked the stars that John was back as he was the best boss and a living money making machine. They didn't want to lose such a great chairman.

The people of the world came to know about the fake death of John. Most of them were relieved as John had a huge and positive influence on people. His cartoons, movies and animes were top notch and people really loved him as a character. Though many were angry with John as the market fluctuated a lot due to his fake death, but it didn't really affect many people at the end as the term of his fake death was short.

"So did you miss me?" John asked everyone who came to the meeting in Disney.

"Of course Sir." Kevin said.

"Good. Anyways are the movies and series I asked to work on is on schedule?"

"Yes sir. One animated movie, one animated series and a superhero movie is on the right track. All the works are in post production sequence now. Everything will be out by the end of this year."

"Good. That's great."

John had planned many animes that would be released next year. Those animes could help him more. Even though he didn't really lack powers and he was almost at the top of food chain, he still wanted to have a plan if any situation goes south.

John discussed about the direction of the company and even said that he might be busy with a new company that would be launched soon with Tony. This new information made the others sad as they thought he might be busy with the new company and wouldn't give time to Disney anymore. John saw their expressions but didn't say anything about it.

He could never leave Disney as this was his lifeblood and Disney was basically the fuel to his power. After discussing everything John went home by evening. He was tired. The last week was a hectic one. With all the staged shows and being hidden from everyone was challenging for him. John inherently was lazy so too much mental work made him exhausted.

He returned to his bed but was sad too see that he was still alone. Emma still hasn't arrived from Oa. He even thought of going to Oa. The system powers didn't allow him to teleport to places where he could summon his characters. This was a huge drawback and almost cursed the system for it.

Soon days went by and it was the month of October, 2012. As he was came back home he saw that the door was opened. He felt suspicious but then he remembered something and immediately overjoyed. He almost ran inside only to see Emma standing wearing a sexy dress.

"Miss me baby?"

John almost ran to her arms and kissed her. John really missed her a lot. He lifted her up and went to the bedroom. They both needed to feel each other up before making a proper conversation.

Chapter 108: The usual routine

little bit of cringe

Late in the morning the next day, John finally opened his eyes to see Emma lying with her arms around him. She looked way too beautiful and peaceful for John to handle.

He kissed her in the forehead. Emma opened her eyes slightly. She looked at John and said

"Seems like you really missed me a lot." Emma said with a sleepy tone.

"Yes of course I did. I can make you feel again of how much I missed you." John said with a evil smile.

"Stop. Don't you want to know how I was all these months?"

"Sure. What did you learn? What did the Guardians tell you?" John asked.

"Many things. Most of the records were from the previous universe. That universe was scary. The Guardians are still accumulating knowledge of this universe. This will take years. But I saw some records of this universe. Two words can be described for this universe. Utter chaos."

"Yes it's chaotic out there. Wars are constant in this universe." John said. Emma wasn't surprised by John knowing about this universe as he could dream many things.

"Yes so now it will be the responsibility of the lanterns to bring order. The Guardians said it will take a couple of years to make new sets of rings. I was the trial version of them. There had been some changes about the working of the green element."

"The Guardians decided that it won't be safe with me alone outside. So they will let me go for patrol only after the full lantern corps is created. Until then I am free."

"That's great. You can complete your studies too till then. They have been bugging me for you missing the classes the past few days." John said.

"Yes I can also be with you without much worry." Emma said. "Tell me about you. What did you do?"

"Me? A lot has happened. Uprooted an old organization and killed a bunch of people."

"Huh! What the hell happened when I was gone?" Emma asked.

John then proceeded to tell her about Hydra and how they killed everyone in Hydra. Emma was surprised that such a commotion occurred when she was away. But was happy that they came out victorious.

They talked for hours after that as they had so much to talk about. Emma talked about her life in Oa. She had went for sightseeing in the universe with Hal and even confronted a team of space pirates.

John was interested in this story and asked what did he see.

"Well there were aliens and basically scums of the universe. They were trying to hijack a traveling ship. We just blew their ships." Emma said.

"How does it feel to travel in the universe without anything?" John was always curious about how the green lanterns traveled. Even though he could do it himself now by changing him to green lantern but didn't have the chance to do it yet.

"It was refreshing in the beginning to see the distant stars clearly but it turns boring real soon. Its fortunate that we travel very fast otherwise I would just die of boredom. I must say travelling in such high speed feels weird."

"I can only imagine. Oh yes I will teach you about alchemy. For close range fights it will be helpful for you." John said.

"Sure. I will take defense classes too. I need to be better at it. Hal could defeat me without even using the ring."

John decided to take a day off today. He wanted to spend time with Emma. After having breakfast they got ready to go out and have fun. They went for shopping and even went to the Central Park and spent the rest of the day.

"We need a vacation." John said.

"Yes we do. We can all go together. Hal will come soon. With the Avengers we can have a good time." Emma said.

"Sure. After the movies come out we can all go together to a beautiful place."

The next few days went as normal as could be and it was finally the month of November. In the mid of November, the first movie of John for this year would be out. It was a animated movie and people were surprised that John came for the premiere himself. Even Tony Stark showed up for the movie.

Bruce too came for the premiere. He was now the Secretary of World Council. The world council accepted the conditions of the Avengers for putting Bruce as the Secretary. Of course Nick Fury didn't mention them that he was Bruce Wayne.

Fury had already made a whole history of Bruce before. Fury just said to the world council that he trusted Bruce and he wanted only him to be secretary. SHIELD had a huge number of ninjas too as Fury asked for help from the kages.

They had been very busy recently with killing the hidden agents. John deliberately didn't let SHIELD in the path of Von Strucker as Scarlet Witch was important for him.

Chapter 109: A sci-fi animated movie

John and Emma came out of their iconic yellow Camaro as John never used any other car except for Bee. There were less reporters this time as nobody expected John to be here as he almost never comes for premieres of animated movies. Still two reporters came forward and interviewed John.

"Mr. John, you and Tony will start a new company. Can you tell us anything about?"

"Umm Actually Tony and Pepper will be handling the main situation. I can only tell you this that it will help our earth in energy sector."

"Sir, no offense, you almost never come for premiere of animated movies. Is there any particular thing about this movie.?"

"No no. Me and Emma were just bored at home. So thought of having a fun with this movie." John replied. From the corner of his eyes he saw Tony and Pepper stepping out of Drift. Now the people knew that something was definitely up with the movie.

John has a history of making movies out of real life and many wondered if this movie had any real elements. Many reporters asked Tony but he too like John didn't disclose anything about the movie.

Truth to be said John actually didn't say anything about the futuristic things that was about to arrive. He too like others were curious.

Pepper was happy to see Emma again. Nobody knew where Emma vanished for the past few months but everybody was happy to see her again. Pepper suddenly noticed a ring in Emma ring finger. She was dumbfounded.

"Emma did you get engaged to John? John never said that you two got engaged." Pepper said. Tony too suddenly noticed a green ring in Emma's finger.

"Huh! Engaged. Boy are you really engaged? This green colored ring looks weird. It feels like I have seen it somewhere." Tony said.

Emma blushed a bit but finally said "No No.. We aren't engaged. This ring has another significance." She even peeped at John as Emma really wanted to be engaged and get married to John someday. Though it was too fast but she did wish to spend her lifetime with John.

"Tony you are smart. I think you can figure it out." John replied this time. Tony thought for a second and then his eyes went big. He looked at the ring more closely and was sure if the ring was what he thought.

"Emma you are a space policeman now?" Tony said.

"Yes. I was in Oa for the past few months. I am the first green lantern that belongs to this universe." Emma said with a hint of pride.

Pepper was surprised that Emma was chosen to be a green lantern. She was genuinely happy that Emma has become a green lantern. It means that was another person in avengers and she could help the team too.

Tony got jealous a bit and said "Fine. Pepper I will make you a suit too so that you can be a superhero like Emma."

"Forget it I am not a fighter. Avenging is your world." As Tony was asking about the planet Oa to Emma. Banner and Wayne arrived at almost the same time. They too got to know about Emma being a green lantern and they were happy that a new person has joined their team.

"Alright people let's go and watch the movie." said John as he led them inside.

The movie started with a small kid reading a book. But the book looked different as it had holographic function and even had voice function. The book told the story of a great pirate who in the vast universe looted all that he could in his lifetime. His wealth became so huge that he had a planet just to keep his treasures hidden away.

The boy was very much engrossed in the story till his mother barged him. His mother too joined the kid in reading the story. The story continued on with the kid becoming an adult. He turned out to be rebellious but a genius in machinery. Their world was futuristic where aliens were everywhere.

The main difference between their universe and other universes was that there was no vacuum in space. People used spaceships that looked like boat ships while the sails used solar wind to travel across the vast universe.

The story followed the young adult and his journey in the universe to find the lost planet of the pirate where he buried all his treasures. The movie's name was 'Treasure Planet'. It was an old movie of Disney. John had almost forgotten of the movie.

After much thinking he finally decided on this movie because this would allow John to have more influence on people if he used the technology of using solar wind to travel. This would allow humanity to travel in the solar system after modifications.

Chapter 110: The new technology

John didn't want to propagate a technology that would directly launch humanity into vast space because that would be dangerous. John just wanted something to influence the humanity and maybe launch them into a pre-space era.

After extracting one or two ships from the movie, Tony would be able to easily copy ideas from the ships. Like artificial gravity and use of solar wind to travel. Use of such technology will only allow humanity to be in the boundaries of the solar system as there would be no solar wind after you reach the boundary.

Tony and John through the company would have total control over the ships that can be created and this would greatly influence John's fan values. He would use these ships platform to propagate more of his works and gather more fan values.

Audience loved the movie and applauded such a vivid story. Tony on the other hand was lost in his thoughts. Pepper saw this and nudged Tony

"What are you thinking?"

"Well thinking that Elon Musk is going to go bankrupt soon." Tony said with sarcastic sadness.

"Huh! Why?" Pepper asked.

"Do you think his ideas of clean energy will be able to beat the ideas of use of solar wind for travel? We can use solar energy in cars and travel across more efficiently. It will basically launch humanity to a new era. John isn't that your main plan?"

"Yes. That's the plan. This era will be controlled by us." John said.

"Great plan. I am now envious of your dream power John. Try to guide more worlds towards us. We can basically control everything through technology. This use of solar power will even give more power to my suit and conserve more energy." Tony said.

"Do you think it's that easy? By the way we need a vacation. I can't guide the ships here in New York. We need to get out." John suggested as Emma and him were having this plan before.

"Yes. I too need a vacation. All this running around needs to stop for time being. Where will the ships land?" Tony said.

"That's a surprise. In a week we will leave. Everybody is welcome to join. Bring Banner too. I will invite Diana." John said.

"Bruce you are coming right?" John asked

"New technology. I am interested too." Bruce said flatly.

John and others left after the movie. The new animated and superhero series would be out soon and in fact a new game would be out during the starting of next year. CD Projekt RED will be releasing the new game as John had a deal with them. He was really looking forward for his favorite game to be released.

The week went by as everybody got ready for the vacation. Early morning everyone came to the private hanger. Banner and Diana too joined in as they were invited. Even Hal had come back from Oa as he didn't have much work to do there.

"So everybody is here. Let's go." John said as they boarded the private airplane.

"John your series would come to an end. Why don't you make it as a movie like always. That's a weird decision to make." Banner said as he was very much interested in John's works. Banner was basically a weeb after getting in touch with animes.

"Because a person from that series will arrive in a much later period. Let the people take time with it." John replied.

"Another person. Guess we will have to finish watching it then." Steve said as he too had joined.

"How is everything with Bucky?" John asked.

"He is still not fully back. He recognizes me but can't remember everything else. Will have to wait for him to fully heal."

After 10 hours of long flight the plane finally landed in a small airport.

"So we are in India. I guess these islands are secluded. A good place to guide the ships here." Tony said.

"Yes. Welcome to Andaman and Nicobar Islands."

John in his previous life visited the islands. There are a bunch of islands which aren't inhabited and he could easily sail to one such island and extract the ship while also enjoying the beautiful place once again.

John had already booked everything and went to a luxurious hotel to rest. They would leave for a secluded island tomorrow. The hotel was a sea facing one and everybody loved it.

"So do you like this place?" John asked.

"Of course I love it." Emma said.

The next day John and others left for a very secluded island from a private boat. John had already sent a huge private boat to the harbor before after transforming it with the help of cube. John didn't want any third party to join this vacation and with the help of cube they could travel without any problems.

They all traveled to an island which was far away from the main islands. After landing on the beach they set up small tents as they wanted to spend the rest of the vacation in the island.