

Multiverse of Marvel #Chapter 21: Spilling out some secrets - Read Multiverse of Marvel Chapter 21: Spilling out some secrets

Chapter 21: Spilling out some secrets

After talking about other small things for few more minutes he asked her to send him back to New York. She drew a gateway which led to new york sanctum. After saying goodbye to Master Drumm and coming out of the door he went back to his home with Bee. He finally had relief on his face as he wouldn't have to care about bringing the characters to life. He had been stressed out about this for such a long time and now finally he was at peace.

It was already afternoon when he came back home and started making plans for future. In two month time the story of Naruto would end and after that he could bring the whole world to life. He had asked the system if he could hide their villages when they would be brought to life and the system replied that the world which will be brought to life will always be in their own dimension and nothing can detect their presence.

This dimension would be present in this world but in a different plane. And only the characters of that world could travel back and forth between the real world and their own dimension. This information gave him relief as he wasn't sure if he could hide the villages from satellites. John could divide the dimensions in any way he pleases and this too would be of great help to him.

As he was thinking of what steps to take in future it was already evening and his father came back from work. As soon as his father got inside the garage, he saw two Camaro. He was surprised to see two cars of same color and design in the garage.

"What did this child do now? Two cars of same model and even same license plate. Did he do something illegal?" Jameson was skeptical because all these years his son had never done anything bad, even though he always came up with weird ideas he never did anything outside the legal line. Now after seeing the two cars he needed to make things clear.

After coming inside he went straight to the room of John only to see him sitting and closing his eyes as if in a deep thought.

"Why are there two cars of same model and license plate in the garage? Did you do something illegal? You better not have any bad ideas or I will send you to police myself. I don't remember Chevrolet having any deal which stipulates them to give us a Camaro" Jameson asked his son with some anger. John who was dozing off a little opened his eyes at once.

"No Dad there is nothing illegal. But yes there is a reason for two cars in the garage. Sit down Dad I have something to speak to you about." John said with a sigh. What he feared had come to reality. Soon in a year the world is going to change and he needed to keep his family away from harm.

Valentina had gone to to her native home after coming back from LA so the father and son duo were alone for these few days so John could speak with complete privacy. Even though John trusted Val, he didn't want her to be exposed to the world of danger yet.

"Dad please switch off your phone then I will talk about the car." Even though Jameson didn't understand why his son asked him to do that but he obliged. John didn't want Zola to listen to the upcoming conversation. He wasn't sure if Zola or SHIELD listened to their conversations but he didn't want to take any risk now. freeweb novel. com

"Dad do you remember that I once told you that this world isn't simple. That it's beautiful and dangerous?" John asked

"Huh. You did say that but what about it? The world has always been like this. What's new to it?" Jameson asked. He wasn't sure what John meant by that.

"No dad you are not understanding my point. I meant that there are people here who have extraordinary powers, aliens who roam the universe and even people from different universes" John said with sincerity. Jameson's eyes went wide when he heard this. He didn't believe it.

"What nonsense are you speaking? Are you weaving lies to fool me and divert my attention from the car in the garage?"

"No dad. Just listen to me. This world is really not simple. Humans have already come in contacts with aliens years ago. Even thousands of years ago aliens have visited our planet and many people have special powers in this world itself. Trust me Dad. Whatever I am saying is 100% truth" John said.

"Fine even if I believe you for a second what does it have to do with the car in the garage?" Jameson asked

"Dad did you really think the movie Transformers was just a movie?" John asked with a smirk in his face. After hearing this Jameson almost jumped in his seat. Being the head of a news agency he knew what the words meant.

"Don't tell me the car in the garage is Bumblebee." Jameson asked with wide eyes.

"Yes that car is the real Bumblebee. If you don't believe me come with me. I will show you" John said.

Chapter 22: Spilling out some secrets (2)

After that the father son duo went to the garage and John said,

"Bee you can transform yourself. My dad wants to talk to you."

After that what Jameson saw, he would never forget in his entire life. Even though in the future he will come in contact with many extraordinary things but the transformation of Bee was what changed his perception of world forever.

After seeing the whole process of majestic transformation with parts of the car separating and moving to random direction of the body and finally seeing a crouched Bee he was dumbfounded in his spot. In his whole life he never believed in weird stories but today his life perspective took a major turn.

"See dad I didn't lie. Bee this is my father. You can say hello"

"Hello Mr. Jameson. It's nice to meet you." Bee said in a metallic tone.

Jameson couldn't even speak for few seconds but finally out of habit he said

"Hello. It's nice to meet you". He then suddenly thought of something and asked John "Wait if there is Bee that means there is Megatron and Decepticons. We should talk about this with the military".

"Dad that's the other part I want to talk about. Let's go back home. We have lots to discuss. Bee you can transform into the car. Thank you" John replied.

After coming back to room they sat down opposite to each other and John continued.

"The movies are just that. Some movies. There are some truth to the movies but many of it isn't true. I just made a story out of it. Bee actually doesn't belong to our universe. Have you heard the theory of parallel universe? It's like for every decision you make, there is an alternate reality where you didn't take the corresponding choice and due to that there is another universe out there. There is no Cybertron in this universe, well at least not that I know of. He is the first person to come to our universe but he won't be the last" John continued.

Jameson's mind was blown away by all this information. This world had suddenly changed for him and he wasn't sure what to do with it. Parallel universe? Aliens? Was it all real or was he just dreaming? Jameson now was in a huge dilemma being a journalist by heart he felt that the people should know the truth of this story but there was this safety of the family, because he knew a being like Bee will arouse jealousy instantly from the world and Bee would be subjected to experiments. John could see the struggle in his eyes and he knew what his father was thinking. Living with him for such a long time he could understand his father.

"Don't worry Dad. Soon you will be able to publish about these beings in your newspapers. People does have the right to know but the time is not now. I will tell you when the time is right" John added.

"Ok fine I trust you. Who are the next people coming? Optimus Prime?" Jameson asked.

"No for now there will be no one from Cybertron. But yes I have the cube in my hand. I will help you transform your mobile and your car for your safety" John said.

"What? Really? Oh my god! With the cube we won't have to fear anything. We can rule the world. But will you be able to control them? I remember that the transformed Nokia mobile was pretty violent" Jameson asked.

"Dad I told you. Movies are just movies. Reality is different. Fixit come out. Fixit is the mobile I transformed. Now, give me your mobile" John said after bringing the cube from the corner of the room and showing him Fixit. Jameson was excited seeing the cube. As a man he too loved robots and machines. Now all his dreams will become a reality. He was already dreaming of his own self driven intelligent car.

Soon Fixit transformed and exchanged greetings while John transformed Jameson's mobile and named it Jetstorm after another Mini cons. Dad used a Nokia phone so the body structure of Jetstorm was different. It looked more humanoid then Fixit. But it didn't matter to him.

After transforming Dad's car and naming it Hotshot they both returned home after giving general instructions.

"Dad I hope you treat Jetstorm and Hotshot like a family. They are a living being and I don't want them to feel lonely."

"Don't worry about that kid. Beings like them I will treasure more than I treasure you. Hahaha... all my dreams will come to life now" Jameson laughed.

John just smiled seeing his father's enthusiasm.

"Dad the world will change soon and I hope you will pay attention to your own safety. As I said this world isn't simple. Soon everything will change." John said with solemnness.

"Kid how do you know about all these secrets and what's your connection to the people of other universe" Jameson asked with curiosity.

"Dad didn't I tell you that there are people with special powers. I am also one of them. Many times I dream of various stories and from these dreams I get to know the people from other universes. And from them I get to know who will enter into our universe" John replied.

Even though John said some lies mixed with truth there was no malice in it. He wouldn't be able to explain many bits if he didn't lie to him based on some vague truth and didn't want his family to be in dark.

He didn't want to hide himself in and operate behind the shadows. It was never his intention. His system didn't allow him to hide. The more people knows about his summons, the more he will acquire fan values.

Chapter 23: The new world is here!

Truth to be told, John had some doubt about himself. He thought that after bringing Bumblebee, the TVA (Time Variance Authority) will come after him yet surprisingly they didn't. He guessed it was maybe because Bee and others don't belong to this universe and TVA can't look into the future of a new universe which is separated from Marvel universe. And for the topic of him not being persecuted it was probably due to the shielding function of the system.

After explaining some things to his father and talking about some small matters, John and Jameson both went to their respective rooms. John fell asleep as soon as he hit the bed. He was tired from running around all day and the mental pressure that he had to face for the last few years. Tonight finally he could rest in peace and have a sound sleep.

After three months, the series of Naruto finally ended in May. John went to Japan to congratulate the team for such a massive success. John even attended party with Val in Japan with all the members of the studio. Everybody was very happy with their success and felt a sense of accomplishment as they made a wonderful story come to life. John even made sure that the entry of Madara in the great war was kept a secret. He didn't include Kaguya's story at the end because John had always felt that the story of Kaguya was just a stretch and the last fight between Madara and the Shinobi was basically the copy of the fight between Kaguya and the 7th team.

People loved the ending of the series and the ratings of the series went pretty high reaching 8.9 in IMDB. Being a series released in seasons format, people all over the world loved it even more than the actual version as the actual version had too many fillers.

After attending the banquet and coming back to the hotel John checked his fan values.

[Ding

Total fan value - 1.9 billion]

"I would like to bring the Naruto world to life" John said excitedly!

[Ding

The Naruto world is brought to life according to the wishes of the host but the world wouldn't have the character of Kaguya. The host can bring all the characters to life including the dead ones (the dead ones will require separate fan values). And since it is the host's first world, the world is calculated as a discounted price. The later world's price will be much higher. It must be mentioned that the host can transform himself to any character he wishes to from the world of Naruto while not affecting the character in the real world.

Total number of fan values - 200,000,000]

John was ecstatic when he heard it as he could bring all the characters to life except for the dead ones in the story.

"Transform myself to Naruto Uzumaki."

He realized he had become a little tall wearing a white cloak. John felt himself powerful. He could even feel a seal inside his body and when he concentrated his mind on the seal he could see the nine-tails sleeping. When he went to the mirror to see himself he looked like the real version of Naruto with whiskers on either side of the cheeks.

He noticed that he could feel many things around himself and the people around the hotel. As he came near the mirror he saw that he was wearing a yellow jacket and black pants.

"Change myself to Sasuke Uchiha" and now he had long hair covering one eye. He tried to summon 'Susano' on his hand and even tried using 'Mangekyo Sharingan'. He could feel that if he used all his powers he could even destroy a city instantly.

Of course John wouldn't do that because that would only mean death of innocents and destruction. John wasn't a villain who would do such despicable things.

The moment when John turned himself Naruto, thousands of miles away in Kamar Taj, the Supreme Mage turned towards the western direction. Her eyes squinted for a bit but then a smile came to her lips.

"The boy has finally grown up. Now I am not even sure if I could defeat him. It's fortunate that he is on our side. The world is going to change soon and he will be the forefront of it. It's a pity that I might not be able to see it" she said to herself.

Even Odin from Asgard sensed a strong power from Midgard and tried peeping into it. The Ancient One sensed this and deflected Odin's sense as she didn't want any misunderstanding. Odin understood that the new power was under the control of the Ancient One so he took his sense back and he didn't care after that.

John was jumping in joy in his room. He had never been so happy in both of his lives combined.

After trying out all his powers for few minutes, he calmed himself down. He knew he would have to settle the world that he extracted in a balanced way.

"I want to bring Minato to this world (without 9 tails chakra) " John said at the end as that was one of his favorite characters and it was 200 million fan value. The values of Madara and others were higher than 1 billion. He didn't have that many fan values.

Soon a handsome man with blond hair wearing a jacket and a white cloak over appeared. He was so ecstatic that he almost screamed in joy.

Chapter 24: The settlement

The next day John and Val flew home to New York. After coming back John immediately went to his room and closed all the doors and windows and asked Val not to disturb him. She felt weird to this request but didn't ask about it.

After coming to his room he immediately summoned all the present Kages to life and shared his memories with them as soon as they were summoned.

Naruto (Hokage), Kurotsuchi (Tsuchikage), Gaara (Kazekage), Darui (Raikage), Choujuro (Mizukage) were the present Kages and they had a look of astonishment in their faces. They didn't understand at first what actually happened, but soon due to the sharing of memories they figured out the whole ins and outs. Due to the influence of the system they had absolute obedience to John but John left almost full autonomy to them. John didn't have a weird fetish to rule over Naruto world as he had other things to do.

"Welcome my friends to the new world. I would be needing your advise and help in this dangerous world" John announced to them.

"Well this world is new. And it looks interesting. I am looking forward to the exciting new world" Naruto said

"This world looks dangerous too with such powerful beings in the universe" Choujiro said shyly. He had always been shy and low in confidence so he mentioned the insecurities first.

"It doesn't matter, we are already here and for the first time we are not at top of the food chain" Darui lamented on this fact.

"Whatever the future holds we will have to face it and defeat the enemies and that can only be done by joining hands and being united" Gaara added in a cold voice.

"Well our villages need to be strong enough. We will have to start preparation for the upcoming battles" Kurotsuchi said.

John was looking at these legendary characters and was in awe again by the power of the system. He thanked his lucky stars for allowing him to see such characters in real life.

John shared the memories of what the future would look like and the dangers they would be facing. "Well John I hope you have a place for the village to settle down. Because we would need preparation." Naruto said.

"Of course I have a place. All your countries will be separated and spread out in different parts of the planet and you all would be living in separate dimensions. I know this sounds like a jail but it's not time yet to show your heads. When the opportunity arises I will help you connect to the world council and you all can negotiate a deal with them. Is that fine?" John asked.

This use of dimensions comes when a world is bought. It can be divided in multiple smaller dimensions or kept as a whole, the size of the dimension would be exactly like their original world that is bought and even look and function the same. The dimension could be placed at any location of the planet he was in at that moment. John really felt that the system was too overpowered at times.

"Sure. Where will you place each country?" Gaara asked.

"Konohagakure will be placed in Japan. Sunagakure will be placed in Egypt. Kirigakure will be placed in Britain. Kumogakure will be placed here in USA and Iwagakure will be placed in Chile. The respective countries will follow the same pattern. I hope you all are happy with it. There might be little difficulty for sometime because of no trade between countries but I hope you all understand. And all this arrangement will be temporary" John said.

"We don't have any problems with this arrangement and we trust you" Kurotsuchi said.

"Since it's been decided I will send you all on your ways.." John said

After asking the system to make separate dimensions and sending them to different countries and sending all the people of the countries and ninjas to their respective places, John sighed in relief. Finally he had a background to face the world.

Soon the people of the Naruto world came to life and they realized that the world had changed and have come to a new world. John didn't share all the future memories with the normal people as that would raise panic. He just made them understand that this was a new world. The people were already stressed thinking about this new world but they calmed down soon as they saw all the kages and the ninjas helping them understand the new world.

John didn't bring the small countries to life because that might be fatal and can lead to many problems because of no sustenance from neighbouring countries. Even though John could control the lives and death of the world but he didn't choose to do so. He felt everybody should go through a cycle of life and death. Only that would bring colors to the lives of everyone.

He would bring all the remaining villages to life after a deal is reached with the world council. Before that he would have to wait.

Chapter 25: The prelude

The whole year of 2007 went by and nothing much happened in this regard. All the villages and their countries settled as they were. They actually didn't have to move from their places. And there were just subtle changes in the environment. And all the Kages with the help of the Lords of respective countries brought peace back to the nations. Only the trade matters were just affected a bit but the countries handled it well while giving sufficient relief to the masses.

John knew this was the last year of peace. In the last few months John tried everything possible to amass more influence on the world. Working on animated movies and giving ideas to Google, Facebook, Twitter and all the companies he had under him. He even attended the shareholders meeting of Amazon and proposed some of his ideas. His idea of online marketing while cooperating with local shops and dealers was greatly appreciated by the board. Even though the execution of the idea would take time to implement but at least the process had started.

By now John had enough influence on the whole world and had done so much charity that no governments dare to stop his influence or restrict him via arbitrary laws as such process would massively back fire, as the general public won't accept sanctions against him. And on other side, even though his valuation had risen to 80 billion US dollars he never tried to influence any governments and gladly accepted all the laws of various countries while conducting his business.

Thus John was loved by all as opposed to Tony as he was hated in many countries. Being an arms dealer does have a huge downside. There had been even debates on the fact of who was more influential among the two.

Kevin had already started filming the movie that John had asked for and it would release by the mid of May, 2008. John was looking forward for the debut of the movie as that movie was important in his grand plans.

On New Year's eve John took his family to long vacation. He even asked Valentina to bring her two children and her husband to the trip. John always wanted to go to Maldives in his previous life and live in a resort. So he planned accordingly and stayed over for two weeks there.

They enjoyed the place immensely and had ample rest.

"Dad this year will be the beginning of a new era. An era that earth has never seen before. You should ready yourself mentally to face it." John said to his father suddenly while they were sitting beside the pool and gazing at the sunset.

Jameson stared at him for few seconds. He knew by now that his son was special and since he has mentioned it meant that there is some truth to what was mentioning.

"What do you want me to do?" Jameson asked.

"It's better to find a new home and a new headquarter for Daily Bugle in New York. And make it as far as possible from Stark Tower." John said.

"Stark Tower? Is Tony also somebody special with super powers? I knew it. This arms dealer was definitely selling arms secretly outside" Jameson said agitatedly. John was surprised by his words but being the head of a huge news agency it was possible he got some news of arms being sold to terrorists outside.

"Special? Well you can say that but you guessed it wrong. Anyways just do what I say and don't worry about anything. And please pay attention to weird news from now and don't overlook anything. You might be surprised" John said.

"Alright kid. I hope you can stay safe. I have no idea what kind of era you are talking about but I hope we can pave over it safely." Jameson said with some concern. John just smiled and didn't say anything.

Valentina's kids were very young. A boy of 8 year old and a girl of 5 years. Her husband Jorge was an amiable hispanic man who worked as a Mexican restaurant owner at New York. The two kids were named Valeria and Matias. John was thinking to give their family some sort of protection in the future. Her connection with him had already made them sitting on a boat with high waves.

"When the time is right I will just take them to the world of Naruto for safety. That would be much better." John thought to himself.

Soon they came back after spending a good time and all went back to their lives as usual. Valentina and Jorge thanked John immensely for providing them with such a trip as it was like a dream for them.

April 20th, 2008

There was suddenly news and some videos being shared on the internet that there was a monster spotted in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil wrecking havoc. Jameson had specially asked his employers to pay attention to weird news. As soon as he got the news he went home and told John about it.

"So it has started. Dad stay away from Harlem from now and always ready a team near Harlem to shoot any unusual scene in the next 2 months. You will get a surprise" John said a smirk.