

Multiverse 221

Chapter 221: Deeper plot (2)

"Tony, did you destroy the ship's phantom drive?" Wayne asked Tony as he was protecting Vision.

"Yes. Already took care of it. How much more time for Vision?" Tony asked.

"I hope it's not more. Apparently due to Kryptonian ships' higher level of technology it's taking more time." Wayne replied as he blasted a robot who was trying to come close.

"I need to kill this son of a bih with my own hands. He killed my friend." Tony said as he was still angry about losing two ships out of nowhere. The fight went on where everybody was fighting.

Ciri was able to open multiple portals to the hellicarrier and even Victor did the same. Flash, Wanda and Pietro made sure that the civilians weren't attacked. Triss and Yen also helped in sending people to safety. At first the civilians didn't understand what was going on but many had seen the world engine from John's movie here too. Even though Sokovia didn't like Americans, John's movies were loved everywhere and they knew there were superheroes from the movies.

The world engine made everybody scared but when many new heroes emerged they felt a little relieved and thus followed them to portals.

After more than 5 minutes, Vision was finally able to purge Ultron totally from the internet. Wayne informed everybody and by that time everybody was evacuated from the city, thanks to multiple portals from Victor, Triss, Yen and Ciri.

"Alright people. Let's give them hell." Arthur said.

"Can't let anybody escape. Any escaping robot means we have failed. Hal, Flash and Pietro make a perimeter around." Diana said

John now finally started to attack the world engine. Thor and Tony too joined in this. Steve and others had almost killed all the robots on the ground. Hulk directly jumped on one leg of the world engine and punched it. This broke the leg of the world engine.

This attack made the world engine lose balance and made it fall into the ground slowly.

"Flash, Pietro. We need help here." Steve said as he saw the falling world engine. They were all under the world engine and they would be killed if it fell on them.

Thus Flash and Pietro came to take everyone away while Victor and others joined the fight. Ciri appeared out of nowhere and used her sword and her powers to assault another leg of the falling world engine. This broke another leg.

By the time the world engine fell everybody below was taken away. The world engine fell with a bang and even caused a mini earthquake around. John finally felt relieved when he saw the world engine being destroyed. He didn't want to get the attention of Arishem by bringing down Tiamut. That would be more of a headache.

"Tony transmutate the whole ship. We don't want governments get their hands on this make more powerful weapons." Steve reminded from far away.

"On it. Bruce help me here." Tony said. Wayne finally let go of Vision who got unconscious for a few seconds after killing Ultron and joined Tony in decimating the ship.

John flew as he was hunting down the last remaining robots. He needed some answers from Ultron so he needed to keep the last one alive. After a few minutes of killing, GAIA finally said that there was only one robot remaining. John finally found it as it was trying to run away.

He caught the robot with his talons and threw it to the ground. He directly stepped on his chest and said.

"Now you understand my powers?" John said.

"You have fooled the whole world John, I am impressed." Ultron said with a mocking tone.

"Why? You want to reveal my secret? Do you think I care?" John replied.

"Why would I do that? Everybody knows of Tony Stark and nobody cares. It will be counter productive." Ultron said.

"Tell me Ultron. Why did you come back? You ran away. Why did you come back to die? You knew you wouldn't be able to match against us with just a world engine and a small army of robots." John asked.

"Because I wanted to stop you from searching for me. I have achieved that. Now you can never find me. I will return with more force and you can never stop me." Ultron said. John was taken aback because he didn't understand what Ultron meant by that.

Vision had already purged Ultron off the internet and GAIA made sure there were no remaining robots. Then he understood what Ultron meant. He instantly became more angry and directly killed Ultron with the wave of his wings.

"What did he mean by stopping us from searching for him." Steve asked as they all had come to see the last remaining robot.

"He means he was successful in escaping with the scout ship. And since he didn't want us to find him with the other spaceships he attacked with the world engine so as to make all of us concentrate here on Earth." Wayne said as he understood what Ultron meant by that.

Chapter 222: Aftermath

John was still angry and flew to the broken world engine and transformed himself back to normal and proceeded to decimate the world engine with decomposition alchemy. The others understood John's anger. He had been trying to stop Ultron since the beginning. It was as if he was driven by hunger to kill Ultron.

When Loki came to attack he never showed that hatred but apparently Ultron disgusted John. It was probably because he had seen other universes that suffered from Ultron and thus wanted to kill him before he could do any harm.

"Hal, tell all the green lanterns to be on the lookout for a damaged Kryptonian ship. It's hull was blown off when it went into phantom drive. It couldn't go too far. I want every sector to be searched. I will inform the guardians myself of Ultron." John said.

"Yes." Hal answered as he contacted the Guardians.

"We can't always win, John. Sometimes we need to have a setback to rise higher." Geralt said. John sighed when he heard that. It was the first loss he had suffered after he came here. Never expected to lose in front of an AI.

"Fine. Let's go back. I hope Ultron will not raise a storm in the universe. The universe too isn't very kind to AI. SHIELD can handle the relevant matters here." John said.

Victor opened boom tubes and thus everybody returned back to headquarters. Everybody's mood was a little heavy so after talking a bit they went off on their ways. They needed to get ready for when Ultron comes in future and needed to be more powerful. John was stressed a bit for the past few months of Ultron and now finally Ultron had been purged off the internet he could rest.

Even though the threat was there, at least Ultron wasn't on Earth now. John was happy that there were almost no casualties on Sokovia instead of the original world. John was also a little excited for the rise of fan values.

This war was fought in Eastern Europe and thus they would be famous now in Europe too. Avengers mostly worked on America and now finally there was a change. This would prompt the people outside America to watch more movies and help John more.

The next day the whole world exploded with news of the world engine appearing. Tony later came out and reported on an evil AI taking over a world engine which was from Krypton. The AI wanted to make Earth like Krypton and thus the fight happened. The Avengers had to act immediately and so they took action to stop it.

People applauded the work of the Avengers. By now there were many members of Avengers and were surprised to see that there were even characters from the games too. They could easily identify Geralt and Ciri from all the pictures and videos that the Sokovians took before being transported to the hellicarrier.

This prompted the gamers to be a fan of John's games more. Before it was Horizon Zero Dawn and now it was The Witcher. John was happy to see the response and knew his fan value would be on the rise soon. He just needed to wait and watch the rise.

Though there were still protests saying the presence of an AI on Mars is a threat and must be killed. Umbrella just came out and said that the AI in Mars was required to maintain the ecosystem and thus it can't be killed. If the people still insisted on the path, their chances of space travel would be revoked forever.

Umbrella was responsible for space travel for normal people now and this was a huge temptation to all since Umbrella had been sending normal workers to Mars too instead of just sending rich people. This threat made the protesters back down a bit.

By the end of October all the protests had gone down. The Guardians tasked the lanterns in search of the ship. John even contacted Emma to be on the lookout and explained to her why the ship was important. She understood why the Guardians had tasked them in finding the spaceship.

John then contacted Lex and told him to be on the lookout for a damaged Kryptonian ship. The Nova Prime too was informed of a very powerful rogue AI and thus it alerted the empire. By now Lex Corporation had started building spaceships which had phantom drive.

For the first time in the universe, the spaceships didn't need to go to jump points to space travel. This new technology surprised almost every one in the known universe and they flocked to buying the new spaceships. Lex Corp was on the rise and it wouldn't take long before it became an entity that nobody would be able to shake. This even boosted the trade of the Nova Empire and they were happy to see more prominence and trade.

Chapter 223: Update of the system (2)

By the time November came the total fan values had reached a tipping point. John heard the familiar words that he had been waiting for a long time.

[Ding

Total fan values accumulated - 12 billion

Update requirement achieved. Do you want to continue the update?]

"I have been waiting for you for a long time. Do it." John said

[Ding

Updating

10%... 20%... 60%.. 80%..100%...

Updated

Does the host want to know the new features of the update?]

"Of course." John said.

[Ding

Now the host can bring the comic, manga or the story powers to the character's powers that the host summons. For example, Bruce Wayne can get all the suits from the comics if there is sufficient fan values.]

"What? You mean to say if I have any sufficient fan value I can get the element x batsuit for Bruce Wayne?" John asked.

[Ding

Yes.

But the host hasn't reached the desired fan value.]

"Well element x can literally kill gods so I guess the fan values required would be massive. Man if I bring Superman from the comics the gods here will perish." John said.

"Any other feature of the update?"

[The host can bring any one item from all the movies, series, animes and games that the host has yet created in his motion pictures to real life free of cost and can add all powers from all the versions that have been drawn or written in comics, manga or even books. For example, the host can get the Zanpakuto of Ichigo Kurosaki, and also can get all the powers of Zangetsu and even the powers during the last arc of Bleach from manga free of cost. This is a one time thing for the host so it is advised that the host chooses the item carefully.

The host can now extract any item that he wishes to from the previous world. Even marvel comics. But the host still wouldn't be able to extract characters from marvel series or movies as it would create a huge disruption in the continuity of the universe.

And now the host can summon in the range of a galaxy.]

"Really? That's great. Give me the Dragon Balls from Dragon Ball Z." John said.

[Ding

Error.

There are 7 dragon balls so only one can be extracted. Does the host wish to extract.]

"Jesus! Can't even get around the system." John lamented but kind of expected it as there were 7 balls and there was an option for only 1 item. John needed to choose an item very carefully. An item that will give him immense power.

John at first started going through the comics which he had known and even thought of chakra fruit again as it was there in the manga. But this time John had more options unlike the previous update. He can go through all the comics and manga that he knows.

He spent 100 million fan values to extract all manga and comics from his previous world. Since Justice League Unlimited was out so he had now access to many DC items which he never had access before. And even go through manga to search for an item that could boost him.

John took an entire week to go through all the manga. DC comics was what took time for him. There were many versions of comics in DC so he had to have a proper knowledge.

"System, give me Element X." John said as Element X of the DC universe could basically give him the power of reality alteration, power augmentation and even precognition of past and future. He would be basically a God after he could get his hands on it.

[Ding

Error

The element X has never been mentioned or talked about in any DC series or movies. Thus it can't be extracted. Only an item which has been spoken about or shown in the movies or series.]

"Fk!! Okay fine. Let me go through it again." John said as he again went through and made notes of all the powerful items he could find that had been mentioned in the movies. And after another week of research he finally found an item which could almost push him to godlike being.

"Fine it will be you then. The comics speaks a lot about your powers but it's a pity it was never shown in the series." John lamented.

"System, extract the helmet of fate with all the powers from the comics. Including being the Lord of Order."

[Ding

Requirement met. Since the Helmet of Fate has various items inside like the Amulet of Anubis, Cloak of Destiny and Tower of Fate, does the host want to extract them too?]

"Really? I thought the Amulet of Anubis was kind of separated but probably because I have chosen the path of Lord of Order it comes with that. Keep the Tower of Fate. Extract the other three items." John said.

The next moment there was a golden helmet which only had two eye sockets levitated in front of him.

Chapter 224: A new sorcerer supreme

The helmet looked like a mediaeval period's head armor but John knew that when someone wears the helmet he or she will be the sorcerer supreme. Especially wearing this version of helmet of fate which was imbued with all the powers of the comics.

"Nabu, can you hear me?" John asked.

"Yes." a voice came from inside the helmet. Nabu was the last Lord of Order before he transferred his spirit to the helmet of Fate and directed whoever possesses the helmet of fate in future and takes over the mantle of sorcerer supreme. In comics it was Kent Nelson who took the first mantle of sorcerer supreme.

The helmet of fate which makes the person as Dr. Fate can essentially be said as Dr. Strange's counterpart in DC. Dr. Fate is supposed to appear in the Black Adam movie before John got transmigrated.

Being a sorcerer supreme, Dr. Fate has immense powers like teleportation across multiverses, flight, superhuman speed and strength and all kinds of magic. The helmet of fate itself has an universe inside. The person who dons the helmet of fate would have all knowledge of magic. And the amulet of Anubis is said to be the counterpart of the eye of Agamotto. Of course the amulet of Anubis wasn't as powerful as the time stone but the amulet gives Dr. Fate the power to see through illusions, increase the sorcery of the user and even magnify the perception of the user giving him cosmic awareness.

The cloak of Destiny was like Dr. Strange's cloak of levitation. Little is known about the cloak but it was also considered as a very powerful magical item. John wanted to have defence against magic as he didn't have any knowledge about magic. John knew he couldn't take the path of magic from the very beginning as he wouldn't have that much time.

But using the helmet of fate he would be very powerful. Just the simple power of travelling through multiverses excited him as finally he could go and look into different multiverses of Marvel and get to know more people.

"Nabu, let me share the knowledge of the universe with you." John said as he shared the knowledge of Marvel with Nabu. After few seconds Nabu finally said

"This world is dangerous too. I wonder how I landed here. Thanks for helping me though." John said.

"Well I would be taking the mantle of sorcerer supreme now. So I can't complain, can I?" John said with a smile. John took the levitating helmet and finally wore it on his head.

The moment he wore the helmet his whole clothes changed instantly. His clothes now looked almost like Dr. Strange's clothes. The only difference was that he had a different amulet hanging from his neck and had a golden cloak behind him.

John was struck with immense magical knowledge in his head as tonnes of information and knowledge was thrown at him. It took a full 10 minutes for John to digest the whole knowledge.

He was in awe with the magical power and knowledge he possessed now. He even felt that the Ancient One wouldn't be his match. Now he could easily teleport anywhere and even teleport to distant galaxies. He wouldn't need boom tubes any more.

This power alone granted him immense convenience. The helmet of fate even granted him immortality. That didn't mean that he can't be killed but that he would not age when wearing the helmet. Being a lord of order comes with many perks and this was one of them.

"Nabu. I hope you will guide me in this perilous journey ahead." John said.

"Gladly." Nabu said from the helmet.

"Now shall we meet the other sorcerer supreme?" John said as he directly teleported to Kamar Taj directly leaving behind a glowing symbol of Ankh for a few seconds which was the Egyptian symbol of life. The next moment he appeared was over the courtyard of Kamar Taj where the students were practising.

The moment he appeared there was a flash of light so everybody saw that. The mages who saw a man appearing out of thin air immediately took magic defense as they weren't sure how this man appeared out of thin air. Mordo, who was present, also saw that took out his staff.

John who saw this smiled but he knew his smile wouldn't be visible to anyone. So he took his helmet off. Even though he took his helmet off the cloak of destiny and the amulet remained. Though John would lose magic powers due to that, simple magic could be done with the help of the other two items.

Everybody was surprised to John as many here knew him. Wang and Mordo had seen him before coming to Kamar Taj. But they had never seen John in such a way. John levitated down slowly while the helmet floated on the side by itself. The mages could instantly tell that the helmet was a magical item.

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

Thank you.

This chapter is updated by fr\(e\)webnov\(e\)l.comwebnov(e)l.com)

Chapter 225: Battling Mordo

"What happened? Don't recognize me?" John asked Mordo and Wang whose spells were still activated.

"You are really John Jameson? What is this new thing?" Mordo asked.

"Well now I finally know magic. So I came to pay the ancient one a visit. Don't worry I am not here to attack or something." John said. Mordo and Wang who had known John from beginning believed him even though they didn't understand where John got magical knowledge as Kamar Taj was the only source of magical knowledge.

Both of them deactivated their magic and other followed him. John didn't look evil in anyway but they were just surprised that John now had access to magic too. Kaecilius too was present when John had arrived. His eyes twinkled as he thought of something looking at John.

"The ancient one is inside. You can go in." Mordo said as he followed John. He was curious about the helmet so he went to the main hall inside. Mordo could also tell that the golden cloak and even the amulet of John were magical items.

John walked right in to see the Ancient One standing and waiting for him. She saw the floating helmet for quite sometime and even at John's other two magical items without saying anything.

"Are you not going to say something?" John finally couldn't hold himself and asked.

"Can you control the power?" She finally asked.

"Yes. Nabu you can speak with her." John said.

"Hello sorcerer. I am Nabu, the last Lord of Order." a voice from helmet said. Mordo was taken aback as he had never seen a magical item speak but the Ancient One looked calm as if expecting that the helmet could speak.

"Are you the God that had been directing him from behind the scenes?" the Ancient One asked directly.

"No, the power behind John is more powerful. I am not sure who or what is the power behind but that entity seems to be very powerful." Nabu said as John had directed him to lie.

"I understand. Well John how does it feel to be on the magic side?" the Ancient One asked.

"It's more amazing than I realized. The helmet has immense power than even I didn't expect." John said.

"Yes. I can feel the immense magic power inside it. So your name is Nabu. Nice to meet you." The ancient One finally greeted Nabu.

"Nice to meet you too." Nabu replied.

"Mordo do you want to have a duel with me?" John asked Mordo as he saw Mordo still being interested.

"Can I?" Mordo asked as he was interested. Even the Ancient One was interested.

"Why not? We can battle in the mirror dimension." John said as he put on the helmet. John then directly opened the mirror dimension with the wave of his hand as he already had all of the knowledge.

John and Mordo went inside followed by the Ancient One.

"You don't have the sling ring to go outside of mirror dimension." Mordo reminded.

"I don't need it Mordo. The helmet provides all the powers." John said.

"Wow. That must be really convenient." Mordo said as he activated his staff and his boots. John on the other hand waved his hands changing the whole surrounding according to his need while levitating.

"You can fold space and matter so easily?" Mordo was surprised.

"I can do that in reality too." John said while eyeing the Ancient One as she could do that too due to her connection to Dormammu.

"Huh! You possess that much magic power?" Mordo was more surprised now. John didn't reply to that and vanished from his place and appeared next to Mordo. Mordo who was ready defended using magic.

John conjured a two magical discs and threw towards Mordo. Mordo after being struck by John had to take steps back after the first strike of John. As he saw the magical discs he again conjured rings of Raggadorr as a shield to defend against the flying discs.

The force generated made Mordo take more steps back. He was on the verge of fall but his boots helped him to stop it.

" So how was it?" John asked.

"You have too much magic power. But I haven't lost yet." Mordo said as he took the staff and hit John while using the boots to accelerate towards John. John had to defend this time. He conjured a rope made of magic and used it as a lasso to wrap around the staff.

John then proceeded to divert the staff away from him. this prompted Mordo to lose his balance as he was still holding the staff. John saw this as a chance and directly used his hands to hit the abdomen of Mordo. Of course he didn't use his superhuman strength as that would kill Mordo.

Chapter 226: Another movie

Mordo winced in pain after being hit in the abdomen. John didn't attack any more. He knew he had already won. After a few seconds Mordo finally stood up still clutching his abdomen.

"How did you deflect the staff so easily? That's a magical item." Mordo said.

"Because I belong to the same line as the Ancient One. My powers are like Sorcerer Supreme." John said.

"Huh! Wait, your magical artefact comes from another universe." Mordo asked as he was surprised.

"Yes. You have heard Nabu. He chooses the sorcerer supreme. And in this universe I am the new Sorcerer Supreme. Well the Ancient One is there so I am just a lazy guy here to help if and when required." John replied.

"You are the new Sorcerer Supreme? That's great. We now have another defense against people who use dark magic." Mordo said.

"You trusted me that fast. What if I am bad?" John asked.

"The Ancient One approves of you so I believe you." Mordo said.

"I am not perfect, Mordo. Neither is anyone in this universe. We commit mistakes. Don't idolise anyone. It doesn't end well." John reminded Mordo as he went astray later, after he found out that the Ancient One snatched powers from Dark Dimension. Mordo was silent when John said that, even the Ancient One once reminded him of that but he had full trust on the Ancient One always.

John waved his hands and the mirror dimension closed in on itself. Mordo was more surprised by this as he took all of them out of the mirror dimension with just a wave. He knew now that John was on a whole new level.

"Mordo no need to tell my story to others. Just tell them I know magic. I don't want attention." John said.

"Sure."

"So what do you think?" John asked the ancient one.

"Your magic needs more refining. Nabu will help you with that I guess." the Ancient One said.

"Yes. I will practice more. Knowledge won't amount to anything if I don't have the power to use it perfectly." John replied.

"Okay I am off." John said as he vanished from his spot leaving a glowing Ankh sign for a second.

"That magic power looks more convenient." Mordo said.

"His power is close to a God. The title Lord of Order has a different meaning I presume." the Ancient One said.

"What? Why didn't you ask about it?" Mordo asked.

"It's his private matter. When the time comes everything will be revealed. It's good that we have another warrior against evil magic from other dimensions." the Ancient One said.

John returned to his home. Now he could replace his home with the Tower of Fate and he had a specific place in his mind to settle down the tower of Fate which would be done later. John went back to work as usual and he didn't inform anyone of his newly acquired powers.

The superhero movie would be out soon so he was working for it. Soon it was December and like every time everybody came for the premiere. Emma couldn't make it this time as all the green lanterns were still searching for the Kryptonian ship and even after two months of searching nobody got any hint of it.

Tony and all appeared for the premiere and Tony had given a huge amount of information that John didn't expect to hear.

"The extremis virus of mine has perfectly blended with the nano vibranium armor. Now the vibranium armor could come out of the skin and even self heal. So basically what John had asked me to do, I have finished it."

"Huh! Ryan, is that true?" John asked Ryan.

"Yes. Helen and Maya helped in making the armor. We are now in the process of making one for Wayne." Ryan replied while holding the hand of Dr. Helen. Apparently they had started dating. John was happy to see that his summons were leading a normal life.

Even Steve showed up with Diana.

"Let's go inside. Can't wait for the new movie. It's a movie about you Flash. Yes?" Banner asked.

"Yes. But it's not a happy movie." Flash replied as he knew the story from the beginning when he heard the name of the movie. Everybody was confused by what Flash meant by that.

The movie started with a boy with his mom getting struck on a highway with their car malfunctioning. The boy waved his hands to the cars which passed by asking for help but none stopped. The boy got angry about this but his mother then told him

"..... Accept the things you cannot change, have the courage to change the things you can. And have the wisdom to know the difference." The scene changed where now the boy and the mother are eating dinner with his father at home. Suddenly out of nowhere streaks of blue and yellow lightning came inside his house. The streaks of blue and yellow lightning were circling around the table at high speeds.

Before the boy could understand what had happened he saw himself a mile away from his home. The boy didn't understand how he was outside his home so he ran to his home. After getting home he realized his mother had been murdered and his dad was framed in his mom's murder.

Chapter 227: Paradox

Yes. The movie was Flashpoint Paradox.

This movie was a combination of the animated and the series version. There was almost nobody to extract from the movie so he just made this movie for fan value accumulation. Since the movie had both series and animated version the system would evaluate the movie in collecting fan values.

Any movie that was not based from his previous life is disqualified and thus he could never follow the comics and make better movies which he wanted to do for a long time but the system never gave him the option to do. He hoped in next update the system will allow him to do so.

The movie continued as now the boy has turned out to be Barry Allen, the Flash. The movie showed his origin as he was struck by a combination of lightning and an experiment gone wrong. After realising he could run fast he started doing good deeds for people. Fast forward into the future where he was battling many evil people and a villain named Reverse Flash.

The audience noticed one thing, it was that when Barry and Reverse Flash ran it produced the same color of lightning as was during her mother's death. After a fight against the evil villains with the help of Justice League, Barry was able to stop Reverse Flash in killing everyone in the city.

But Barry wasn't happy even after fighting all the crimes and he did something which none of the audience expected. He time traveled to the past to save his mother. This was where he realized that her mother was killed by Reverse Flash. And he even saw himself. Barry ran to save both himself and his mother. Since Barry had changed the timeline now the one who was fighting the Reverse Flash at his old home vanished.

Barry then returned to his own time as he knew he had saved his mom and their family would be whole again. As he returned to his time he was happy to be with his family again but soon understood that something was wrong with this world.

Atlantis and Amazon were at war against each other. There was no Superman in the whole of Earth. Barry realized he needed to stop the war so he went to find Bruce Wayne. There too he got the shock of his life. It was Bruce who died in that alley that day. His father Thomas Wayne took the mantle of Batman while his mother turned into Joker.

Cyborg was present in the universe but there was only so much a single man could do. This was where the people saw a new superhero. Shazam. A group of children when uttering the word Shazam they could turn into a single entity which had powers like Thor. Hal Jordan didn't become the green lantern as the lantern ring never chose him. And the government captured Abin Sur's alien ship.

The movie continued as the whole situation went from bad to worse. Flash tried to help everywhere he could but the war between Amazonians and Atlanteans destroyed countries after countries. And nothing the countries could do to stop it.

At the end Flash understood that this whole thing had happened because of him. The Reverse Flash showed up telling him that this world was his creation. This world was created because Barry Allen wanted to save his mother. After a fight between him and Flash, surprisingly Thomas Wayne was able to kill the Reverse Flash with a gun as he had let his guard down after beating down the Flash.

Meanwhile Arthur who was losing the war unleashed Captain Atom. Many recognized him from the Justice League Unlimited animated series. As Captain Atom was unleashed this caused a massive nuclear bomb capable of destroying the whole planet.

Flash who was been beaten down understood he needed to go back in time so that Reverse Flash could kill his mother and stop himself from saving the other him. So that's what he did. He ran like never before and reached the same old home only to stop Reverse Flash from killing the young him. He had to let Reverse Flash kill his mother. This was one of the most toughest decision he took but he took it to save everyone.

Barry then returned back in his time and saw everything was back to normal. Though there were changes but that was acceptable as he had messed with the timeline and no broken timeline could be put back in place exactly as the previous one.

Barry even brought a letter from Thomas to Bruce. He was thankful for such a gift. Now everybody understood why Flash had said that this movie wasn't really a happy one.

"So now there are two timelines, the real timeline and a little bit broken timeline." Tony said as he understood time travel pretty well and it's implications.

"Yes."

Chapter 228: Sokovia Accords

"No wonder you always said never to cross the speed of light." Pietro said as he too came with Flash. Wanda and others didn't come as they would be easily recognizable here. They would be watching the movie from other places.

"Will you ever reach the speed of light?" Tony mocked him. Pietro had a gloomy face when Tony said that. As the movie ended it was now time for post credits scene like always.

The movie showed many normal people seeing other people as terrifying monsters. A woman used her car to kill many people in open streets as she thought they were monsters. A man who saw his own family as monsters took up gun to kill his own family and even a mother who had given birth to a new born was ready to throw her own child because she saw her child as a demon. It looked scary.

"What is this? Earth invaded by different aliens?" Steve asked.

"No. It's magic." Wayne replied. "Is he coming?" he asked John.

"Yes. The greatest prick of the team who will make Tony look cute." John replied.

"Hey I am not that bad. I am just way ahead of all of you. But who are you talking about?" Tony asked.

"John Constantine." John replied. Fury who was listening to the conversation had a weird face now. The world was slowly becoming unrecognizable for him. Now they would be in magical territory. He felt he should retire soon and take rest. Coulson had been working perfectly and he would be the next Director, so he was ready to give away his seat to a new Director.

Everybody went back after the movie ended. The audience didn't expect the movie would be so serious. Some even questioned with if they belonged to the real timeline or a broken one. The next day there were actually many forums discussing about the movie and the price of time travel. Flash was real as it was known now to everybody, now the question was if their world was the original timeline or a broken one.

John didn't expect the topic would get so serious by just a movie but he didn't care. His fan values rose nonetheless and since the story was a great one people loved the movie. By his calculation the new world could be extracted soon in a few months and he just needed to wait.

John started working on the next movie which would be out by the mid of next year and the movie had a huge magic side so he needed to be sure that magic is shown in a good way. John even used his own magical knowledge to give a proper portrayal to the magic side of the movie.

A month went by and suddenly out of nowhere GAIA contacted him saying all the Avengers were summoned to the Jurassic Park including the witchers. John was surprised by this sudden call but he went to Jurassic Park nonetheless. Only this time he directly teleported.

The helmet of Fate followed him everywhere though it remained invisible to others. John removed his helmet after appearing in the headquarters. Everybody was surprised when they saw John removing the helmet. Everybody had watched the justice league unlimited series so they knew what the helmet represented.

Even though they didn't understand the power of Dr. Fate, but from small glimpses they could see that the character was very powerful. And now John possessed the helmet meaning he has the same powers as him.

"You are Dr. Fate now?" Banner asked.

"Yes. Let's leave my story for now. Why are we being called?" John asked as everybody had emerged from the boom tubes and portals.

"Secretary Ross has called for all of Avengers to gather. He will be here to announce something." Wayne said. He was also being called as he was the Secretary of the world council. Other's still didn't know that he was Batman and everybody wanted to keep him that way. Clint had taken retirement after the debacle with Ultron as he had new child about to be born so he wanted to be with his wife for sometime.

"Ross? What is he here for?" John asked.

"Apparently we are very dangerous and the governments will set some rules of our working." Tony replied. John raised his eyebrows when he heard that. Sokovia was assaulted but there were minimum casualties. Hardly 10 people died in that war and the Avengers weren't even responsible for what had happened so he didn't understand on what grounds the governments would try to control them.

This was the setting of Civil War but he had already changed that so he wanted to see on what pretext the 'Sokovia Accords' would be implemented. John had already known that the governments might try to control them but didn't know that it would come like in the original version.

Chapter 229: Sokovia Accords (2)

Everybody took their seats while Bruce sat at the head chair as he was the Secretary of the World Council. He was the invisible leader of the group and he was the one who took final decisions for the Avengers. Even John and Steve trusted Bruce's wisdom as his wisdom was at the top level.

Batman had an invisible charisma which made everyone trust him more. After they took their seats, Secretary Ross came with a huge file. John squinted his eyes when he looked at him. The first mission that John personally undertook was against Ross and he still remembered the slap that he gave him.

After coming to the table Ross said

"Five years ago I had a heart attack....." Ross said.

"Get to the point, Secretary. We all have work to do." John cut right into him and said. He really didn't like politicians and their schemes. He just wanted to see what they had planned this time. Ross turned stiff when John said that. Normally nobody would talk to him in that tone but it was John Jameson. The person who was behind every major change that the Earth has seen in decades.

"OK I will cut straight to the point. The last 4 years each one of you have operated under no control or supervision whatsoever. Many people will hail you as heroes but there are some who are not very fond of you. Thus the governments have come to an arrangement. The Sokovia Accords." Ross said as he handed the file over to Natasha.

"117 countries have signed the accords. This will state that the Avengers organisation will work under the United Nations Panel. Each one of you will be registered in the Accord and the people belonging to the group will only go into mission if and when the UN Panel deems it necessary." Ross said.

"I guess the Accords have the provision of registering every powered being on the planet. Yes?" John asked.

"Yes. Mr Jameson." Ross replied.

"Who gave the first proposal of setting the Accords." John asked this time.

"Wakanda. They are one of the most poor countries in the world. Even they think that the Avengers had been working under no control. Just imagine. A country who has nothing to fear has asked for this." Ross said. John smirked when Ross said this.

"You have a week to accept the Accords and come under the panel. The UN Panel wants the names and identity of all the members of the Avengers." Ross said to Wayne as Batman was still unknown to the people. Ross even suspected that Wayne was Batman but never could prove it.

"Have you informed the Kages about it?" John asked.

"The Kages too would have their name registered in the Accords as the government will negotiate with them the terms. There will be a difference but yes their names will also be registered." Ross said as all the governments know the presence of Naruto's world.

"Hmmm.. Go tell the UN Panel. The Avengers won't accept any such Accords and the governments can shove the Accords up their aes for all I care." John finally said in a cold tone.

"Is that the answer of the Avengers?" Ross said as his eyes fell on Wayne. Everybody was silent in the whole meeting and somehow everybody expected this response from John. John never liked any kind of supervision from anyone, it was the sole reason he built such a huge empire, to be away from the control of everyone.

The governments just poked a sleeping bear with the Accords. Truth to be said, nobody liked the Accords. Not even Tony who supported it in the original story. Tony accepted the Accords before because he was ridden with guilt when he made Ultron. But it was different this time. They had done nothing but good for the people.

Be it better living, better facilities to everyone and even gave the people of earth a dream. A dream to travel in space. Umbrella has covered almost every aspect of life and it is slowly becoming larger than what the countries could ever be.

Wayne just shrugged his shoulders to the question of Ross. Being a summon of John he could never go against the wishes of John, nor did he like the Accords. He had seen what politics could lead to.

"You all have a week. If it's not signed, everybody here will be declared as terrorist after 7 days." Ross said.

"Ross, do you remember that slap from Bee?" John suddenly asked as he saw Ross leaving. Ross trembled when John said that and almost unconsciously touched his face. That was his greatest humiliation in his life.

"How do you know this?" Ross asked in an angry tone.

"Hydra got decimated because they thought politics is power. Power is power Ross. Remember that." John said and walked away.

Chapter 230: T'Chaka

"Is that a threat?" Ross asked John who was walking away.

"Think of whatever you want." came the voice to Ross.

The doors closed and Ross had to leave. He was red faced as he didn't expect they wouldn't even care for the Accords. He felt there might be some voices who would be with the Accords but surprisingly none did. Not even Rhodes, who finally left the military under the insistence of Tony and joined the Avengers. The Avengers even paid salary to all with every benefits. He just couldn't say no. He was also tired of all the baggage that he had to carry after becoming Iron Patriot. So he too left for Avengers.

After Ross left everybody was silent. Nobody uttered a word. GAIA too was listening to this and finally broke the silence

"Do you want me to bring all the dirty work of all the countries?"

"No. GAIA connect me to King T'Chaka. I need to talk with him." John said. GAIA called him directly and soon a video opened showing a little old man with almost all his hair turned white.

"Hello. Mr. Jameson to what do I owe the pleasure of your call?" the old man said.

"Hello King T'Chaka. I guess you have already got the report of us not accepting the Accords." John said in a straight manner.

"Yes. Secretary Ross has sent the response of you." the King replied with a smile as if the response didn't bother him.

"What do you want King? I am sure you didn't propose the Accords just because you are afraid of us. What is your real purpose?" John asked.

"I don't understand what you mean Mr. Jameson." the king replied.

"You know exactly what I mean. Just tell me your purpose. I hate politics and their roundabout ways to achieve something. So tell me your real purpose before it's too late." John said.

"Mr. Jameson I really don't understand what you mean by that." the King insisted.

"So be it. Don't regret the decision you have just taken." John said as he cut the call. Everybody didn't understand why John called the King as Wakanda was one of the most poor countries but it still baffled many of why Wakanda proposed the Accords when no country of Africa was affected in any way in all of this.

"What are you thinking John?" Natasha asked. John didn't reply as he directly wore the helmet. He closed his eyes for a few seconds and vanished from his place. Everybody was confused of what just happened. John appeared again but this time with a man. A man who had dreadlocks in his head. He wore half sleeves but had weird small skin markings all over his hands.

It was Erik Stevens, the Killmonger. Heir to the throne of Wakanda, just like T'Challa. Erik didn't understand of what just happened and he immediately became ready to fight but when he looked around he was astonished to his peak. Everybody present belonged to the Avengers. He knew that all his former training would amount to nothing with literally 'Gods' being present here.

"What do you want from me?" Killmonger asked as he didn't understand why he was caught and brought here. John could find Erik because now he had cosmic awareness. John could find anyone that he wished for in all of universe, and even multiverses. Even some weak 'Gods'. The magic of the helmet of Fate gave him many powers, this was one of them.

"Who is this guy?" Steve asked.

"Erik Stevens, heir to the throne of Wakanda. Since Wakanda doesn't want to say what it wants I will bring the truth out myself." John said,

"Heir to the throne? Do you want to replace the king with him?" Banner asked as he knew how monarchy worked.

"That depends on him. Erik, don't you want revenge. This would be your chance." John said.

"How do you know of my inheritance?" Killmonger was surprised that a person who wore a weird golden helmet knew of him and even his inheritance. But, yes Erik did wish for vengeance for killing his father.

"It doesn't matter how I know. Just say if you want revenge." John asked again.

"Yes. I want him to pay for killing my father." Erik replied.

"Good. Everybody suit up. This might not be a smooth journey." John said.

"Are you going to make a coup in the throne of Wakanda. Is that even required?" Rhodes.

"Wakanda had been hidden in shadows for a long time. They are the most advanced country in the world. You saw the vibranium. Vibranium was a meteorite that struck their country centuries ago. That metal empowered them and made them possess technology far ahead of other countries. What we see from outside is just a facade. A hologram. A city covered by it. Their technology is way ahead than you can even imagine." John said.