

Multiverse 261

Chapter 261: Everybody coming together

"So you and your band are here because we might be a threat to the multiverse in future?" John asked.

"Yes. We need to stop the Black Winter. No matter what." Strange said. nove\(l\)bi\(n\).combi(n).com)

"We can kill the Black Winter. Since I said Thor has killed it, I know the whole process and the way we can defend against it." John said, trying to convince him.

"We can't leave the whole multiverse on a chance John. Black Winter is too powerful." Strange said. As he said more Black Priests started coming in from the broken glass in the air.

"It seems only power can convince you otherwise and show how little you know." John said.

"Everyone. We need your help." John shouted. As he said that new people started emerging behind him. At least 500 ninjas and all the kages. They were all wearing the attires they wore during the last great ninja war. With the same headbands. All the current kages and even the previous kages.

Naruto, Sasuke, Gaara and all the famous characters were standing beside John. He even summoned all the tailed beasts that had been living without the jinchurikis. The Avengers were surprised to see them as this was the first time all the ninjas came together to fight against an enemy with them. But this wasn't the end. Next appeared all the mythical and legendary pokemons.

Ho-oh, Mew, Arceus, Rayquaza, Lugia and all others. This surprised everybody. They didn't expect everybody to show up in this fight.

"John, how powerful is your magic? You have been sneakily contacting them all this time? Damn." Tony asked. They all thought it was the magic of John as he called them like he did with themselves. Since he could teleport all of the Avengers, he could probably teleport the others too. And they all knew that he had cosmic awareness and could speak with anybody, thus didn't doubt John of using anything other than magic. Even the Ancient One didn't suspect anything.

They just didn't expect it would be ninjas and Pokemon. John actually just summoned them with the help of system. Even though he could bring them here using magic, he chose not to do so as that would be wasting magic power.

The Black Priest Strange was surprised to see such a huge lineup consisting of weird animals and people. He hadn't seen any of these people and animals in all of the other universes and he could even feel the power of each and every one of them.

"Still think we are weak?" John asked. Strange didn't reply as he started uttering a weird letter. Sasuke directly used his Rinnegan on Strange. He used the Shinra tensei to throw him away like John did before.

"Everybody, attack and kill them. Don't hold back." John said and again changed to the lightning-fire form of Phoenix. He flew away to confront Strange with a few others, while others attacked all the Black Priests.

John, Wayne, Sasuke in Susano and Naruto in Kurama form attacked Strange. While the other Pokemons, the tailed beasts and the ninjas started fighting against the other Black Priests as they were like in a hundred now. The ratio was almost 7:1 and the Black Priests were overwhelmed easily.

"We need to shut his mouth so that he can't speak." John said as he hit Strange with a lightning bolt.

"You once said Wanda has reality bending powers. Can we make him shut his mouth forever." Wayne said.

"That's a nice idea. Wanda, come here." John said over the comms.

As they were fighting Wanda flew over to John's side.

"Wanda, can you make him lose his mouth forever?" John asked.

"I can try. I have been trying to alter little bit of reality recently." Wanda said as he moved her hands. Red colored magic was summoned on her hands which was probably chaos magic and hit Strange.

Strange's eyes became grave as he saw the the magic. He used his magic shield to defend against the attack. Since Strange was really powerful he was able to defend but then was hit by Naruto with the claws of Kurama. This directly rendered his shield useless the next second.

Sasuke then proceeded to use Amaterasu on Strange. The flame got stuck in his arms. And no matter how he moved he couldn't extinguish the flames on both of his hands. Seeing no other option he used the last magic he could do with his hands to cut his own hands off. Because he felt if he didn't do it he would actually die by this black fire.

Wanda saw the opening and again used magic on him to shut his mouth. This time the magic hit his face, and little by little his mouth vanished and was replaced by skin.

This looked weird but this was the only thing that could be done. John then used magic to directly hold his legs and brought him to his knees.

Unsurprisingly, more than half of the black priests fell by the time Strange lost his mouth and arms. It was a very short war but it showed how powerful were the new Avengers and John's summons were when they attacked in full force.

"Do you want me to kill all of the Black Priests, Strange?" John asked Strange.

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

Thank you.

Chapter 262: Decisions

All the remaining Black Priests stepped back from attacking. The Avengers and others too stopped as they saw Strange on his knees. His body now was made of symbols so there was no blood or gory scene from his lost hands.

Strange tried to speak but he couldn't as he had lost his mouth. This scene looked funny a bit and Tony even smiled seeing all this. This battle, even though it was small, the stakes were too high. Though everybody didn't understand the whole story they got the inkling that this was related to the survival of their universe and their multiverse.

Finally a Black Priest said

"I would appreciate it if you leave some of them alive." John understood that through hive mind now Strange was speaking. Even though he could speak through the hive mind, there was still a limit of one letter for each Black Priest so even if they try to complete a word or a sentence, the Avengers and everyone would have enough time to retaliate.

"You are really something Strange. Even after such beating, your voice is tranquil. Maybe this was the reason you were chosen as their leader." John said.

"We all do what is necessary. I am trying to save my universe while you yours. There is nothing wrong with it. We are just forced by circumstances." The Black priest said.

"So what now? Are you going to kill me?" Strange asked.

"Yeah I really wish to do so. But the thing is if I kill you, there would be no Sorcerer Supreme in Earth 616. That would cause a huge problem for all of the multiverse. You can return back. The lost hands of yours would never grow and this is the punishment for your arrogance. I presume you can change the situation of your mouth but your hands are gone forever." John said. Strange too understood that his hands would never grow back, even the symbols on his body couldn't stop the black fire, let alone all other kinds of things.

"Go back. You can tell your precious Illuminati group of what transpired here. And tell them to keep their noses away from our business. We will handle Black Winter. And if they are still not happy with the answer, tell them they can come over. We will give them the same response as we gave you now. An iron fist." John said.

Strange didn't answer it and was silent. He knew that they had lost, and in the most pathetic way possible. They couldn't even scratch the Avengers of this Earth even after having one of the most powerful groups in all of the multiverse. But Strange also knew that Black Winter too was terrifying and even the current power of this universe wasn't powerful enough to handle it.

John didn't say more and directly conjured magic. He uttered ancient Egyptian spells and sent Strange and the Black Priests away to the multiverse. He could have sent Strange back to Earth 616 but he chose not to do so, as the Black Priests didn't live on Earth 616. John couldn't send them before because this magic could only be done when there was no resistance.

Everybody sighed in relief when the Black Priests vanished after John used his magic. The shattered glass in the air repaired itself. This battle was the toughest battle the Avengers had ever faced. Even if the enemies weren't many in numbers but the sheer power that they possessed overwhelmed them.

It was a boon that they had legendary Pokemon and ninjas by their side with the tailed beasts. Otherwise the Avengers might have really lost this battle. The aftermath created by this war would be far reaching. The whole Himalayas itself was in shambles and it showed the ferocity of the war.

John returned back to his original form and removed his helmet. His face looked grave. They were able to stop the first problem but now a bigger problem has appeared. John wasn't sure when the Black Winter would come but they needed to be ready. Updated from novelb(i)n.c(o)m

"John, I need to go away." The Ancient One was the first to break the silence.

"What do you mean?" John asked.

"The Black Winter. We need more information. Even though you said there is a way of defeating it but from your tone it seemed that it would be an uphill battle. We will need help." the Ancient One said.

"No universe would help us. They will instead destroy our universe to stop it." John said.

"I am not talking of the universes John. I am talking about them. I will go and ask them for help." The Ancient One said as he pointed high up in the air.

"Them? Will they even help us? After all these years?" John asked. By them John meant the trio of Vishanti, Agamotto, Oshtur and Hoggoth, the people who were responsible for the presence of sorcery on Earth and building the sanctums. Agamotto was the first Sorcerer Supreme so they had a huge connection with them.

Chapter 263: Ragnarok

"It's fine if you go away. But who will be the Sorcerer Supreme if you go away? And don't tell me it will be Strange. He isn't ready to take over the mantle." John said.

"He isn't but you are. You can be the Sorcerer Supreme. You have the power and knowledge to be one." The Ancient One said.

"No. I won't be the guardian. Let Mordo, Wong and Constantine handle your position. I will be on the sidelines when required. Strange will be the Sorcerer Supreme when he is ready." John said.

"John, you are the perfect candidate for it. Why refuse it?" The Ancient One asked.

"Because of Black Winter. You don't know it but I know. And being the guardian of Earth wouldn't do me any good. I will have to travel to multiverses soon to find some answers." John said. The Ancient One sighed as she understood that John was right. nove(l)bi(n.)com

John then turned around and said

"I think you all have questions but before that we need to undo the damage we did. Regigas can you make the Himalayas again? It will seriously affect the ecology if it's not rebuilt." John said.

Regigas and the trio understood what John meant and thus walked towards the destroyed mountain ranges to rebuild. They were huge so when they walked there were mini earthquakes all around. John really thanked his stars that he had brought out Pokemon before this war against the Black Priests. He had immense help.

"Alright for answers, let's go to the Ring. SHIELD can handle the things here. Wong, Mordo, Strange, the kages and Arceus are welcome to join. Your questions will be answered. Is that fine with you all?" John asked.

Everybody nodded. John then waved his hands and everybody appeared in the Ring. The kages represented the ninjas, Arcues - the Pokemon, Wong and others for the mages. Even the Ancient One joined in this meeting.

They all went to the Hall of Justice and everybody took their seats. Many were tired so they all needed a break. They all had been silent as they really wanted to hear the upcoming story from John. Even Strange, who had many questions, didn't say a word.

"From my previous conversations with Strange you might have understood what they are called. They are the Black Priests, or the Field Surgeons of the Multiverse. It's the multiverse's defense mechanism which kicks in when there is a threat for the multiverse. When I dream, I dream of both the past and future. I have said before that the future always changes and this time I was on the unknown side."

"I thought that the Black Priests came because of Molecule Man and the incursion but I was wrong. My dreams might have created a butterfly effect in all of the multiverse and probably the emergence of many of you all played a huge part in the changes of the future. Let's leave the story of this 'incursion' for now. Let's focus on Black Winter."

"Thor, is there a mention of Fimbulwind on the books of Asgard?" John asked Thor who was listening attentively. He heard John say that in future he stopped Black Winter so he was more interested in it.

"There is." came the answer but it was not from Thor but from an old voice from behind. Everybody turned their heads only to see an old man in golden armor with white beard walking towards them. On his hand was a trident.

He was Allfather Odin.

"Father, why are you here? We handled it already." Thor got up from his seat and said. When Thor said this everybody understood that he was Allfather Odin. Except for the kages, the Ancient one and Arceus all stood up to pay respects to the King.

He waved his hands to let them be at their seats. Odin went and took an empty seat in the huge hall and said to everyone.

"There is a mention of Fimbulwind. The Black Winter. The end. The Ragnarok. And no son, this Ragnarok isn't for Asgard but for all of the universe. Nothing more is written about it. When Heimdall said that you and that other guy mentioned Black Winter, I knew this matter was serious." Odin spoke.

"Yes. It is serious. But before I explain Black Winter, I will have to mention one thing. Our universe is the 7th iteration. What I mean by that is, our multiverse has already been destroyed 6 times. Yes you heard it right. 6 times, the universe had gone through life and death. And every multiverse's death comes with the Black Winter. It is the Black Winter who comes and devours the multiverse, killing everything with it."

"So yes, this is the origin of Black Winter. The actual and true Ragnarok. I suppose you all have questions. Ask away. I will explain all your doubts."

Chapter 264: Galan

"What is this being we are speaking about? I mean is it a human being, an alien. What is it?" Tony asked.

"It's just an entity that devours universes. It doesn't have any shape or form and very little is known of it. When it comes, black snow falls and everything the black snow touches, gets obliterated to nothingness." John replied.

"You said, I will kill the Black Winter. Can we get to know how?" Thor asked as this was the main question for all. They wanted to know the process of defeating it. John hesitated for a bit before uttering a spell.

This spell would stop anyone from hearing their conversation. Not even the Watchers would be able to hear the next words of John.

"What did you do?" Arthur asked.

"I just used magic as a protection to stop anyone from listening to our conversation. There can be many people listening to us right now. That war against the multiversal beings is sure to wake up many other entities in all of the multiverse." Everybody nodded as they understood.

"Before explaining the defeat of Black Winter let me tell your story."

"In the last universe there was a planet called Taa. There lived a remarkable scientist and an explorer named Galan. Their planet was the epitome of civilization of their universe. But sadly their universe was about to end due to Black Winter and the contraction of their universe as it was already billions of years old. Everything should have ended with that but that explorer Galan made a pact with Black Winter. The Black Winter would leave Galan but he would have to be the herald of the Black Winter. In all future universes Galan would have to guide Black Winter so that it can feed upon them."

"And later due to various reasons, Galan became very powerful. Powerful enough to destroy Gods. And in our multiverse we have a different name for him.

Galactus."

The Ancient One and Odin shuddered on their seats when they heard that name. They both knew of the existence of Galactus and the power he possessed. John saw their shuddering and knew that both of them knew of him.

"Galactus, like his master, is also a devourer of worlds. He can eat planets and galaxies and that is his food. Thor was able to defeat Black Winter because Thor became the Herald of Galactus. Galactus didn't want to be under the control of Black Winter so he chose Thor as his herald. Thor later came to know that Galactus had been the herald of Black Winter all along and Galactus was using him."

"Thor became angry and he stripped Galactus off the power that fuels Galactus and detonated his body. This killed Black Winter. Well that was what the story is supposed to be. Now we will have to find other ways to defeat him."

Everybody's views changed for the first time. They had never expected that such beings even existed in their multiverse. All the powers that they possessed now looked very weak in front of such mighty beings. In simple terms, they were just ants trying to move the elephants. Everybody's face looked grave.

"What are the powers of Black Winter? I mean does he have any other power apart from devouring universes?" Wayne asked. nove(l)bi(n.)com

"Anybody who gazes on Black Winter, sees their death. Most of them see Black Void as that is the actual form of Black Winter but those who escape Black Winter see their future deaths. So no matter what, never look into Black Winter. Never. When we fight against it we can never use our eyes." John said.

"The hell. We can't even fight with our eyes open. Is that even fair?" Flash said.

"Nothing is fair Barry. It is what it is." John said.

"How do you wish to defeat Black Winter? Stripping the power away from Galactus like Thor did?" Wayne asked.

"That is my plan. But we will have to see how it turns out and how far is Black Winter. Sorcerer Supreme, I hope you can come back with news. I have checked this universe and there is no sign of Black Winter as of yet but we don't know how much time we have." John said.

"I will make my preparations." the Ancient One said.

"Yes. Strange you can ask your questions. I am sure you have some." John said.

"Did you and the Ancient One know of my evil versions in other universes? Is that why you brought me here to properly guide me so that I don't go to the dark side?"

"Dark side? No Strange. Even the previous Strange isn't actually bad. You can't blame him for trying to save his home and the multiverse. You on all other versions isn't actually bad. It's just that the moral lines of yours get blurred over time. When you fight for such a long time and still see no end of enemies it gets difficult to maintain that sanity." John answered.

Chapter 265: Illuminati

"And you said I will be the Sorcerer Supreme. I never went to Kamar Taj to be the Sorcerer Supreme. I just want to heal my hands." Strange replied as after seeing all the fight and the other 'evil' version of him he wanted to be away from magic. He couldn't even imagine himself embroiled in all of this

"You can heal your hands after you become the Sorcerer Supreme." John said with authority.

"You are supposed to be the best of us. It's your calling and destiny." the Ancient One said. Visit

"No. I will not take up that mantle. Mordo is better suited for this kind of stuff." Strange insisted.

"Just grow a spine, Strange. Since the Ancient One has chosen you as the next Sorcerer Supreme, you should be honored." Mordo said without any hint of jealousy. John was surprised by this of Mordo. In almost all of universes he wasn't actually a good guy and even in their own universe he should have taken the other side.

But as of now Mordo has shown no such transformation. This was different from what he expected. He would keep an eye on Mordo always if he ever took to the other side until then.

"Strange, for now master all of mystic arts. Later you can decide if you will be the Sorcerer Supreme or not." John finally said seeing Strange still was not ready to budge.

"Fine after that you heal my hands." Strange said. Everybody was looking at Strange weirdly because they had seen the other version of him who had more of a charm and looked like an in-born leader whereas this version didn't want to take any such responsibility.

"What is that Illuminati that you spoke of at the end with Strange. Is it their version of Avengers?" Tony asked.

"No. Every universe has an Avengers group. It's just that their Earth has a higher group made by you, Strange, Black Panther, yes the one from Wakanda, Namor which I have already mentioned once, Professor Charles Xavier, a mutant which has immense telepathic powers, Black Bolt, King of inhumans. Think of inhumans as another kind of mutants and Reed Richards, the one of the most intelligent people in their universe. Yes, more intelligent than you Tony. Even Rogers joined Illuminati at one point of time. There is a huge team of Avengers so Illuminati was established to make decisions which the Avengers couldn't take. Illuminati was formed on the basis that these people would represent all of the super powered forces of Earth. With each person representing one section of the society." John said.

"Think of Illuminati as the UN of Avengers." John explained what Illuminati actually was.

"How many powered beings are there in other universes that we had to establish such a group? We are seriously lacking in fire power." Banner said.

"Enough to give everyone a headache." John replied.

"So now you know all of the story. Even though I'm not sure if my version of the story is correct or not, that is the general line. I will keep an eye on Black Winter's emergence. And we need to find Galactus but I can't actively search for him as he might sense it and come for our universe. He is a very powerful weapon but it goes both ways. We aren't strong enough to face him. I have a vague idea of how to tackle this guy but it's going to take time. No matter what we need to face him." John said.

"Though I know the times look dire now, we cannot lose hope. We will need to gather more power but on the basis that we don't lose ourselves in search of stronger power. You all have seen that version of Strange. He didn't hesitate to kill a universe in order to save everything." Rogers said.

"We can never be them. We need to be better. Better than all. Since in the future Thor does defeat Black Winter, we can do it. He does it single handedly, this time we will be a team." Wayne said.

"I will try to get more power as soon as possible for all of you and myself. I just hope we have enough time for that. Everybody should improve as fast as possible, we might not have much time left." John said. Everybody left after that. They didn't speak more as everybody was tired after the fight and needed more rest.

Odin left with the Ancient One to Earth, probably to take rest as he Ragnarok for Asgard was approaching. John needed to handle that too. And then there was Thanos. He could find Thanos anytime but he chose not to do so because without the stones he is powerless.

And if Thanos really attacked, he would just lose and all of the universe would get to know the deeds of the Avengers, making his movies more famous. For this reason he didn't care about Thanos.

Chapter 266: Aftermath

While the discussion was going on, SHIELD and the governments of Earth were having a hard time to understand what was actually happening. The Himalayas got decimated to oblivion which caused earthquakes in the nearby areas.

Even though nobody was harmed it still caused panic to the people and the governments. The battle lasted hardly for an hour but many people got to see the power of the Avengers. The New York war now looked cute to people and for the first time everybody understood how high the Avengers have grown.

Wayne went to the headquarters of SHIELD to brief the World Council. He wouldn't mention about Black Winter. Only that a mage tried to invade their Earth and they all had to come together to solve the problem.

The World Council knew that they couldn't hide this matter and needed to conjure a lie to maintain the order. If these people came to know that there were villains coming from other multiverses, then it would be a problem. Till now only good people came over. Now it was enemies for the first time.

The people didn't see the emergence of ninjas but they definitely saw many legendary and mythical Pokemon. And as they were speaking Regigas and the trio was making the Himalayas again from the rubble. They were in awe by the power of Pokemons and some even tried to approach them only to be stopped by SHIELD.

The World Council later came out and tasked the governments in making a lie on enemies appearing over the Himalayas. And since the New York war had happened all governments gave the lie of aliens appearing and Avengers went to confront. nove(l)bi(n.)com

Since the aliens proved to be very powerful, Pokemon came over to handle the situation and save humanity. These made people love Pokemon more as all legendary and mythical Pokemon came to save humanity.

John on the other hand was busy thinking of how to improve his powers. He needed more fan values to store for an upgrade and needed to upgrade his summons too. He has an idea for Green Lanterns. Wayne and Tony are building their own armors so he didn't much care about him. Aquaman needed an update.

Flash has enough powers and doesn't need any such thing. Cyborg does have one version of 'Kingdom Come' comics where he is more human but that wouldn't actually give Cyborg any additional powers. One version of Queen in 'Elseworld' comics is a mashup between Gandalf and Queen so he has kind of half magical powers so that power could be easily given to Queen.

In one version of comics, Wonder Woman has psionic powers and even reality warping and alteration powers like Wanda. And surprisingly Wonder Woman's name in that universe is Wanda too. Sometimes John wondered if there was a connection between Marvel world and DC world, if the DC world ever existed.

John knew he would have to spend a ton of fan values but thankfully after the arrival of Pokemon world his fan values had skyrocketed. And now John had to go to Disney and CD Projekt Red to deliver more games and animations.

He needed to gain more fan values and even from stories that wouldn't bring any actual power to him but would add to his power nonetheless in the way of fan values. Thus after entering Disney he gave the stories of John Wick, Matrix, Avatar, Pirates of the Caribbean, Lord of the Rings and such other famous movies. Even movies which deal with normal stories. The name of Disney would let the movies garner more attention. And of course John gave some animated stories too.

Then he went to CD Projekt Red to submit more ideas for games from his previous world like Doom, Dark Souls, World of Warcraft, Skyrim, Assassins Creed (all editions), Final Fantasy and many others.

John knew this would take years to complete with all the movies and games but he needed to start somewhere. This was the right time. Soon he would have very less time for work and more for world saving. Even though the threat of Dark Winter was looming over their heads he needed to keep his head straight and work steadily towards more power.

Both CD Projekt Red and Disney were taken aback by so much content John had brought. They knew something had changed after the war in the Himalayas but nobody dared to ask. Those who knew that John was Dr. Fate knew something more terrible had happened for John to come up with such stories and wondered how many characters from the movies would come to life.

Since everybody now knew that there are different worlds many in Disney suspected that there might be new people coming over soon. This whole exchange of stories and ideas went till December and finally John delivered all the stories and ideas that could be shared with both of the companies.

At the end of the year there was a silver lining for John as Emma was back from working as a lantern for vacations.

Chapter 267: Changes

"Hi hon. I see that the earth has changed quite a lot in this more than one year." Emma said as she landed near the House of Mysteries.

"Yes. Many things have changed." John said. Even though Emma was away they always used to have conversations over calls and give an update of what was going on in each other's life. Thus Emma knew about the Ring and even John being the Sorcerer Supreme.

She was happy that her boyfriend had grown more powerful over the years and even confronted another enemy called Ultron. This Ultron gave her a headache too as she had to search for the AI. Surprisingly John couldn't search for Ultron even with his cosmic awareness.

John then proceeded to tell her what had happened in the last few months and the coming of Black Winter and the whole story behind it.

"So we have a huge war coming?" Emma said in a very serious tone.

"Yes and we need to be ready. I will have to soon cross the barriers of the Multiverse and go to Earth 616." John said.

"Wouldn't that be dangerous? I have been going through the books of Oa. There are way too many variables in that universe." Emma said.

"Doesn't matter. I will have to go and talk to Galactus. This is for the survival of Earth, our universe and all of the multiverse." John said. Emma knew that John had to take this journey no matter what as only he was capable of doing that and had enough knowledge to handle situations.

She was happy to see their new home and loved the Pokemon Audino and the spirit of the House. Emma even went to Earth to meet her parents and catch Pokemon. John thought of her having the Pokemon Deoxys as that Pokemon would be helpful in dealing with space related missions. Deoxys was a Psychic type mythical Pokemon and thus could help Emma in every way possible.

Thus John and Emma went for a search for Pokemon and led her to the Pokemon Deoxys and let her catch it. She was ecstatic to catch a mythical Pokemon. John didn't help her any more as now it was her own choice which Pokemon she would prefer.

She ended up catching Emolga. A very cute Pokemon.

The days went by and it was January soon. The Ancient One had already left to meet the trio of Vishanti. Wong, Mordo and Constantine took over each Sanctum as the main masters, while the trio was responsible for educating the students in turn at Kamar Taj.

The new year was celebrated with a little more grandeur, as this was the first New Year everybody would spend on the Ring and thus everybody joined in the fun. The last few days had been depressing for them and they all needed some relief.

Due to the war in the Himalayas the movie that was supposed to be out in December was pushed to February as nobody was in a mood to watch movies for sometime now. There was still a small sense of panic for people and the battle prompted more people to go after Pokemons.

After a week of January, John took Emma to Oa as he needed to talk with the Guardians and speak about Black Winter. And also give a boost to them as he had already calculated his fan values and the necessary upgrade required. John used the helmet of Fate to appear in Oa and they flew to the citadel. The Guardians had all been summoned as he had already been notified from before.

Emma and John both landed in the citadel while the Guardians were standing in their respective places circling John and Emma.

"John, we noticed the breach in the multiverse barriers. Is everything alright?" Appa asked.

"Yes. For now. But I have come with grave news." John said.

"Go on. Let us hear." Appa asked. John then proceeded to recount what had happened and things with Strange and the coming of Black Winter. The Guardians were silent after hearing that for sometime before Ganthet finally saying

"The Green Lanterns will help the Avengers in dealing with the Black Winter. All Green Lanterns will be given information about it. The emergency protocols are now activated here in Oa."

"Thank you Guardians. Now for the other reason I am here for..." John said.

"After becoming the Sorcerer Supreme I have gained more powers and can bring alternate versions of every being that has come through the multiverse and thus allowing me to give more powers to the travellers at the expense of a little bit of magic."

The Guardians became interested when John said that. They knew what John actually meant by that.

"But before I start the process of bringing alternate versions and pushing the power through the travellers I have a question to ask." John said.

"Speak." Appa said. Follow current novels on novelb\(in\).com.com)

"Do you remember the prophecy of the Blackest Night?"

Chapter 268: Changes (2)

The Guardians became silent when John asked that. This was a huge prophecy in the book of Oa. The Guardians hated that Prophecy because it mentioned the rise of many lanterns and infighting among all the lanterns.

"Don't tell me the Blackest Night has something to do with Black Winter." Appa asked.

"It doesn't but according to the prophecy Ganthet and Sayd are supposed to be the Guardians of Blue Lanterns. Wasn't it?" John asked. There was total silence on the Guardians as they didn't know how to reply.

"Yes. That was the prophecy. But why are you saying this?" Appa asked.

"I want Ganthet and Sayd to make a Blue Lantern corp." John said.

"I will summon the blue lantern element and even the embodiment of the green and the blue element." John continued.

"Are you sure it's a good idea? It would mean we will trigger the Blackest Night prophecy." Appa said.

"There are no emotional spectrum forces in this multiverse. If new forces do appear I will handle it myself. For now I can bring Blue Lantern and the embodiments easily." John said.

"If you say so, but we just hope we don't trigger the Blackest Night prophecy and have more problems on top of Black Winter." Appa said.

"Don't worry about that. Now it's time to bring the embodiments here. They will choose their hosts willingly. I will place Entity Adara, the embodiment of Blue element on Ganthet for the time being and Entity Ion, the embodiment of Green element can choose it's host willingly as there are already Green Lanterns here." John said.

"OK. I will accept the Entity willingly and vow to use the power of hope to serve the universe and it's protection. At this time of approaching Black Winter we do need the power of hope." Ganthet said.

[Ding

Total fan values - 7 billion

Fan values required to extract Ion and Adara - 1 billion]

John spent 1 billion and waved his hands. As he did that, a huge bird-like being that glowed in blue light emerged in front of John. The bird was so huge that it shadowed the citadel and all the green lanterns that were present on Oa could see Adara.

John placed Adara on the body of Ganthet and then proceeded to summon Ion. Ion was green in color and had the shape of a huge whale. It's size was bigger than Adara and this time too all the green lanterns were able to see Ion appearing. It's appearance made the rings of all the green lanterns vibrate all over the universe and all felt a huge boost of power.

Ion then vanished right from it's spot as it went away to find it's host. It depended upon Ion to choose it's host. The Guardians, John and Emma looked at all of it with a sigh. From here on there would be two lantern corps in the universe and this would give an immense help to green lantern corps.

"Ganthet and Sayd, from here on you both will have nothing to do with Oa and will be the Guardians of The Blue Lantern corps. We wish you a successful journey." Appa was the first to break the silence and said to Ganthet and Sayd. As Guardians they had left emotions a long time ago and thus there was no such tears or sadness in separations.

"Now the last reason, I am here. The green and the blue Lanterns can now take their lantern and place it as armor around their body. This would give more power to the existing lanterns." John said. As Hal Jordan in the 'Kingdom Come' comics used the lantern as armor around the body and became more powerful as he defended Earth from a space station he had made.

John spent another 100 million and made it into a book and gave it to Appa and Ganthet so that both could use the knowledge of making such armors from lanterns. The last update of the system allowed him to bring alternate versions from the comics and thus helped him a lot. Since Ganthet and Sayd were the Guardians that made the blue lantern of hope, he was able to make a blue lantern corps from scratch.

Every color of the rainbow corresponded to the emotional spectrum in the DC universe. For example, green signified will, blue signified hope, red signified rage and so on and so forth. The other spectrum couldn't be extracted as the characters were never present in any movie or series.

By this time all the green lanterns present on the planet arrived at the citadel to see what was going on. They thought someone attacked the Guardians but were relieved to see that nothing had happened. Guardians then called for a meeting of all the green lanterns in the universe because they needed to discuss the next course of action.

(I will explain the story of Blackest Night when the time is right. Don't worry. It is one of the best comic book stories so of course I will explain)

Chapter 269: Changes (3)

John left Emma for the meeting that was about to happen and returned back to the Ring and called for a meeting with the Avengers. Everybody had come for the meeting like usual and reached the Hall of Justice. All took their respective seats .

"I heard Emma is back?" Banner asked.

"Yes she is but she is in Oa right now. Hal didn't come because he too was summoned by the Guardians to talk about the emergency protocol. I informed them about the Black Winter." John said.

"Has there been any news from the Ancient One?" Wayne asked.

"No. She hasn't returned as of yet." John said.

"So what are we all here for?" Victor asked. nove(l)bi(n.)com

"Last time I told you that my magic now can give people powers using the alternate versions that I have dreamed of. For those who have arrived from the multiverse. Today I will give some of you that." John said.

"Wayne has many versions but I think being the normal type is best. All the new armors is enough so I won't be bringing the alternate versions of him." John continued. Wayne nodded at it as he didn't really need any update to himself.

"Arthur. Your alternate versions are crazy. So I will be bringing two versions. One version is where you can transform yourself to a living water form. Yes, you heard me right. In this version you can become like a sentient water. In addition to being a full body of water, you will have the power to manipulate water like Mera, have super speed and be highly intelligent. And the other version is the futuristic Aquaman where you have a high intellect and flight. Congratulations! Now you can fly." John said. The two versions were taken from Earth 6 Aquaman and the Aquaman from DC One million series.

John spent 500 million for this and mumbled a false magic and flicked to Arthur. And the next moment Arthur's body gained a little bit of height and looked even more handsome.

Mera and others looked at Arthur but they couldn't see any major changes in Arthur. He looked almost the same and so they were confused. But the next second Arthur transformed himself to a full body of water. The whole physiology of his body changed as now his body was replaced with transparent water and even refracted light could be seen through his body. And then the water body floated in the air.

Everybody was amazed by such changes. Arthur came down and changed himself back. He was ecstatic to say the least. Now he could fight both in air and water.

"This is crazy. Is that even genetically possible?" Tony asked.

"Don't ask me. I only dream of them and used magic to push the alternate versions through him. He is now highly intelligent. Can add him to the laboratory." John said.

"One of my versions is from the 853rd century so my knowledge is far beyond this era has ever seen." Arthur said as he was checking himself out and going through all his abilities. But this time he spoke telepathically to all. Now all understood that Arthur had gained telepathy too.

"This is unfair. Arthur now has telepathy too. I too need awesome powers like Arthur." Clint said with a sulking tone.

"Go through the multiverse unknowingly and come back. Maybe then I can give you powers." John said.

"If we ever go to another multiverse, count me in. I want all my other versions to be with me." Clint said jokingly. Everybody else was happy because now Arthur had awesome powers and his presence would help the Avengers a lot.

"Queen, well there aren't many awesome versions of yours. But there is one version where you know magic and use a long bow. Do you want to accept the new power?" John asked.

"Sure. We must do whatever we can to make ourselves powerful as long as it is safe and doesn't change personality." Oliver said.

"There will be no changes. Rest assured." John said as he spent 150 million on Green Arrow's version of Elseworld where he knows magic that is attuned to nature and lived in forests.

Oliver's whole body soon got wrapped up in various colored leaves. The leaves formed a womb around him like a cocoon. After a minute of being in the cocoon, Oliver broke through it. He looked taller now, had a flute in his waist. A longer bow in his hand. There were still leaves around him but in smaller quantity.

"How is it?" Natasha asked in envy as she was sure now Queen had basically been elevated to a higher form.

"I know magic, magic that is attuned to nature. I can make arrows out of natural elements and use the flute to hypnotize animals. Feels really weird. It's as if I can feel the air and the surroundings. John, I can feel you too. You have too much magic power. That helmet is giving away a ridiculous amount of magic." Oliver said

Chapter 270: Return

John smiled when Oliver said that because the name, Lord of Order wasn't just for show. Everybody was interested in the powers of Oliver and thus asked him many questions.

"Victor and Barry, there are not any better versions of you. You both are at the pinnacle so I won't give you any powers. Diana, one version of you, is an alien with reality bending powers like Wanda and psionic powers. Do you want it?" John asked.

"Alien? Am I an alien in another universe? That is new." Diana said.

"That's what the story is about." John said.

"I understand." Diana said. John then proceeded to spend 500 million fan value points for Diana. And again used a false magic on her. This version of her was taken from Earth 9 Wonder Woman who was genetically engineered and possessed characteristics of both alien species who were in war against each other. As she got the new power she didn't feel any change only that now she has a long weapon on her hand which had sharp weird shaped blades on both sides.

"These are all the upgrades that are available to us now. Now we can only wait for the Ancient One to come with news." John said.

"How far are both of your armors?" John asked.

"We have made more adjustments to the armor. I am thinking of securing the whole Ring with the anti projectile shield. This is my new project for now." Tony said.

"Sure. I will secure the Ring in magical defense. The Ring too needs one like Earth." John said. John then spoke about new adjustments that Oa was going to make and new Lantern Corp. The blue colored Lanterns signifying hope. They were surprised by the emergence of new Lanterns but were happy to have another kind of intergalactic policeman.

After that everybody went back to their work and those who got new powers went to try out themselves and see how powerful they have become. John too went and started going through spells and magic. He was now actively practising magic.

Emma came back after a day and said that the two Guardians had left to search for a new planet to set up the Blue Lantern Corp. Their new lantern armors would be provided soon. She had to leave for her work after two weeks as the work of Lantern Corps never stops.

The days went by and soon it was February. The Ancient One finally returned from her trip to meet the Vishanti. She came over to John's home to give the news of the future.

"How was the trip?" John asked.

"Good and bad I guess. I actually wanted to die and let Strange take over but now everything is out of the window. I will have to make Strange the Sorcerer Supreme before I rest in peace." she said.

"That was the plan. Wasn't it?" John smiled.

"Your emergence messed up a lot of things be it good or bad." The Ancient One said.

"Whatever. What did the trio say?" he asked.

"We have 5 years before the Black Winter comes. Due to our universe acting up weirdly they have taken measures. Because of Black Winter, our universe will be cut from all of the multiverse so that Black Winter doesn't harm all of the multiverse. That is the decision of Eternity, Infinity and the Living Tribunal." The Ancient One said.

John's eyebrows raised when he heard the names. Those three are basically the overlords of the universe, if One Above All isn't taken into account. It was not surprising that they had taken that decision, Black Winter is too powerful and they needed to take measures. Since all the universes wouldn't help them it was better to just cut them off when the situation goes out of hand.

Now John was more determined to fight against Black Winter and prove the overlords wrong and show them that only Earth-616 isn't everything and all powerful. John clenched his fists and made a vow that he would become more powerful.

"I understand. We will defend this universe till the end and show them what we are really made of and maybe our Earth one day would be more powerful than their precious Earth-616 since they are so much attached to it." John said.

The Ancient One smiled at this but didn't reply. After narrating her meeting with the Vishanti she went back to Kamar-Taj for being the Sorcerer Supreme.

Before she left she and John both made a magical defense in the whole of the Ring so that inter dimensional creatures could not sneak inside the Ring. John now was relieved that their home was secured magically too. The Tower of Fate was the Sanctum of the Ring that powered the magical defense.

The Ancient One even went through the books inside Tower of Fate for a long time before leaving.
