

Multiverse 331

Chapter 331: The main God

"I am not. But I was sent by them to talk to you and negotiate." Uatu said.

"Negotiate? You want to negotiate for this guy?" John asked, pointing at Thanos.

"Yes. They need him for a bigger purpose."

"Him? Are you sure he is required for a bigger purpose? He can't even change his ideology even after getting crushed. He is way beyond redemption." John refused.

"They will convince him." Uatu said.

"Who are you representing here? The Timekeepers? The Celestials? Who?" John asked as he was now curious about whose direction Uatu came here.

Uatu pointed his finger high up in the air.

"Eternity?" John asked. Uatu shook his head denying it.

"Higher than him. Much higher. I have a feeling you know him too since you know all the gods from what I can see." Uatu said.

"Wait, you mean HIM? The HIM? That is impossible. Why would he care about ants like us? He would never care about neither him nor us." John said as he understood who Uatu was referring to now. He got scared now.

From the signs of Uatu, John understood who he was referring to.

One Above All. OAA.

"I don't know John. I am just following orders. I don't know what his plans are."

"Fk." John said. He was stumped. He had been waiting for this fight all his life. And now a much higher being comes and stops him. He didn't know what OAA had plans for Thanos.

He never did care about anything, so he was confused about why he cared about a guy who had no importance in all of the multiverse. He was a villain for sure in most universes but not so high and mighty enough that OAA would care about him.

"Why should we give up Thanos? We have battled him fair and square. Sure we ambushed him, but why should we just allow him to run free. He wants to kill half the population. That itself is the greatest crime ever." Strange said, he voiced the opinions of all of them.

"Yes. Why should we? We have been waiting for him for such a long time." Peitro said.

John on the other hand was looking blankly. They really didn't have any choice in this. No matter what they are way too weak to even negotiate. They could be wiped out in seconds if OAA wished it so. He clenched his fist. He was really powerless here. No amount of power would allow him to be as powerful as OAA. Not now at least.

"You can take him. But I will make a fake video of us killing him and show it to the universe." John said.

"Wait, John no. I know they are gods that are asking us, but we can't let this guy go. We all will fight for it. Wanda now has powers to alter reality. She will help us in this. Vision can't always be living in danger." Tony said.

"Yes. I can't let Vision be in danger. We just can't." Wanda said.

"Whoever this God is, we will face him. Together." Loki said as he too wasn't ready to leave Thanos. A guy who killed another version of him, he could never let it go.

"Do you think we have a choice? Ants don't have the power to negotiate with elephants." John said with a huge sigh.

"So what? Millions of ants can over turn an elephant." Tony as he charged his thruster and pointed at Thanos. Thanos had been silent all this time. He had no idea why he was at the negotiating table, but he would take any chance he could get to be away from Avengers.

He could always come back with bigger force and take away the infinity stones.

"Millions? Even billions of us wouldn't be enough. Even the whole universe wouldn't be enough. Tell me Tony, do you still want to try?" John said. Everybody's face looked desperate when John said that.

They thought that the God was like Thor or maybe a little more powerful than Thor, but John's description just wiped away the whole table.

"The hell." Barry shouted.

John then again turned his head to Uatu and continued.

"The arrangement remains the same. Thanos should die in the eyes of this universe. And he will be hunted down by the Avengers the moment he steps in this universe again." John said strenly.

"Deal." It was Immortus who replied.

"Uatu, why did you send him to negotiate? You could have come by yourself." John said, mocking Immortus.

"Because Thanos will be with the three of them." Uatu said. John's eyebrows raised when Uatu said that. By three here Uatu referred to the Timekeepers.

The actual Timekeepers who existed in the universe.

Immortus was the future version of Kang. Kang was selected by the Timekeepers to look over the timeline in all of the multiverse. John wasn't sure if the Kang in Loki's story and Immortus here was the same guy. Immortus had a mask on his face and his whole body was covered, so he had no way to differentiate. Magic had no effect on him. Updated from novelb(i)n.c(o)m

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

Thank you.

Chapter 332: The death

John didn't waste any more words, he directly transformed into Phoenix. And then used his fire over Thanos. All thought, John revolted and changed the game. But after the fire died out, they saw Thanos's body being fine like it was before.

Then everybody understood John just used a fire which had no heat. After becoming Phoenix, John could always control the temperature of the fire.

"There, take him away. I don't want to see him again in this universe. The next moment I see him here, will be his death." John warned again to both Uatu and Immortus. He really wouldn't care again, if Thanos showed up. He would just go and kill him.

Immortus nodded and Took Thanos on his shoulders. A rectangular orange door opened and they both stepped in. Thanos didn't resist in all of this. The Avengers and the ninjas looked angry when Thanos was taken away, but there was nothing they could do.

Thor actually wanted to blast him, because he didn't care who showed up, but Wayne stopped him with his hand. They couldn't take the risk of annoying a powerful God. Black Winter was enough of a headache.

"Uatu, I did this because of you. I hope I didn't make the wrong decision." John said, looking at him. nove(l)bi(n).com

"I will kill him myself if he jeopardises the lives of the people of this universe. I think I didn't introduce myself properly. Uatu, the watcher of Earth."

"John Jameson. Sorcerer Supreme of the Ring and an Avenger." John said. They both shook their hands.

"How is your father?" John asked.

"He is old now, but alive and well." Uatu replied. He didn't look surprised that John knew of his father, Ikor.

"I did this because you asked for it." John said.

"I know, that's why I was sent." Uatu said.

"Avengers, this is Uatu. THE Watcher. As his title suggests, his work is just that. Watching, but never interfering. They are like the Guardians of Oa. Hailing from a very technologically-advanced race. Due to the disappointments they saw after seeing a planet where they introduced knowledge of atomic energy, they decided never to interfere again in any foreign race. Uatu here is the watcher for Earth and all other Earths in the multiverse" John introduced Watcher to all the Avengers and ninjas.

They didn't expect that their own universe had their versions of Guardians of Oa. Even though they found it weird that Watchers didn't intervene like the Guardians, the Avengers didn't call it out.

"I know you all and have seen you all. Though I have no idea from which universe the new ones of you came from, I have kept an eye on all of you. Your work is commendable. Maybe you will be able to defeat Black Winter. We have high hopes for you." Uatu said with a smile.

"Then you should help us in stopping Black Winter. It is going to destroy the universe." Steve said. Uatu shook his head saying.

"Our ethics and code stop us from doing so. I am sorry."

"Then why did you interfere in this battle? I think Thanos was a smaller threat as compared to Black Winter." Tony asked as he was still pissed off.

"Because he asked me to do so." Uatu said, pointing his finger high up again.

"This is bullst. They don't help us but are the first to intervene when they need it." Banner said as he had transformed back to his real form. Thanks to Ralts who was now standing on his shoulder.

"Sigh. We can't do anything about it." Victor said.

"I will be off now. The more I stay here, the more I will be intervening. You all did a good job in defeating Thanos. No other versions of him have ever been defeated so badly, like yours. Good luck for the future." Uatu said and then the broken glass of the multiverse opened for him and he stepped inside. Then the glass closed in on itself and disappeared in thin air.

"Let's go back. It's useless to think about it anymore. At the least he accepted that Thanos won't be a problem for this universe. That's all that matters for now. Avengers, we did a good job." Wayne said.

All nodded their heads, they could be proud of how they defeated Thanos. Someone, who all the people of the universe feared. He was defeated so badly that even Uatu was impressed.

"Thank you kages for your help here. We are grateful for your assistance. Wayne said, thanking the kages.

"It was our pleasure. Finally moved our muscles a bit in this fight. Felt great." Raikage said.

"I am off." Thor said as he vanished, taking Erza, Kratos and Loki. He was still angry that Thanos was left off. He still couldn't accept it. They had prepared for so long for him only to be blown away by a God who didn't even show his face.

Chapter 333: Celestials

"That was rude." Barry said.

"Leave him be. We all didn't like how it all turned out." Diana said as she understood the anger of Thor. He just recently became a God but he still was powerless against the actual Gods.

"He is probably angry with me." John said as he too understood Thor's anger.

"Let's go back." Victor said as he opened portals leading them to the Ring. They all went in, including the kages and the ninjas. After stepping near the Hall of Justice John said.

"Thank you kages for the help. I am sure you all need to tend to your injuries. So I won't hold you back. I will send a detailed report later of who they are and what they represent." John said.

"Will wait for the report." Gaara said as all wanted to know why John just let them take away Thanos, who was such a threat to the universe.

"Sure. I will send them. Let me send you all to your home." John said as he waved his hands. He teleported all the ninjas and kages to their dimension. Then all the Avengers including the Teen Titans went inside. Not many were tired after the short battle so all were ready to hear what John would say and give his justification.

All took their seats and John finally said.

"I know you all are angry, but our hands are tied. The person who asked for Thanos, is not something we can fight against." John said.

"What kind of being is he?" Steve asked.

"The kind of being who created the multiverse and is responsible for all of creation." John said.

"Wait? Did you just say the creator? You mean like God, God?" Tony asked.

"Yes. God, God. The one in the Bible. Well, similar to that." John replied.

"Does he really exist?" Banner murmured.

"Then do you think I just let him go because I wanted to let him go?" John said with a serious tone. He too was confused about why Thanos was taken away by OAA but he could never say no to it. At least he gave them the power to negotiate.

Even though John was tempted to ask for powers in exchange of Thanos, at the end he stopped himself. The only reason he stopped was because of the system. He didn't know if OAA knew about it. If he knew then he might just kill John. He could never take that gamble.

"Why the hell would they care for a person like Thanos?" Hal asked.

"That is what I want to know." John said.

"What about the Celestials?" Arthur asked as that name had been mentioned quite a lot of time.

"Celestials. They can be called lesser Gods. Responsible for maintaining a kind of balance. They have been around since the first multiverse. I once said long ago not to search for the Anti-Life Equation of Earth. It was not because we had the anti-life equation but because there is a seed of a celestial sleeping on Earth, deep inside." John said.

"Oh Earth is a home for them? That's cute." Natasha said. Natasha said. Like all others Natasha also played a huge role in the war. Her blue lantern ring and being the host of Adara she had been nothing but a pure nuisance to the enemies.

"It's not cute Natasha. When the population of Earth reaches a certain amount, a celestial will be born. And due to that birth, the Earth will be destroyed." John said.

"What?" Everybody cried in surprise.

"What the hell? You mean Earth will be doomed someday?" Arthur asked.

"Yes. But not if we stop the emergence of the said Celestial." John said. This gave a wave of relief to all.

"So you mean to say Earth and such other planets give birth to Celestials?" Tony asked as he understood the main point to the issue.

"Yes. Thanos was on a mission to exterminate half of the population because of two reasons. Making the population half will give more sustenance to the rest and stop the emergence of new Celestials." John said.

"What a saint!" Arthur said but in a mocking tone.

"Why don't we go and kill that Celestial? I think we all can kill a God in his sleep. We have that much power now at least." Clint asked.

"We can't, the other Celestials might be alerted due to that and will come to kill us. Don't worry, I have a plan for it. More people will be coming soon. So we can take our own measures. And we aren't powerful enough to face them yet. I didn't tell you this before because Black Winter was a headache, enough. Don't want to put too much pressure on you all." John said.

"More people? That's good. But I don't understand. If they are Gods why is their seed inside Earth sleeping?" Tony asked.

"Every billion years a new celestial needs to be born. It is the circle of life. The Celestials are responsible for creating new galaxies and maintaining that cycle. They take energy from the host planet and create suns and everything."

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

Thank you.

Chapter 334: Together

"So we are like chargers to these Gods?" Hal asked.

"Yes." John replied.

"No wonder Thanos lost his sanity. He must have seen the death of his own home planet. And this led to him taking up arms against them in a weird way." Yen said.

"Yes. Well Thanos has another history. Don't care much about it. I will take care of the Celestials. If we can't even stop a Celestial, I don't think we have the right to even speak about Black Winter." John said.

"True. That will be our ultimate test. To see if we are worthy enough to face Black Winter." Wayne said.

"Why do they even care about us? They abandoned us. They should stay the fk out of our way." Tony said as he was angry that as a species they served only as a charger for Gods. He hated this feeling of powerlessness.

"It is what it is. Celestials work on multiverse levels not on a single universe." John said.

"Who was this Immortus guy?" Parker asked as they seemed to have forgotten that the first person who started this downhill was him.

"He is Kang. Well, the future version of Kang. The one truly appointed by the Timekeepers." John said.

"Oh. Loki has a huge headache it seems." Diana said.

"Yes he does. So now you know all." John said. This new information that John gave was too much for all. First it was the Creator and then came the lesser Gods. This was enough to change the whole world for them.

They didn't know such beings even existed and now they know that they exist, they turned out not to be so good.

"John, when is this new celestial is going to be born?" Tony asked.

"I am not sure. A year or so maybe." John said.

"Fk" Geralt said.

"Will we be powerful enough?" Clint murmured.

"We have to be. There is no other way." John said. He just hoped that the new video that he just captured was enough to push his fan values to a high level. And pray that there would be an update. An update is what he needed now.

"I know you all are feeling down now, but we had taken this path the moment we decided to face Black Winter. This is just a bump on the road. There are no shortcuts here." Steve said.

"Together we will face, whatever comes." Wayne said.

"Together." all shouted in unison.

"I know all of you are tired. You all can go home and collect yourselves. We all need a rest after all of this." John said. All nodded at it. Then Guilty Spark appeared as he teleported people to their homes.

Only John, Wayne and Tony remained in their seats.

"Still angry that I didn't tell you about the Celestials. You have always been preaching of no secrets but you yourself kept such a secret from us." Tony said.

"Tony you have to understand that what I know is dangerous. If I go on telling all the secrets you will shaking in fear. One Black Winter has given you enough problems. I can see that you hardly pass time with Pepper now. Do you think over working yourself will solve the problem?" John asked.

"We aren't Gods Tony. I have said this to you before. We can only try with what we can, but that doesn't mean we will lose ourselves in pursuit of power. No power will be enough power. There will always be new threats. New dangers. Do you think that Black Winter will be the last enemy we face? That is just the start."

"I didn't tell you about them only because of this. You have seen how Black Winter made many of us. Clint has stopped sleeping. Natasha just trains all day. Oliver almost had a breakup with Felicity. Do you think this is healthy for us. Knowing the future?" John asked.

Tony became silent when he said this. He knew that knowing too much was always a problem. He just didn't expect that dangers were just right at their doorstep.

"Go home Tony. Spend time with Pepper. Fights will always be there. We have come a long way from facing terrorists to Gods. We will crush our enemies. We might die along the way, but we can never say that we didn't try." Wayne added to it.

"Yeah. GAIA are the videos ready?" John asked changing the topic now.

"Even after all this all you care about is videos?" Tony asked.

"It's my hobby. Keeps my sanity. You too need to find a hobby. You are going nuts. Calm yourself down." John said

"I will think about it." Tony murmured.

"The videos are ready. Do you want me to upload it everywhere?" GAIA asked.

"Yes upload it on all platforms. Both here and the universe. Tell Lex to handle this." John said.

Chapter 335: The universe came to know

"Alright. The videos has been uploaded. Now we will have to wait for it's outbreak." GAIA said.

"Hmm. I am off. Wasn't a good day for me. I just want some peace. Seems like I will never get peace in this life." John said and vanished after bidding his goodbyes to them. The next moment he appeared at the doorstep of his house. He was tired mentally today, he needed a good sleep.

John decided to go for a bath and then go straight to sleep. He could see the reaction of the people and the universe later. The spirit of the house made him a good tea. So after drinking it and giving a text to Emma and his father that he was alright, he went to bed.

It was already night when he went to sleep so it was a normal day for him. The next day waking up, he felt refreshed. He came out of his room and after having breakfast he checked how the videos performed on the internet.

And as expected, the video on YouTube virtually exploded. Avengers always had an official page on YouTube and since the video was shown there, it meant the war that was shown was real. But what John didn't expect was that a hashtag was trending on social platforms. And that hashtag wasn't Thanos.

But rather Darkseid. The people of Earth thought that it was Darkseid. John was dumbfounded when he saw this. He never expected that people of Earth would think Thanos was Darkseid. Even though Darkseid and Thanos had similarities but both had completely different motivations.

"Whatever. As long as they watch my works, it's all fine and good." John murmured.

Then John saw another name trending on the internet. It was Naruto. John had a huge smile when he saw this. Only this series would give an ample number of fan values. Since it had multiple episodes, the fan values would almost rise exponentially for sometime and he couldn't wait for it.

The same trend was shown in the web of the universe. Here people knew of Thanos so when they saw the Avengers and the ninjas pummeling Thanos and his army so badly, they were more surprised.

LexCorp had been responsible for the entertainment and spaceship business for some time now. John's works were famous all over their empire because John's works had green lanterns and many had seen Victor before.

But this time when everybody showed up in the fight against Thanos and even more, they were astonished. People never expected that Naruto, the characters of games, were real.

The video of them got coverage in all of the empire and even beyond them. Even Kree got to know of what happened on Mars and that more people had shown up from the works that LexCorp had made.

Of course there were many who accused that the video was fake, but it was soon debunked. People rejoiced that Thanos was dead as he was a menace in all of universe and many feared him a lot. But now the video showed that a Phoenix which people thought was Marco burnt Thanos alive.

People who had never known of them were educated of the anime and movies released by LexCorp so other people who had no interest in all of this rushed to understand who these people were.'

In this way, John's fan value was rising rapidly and he hoped that it would be enough for the next update. But he needed to wait for sometime for it to rise to a high point. Thus John had to wait.

People also got to know that Bruce Wayne was Superman himself, which was a whole new revelation for them. This topic too started a debate. Even Diana's new weapon, Arthur's weird transformation, also got enough coverage.

The World Council also got to see the new Avengers and Wayne gave them a report of who the enemy was and what they wanted. The governments were relieved that the Avengers and Naruto world existed to defend them. And whatever opposition that the governments had to control the Avengers, died down with it.

All the Avengers meanwhile almost disappeared from public view, Only Teen Titans showed up in places of crime in New York and they were barraged with reporters.

In this way, a whole month went by. It was already 2018 by then and on this day, all the Avengers had gathered in the ring for a very special ceremony. All came for this ceremony. Even Thor showed up for this special one.

It was Tony's wedding with Pepper.

Tony finally decided to marry her after being reminded by John that he had been missing in life. He realized that now his life revolved around enemies and he needed to change it. So he proposed to her on New Year's Eve and she happily accepted. Pepper too knew that Tony had been going through a hard time but was happy that now Tony had decided to let himself be free.

Chapter 336: Marriage

They were going to get married on the Ring. So all were here. Even Parker came with his Aunt. Apparently his aunt came to know that he was Spiderman. John too came for the wedding with Emma.

John and Emma showed up with gifts and John from the corner of his eyes got to see Parker. He felt nostalgic seeing him, because a few nights ago he saw the new Spiderman: No way home movie. He extracted the movie from the system the moment the system gave the notification that the movie was out in John's previous world and watched it that night itself. That movie had all of his nostalgia from his previous life.

He loved that movie but then remembered the story of spider-verse and the whole drama behind it. Peter, on the other hand, felt from his 'Peter tingle' that someone was looking at him so he turned his head to see who it was.

He was surprised to see that it was John. John was a hero for him. The way he fought in that war and the way he commanded was inspiring for him. Peter didn't hold it and went with May to greet him.

"Hello Mr. Jameson."

"Hello Peter. This must be your Aunt. Hello Aunt May. I hope it's alright if I call you Aunt May."

"Uhh...Hello. Do you know me?" Aunt May said.

"Didn't Peter tell you I am a mage and am a guide of sorts." John said.

"Oh please, off with your high and mighty self." Emma interrupted in the middle.

"Hello. I am Emma. It's nice to meet you."

"Hello. It's nice to meet you too."

They all talked and introduced each other properly. Aunt May was new to all of this. The superhero life so John took special care and showed her around. In the original plot she died so John would like to make sure that she doesn't die in this version of the story.

John even suggested that May could move here and live in the Ring and work for the Umbrella. Peter could continue his studies and be a member of Teen Titans. May replied that she would think about it.

Thus the wedding ceremony started. Surprisingly, Tony gave a very normal speech in this as John expected it to be more like Tony's style. A narcissistic and a mocking one at that.

Later everybody congratulated the couple and had a jolly time together. John went to Thor who was still not in a good mood.

"Hey buddy. Still angry with me?" John asked as he sat near Thor.

"I am not angry at you John. I am just angry at myself. Being so weak. I couldn't even save my father. My sister easily overpowered me. And now I have another sister who is still locked up in the dungeon. Everyday I am living in fear that my brother will be taken away. I feel as if I am losing grip of everything dear to me." Thor said.

"Thor, you had such a long life. Your father was there in every turn guiding you. But you need to understand that it won't always be a bed of roses. Our lives will go through hard paths. Only that will be a true test of character. Your father lost two of his brothers in the battle against Surtur. Did you ever see him mention them? No. It's because he knew bringing those who are dead up would only just give him pain. His brothers sacrificed themselves so that he could live. He was always in pain but he didn't want his pain to be transferred to his loved ones."

"We can't change what has happened but we can change what is to happen." Strange said from the side.

"But we are so powerful. Is our power so insignificant in the grand scheme of things? This God just came and took him away and we couldn't do anything about it." Thor complained.

"Then be powerful. We might not be true Gods. But we can try." John said.

"I don't know if I can ever be a Creator, John."

"True. But Diana in a universe was a creator. So we can always try." John said.

"Huh. Are you serious?" Steve said as he heard them talking about this.

"Yes. Your Diana. That is a whole new Pandora's box. I would rather not talk about it." John said as he remembered his most favorite and terrifying story line of DC comics.

"Hahahha... You both should get married soon. One a creator and another to add moral values to the creation. That would be one fun scene." Tony said as he too heard what John said.

"We aren't there yet." Steve refused.

"Well you both have millennia to share so you both can take your time." John said with a smile. Actually now all of them had longer life spans. Thanks to the Dragon corpse. Banner and the witchers were able to make a potion that would keep them young for centuries. And many of them took a dose of it.

Chapter 337: Upgrade of the system (3)

All had quite a bit of fun the whole day. John had a good time with all. After the debacle with Thanos everybody needed a happy moment. And this wedding was the perfect escape for that. John saw everybody having a good time. He saw Happy trying to flirt with Aunt May. Vision and Wanda holding hands. Steve and Diana dancing to the music. Clint helped his daughter collect signatures from all the Avengers and Teen Titans.

He even saw Banner and Natasha flirting with each other. He was surprised to see Ciri flirting with Damian while raven eyeing her with big eyes. All the Pokemons too joined in this wedding and were playing around.

Most of them became drunk by the end of the ceremony and Guilty Spark had to teleport them to their homes.

The next day Emma left as she had come only to attending the wedding. As John said his goodbye to her, he heard a familiar sound. A sound which he had been praying for such a long time.

[Ding

Total fan values - 30 billion

System upgrade requirement met. Do you wish to upgrade?]

"Hell fking yes."

[Ding

Upgrading 20%.. 50%.. 70%... 90%... 100%

System upgraded.

Do you wish to check the new enhancements?"]

"Yes." John said excitedly.

[Ding

The host can now bring any one piece of equipment free of cost. There are no limitations on the versions of the item or equipment. The equipment can be brought from all the versions that the host has published. Last time the host wanted to get Element X. The host can now get element X as it belongs to the same universe of Bruce Wayne.

The host can now extract the full power of any one character. The last time the host wanted to extract the power of Madara Uchicha. In this new upgrade the host can get all the powers of Madara Uchiha without any restrictions. But the host is warned, this power extraction is only possible for beings which are not universe destroying levels. The powers of characters like Zeno from Dragon Ball aren't possible.

Now the host can summon characters in all of the universe.]

"What the hell! Why are there such restrictions on character power extraction?" John asked.

[Ding

The system isn't of high enough level yet to bring those powers of characters to life.]

"Ok fine. But at least give me access to comic stories to bring a character to life. Like give me DC comics."

[Ding

No. There is no such function of the system.]

"Bulst." John said. John was really looking forward to bringing a comic or manga to life. That would have helped him a lot, but still the system stubbornly insisted on following the motion pictures.

"Sigh. Well I do have equipment in mind that can make me Godlike." John mumbled.

"System, give me the omnitrix with master control and all the alien species together in one." John said. There was one alien species there that would basically make him a God. Even if it wasn't for all the time at least it gave him the leverage.

And that alien species was Celestialsapien.

Alien X.

[Ding

Requirements met. Extracting now.]

And the next moment John had the omnitrix in his hand. He directly wore it on his wrist. This omnitrix was the omniverse version, so it wasn't huge. John didn't hold back and immediately checked if all the aliens were there in it. And he was delighted that all the aliens were present. Including Alien X.

Without anyone to stop him he directly changed to Alien X. The moment he changed all the Celestials, Eternity, Infinity and all the other Gods in different dimensions felt it.

"A new God is born. That also in a universe we just abandoned. Maybe that universe can be saved after all." Arishem mumbled. The other Gods too astonished that a doomed universe was able to get itself a new and unknown God. They tried peering into this new God but they couldn't. It was as if a very powerful power was stopping them to get the location and characteristics of this new God. All the other Gods could tell was that this new God was just born in the doomed universe.

John on the other hand was ecstatic. One of the main reasons was that the other two personalities were under his control so he didn't have to debate. So basically he had full control of Alien X. John again changed back to normal because he needed to ask questions.

"System for how much time I can be transformed to Alien X?" John asked.

[Ding

All other alien transformations can be maintained for a day since the host has the master control. Only Alien X has a time limit of 1 hour. And the recharge time of a depleted omnitrix is half an hour.]

"One hour? This is awesome. I know that I can't face the creator but sure as hell I can give a fight to the celestials." John said out loud.

Chapter 338: Upgrade of the system (4)

"OK now I will have to think about my next character powers. Getting the power of Madara Uchiha in ten tails mode is very tempting. But this time I will take another route. System, extract all the powers of Gilgamesh from Fate series. With the Gate of Babylon being his Noble Phantasm."

Gilgamesh was the Archer class servant of Tokiomi Tohsaka during the fourth holy grail war. He was one of the most overpowered characters in all of anime (according to the author). The character had many powers. His level of charisma was unmatched and he would be incredibly wealthy all his life. He was the King of Babylon so he had a natural aura of a King.

John chose him for primarily two reasons. Enkidu (Chains of Heaven) and Ea (Sword of Rupture). Enkidu, named after his friend, a set of divine chains. The chains are set to bind Gods themselves and it grows stronger against those who are of divine heritage. And second;y, due to Ea. Also known as the "Sword that ripped apart the world," it is the ultimate and final Noble Phantasm contained within the Gate of Babylon and Gilgamesh's most powerful weapon.

Ea's function as a Noble Phantasm, a space cutting attack that shows the "Truth," was initially used as a powerful Nation-Building Authority that separated Heaven and Earth. This sword is said to cut through space-time itself.

And there other reasons why John chose this character was because with this he could fight in war against multiple people and he could solo win against them without using his summons. And of course with the Gate of Babylon he could use all other Noble Phantasms as his treasure includes the prototypes of all Noble Phantasm and he could always use them from a distance like a projectile. The number of weapons in his treasury are said to be immeasurable.

There are other powers of his, like he could look into all possible futures but this power he already had with The Helmet of Fate. All in all, Gilgamesh was one of the coolest and overpowered characters of all anime. Even though John hasn't seen much of the Fate series, whatever he had seen fascinated him a lot.

[Ding

Character power extraction done. The host now has access to the Gate of Babylon and can use all of Gilgamesh's powers at the host's will]

"Awesome." John exclaimed when he got all his powers.

"Wait system, do I have the herb which would have given Gilgamesh immortality?" John asked as he suddenly remembered his search for immortality.

[Ding

Yes. All of Gilgamesh's possessions in his whole life would belong to the host. Even the things which might have been stolen.]

"Cool. Now I can be immortal too." John was more happy. He could feel the change in his body this time. After he had gotten Marco's powers, he didn't feel any change but this was different. John could sense that he had changed fundamentally.

Such huge changes are only felt by him when he is in Fate mode. But here he could feel it normally. His use of magic and he could even sense the Gate of Babylon. He didn't stop and directly summoned some of the weapons.

As he did so behind John, many orange circles opened and from them emerged all kinds of weapons ready to be used or thrown as a projectile. Then John summoned the chains of heaven. And in the same way as the weapons came out from translucent orange colored circles, a golden chain appeared with a spear tip at the front of it. John could easily feel that the chains can be summoned from all directions around him and with that he could easily bind anyone and that too from multiple directions.

"This is so cool. I can feel so much power now that I am half God. No wonder Gilgamesh was always so arrogant. He had all the right to be so." John murmured.

[Ding

The host has extracted all possible free things from the system. Urging the host to work hard]

As he was going through almost unlimited numbers of treasures and weapons in his vault, the spirit of the house came and said.

"Are you alright? I felt a huge sense of power coming out of the room.?"

"Oh yes I am fine. Thanks for the concern. I might be gone for sometime soon. Please do look after the home. Tell Audino that she can go and have fun around with the other Pokemons in the Ring."

"Where are you going? Very far?' The spirit asked, being concerned as she could always feel that John was a little bit stressed recently with all the problems that he had been facing.

"Oh I will be leaving for another universe soon. It won't take long." John smiled and replied.

"Won't it be dangerous?" the spirit asked.

"Danger will be there. But I am more powerful now." John smiled and replied.

Chapter 339: Leaving

"I will be alright. Will probably be back within an year. If I don't I will update you. Don't worry." John said. The spirit nodded her head. John then wore the helmet of Fate and said.

"Avengers. Come to Hall of Justice." His words got echoed on the ears of the all the members of the Avengers.

John then vanished from his spot and appeared again in the Hall of Justice. All the members started appearing in the Hall little by little. And after about 15 minutes everybody had appeared. Tony was last to appear and he looked sleepy.

"John can you stop shouting at my ears every now and then? Some people have other lives too." Tony said. John didn't reply to that and said instead

"I will leaving this universe soon." The moment he said all the sleepiness of Tony was gone and all became incredibly serious.

"Take me with you." Steve said. John shook his head.

"I am not going to take anyone in my first trip. I need to get a hang of the their universe first." John said.

"It will dangerous for you out there." Wayne said.

"It will be but I will handle it myself." John said.

"Are you sure about this?" Banner asked.

"I am." John replied.

"I don't agree. At least take some of us." Tony said.

"Tony, I can't. If I am alone, I can always teleport myself back here with my magic. But if any of you are with me, it will become problematic. I don't know if the other Gods would react of me infiltrating another universe so I can't take the risk. They are pretty moody, well most of them. So I want to test the waters." John said.

"Will you be safe?" Barry asked.

"I will be fine everyone. You don't need to worry. I will come back safe and sound." John replied.

"Will it be a long journey?" Diana asked.

"I am not sure. I will have to check on how the whole situation s out there. I will come back in one piece so don't act like I am going to die or something." John joked. They all smiled at it but some still felt it would be very dangerous bu since John had decided, they couldn't stop him.

"When are you leaving?" Natasha asked.

"Soon. Within a few days. I would notify one last time before I leave." John said.

"Alright. Make your preparations." Wayne said.

"Yes. Well guys I have matters to attend to. Sorry for disturbing you all and bringing you here for such a small matter. I am off then. See you soon." John said.

"Come back safe." Wanda said as all bid goodbye to John. After saying his bye, he vanished from his place. After he left the whole hall became silent.

"We shouldn't have let him go alone in this." Arthur said.

"He wouldn't take anyone even if we wanted to join him. We aren't powerful enough." Hal said.

"Constantine, can't you break the multiverse wall?" Tony asked.

"I can, but there will be consequences. He is the Lord of Order. Only he can do that without any repercussions. I think Strange too can do that, but he wouldn't be able to do it as cleanly as John could do." Constantine said.

"I can break the wall but I will be a normal wizard in other universe. My power comes from the world tree here, which is powered by only this universe." Strange replied.

"Are we still so weak? Damn." Tony said.

"We aren't that weak, but the thing is he has more idea of the multiverse than any of us. We can join him when he goes next time." Wayne said.

"Yes. Alright I am out. Need to sleep a little more." Tony said. The next moment Guilty Spark came and teleported him to his home and so did all the other members.

Many were little sad that John didn't bring any of them with him but they understood that it would be a dangerous journey too. They just wished that John would come back safe later.

John who had vanished from Hall of Justice didn't return back to his home but in an open valley in South Dakota. He had appeared near a house which was deep in the valley and had no neighboring houses nearby. The house had a small barn which had two horses.

A woman was tending to the horses and feeding them. John was looking at the woman who was tending to the horses. He had come a long way to meet her. Before he never had the reason to talk to her but now if he goes for the travel he needed to see how much time he had.

The woman who was feeding the horses felt that someone was nearby so she turned around. She was surprised to see a very recognized face standing little far from him.

Chapter 340: Eternals

"Mr. Jameson. You are way out of your home." the woman said in a half hearted smile. To be honest she feared Jameson. Even though Jameson had never shown his face as an Avenger, it was always presumed that he was one.

She followed the news of the world closely even if she was far away from civilization. And there had always been a mysterious man in the Avengers team. The Phoenix, whom the people thought was Marco. But there was nobody called Marco or even looked like him in the team. So many speculated it was a hidden member and since John had been associated with the Avengers for quite a long time many thought of him as the hidden member.

"I am exactly where I should be Ajak." John replied this time. Yes, John showed up to meet with Ajak, the leader of the Eternals and the only Eternal who could connect with Arishem. Ajak was taken aback that John knew of her actual name. They had all changed the names in official pages as their names might sound really odd to people. They did this to blend in more with the people.

"I don't understand Mr. Jameson. I am not Ajak." she replied.

"You don't understand? Do you want me to bring all the Eternals? What do you think will happen if I call Arishem now?" John said. Ajak almost stumbled when John spoke of Arishem. That was a name they never mentioned in public.

None of the eternals in all courses of history had ever mentioned that name. They might have influenced humanity but made sure they kept the Celestials out of all the lores. But John here mentioned Arishem which meant he knew about everything. She sighed.

She didn't know how much John knew about her and the whole plot of Tiamat, so needed to talk to him very carefully. The humans now don't take the aliens in a very good way.

"How do you know about us?" Ajak asked finally.

"I know a lot. But for now let's go inside and talk. Shall we?" John asked with a smile. Ajak felt relieved inside as she saw John smiling. At least John could be reasoned with, she just hoped John didn't know about the emergence.

"How are the horses?" John asked as she left the horses in the stable. Then joined John and went to the porch of the house. They both sat down on the chair.

"You came all the way to talk about horses?" Ajak asked.

"Well no. I am on a vacation. I will be leaving soon, so I needed to figure my timeline out."

"Oh. Where are you going?" Ajak asked.

"To a different universe." John replied.

"Oh. So there are really different universes out there and the multiverse theory is real?" Ajak replied.

"Of course it is real. Governments can't always hide big things every time." John said.

"Hmm. Well the people in authority don't always tell the truth." Ajak said with a sad tone.

"They don't. You must be quite experienced in this regard. Must be an expert in it." John said.

"I don't understand Mr. Jameson. What do you mean?" Ajak said as she became serious. She had a bad feeling about this.

"You understood me perfectly Ajak. You hid the real purpose of Eternals for centuries. Only Ikkaris knows about the truth. Doesn't he?" John said. Ajak now knew for sure that John here knew of everything. The real purpose of their arrival.

She got scared now. She wasn't actually a fighter like most of them and she was more of a leader. She wasn't sure what John would do now since he knew the truth. She just prayed that it wouldn't turn out ugly.

"How do you know all this? Even your forefathers weren't born when I said to Ikkaris about everything." Ajak asked as there was no point in lying now.

"Didn't I say before? I know a lot. A lot more than you can imagine." John smiled. Ajak has a sad face now.

"So why are you here now? To kill us?" Ajak asked as she clenched her fist. She for sure knew that John was powerful, but she wouldn't go down without a fight.

"That depends on which side you are on." And as they were talking, a Chansey came out of the home with a plate of snacks and juices. John was surprised that Ajak had a Pokemon with her. His butterfly effect was now everywhere.

Ajak after listening to the question looked at Chansey with a loving eyes and said

"I can never leave my sweet little Chansey to die. So no, I will stop the emergence with all my strength. The humans might be bad, but the Pokemons didn't do any harm. They don't deserve such an ending."

John was surprised by that reply. In the actual story she went back on the decision because the people of Earth brought everybody back with the help of Avengers. Ajak after seeing this decided to stop the emergence. But now Thanos hadn't snapped so everybody was alive.