

Multiverse 341

Chapter 341: Ikkaris

"I thought you would support the people of Earth because you like them." John smiled and said.

"Humanity has its own merits. They are arrogant. They think that they are above nature. But there is good in them. Your Avengers have demonstrated that quite a few times now. Making the Earth cleaner, saving people. There is so much potential in humanity. Nothing is perfect in this world. And humanity as a whole embraces that concept."

"True. But all of you won't be approving your stance when the truth comes out." John said.

"They will always listen to me." Ajak said, shaking her head as she was the leader and her command was the last one.

"Ikkaris will kill you." John said while sipping the juice given by Chansey. The juice was really sweet and he was loving it.

"What did you say?" Ajak eyes' went wide when John said that. Her voice croaked.

"You heard me right. He won't support your change of camps and will definitely kill you to stop the others from knowing the truth." John said.

"This is impossible." Ajak said.

"It is what it is, Ajak. When he will listen to your side of the story he won't take it lightly. That is what is supposed to happen." John said.

"You don't know him. He is a soldier. And soldiers listen to orders." Ajak said.

"A soldier that belongs to whom? You? No. He is a soldier who belongs to Arishem. He won't even hesitate to confront Sersi. Forget about you." John said.

"But he has never gone against my orders. Never. In all of thousands of years we have been together. Even on other planets." Ajak said.

"It doesn't matter Ajak. He won't listen. He is a believer of Arishem. A blind believer of a non caring God is a very dangerous thing. Anyway, how much time do we have left for the emergence?" John asked.

"A year or so. I will go and summon the others." Ajak said.

"A year. That is a long time. You don't need to summon them. I will come back to deal with this. Avengers will help you. We can handle the emergence but I want Sersi to handle Tiamat. I have plans for his body. Since they have abandoned this universe, I want to see how Arishem will react."

"Abandoned the universe. What does that mean?" Ajak said.

"Nothing. You will know in due time. But here is a FOCUS that is connected with the Guilty Spark. The moment he attacks you, you can just notify it and Guilty Spark of the Ring will teleport you near my home. Don't confront him. I have very special arrangements for him." John said with a smile.

"No. Please don't hurt him. He has just diverted from his path." Ajak said as she thought John would kill him. He had seen the power of the Avengers in the latest war. Ikkaris wouldn't stand a chance.

"He will get his time to place his ideals. If he is beyond redemption, we will have to put an end to it." John said.

"That is acceptable. But I wish to give him a chance. Since you say he will kill me, I want to see if he does that." Ajak said. Ajak really wanted to give him a chance and see if he could be saved from his false ideals.

"Fair enough. But if he persists, then he will be stopped. But don't put too many coins on your faith. Some people are beyond redemption." John said.

"I understand." Ajak replied.

"Alright then. I am off. I will be back soon. Since I have one year, I don't have much time left. Can't wait to meet Arishem." John said with a chilling smile. He was really waiting to meet Arishem now. John was now on his level and he couldn't wait to see the hypocrite Gods.

"Why do you seem so excited to meet him? He will kill you." Ajak said as she felt weird that John was so eager to meet Arishem. No matter how powerful the Avengers were, they still fell short against the Gods.

"Kill me? Hahaha.. Even I can't kill me. He will get a taste of his own medicine. But that is for the future. See you Ajak in a year or so." John said as he laughed. Ajak felt that John had gone insane. But she had her own thoughts now. She thought John was lying when he said Ikkaris would kill her. He believed in her comrades more than a random guy who just appeared.

But she can't prove that John was wrong. She needed to see it herself, and for that she needed to wait to meet him. She wasn't in contact with him and didn't know how to summon him. So all she could do now is wait.

And pray that whatever John said was a lie, or else it would really go down in an ugly manner.

Chapter 342: Home

"Bye Ajak." John said as he vanished. He was back at his old home. His father's home. It was already evening when John reached New York so he was sure his father would be arriving soon. He needed to talk to his father before he left.

As John knocked on the door, Val opened it.

"Hey Val. It's been some time." John said with a smile.

"John!!" Val exclaimed. John hadn't been home for a long time. Val knew that now John was an Avenger and she couldn't be more proud of him. Even though John never admitted it, she could always feel the person in the golden helmet, the famous Dr. Fate was John.

Now most of the people of the world knew of Dr. Fate. Thanks to the Justice League series. But they were surprised that the Phoenix guy was also Dr. Fate. She couldn't be more proud. She hugged him instantly.

"Hi. How are you?" John asked as they went inside.

"I am fine. How are you John? How is life in the Ring? You haven't come home in such a long time." Val complained a bit. John felt guilt as he really had been paying attention to Earth and all the people here. He needed to be more grounded in reality.

Power had made him a little bit arrogant. Especially now that he had the omnitrix. He remembered the last words of the Ancient One. He felt ashamed that he had been drifting away recently.

He needed to remedy the situation.

"I am sorry Val. I promise I will visit often." John said.

"It's fine. I was just being a nagging old lady. You have your own world now in the Ring. You can't always come back home as you have work." Val said as she felt that he made John feel guilty.

"No. I don't actually work much nowadays. It's just that there had been too many things recently."

"I understand. Mr. Mime, can you bring some snacks for us? Thank you." Val said out loud. John was surprised to see Mr. Mime working at their home. He had sent Vulpix to his father before but he didn't know the whole Mr. Mime thing.

"When did father catch him?" John asked.

"Your dad didn't. I did. I watched the Pokemon series. So I personally went out to catch one for housework. I caught one pretty easily." Val said with a hint of pride as she was able to catch a Pokemon with almost no help.

"That is great. You should be a Pokemon trainer." John said.

"Oh please. I don't have that much energy to fight in tournaments." Val said. And as they were talking John's father finally entered the house opening the door. He had a Vulpix walking beside him.

"Son." Jameson said with a surprised tone.

"Dad. How are you?" John asked with a smile after hugging him.

"After all this time you remember your home?" Jameson asked.

"I am sorry Dad, I have been occupied with so many things." John said.

"Yeah yeah. You and your new Avengers." Jameson said. John just smiled at it but didn't deny it.

"How are you Dad?" John asked.

"I am fine. Thanks to Vulpix here I am happy with my life." Jameson said as he took the Vulpix in his hands. The Pokemon cooed after sitting on his lap. John went and pet him.

"Maybe I should get myself some Pokemons." John mumbled. He never caught any Pokemons because he always felt it wasn't required. All the Pokemon in the world were under his control so it was utterly useless for him. But now that he thought about it he needed some companions in his life. Audino was more like a caretaker of the house instead of being his Pokemon.

"You don't have any Pokemons?" Jameson asked as he heard John's mumbling.

"No. I never got the time. While they went to catch Pokemon I was busy keeping the world clean and making sure that Pokemon's weren't treated badly." John said.

"You should get one. Pokemons is a way of life now." Jameson said as he felt really grateful about the new world. He always felt hollow after he lost his wife, but after Vulpix came into his life he felt really happy and grateful for his life.

"Yeah I should. Maybe I will later." John said. They all started talking about their lives and how everything was going on. Before coming here John decided to just show his face to his father and leave but after meeting them he decided otherwise.

He stayed over at their place for the night. They had a good hearty meal together. Val as usual left early in the evening as she had her own family. So John and his father had a good time talking.

Jameson was just happy to see his son after a long time. Recently he had been thinking of moving to the Ring as John suggested. He could always control the Daily Bugle from there and it would be quite convenient too.

Chapter 343: Departure

The next day early morning as they were having breakfast John said.

"Dad, I will be leaving soon."

"You mean the Ring? Yes. That is fine. We all have work to do." Jameson said as he understood his son has more important matters to attend to. John shook his head at this.

"You mean to the universe? I thought the Avengers didn't have a spaceship that can travel in space." Jameson said, speculating about his son's travel.

"We do have Kryptonian ships for travelling but I am not going into further space." John said.

"You have Kryptonian ships too? Damn." Jameson said. "Wait, if you are not going to space, then where are you going?" Jameson asked with curiosity now.

"I am going to another parallel universe." John said in a low tone.

"What?" Jameson now was surprised. He immediately kept the fork down from his mouth.

"Yes Dad, I will be leaving for another universe. This is a mission I have to take." John said.

"Who else is going with you? I know that you are an Avenger and from the videos I have seen I can almost tell that Dr. Fate is you but why are you taking this journey?" Jameson.

"Wow you did research on the videos too?" John asked with a smile.

"I am an investigative reporter at heart and Avengers is related to my son so of course I will check on it. Now answer me, who else is going with you? Can you even travel into another universe?"

"Yes. Since you know I am Dr. Fate you know that I know magic now. And that magic power is enough for me to travel. For now, I will travel alone."

"That's a no for me. Take someone and go." Jameson refused to let his son go alone.

"Dad. Listen to me. Only I will be safe out there. If anything bad happens I can always come back here instantly. If I take others it will be dangerous. I can escape danger easily. Not others." John said.

"What about this new so-called Sorcerer Supreme? What was his name again Mr. Strange.. Or whatever.. I heard he is good. Take him." Jameson still refused.

"Dad, he is the Sorcerer Supreme of Earth. He always needs to stay here and defend Earth. I don't have such obligations. I will have to travel to another universe. There is no other way." John said with a serious tone.

"Why are you taking this dangerous journey? I don't know if there are other dangers in other universes but our universe has enough."

"Dad, you are not understanding. I will have to take this mission even if I don't want to." John said.

"Is it related to the fight in the Himalayas?" Jameson asked.

"Huh!" John was surprised that his father could even connect to that battle near Kamar-Taj. John then nodded his head at the speculation of his father.

"I knew it." Jameson said.

"How did you guess it?" John asked.

"You Avengers normally do so much fanfare if there are any problems. Especially Tony Stark. But only in that terrifying battle nobody spoke a single word. It was as if that battle never happened. I knew something was fishy in that battle. What happened in that battle? Enemies from another universe? Is that why you are leaving?"

"Enemies? Not exactly. The story is a little more complicated than you think so I would rather not go deep in it. Only thing I can say is that you don't have to worry. I will come back in a year." John reassured his father.

"Do you really not need any backup?"

"Backup would only be a hindrance for me. I will be fine Dad. Don't worry." John said.

"I can't stop you even if I want to. I will just pray that you come back safe. I don't want another Hydra-like debacle." Jameson said, referring to him playing dead during the whole play.

"I will be totally fine. Just wait for me." John said.

"Did you inform Emma?" Jameson asked.

"I will later." John said as he finished his breakfast. Later John called Emma and spoke about his trip. Emma was more understanding than his Dad as she herself was a super powered being so she knew the whole burden of it.

He was happy that Emma was supportive of his journey. Even though she was scared for him, she understood that it was important for this universe.

John after saying his farewells to both his father and Val went to Disney. He would be leaving soon so he needed to sort some of the stories out for them for the rest of the year. After 2 days of directing Disney he was ready to go to Earth - 616. The place where it all began for Marvel.

John then waved his hands and conjured a spell. A gate which looked like an Ankh appeared in front of him.

"Here I come lads." John said to himself.

Chapter 344: A mess

John walked right past the portal. When John left both Thor and Strange felt it. Even though Thor didn't join the meeting when John asked the Avengers, he listened to them from Asgard.

"I hope he comes back safely. Otherwise I will go myself to mess them up." Thor mumbled. He was in the dungeon trying to change the world view of his sister, Angela. Loki too was with him.

"What?" Loki asked.

"John just left. He went to the universe where that Strange came from." Thor said.

"I have a bad feeling about this." Loki said.

"Don't jinx it moron." Thor scolded.

"Not a bad feeling about him but me. I feel like now since John has left, TVA will come for me." Loki said.

"You can't escape your destiny Loki. Think of it this way. You will be in control of such a huge organisation. Rejoice in it." Thor reassured.

"I hope it is true. That Immortus being didn't seem easy to deal with." Loki said in a low tone.

"Brother, be alone for the next few days. He gave you a mission to fulfill. You have no other choice." Thor said.

"Do I look like I have another choice? If I don't, Diana and Steve will be the first one to come for my head." Loki complained.

"You brought this upon yourself brother." Thor said, showing no sign of sympathy to him.

"That's harsh brother." Loki said. Thor just shrugged his shoulders.

Strange on the other hand just used his FOCUS to convey the message that John had left. Everybody sighed when they heard it. They were trying their best and so was John.

"I need to research more on Anti-Metal. Ryan, can we do what I just suggested with Anti-Metal?" Tony asked.

"Theoretically it's possible. But my calculations tell me that it will be highly unstable." Ryan who was working with Tony said.

"That will be our main worry. We will have to make the new element stable. Arthur, we need your expertise." Tony said as he connected the Aquaman. Arthur came after a few minutes and Tony suggested his new ideas on Anti-Metal.

Arthur too got interested now. He had so many ideas that he could work upon with this new theory that Tony just suggested. All the three started working upon it.

Banner was researching on Pokemons now. He felt that with the emergence of them he could more easily control his Hulk state. Thus almost all the members started working on their own thing or hone their skills.

They all wanted to be ready and improve more when John returns back.

Earth - 616

John wasn't sure where he should show up so he just chose a random building in New York when he walked out of the portal. John wasn't sure what was going on on this Earth as his awareness was multiversal. As John walked out and on the roof of a building he saw a huge poster on the roof in the opposite building.

His eyes went wide when he saw the content on the poster. Never in his life nor in his wildest dreams he could have imagined that he would see such a grand poster of a person who he never thought liked all of these things,

It was a poster of Peter Parker!!!

Peter Parker and Gwen Stacy!!

With their son!!

"What the hell! A son? Peter has a daughter but that is in a different universe and that is even on the 8th iteration of the multiverse. What the fk is going on? Strange, what the hell did you do?" John exclaimed.

John spread his cosmic awareness across the planet. And what he saw blew his mind. The heroes and powered beings are the majority. The mutants were the dominant race. And humans were less than 40%.

The powered beings were termed as homo superior.

And they were there in all major institutions essentially controlling the whole planet. The mutants could be said as the most dominant race now and the superheroes like the Avengers also supported them.

John had a bad feeling when he sensed this. It took him some time to digest what he just felt. He couldn't see everything but he could sense it, so he wasn't sure why the story of Earth was upside down.

As he was contemplating on the changed world that he had expected he saw several humanoid beings flying in the air and coming in his direction. At closer glance John could figure out they were massive robots, almost twice the size of normal human beings.

John, when saw the robots up close, a movie came to his mind.

X-men - Days of Future Past

And yes those massive robots were the Sentinels, the robots who were sent to wipe out the mutants in that story. And these robots looked exactly like them. Black shiny exterior with same menacing look.

Chapter 345: An upside down world

Total of six sentinels flew to his place where he was standing. Even a plane flew over near the rooftop where John stood. The six sentinels stood circling around John but they didn't shoot. They just stood stoically.

The plane which was hovering few metres above the rooftop opened it's hangar. And from inside 4 people came out jumping on the rooftop. John's eyes squinted when he saw the four.

They were Mystique (from X - men, other alias - Raven), Rogue (old X - men movies, she can absorb life force and was a major story plot surrounding her in the first movies), Nightcrawler (from X - men, this guy can teleport to many places) and Jessica Drew (the spider woman, do I need to say more about her? her alias itself is explanatory enough). John knew all of them, thanks to previous movies and comics. Even though he couldn't remember everyone of them, with so many superheroes, he tried to remember the notable and influential ones.

And after becoming a half god, his brain worked more faster and efficient now. He could essentially remember everything and compute the best possible outcome in a matter of seconds.

"Hey folks, why all this fan fare?" John said with a mild tone. He needed to understand the world and since these people came looking for him he could directly ask them. They couldn't hurt him even if they tried now.

He had taken the herb of immortality before arriving to this earth so he was basically un-killable now.

The four new people who were in military standard suit looked at him. This was another point which puzzled John. X- men never had same suit for everybody. All had their own suits to fit their own needs. But here all wore a suit which looked like the ones Avengers wore during time travel.

"On behalf of Lord Magnus orders, we are here to take you away, invader." Mystique said after pointing her gun at John.

"Invader? Wait no. I am no invader. I am just here to for some matters." John protested.

"Liar. You are an invader from another world. You are under arrest." Jessica said as she too took out her guns and pointed at John. Now even the Sentinels who were standing around used their palms and pointed at John. Their palms were shining, stating that it was almost the same as Tony's hand thrusters.

"Guys why do you do this? I hate confrontation." John mumbled and the moment he said that all around orange circles started to appear all around them encompassing the sentinels and the 4 'X-men'.

And the next moment various spears and weird looking long weapons came out as projectile in fast speeds. And those weapons stabbed the Sentinels from all sides. The weapons were so long that they went in from one side of their bodies and came out from other sides.

The sentinels became immediately immovable after this. John could have exploded them with his weapons but he chose not to. The explosions would just create more chaos around. There was enough chaos in the world as it was now.

The four people who saw all this got scared and without any warnings Mystique and Jessica shot at John. Their guns were of laser tech so the bullets went straight through John.

But then what they saw made them trembled. The holes created by their bullets healed themselves in rapid speed. The speed was more fast than Wolverine's healing.

"You know the last people who pointed their guns at me were killed brutally and their souls were used as fuels to give me more power." John said in a calm tone. And as John said that golden chains came out from all sides chaining the 4 people, including the nightcrawler. The chains came out as the same way as the weapons.

From weird orange colored round membrane. But the chains were different, they emerged from all sides making everyone immovable.

Nightcrawler who saw himself chained smiled at this and teleported. But in the next scene he saw he was in the same place, being chained. Nightcrawler looked dumbfounded. He couldn't believe that he was struck in the same place. He tried teleporting again but failed.

"Nightcrawler. These chains were made to stop Gods on their tracks and chains the very fabric of space. You can never escape them, you can't even move a finger without my permission." John said.

"Now can we talk?" John asked as he sat down opposite to them.

"You just proved that you are an Invader as we have never seen such way of fighting ever. Lord Magnus will send his fleet and you will die for going against his orders." Rogue said.

"Invader? I am just a Avenger from another parallel universe. Here on a totally different matter. Why will I care for a Earth who likes to act all high and mighty."

Chapter 346: The whole story

"What do you want from us? Hold us ransom? SHIELD never negotiates with terrorists and neither will Lord Magnus. SHIELD will come soon to beat your a." Jessica said in a loud tone.

"SHIELD? You all belong to SHIELD?" John asked. He didn't care if all of SHIELD was coming for him. He had nigh godlike powers to make the whole of Earth vanish if he wished to. But of course there were conditions for that and it would have repercussions which would echo on the multiverse.

"We are all official members of SHIELD. You have no place to hide." the Nightcrawler said with a hint of pride. His tone meant that he felt immense pride working for SHIELD.

"What the hell is wrong with this world? Why is it so upside down? X-men belonging to SHIELD. New branch of humans. And then there is this Lord Magnus. Wait! Magnus? You all mean like Erik Magnus?" John asked as he suddenly had a revelation. His memories went through a special story line. A story line which changed all of Marvel.

"Of course it is Lord Erik Magnus. Who else will it be? The King of mutants and all homo superior. Invader you have the audacity to play dumb with us after all this. " Mystique said.

"Where is Professor X?" John asked this time as was kind of sure now of what was going on.

"Charles Xavier died years ago." Jessica said as she felt this new invader really might not know what was going. If this guy with a weird helmet was acting then he was doing too perfect of a job.

"No wonder this world is upside down. No wonder you all belong to SHIELD. Now this is going to be so interesting." John now said with a smile. He now knew why the world was this.

It was one of the most interesting and sad stories that changed their universe forever. This famous story ended with those famous lines.

"No more mutants."

And John was at the cusp of the story. Even though John loved this story it was a tragic one nonetheless. John's eyes shined when he thought of what he could do here. Strange of this universe once went to his place and rampaged around.

Now, it was his turn. But John was confused too. Strange was supposed to be all powerful in this universe. He shouldn't have let this happen.

He needed to get to the bottom of this. The whole mystery of Strange in this regard was baffling to him. As he was thinking, new sentinels and 3 more quinjets were coming to his place. John sighed seeing this as he felt he was being vindicated for no crime.

"I am fine with whatever you want to do here, but I don't like being hunted down for no crimes." John said in a stern tone. He was ready to retaliate but the world had other plans for him.

As the sentinels were approaching, a man on a huge black cloak appeared out of nowhere. And before John could say something the cloak of the man covered him. And the next moment they both vanished.

The chains that were holding down the 4 mutants and the weapons that made the sentinels stop vanished too. After the disappearance of the weapons from the body of the sentinels, they exploded while Nightcrawler was able to take the other three and teleport away to another building.

"Who the hell was that? I have never seen such a person wearing a golden helmet. His rate of healing can even put Wolverine to shame." Rogue said as they heaved in relief after getting away from the chains.

"I don't know. We are just following orders but he sure as hell is a tough nut to crack. Those chains are not to be trifled with." Nightcrawler said as he really felt scared after being held down by the golden chains. His main power of teleportation seemed useless in front of him.

"We need to inform SHIELD and Lord Magnus that we have failed this mission. He has been taken away by the Resistance. We need to move fast. This invader isn't simple like the small group of Resistance."

"Agreed. We can't take him lightly. He has a very weird way of using weapons. I have never seen any mutation from anyone with such weird powers." Jessica said.

Two more quinjets of SHIELD arrived and from the hangar emerged two new X-men. Scott Summers (Cyclops from X- men movies) and Emma Frost (White Queen X - men First class, she was the woman who could turn herself to diamond and had immense telepathic powers).

"You both look like you met a very tough opponent." Scott said who wore red glasses as usual instead of wearing the X-men attire.

"Because he was. He was way too powerful for all of us. He decimated the sentinels like it was nothing. And had healing powers far surpassing Wolverine. We need to get him back." Rogue said.

Chapter 347: The Resistance

John on the other hand who had just disappeared with a guy was now in a huge room. This room was dark but there was enough light to see that there were people present in the room. John could see several figures clearly.

And surprisingly he knew some of the figures present in the room. There was

Luke Cage (from marvel Netflix series, his powers consist of tough skin. It is said that no bullet could penetrate his body. He was a result of experimentation).

Hawkeye.

Moon Knight (new marvel series of a man who has multiple personalities and his powers comes from the Egyptian God Khonsu. You can watch the upcoming series to know more about him).

Mockingbird (An agent of SHIELD from Agents of SHIELD tv series but recently in the Hawkeye series it is said that the wife of Hawkeye is the Mockingbird) and also some faces who John didn't have any idea about.

And then he saw the person who brought him here. A man who wore a black cloak over his body. After looking at him closely John knew who he was.

Cloak (From marvel cloak and dagger series. His powers come from dark dimension. Not the same dark dimension as Dormammu. He has enhanced strength, phasing powers like Vision and teleportation).

But what really looked odd to his eyes was the costume of Clint. It was ridiculous to say the least. John thought when he read the comics that the portrayal of Hawkeye in that ridiculous suit was just a mockery. But now when he saw this, the universe just mocked John in return. John wanted to cry after seeing such a costume.

Clint on the other hand took out his bow and arrow and pointed at John.

"Oye Legolas. It was this guy who brought me here. Why are you pointing arrows at me? I am the victim here. Is that how you treat victims?" John said pointing at Cloak

"I didn't bring you. It was him who brought you here. You are under our hands now." Clint said.

"Seriously, your costume is already nauseating for me." John mumbled and then a spear appeared behind him. Before Hawkeye could process how a spear appeared out of nowhere it travelled in fast speed and hit his bow. The force was so huge it threw the bow away from his hand.

Luke Cage and others immediately got vigilant when that spear stuck Clint's bow. And the spear that was stuck crumbled into dust before vanishing.

Everyone couldn't even understand what just happened. Surprisingly it was Cloak who didn't mean to take any action.

"Cloak, who in God's name did you bring? Why is he here?" Luke asked.

"He soloed 4 high level Agents of SHIELD and 4 sentinels like it was nothing. And I felt he could help us. So I brought him here." Cloak said in a mild tone.

Clint, who had just lost his bow, took out his knife. He ran to John to tackle him only to hit a transparent shield. His face got plastered on the shield and it looked funny. This shield too was one of the weapons on John's Gate of Babylon.

"Clint, can you stop with your ridiculous behavior? You are making the Resistance look bad." John said as he went and sat on a nearby chair. Luke and others just looked at all of this. They didn't go and tackle

John because from the movement of the spear they could tell that John could have killed Clint easily but he chose not to do so.

Even though Cloak just said that he won by a margin against the high level of SHIELD agents, it wasn't satisfactory enough for this new person who they haven't seen the face of the person.

Luke, who was the leader of the Avengers, now feared that his new person was a spy of SHIELD and whatever Cloak saw was just theatrics. But he knew that if John was a spy it was already too late. Cloak had already brought him and Sentinels would be coming any moment.

"Avengers, secure the perimeter. Cloak, Clint, Mark. We need to take this guy down. He is probably a spy." Luke said. They hadn't been able to process what just happened and he was a little pissed off by seeing the non nonchalance of John.

John who just got to sit on the chair heard this.

"What the hell is wrong with you all? Are you guys dumb or something? If I was a spy do you think you all would have survived? Jesus! I just came to this universe and all I am listening to is me being an invader, a spy, a liar... Where are the good men? Can't a man just sit in peace?" John said.

"It was Cloak who brought me here, not the other way round. I could have easily survived their onslaught and maybe just make the SHIELD vanish from the Earth for good. Trust me, almost no power on Earth can defeat me if I really wanted to. Instead of focusing on me you should focus on your own team. Your team is so small that SHIELD doesn't even care about you."

"That moment when you see a move that I portrayed in the book has been used in the movie. Got to say that it did 'put a smile on my face'"

Watch the movie. It's good!!

Chapter 348: The Resistance (2)

"I am sorry we can't take the risk. Even if you are innocent we need to take you down. And then we can figure out what is going on. Cloak is a dumb guy." Luke said as he went to punch John. John who saw this sighed. He really didn't get peace after coming to this universe. First it was 'SHIELD' and now the Resistance.

The Resistance were a group of superheroes who weren't mutated like the other homo superior. Since homo sapiens were on the lesser number they were discriminated against by homo superior. It was a matter of racism. And the Resistance was built on the sole fact to combat this oppression.

As many people ran to tackle John, chains started appearing from all sides. They immediately chained down all who were trying to take down John. All the members of the Resistance couldn't even move an inch. In all of this John just sat and watched. He felt the resistance was really dumb.

He expected more from them. Especially when they had Moon Knight. He was the representative of a God. There was no coherence in the team. Everybody looked detached and seemed like they did their own thing. This was proven by the fact that Cloak brought someone without even consulting the team.

But in all of this only Cloak didn't attack John. He just stood there and watched his comrades being chained by John, like he did with the mutants of SHIELD.

John who was sitting said "Now can you all calm down and talk?"

"What the fk is this?" Clint screamed. First it was his bow, then he got plastered on a transparent shield and now these chains. He felt like this new guy was his born nemesis.

"These are the chains of Heaven. Built to constrain Gods." John replied as he removed his helmet. As he removed his helmet, his Dr. Fate attire vanished and he was back like a normal person.

"Sometimes it feels suffocating inside the helmet. By the way, I am John Jameson. Son of J Jonah Jameson. But there is a catch. I belong to another universe. I came here in search of someone but now when I look at this world I feel like laughing." John smiled with a wide grin.

"See Cloak, he is a spy. Why don't you attack him? Only you are powerful enough to stop him." Luke said as he saw with hope in his eyes at Cloak but Cloak still didn't move. It was as if he never listened to Luke.

"Stop it Cage. If I was a spy don't you think I would have killed you by now. You have already noticed that you can't break out of the chains. Can you all just calm down?" John said.

"If you aren't a spy then how do you know our names?" Moon Knight asked. He was probably the most intelligent guy in the group.

"Didn't I just say I come from another parallel universe? There too we have our own Moon Knight, Marc Spector." John said.

"Sh*t he really does know of my other identity." Marc mumbled.

"I know most of you. Luke Cage. Clint Barton. Barbara Morse. Do you want me to continue?" John said.

"If what you say is true, that you come from another parallel universe. How do we trust you?" Cloak spoke out for the first time.

"Trust me? Hahahaha... That's the funniest thing I heard. You can never trust me. Not after what this universe tried to pull on us 2 years ago." John said with a stern tone.

"So you can't help us?" Luke asked as he calmed down a bit. Even though he didn't believe John he needed to get out of the chains first. He needed to fake himself to make this new guy believe. He ignored the fact that John just mentioned about his universe being attacked.

"Help? Sure I can show you some directions in this small Resistance that you have built. But nothing more. I have more important matters to attend to than babysitting someone who just lost her imaginary children." John said and then he removed the chains.

All were surprised that John just removed the chains. Even though they didn't understand how the powers of John worked but the chains alone suffocated them. Many were skeptical about this move from John.

"This is a sign of good faith. I will say this one last time. I am not a spy. I am just a traveller. Wrong place, wrong time. Don't come at me again. I don't like being irritated. If I was a spy the Sentinels would have come by now. So stop with your measly shenanigans."

"We believe you." Moon knight said.

"I don't." Clint said as he again took his bow on his hands which was thrown off in a distance.

Chapter 349: The prelude

"I don't care if you don't Clint." John said. Luke went and stopped him. He understood that John really was powerful enough to stop them and didn't need to put up such a huge farce to catch them. Those chains and the no attack policy of Cloak seemed to have proven that. Cloak was dumb but not that dumb.

"Why are you here? You said you come from another universe. Is there any purpose?" Mockingbird asked. She finally opened her mouth. John thought that she was mute.

"Purpose? Yes. But that will come later. Your story is more interesting to me now. So I will just watch while everything in this world crumbles. That will be so much fun." John said, showing his white teeth. He really felt good about it.

This world had changed because Scarlet Witch, daughter of Erik Magnus, willed it so. The name of Erik might not be popular but his codename was.

Magneto.

This world had changed because Wanda lost her hold of sanity after losing her imaginary children which she made after changing the reality and thus she changed the world. She was a Nexus being. (Nexus Beings are rare individual entities with the ability to affect probability and thus the future, thereby altering the flow of the Universal Time Stream. In other words they are watched by the TVA.)

Wanda made this world after letting people fulfil their wishes. That was why the world was so upside down. Many people wished to have super powers and thus now there was a totally new species around. The homo superior.

Peter Parker wanted to be famous. Have a good and married life. Thus here he was a celebrity. And even his Uncle was alive. Wanda had enough power to bring dead people to life. This was the reason why Clint was alive who was killed before by the actions of Wanda.

Before she blamed the Avengers and the mutants for her loss of children. She thought the Avengers took her children away from her. And thus due to her rage many Avengers before flipped and rioted without any signs or indications.

In all of the riots which happened between the members of the Avengers, Scott Lang and Clint Barton died. Clint was dead when Kree showed up to attack. The Avengers were confused as to why this was happening and finally Doctor Strange came and found out the reason for severe attacks between members of Avengers and the mutants.

The culprit was Scarlet Witch.

So he went to calm her down. With magic Strange held her powers deep inside her mind. But when men tend to play God, the Gods tend to hit them back more severely.

After some time Wanda started losing her sanity again, so all the members of the Avengers and mutants including her own father decided to kill her. But before they could go and finish her, the world changed.

She changed everything. She fulfilled all of people's wishes. Well, most of them. Erik wanted to rule the mutants and so he was the Lord of them. But since he wished that Charles Xavier was dead.

Every wish had consequences. Nothing comes free in this world. While the homo superior thrived, the homo sapiens suffered. John knew the future plot too and he couldn't wait to show this world how hypocrites they were. He wanted to show the Gods of the multiverse how big of hypocrites they were.

"So you are a sadist." Clint commented. He calmed down but he still had his bow in his hands.

"You don't get to judge when a member of your own team came after us with the intent of destroying our universe. For all I know you are more sadistic than me Clint. That ridiculous outfit should itself be a crime." John said and the next moment Clint's whole attire changed to a modern one.

John changed the attire of Clint by using one of the main suits he had in his Gate of Babylon. He really wasn't able to look at Clint with his purple iconic attire.

"What the... What is this?" Clint said as he saw his new outfit.

"Your new suit. It's better than your previous one. Can even protect you from explosions. But that doesn't mean you will catch a nuclear bomb. It can only stop small explosions. You are welcome." John said. Everybody was surprised by seeing such a move from John.

They didn't expect someone who just chained them to give them gifts.

"See I am not a sadist. I am just a watcher of sorts for you." John said as he mumbled sorry in his mind to Uatu. He was sure Uatu was watching all of this.

"You just said a member of our team went to destroy your universe. We don't even have any such powerful members. If we had, we would have taken down SHIELD already." Cloak said.

"It's because this world is upside down. You will understand my words later. But for now tell me where is Layla Miller?"

Chapter 350: Logan

Everybody's eyes went wide when John said the name. It was as if they were struck by lightning.

"How.. How.. How do you know that name?" Luke asked, trembling.

"So she did pass by. Good, bring her here. We need to talk." John ordered.

"Why should we bring a young child here? So that you can torture her?" Barabara asked.

"Do I look like a paedophile to you? Stop with your disbelieving nature. I told you, if I wanted to hurt you, you would have been dead a thousand times. Bring her. I am sure you all have questions about her too. Yes?" John asked.

"How do you know all this?" Moon Knight asked as they were confused with this small girl who showed up at their doorstep yesterday night. The things which she said felt pretty confusing to them.

"I know a lot. You past, your present and even your future to some extent." John smiled and said.

"Bring her. Since he says that he can answer our questions about her, let her face it." Cloak said. A member of the Resistance went out and brought her after a minute or so.

The girl looked like 11-12 years old. Was blonde and she tied her hair from behind. She had a doll in her hand. She was shy so she put her head down. John got up from his seat and bent down to touch her head.

"Hello Layla." John said.

"uhhh.. hiii..." Layla replied in a meek manner. Updated from novelb(i)n.c(o)m

"I am John Jameson. It's nice to meet you. Do you want a candy?" John introduced himself. He wanted to make the kid as comfortable as possible. So he brought out candies.

"Nice to meet you too." Layla now had a smile as she took the candies from his hands. She put them one in her mouth and her smile became bigger. She really loved the candy that John just gave.

"So Layla, what did you tell these grown ups?" John asked finally.

"I said that this world is a fake one. It's not true. This world shouldn't be like that. But none of them believed me." Layla said with almost tears in her eyes. John looked at her with sadness. She was a mutant but was an orphan.

She was the fail-safe of Scarlet Witch if anything went wrong. It was because of this that she knew everything from the original world. And she knew that this world wasn't supposed to be like this.

"It's okay Layla I believe you." John said.

"Really?" Layla said with almost a twinkle on her eyes.

"Yes. I believe you even if others don't. Now we both know that this world isn't what it is supposed to be." John said. The other members who were listening to the conversation were confused now.

The girl told them that this world wasn't real and was not what it was supposed to be. But they didn't believe her. But since she showed up on the doorstep they couldn't turn away for security reasons, so they let her stay in a separate room.

"Are you crazy or something? What do you mean by this world isn't what it is supposed to be." Clint said as now all were curious about this. John didn't reply to her but instead said

"Cloak, you should roam around the city. I am sure Logan will be causing havoc all around. Bring him. And yes, take out the chip from his body. You don't want sentinels to come after you." John said.

"Are we listening to his orders now?" Clint said.

"Clint, don't get on my nerves. This is the last warning." John said with a stern tone to him. Clint hearing this clenched his jaw tighter but didn't rebuke John.

"Why should Cloak go and bring him here? He is a very high level agent of SHIELD." Luke asked instead. He wasn't sure why John spoke of Wolverine but he was curious.

"Because he is on your side! Go Cloak. The way you 'rescued' me, you can do the same for him. Just make sure of the microchip. You will understand why I said so after you go out. Be careful though." John said.

"What Wolverine is on our side? What a joke. A mutant will never side with us." Barbara said.

"They don't. But as Layla said, this world isn't supposed to be like this. Layla knows. And Logan knows too. Go bring him. He can't fight the SHIELD alone." John said. Cloak then nodded and vanished from his place.

"This is dangerous. We are playing with fire." Barbara mumbled.

"You were already playing with fire the moment Cloak decided to bring me here." John replied.

"And to be honest your team isn't much of a Resistance. So few members and you will just die out there. Why not try something else. Layla, do you want to eat something? I am sure you are hungry."