

Multiverse 61

Chapter 61: A brilliant idea

After the trailer went out John was relieved to see that there was a proper response from the audience and he was looking forward to its release on February of 2010. Before the release, for the post production John went to the headquarters. The days of John recently have become boring.

Apart from exchanging frequent calls and texts with Emma he was bored out of his mind. To remove his boredom he even went to a short vacation in Australia to see if there were any ideas which could boost his yearly fan value earning. But sadly he was stuck.

"How is the production going on the new superhero movie?" John asked Kevin in the meeting. "Has there been any problems?"

"No Boss everything is fine." Kevin replied.

"Boss after years of animation making I was thinking if we could make a theme park based on the animated movies. We can buy a huge plot and make theme rides and other attractions" Bob said in a low voice at the end.

"A Disney park? Sure. Why not" John said without thinking but then suddenly an idea stuck his head. "St. How could I forget this? Damn I have been a dumb guy. " John almost shouted. All the people in the room was scared by his sudden outburst.

"Bob give me a pen and paper. I will write a new script for you. This upcoming movie will take our company to new heights" John said with confidence. After writing a good few minutes about the general outline of the movie he gave it to Bob to read.

Kevin too joined in reading and the story surprised everybody as it was totally a new kind of movie. Bob was excited to try this new adventure.

"Make it done by next year. The VFX must be as realistic as possible. I will give a better well written script later." John said and got up for the meeting. John wanted to bring a new and cheap world. But a world that could influence a lot and raise his fan values.

He went directly to Stark Tower as he had to do proper rituals for this new world. After arriving he went to the laboratory where Tony and Bruce were working on new armor. John could already guess what the new armor will be. Tony's armor in Avengers movie, Mark VII.

"Hey Tony I need your help. We need to buy an island." John said directly to Tony.

"Island? What do we need an island for?" Tony said skeptically. Bruce too heard about it and joined.

"Because a new world is going to merge and we can commercialize it. I have already given a movie script to it. People are going to love it." John said with excitement.

"New world? Like Naruto's? Won't it be dangerous?" Tony said. Tony had some fear when it came to Naruto's world. He still didn't have any idea of how he would face the Kage's level.

"No Tony it will be fine. With your help and technology we can control this new world with our own hands. Buy an island which is away from mainland and make sure we have full rights of the island with no country interfering." John said.

"Sure but what is this new world about?" Tony asked again.

"A world of dinosaurs!!" John said with a huge smile.

"What? Dinosaurs? Won't humanity be in danger due to it." Tony exclaimed.

"No Tony the world which the dinosaurs will come from is a modern world. People in that world have made huge advancement in gene technology and were able to make dinosaurs with just using the genes of old dinosaurs and putting it into animals. They made a theme park out of it. We can make one too" John said.

"From gene technology to making dinosaurs? That's a new idea. Would love to go through this new technology." Tony said with gleam in his eyes.

"We should make sure that the island is safe. Having a millions years of old era will come with conditions. We will have to balance the ecology" Bruce finally said after listening to the conversation.

"That is for sure. We will need biologists. If only Bruce Banner was around. I will tell Pepper to do necessary arrangements. I heard there will be a space sci-fi movie soon. Will that world come too?" tony said after calming down.

"The space movie? Well not for now but some random technology might arrive. I will be in the lookout." John said after thinking. The new sci-fi movie was arriving at the end of the year. Tony too was looking forward to any new technology that might arrive as John suggested.

John went back home after discussing the plans for the theme park. Pepper too joined the meeting and everybody pitched their ideas of how to control the dinosaurs and number of people that will be required. Everybody was excited for seeing dinosaurs in real life. Even though John said that it will take quite a bit of time for their merge, almost all were excitedly waiting for it.

This chapter is updated by (f)reeweb(n)ovel.com

Chapter 62: The movie

The Dark Knight was finally released on December 22nd, 2009. And everybody known to John was called for the premiere. This time the premiere was held in New York instead of LA. John even invited Emma and the main crew of Harry Potter but they were busy with their shooting of Deathly Hollows. So they had to reject at the end.

John thought it was a pity but didn't pay much heed. Now almost everyday he and Emma exchanged video calls. John really felt he was the luckiest person alive as the relationship between him and Emma was progressing steadily and they actually had many things in common.

Tony and Bruce too came for the movie and sat beside him in the theater. The movie began. Several masked men appeared on the big screen, in everyone's field of vision. With a few simple exchanges everyone knew that this was a group of robbers, and the only person named, the Joker, is the planner of the robbery.

In the eyes of other robbers, this was a guy who sat high up. In other words, the clown was not among these people. The robbery went smoothly. Dare to plan the robbery of the gang bank, revealed the madness of the clown. In the process of unlocking.

"Where is the kid who broke the alarm?" said one robber in clown mask.

"The boss said, after he got it done, finish him off! One less person to divide the money, right?" said the other guy.

"It's a coincidence, he said the same to me!"

"What? No! No!"

boom! Companions cannibalized each other! Bags of money were taken to the gate. The robber who had killed before took the gun and pointed at the only other accomplice.

"The clown told you that after the money is filled, you need to kill me! Right! One less person to divide the money, right?"

"No, no, he asked me to kill the bus driver."

"Bus? What bus driver?"

As soon as the voice fell, a bus crashed into the bank gate, knocking the talking robber out.

"This guy looks out of breath, it's time to go!" said the last guy left to the bus driver.

"What about the rest?"

The bus driver jumped out of the car and looked around in surprise, not at all ashamed of killing a companion. The remaining robber shot without hesitation and killed the bus driver.

"Do you think you are smart?" said the bank manager who was shot before because he tried to be a hero. He was laying on the ground unable to move.

"The people who pay for you will make you end up like them..."

"The former bad guys were very principled, honorable, respectful..."

"Look at you, what do you believe in?"

Hearing this, the robber looked at the man curled up on the ground, strolling in front of him and squatting down, looking directly into his eyes, and slowly said

"I believe whatever doesn't kill you, simply makes you.. "

"Stranger!"

He took off the mask, his green hair scattered around his ears, revealing the face of a circus Joker, his skin was pale, his mouth was painted with big red lipstick, and the corners of his mouth had deep, knife-cut scars. The Joker appeared.

Everyone in front of the big screen was slightly taken aback. Everyone realized that this clown should be the villain that Batman will deal with in The Dark Knight.

However, now it seems that the clown does not have any extraordinary abilities! Compared with the previous villain, the master of Batman, and the master of assassins, the Joker is more insidious and cunning, and seems unable to pose any threat to Batman.

The long-lost Batman finally came out. In a drugs trade, the Batman in the movie was like a hunter, driving a Batmobile and sweeping all the bad guys.

Director Gordon appeared, went to the robbed gang bank, and walked into the vault. After a few words with the assistant, Batman appeared beside them. Gordon sent his assistant away and showed Batman the picture of the Joker.

"It's him again?" Batman's tone was low. "Who else?"

"A gang of mobs." Gordon replied.

During their exchanges, another character appeared, the newly appointed prosecutor. Harvey Dent. He and Batman's childhood sweetheart Rachel became a couple.

Harvey had always admired Batman and hoped to take this responsibility from Batman. The police and prosecutors seized the bank with traceable banknotes, only to find themselves being mocked.

In the party of gangsters, the joker once again appeared with a proposal but was mocked instead. The guy in charge of money laundering fled back to Hong Kong, and after discussing with Gordon and Harvey, Batman decided to go to Hong Kong to capture this guy.

With brand-new equipment, jumped from a high building. The hang gliding wings spread out, flying around the building, like a real bat.

"Wow Bruce you and him have so much similarity with the batsuit" Tony laughed as he said to Bruce in a hushed tone. Bruce didn't say anything.

Finally the Joker took action. The Joker's conspiracy against Batman also began to show up in front of everyone. The body of a man posing as Batman was hung at the window of the DA's office building.

At the same time, a video was posted on the Internet.

"...Do you think Batman makes Gotham better?"

"Look, this is how crazy Batman made Gotham!"

"Batman must take off his mask and surrender. As long as he doesn't surrender, someone will die every day. I am a man of my word...hahahaha!"

The audience felt chills when they heard the laughter of the clown. They finally realized the horror of the clown. This was a lunatic who is distorted enough in his heart to completely ignore order and social morality.

At the political fundraising party organized by Bruce Wayne about the new prosecutor, Harvey Dent, the Joker appeared again and even had a confrontation with Batman.

Under the leadership of the Joker, the villains of Gotham City united, and Batman was gradually forced into desperation. The main theme of this film also began to show up in front of all audiences.

In the movie, people realized that power wasn't everything. Some people just wanted to watch the world burn. He was a special villain, not interested in logical things, such as money. Buying, threats, reasoning, and negotiation all do not work. The Joker was just for fun.

The appearance of Batman made him feel that he had found the best object of fun.

In the movie Harvey used himself as a bait, hoping to catch the Joker. He succeeded! The Joker was arrested by the police and Batman. Then at night Gordon received a call that Harvey was missing.

He immediately went to the prison and found the Joker, and Batman arrived at the same time. Here is what the audience is most looking forward to. Batman and Joker's head-to-head confrontation!

"You want to see me, I'm here!"

Batman punched the table in front of the Joker, giving the Joker a warning first.

"I want to see what you are going to do, you really did not let me down... Batman, you let 5 people die because of you, and then let Harvey Dent take the blame for you, even in the eyes of people like me, It's too cold-blooded!"

The Joker was talking, but was forcibly interrupted by the impatient Batman.

"Where is Harvey?"

"There is no turning back, you changed everything!"

The Joker laughed, madly "You, you complete me!"

Chapter 63: A new superhero

Batman asked about the location of Harvey in a threatening voice and Joker gave a choice of saving Rachel or Harvey. Batman chose Harvey to save while Gordon went for Rachel. But Gordon was not able to save Rachel. Joker in the meantime managed to escape from prison.

Harvey whose half of the face was burnt was found by Joker and pushed him into insanity. Harvey went insane and started hunting all people who weren't able to save Rachel and who colluded with the gang and did bad things. Even Batman himself crossed ethical lines and hacked into every mobile to find the location of Joker. At the end Joker played a game again. A choice was given to two boats, one with civilian and other with prisoners. They had to blow the other boat with a switch because if they didn't joker would blow them up instead.

And Joker for the first time failed to manipulate the people and was caught by Batman. In the other scene Harvey caught the family of Gordon. When Harvey was going to kill Gordon, Batman came and killed Harvey.

"We need to say the truth to people of Harvey" Gordon said to Batman.

"No. Harvey will remain an image of justice. I will bear the burden of crime" Batman said without any hesitation.

"But you will be hunted down." Gordon said.

"I am not a hero. I am whatever Gotham needs me to be. Sometimes truth isn't good enough." Batman said and ran away. People finally understood why the movie was named as Dark Knight. He was a force who operated in shadows. People felt sympathy for him. Even Nick Fury and Coulson who watched the movie felt bad for Batman. His sacrifices were immense.

The credits rolled and soon the post credit scene came out. It showed present day Paris, France. A woman walking towards the Louvre Museum while narrating from background.

"I used to want to save the world, this beautiful place. But I was naive. The closer you get, the more darkness you will see...."

As the woman entered her office a black suitcase arrived with Wayne Enterprises written in bold characters on it. She opened the suitcase to see a very old picture. The picture had 4 soldiers standing side by side in a damaged battlefield. And then there was a woman standing in the middle. The thing was the woman in the picture looked exactly the same as the one holding the picture. She smiled after seeing the picture.

The audience understood that Batman knows this mysterious woman but the people didn't understand why these two women look the same. Tony looked at Bruce for a few seconds and said

"You know this woman?". Bruce didn't reply to Tony but asked John "Is she coming?"

"I don't know. I just saw her in my dreams. I have no idea if she would be transferred." John said. Bruce didn't say anything to it but remain silent and closed his eyes as if thinking of something.

The movie got a standing ovation. This was a movie which didn't hesitate to show how society treated superheros when something went wrong. The movie was based on a bold theme and made people realize that being a hero comes with responsibility.

Nick and Coulson approached John after they came out. They wanted to know if this 'woman' will appear. John answered the same as he had done to Bruce. John didn't want to reveal too much of his powers. Too much revelation would be prone to mistakes. He wanted to keep a sense of mystery.

"I want to know to more of this character" Fury said at the end as he felt he needed to know more about this 'woman'.

"Why in a hurry? Even if she comes it will be in much further in the future. You will know her from the movie." John said. Nick could always pressurize John for more information but he didn't want to. He even didn't put any spy in Disney. John had always said he has glimpses of future in his dreams in other universes. He didn't want to take any risk and maintain a good will.

They went back after the movie ended and John received a message while riding Bumblebee.

"How was the movie? Sorry I couldn't attend the premiere."

John just smiled after reading and replied "It's fine. I will come for the Deathly Hollows Part 1 premiere though. Reserve a seat for me."

"Sure" Emma replied with a smiley face.

The months went by gradually after the release of the movie. The movie earned a lot in box office and was critically acclaimed with a very rating. Even though it didn't much boost his fan values by much as it was only a Batman movie but this movie was necessary for his future plans and appeal to the public.

Chapter 64: Three movies

Almost a year had gone by after the Dark Knight movie. Disney had scheduled three movies at the end of the year. So there was a lot of work for John in the following months.

In the mean time Tony with the help of Pepper had already bought a big island in the Caribbean Sea and made sure no country nearby could touch his property. Of course John too invested money in it. It was an easy cash grab anyway. Soon the first movie of the three was released in late October. It was a space sci-fi movie.

In a futuristic world where mankind has conquered the known universe, it was ruled by an Emperor and had various houses spread across the universe helping the emperor maintain peace and order. Mankind used a thing called 'spices' to travel across galaxies and this spice was only available in a single planet. Before, the planet was under a different house and suddenly the emperor decided to change the house.

Basically it was a political plot. John shot this movie for it's shield technology. Apparently any thing with high velocity couldn't penetrate the shield, be it a bullet or a missile. Yes. The movie was 'Dune'.

John wanted this technology for protection from possible assassinations later. Much later he might even think of bringing out their spaceships by spending fan values. The movie premiered and people loved the movie. American people had a deep love for drama and political plots and this movie basically had everything.

[Ding

total fan value : 1.2 billion.

Fan value required to bring House of Atreides to life - 1 billion

Fan value required to bring House of Harkonnen to life - 1 billion

Fan value required for shielding technology - 400 million.]

"Thank god there is a shielding technology otherwise I would have to spend a billion for a stupid technology. Still it's 400 million. One year of savings will be gone. Well I hope it will be worth it. Extract the shielding technology" John said after seeing his panel. "Jurassic Park world will cost me another 100 million. Sigh! If this goes on I will be broke soon."

After the movie John followed Tony to Stark Tower. He needed Tony to research on shielding technology. Bruce has a home now in New York, thanks to his shares of Stark Industries that John shared with him. Bruce who came to the movie also came to Stark Tower with them as John asked for it. John after reaching to Tony's place said while bringing out a memory stick.

"I have the shielding technology in this stick. I want both of you to research but on conditions." John said. Tony almost jumped in his seat when he heard it. Bruce too had a rare interested face when he heard it.

"What condition? I can give away half my shares if you give me this stick." Tony said with excitement. John shrugged his head and the said

"No. I want only you both to research on it. Nothing of the data will be placed in a server which can be accessed by internet. Even Jarvis can't get access to the data. All the shielding equipment will not be mass produced until I say so." John said.

"Huh? No access. You think somebody will hack into Jarvis and steal it again?" Tony asked. John didn't say anything and looked at him.

"Ok fine I accept the proposal. Now give it to me. It will be weird going old school on such a high technology. Bruce this will need your help." Tony said.

"By the way the Jurassic World is coming soon. Next month I will guide them to the island from my dreams. You will have to take care of the rest. Are all the cages and personnel ready?" John asked.

"Yes. You can send them. I won't be attending the premiere for the Jurassic Park movie. I will be there on Jurassic Park to see first hand the dinosaurs. I hope they won't be late after the movie is released as I have work to do." Tony said as he too named his island as Jurassic Park.

"Sure. Even I won't be there in the premiere. I will travel to London next month." John said as he promised to be there for the premiere do Deathly Hollows. He was excited to see her again after a long time.

Soon Tony and Bruce started working on the shielding technology. And John left for his home and gave the other two space to work on the new technology.

After a couple of weeks John got ready to go to London. As he landed on the airport from his private plane he saw Emma waiting for him. He was delighted to see her. He came down and hugged her saying

"You look as lovely as ever."

"Thank you. You look great too. How was the flight?" Emma asked.

"It was fine. Slept all the way. Let's go to the hotel." John said. After they went to the hotel, John freshened up and was ready to go out. Emma had decided to go for a small tour around London showing him this historic city. John too followed her. They had a great time together and the tour ended with a fine dinner in a restaurant.

This was their first official date and John had booked a great restaurant which had privacy. Even though he was sure he had been taken pictures of during his tour of the city, he still wanted privacy when it came to the date.

Chapter 65: Three movies (2)

They had a great talk during the dinner date and had fun. John and Emma both felt very happy about their first date. They both had so much to talk that they passed more than 3 hours in the date.

"It must be fun having superheroes as friends." Emma said

"Actually no. They are just normal people with weirder past. Nothing much." John said

"Can I meet Bruce one day? He looks so cool in the movie." Emma asked with expectation.

"Bruce? Sure. I trust you so he will be fine with it." Emma was really happy when she heard that. After the dinner John left for the hotel with Emma.

The hotel was cozy and John had booked a presidential suite. He took her to his room and had the night to remember for both John and Emma. It was the first of such night for John as he never had any relationship with anyone in this world.

The next day they went for the premiere. Of course they didn't go to the premiere together as both of them felt that it would be too soon to show their relationship in public even though there was a gossip now in the media.

In the mean time, Jurassic Park was already released and this time too people loved it. But what came as a shock to people that the Jurassic Park actually existed. Tony uploaded a video of him showing around Jurassic Park in the internet.

"Welcome to Jurassic Park. I don't think I will have to explain what Jurassic Park is. The movie by my friend John is explanatory enough. If you and your family needs a vacation that you can remember for lifetime. If you want to go for an adventure with your girlfriend. This is the one. Come to Jurassic Park. And don't worry about the safety reasons. Stark Industries will provide state of the arts security for it... "

Tony gave a long speech.

Soon the respective media channels inquired about the authenticity and asked for access to the park. They were given permission without any hindrance. Within a week this caused an uproar in the world. Everybody wanted to visit this island and they were ready to spend money for it. John insisted on keeping the ticket price as minimum as possible as he didn't want money from it. And only reasonable price will appeal to the people and help him getting more fans. This boosted his fan values by a lot. He earned more than 100 million fan values within a month.

Even Emma was interested in it. John promised to take her to it after she becomes free from the Harry Potter series.

The premiere for the Harry Potter went well but the reporters who saw him in the premiere only asked questions about Jurassic Park. John got shy about it because he felt this was the platform of Harry Potter, not Jurassic Park. So he replied only one answer and escaped from them.

The movie was exactly the same as his previous life so he knew the whole plot. After staying in London for 2 more days John returned to New York. He was little sad of leaving Emma but he knew this was temporary.

It was late December when the last scheduled movie was supposed to be out. This movie was his tactics of managing the plot of Thor. Even though he could bring Naruto's world and deal with it but he wanted to keep Naruto hidden for now. Only during New York war he will show a glimpse. John understood that if he showed his hand too much Thanos might accelerate his plans. He didn't want any such intervention now. He wanted to follow the original plot and become powerful enough to overthrow gods. Only then he could be at peace and show all his hands.

The movie premiered on December 15th at New York. Everybody came to attend the movie including Coulson and Nick. The movie started with the same scene as was in the post credits scene of Batman, she being in the office of Louvre Museum and seeing a very old photo. But this time there was scene where there was a note attached to it written "I found the original. Maybe one day you will tell me the story."

"No wonder you never told me anything about the story. You yourself don't know." Tony laughed at Bruce who sat beside him and John. Bruce shrugged but didn't say anything.

The story told about a small girl living in an enclosed island where only women lived in it which was protected by the magical enchantment of Zeus. The story told about Gods and mankind and their struggles in facing Ares, the God of war. Gradually, the small girl grew up among the women but she knew she was little bit different from other women.

One fine day, an airplane crashed near the island and this woman named Diana Prince went in saved the man who crashed with the airplane. The airplane looked like it belonged to World War 1.

Chapter 66: Thor

Soon the women of the island came to know about the war which was raging outside from the man who crashed near the island. His name was Steve Trevor. Coulson felt, being a huge fan of Steve Rogers, that this person's name and Captain America's name was almost same.

Diana wanted to participate in the war as she felt it was the work of Ares who instigated the war but was denied. At the end she left sneakily from the Amazon Island while taking away the so called "god-killer" weapon and the Lasso of Truth.

As Diana dealt with mankind she saw the horrors of mankind and what wars did. As the story progressed Diana and Steve were thrown into a war zone where no sides were able to cross and overwhelm the other side. Diana single handedly won the battle and helped taking over. It was the first time the audience saw her in action.

"Jesus! how powerful is this woman?" Tony exclaimed.

"More powerful than you think." Bruce replied. This was where the old picture was taken after they won the battle with other comrades who joined her in this mission.

The movie soon came to the end where Diana had to confront Ares. It was then she realized that the god-killer wasn't a weapon but her. Being the daughter of Zeus himself and Queen Hippolyta. Steve died in a plane explosion while trying to stop the bombing. Coulson here again felt that it was the same as Captain America.

There was a huge fight between her and Ares where Diana finally embraced that she was the daughter of Zeus and killed her brother. John made sure to even copy the music from the original movie and added into it. The audience loved the movie but they weren't sure how Batman was involved in this.

"Gods. Are they real?" Tony said at the end.

"Very real Tony. Very much real." John said.

"How is the shielding technology progressing?" John added changing the topic.

"I hope we don't have enemy among Gods like Ares. It won't be good. The technology will take some time but I am optimistic about it." Tony said solemnly. The credits rolled and soon the post credits scene came out.

It showed a man in airplane fighter suit on a simulated environment. The pilot was conducting dangerous maneuvers which ultimately led to the crash of the plane. But since it was a simulated environment nothing really happened. But as he was going out of the room where he was doing his practice he saw he was no longer in the place he was supposed to be and was instead flying in air along with the room. The whole boundary of the room was covered in green. The room along with him inside flew to a certain location.

There was strange alien-looking man lying blood in a green suit.

"You really do know everything about us." Bruce said after looking at John. John just smiled and said nothing.

"Wait there are aliens in your world. Dios mio!! If God wasn't enough there are aliens too?" Tony said.

They all came out after the movie ended. Nick didn't say anything to John but instead asked Coulson to research on theology. Coulson wanted a proper knowledge on all gods in all religious beliefs. The existence of Gods in another universe made him believe that there might be gods in their own universe.

The movie was critically acclaimed too as it was the first movie to show a woman as a superhero. This was a refreshing take over the fact that only men could be superheros in movies. John got quite a decent amount of fan values out of it.

[Ding

Total fan values : 1 billion

Fan value required for bringing the character Wonder Woman to life/changing to the character - 210,000,000]

"Extract the character." John commanded

[Ding

Character extracted. Remaining fan values - 800 million]

"The stage is set. In a few months Thor will enter earth. Odin you are really not good in educating children." John thought as he was driving home.

"How was the response? Was it good?" came a text.

"It was great. Should have let you be the heroine. Might have been better. Next premiere you are coming with me." John replied back.

She immediately video called and had a chat with Emma. John spoke happily with her as he reached home. Soon the months went by as John accumulated more fan values thanks to movies, anime, cartoons and of course the new attraction "The Jurassic Park". It catapulted his fan values to 550 million per year.

John even kept tabs on Dr. Jane Foster, Dr. Eric Selvig and even found out information on Darcy Lewis, the intern of Jane. By April of 2011, John got the information from Fixit that Jane had traveled to New Mexico. Even though he didn't spy on them, he did have the itinerary of them.

He got ready to go to New Mexico as he wanted to see the promised Prince himself.

Chapter 67: Sitwell

John soon reached Puente Antiguo, the town where it all started for Thor and Jane. He didn't know if Thor had reached or not but he had started visiting every diner from morning to evening to check if Thor, Jane and others visited. He even checked hospital to see if Thor was there but still couldn't find.

It went on for 4 days before finally in a morning he saw Jane, Thor, Darcy and Dr. Erik coming inside the diner. Thor looked more handsome in real life than in the movies. John felt sadness when he looked at Thor. The supposed king lost his all in his journey. His mother, his father, his brother and even Asgard. No wonder he went to depression by Avengers: Endgame. John hoped to change some of his future.

As John was thinking of all this, Thor and others had started eating. It was astonishing of how Thor could eat in one sitting. As he was eating Thor spoke about Asgard, Bifrost and other things. Of course they didn't believe him. But Jane kept looking at him. She was already smitten by Thor.

John smiled to himself because he too probably has the same look as her when he sees Emma. After Thor made the famous scene of smashing the cup he was drinking, more customers came and started speaking of a satellite.

Jane inquired about this crashed satellite and found out that there was a crashed satellite 50 miles west. Thor immediately got ready to go out. The others followed out. John too followed them as he needed to insert himself.

As Thor wanted their help to take him to the crashed satellite, Eric took the other two girls aside and said

"Please don't do this."

"You saw what I saw. We need to find out what's in that crater." Jane refuted.

"He is delusional. Listen to what he is saying. He is talking of Mjolnir, Thor and Bifrost. It's the stories I grew up as a child. He is dangerous." Eric said. John finally couldn't hold it and inserted himself

"He isn't delusional. Whatever he says is 100% real."

"You are?" Eric suddenly became defensive. Even Thor who was listening to the conversation looked at John with curiosity.

"Hello, I am John Jameson. It's nice to meet you Dr. Eric, Dr. Jane and Darcy." John said.

"Oh my god. You are that John. Are you for real?" Darcy almost screamed.

"Yes I am as real as I can be. Hello Thor Odinson, it's not everyday I get to meet a Prince." John said.

"It seems like you know me quite well." Thor said with little curiosity as this new person must have followed him, knew him and even believed him while the other three never believed any words of him from beginning. John just smiled to it.

"We should go to this crater. Many of your questions will be answered. Don't worry Dr. Selvig, the people who took over the crater are my friends. They won't stop or harass us." John said. Darcy and Jane were delighted. Darcy felt that this was her ticket to get to know a ultra rich guy and maybe take a leap in her career while Jane felt that many questions would be answered.

Eric finally gave in to persuasion. They decided to take their truck to the crater. As Thor and everybody went back to take their crater they saw men in suit taking away stuff from the lab of Jane.

"Hey you can't take this. These are all mine." Jane shouted. Maybe it was his butterfly effect but the person who came to take away Jane's belongings wasn't Coulson but Sitwell, an agent of Hydra. .com

"Sorry ma'am. I am Agent Sitwell from SHIELD. We are investigating a threat, we need to appropriate and record all your data." Sitwell replied. It was John this time who replied

"Agent Sitwell, where is Coulson?"

"You are?... You are John Jameson!! Hello Mr. Jameson. It's nice to meet you. But we need to take the equipment for security reasons." Sitwell said after recognizing John. John was famous all over the world, so most agents knew about him. It's just very few people knew about his consultant status with SHIELD.

"I know who you are. Call Coulson. It's rude to take other's stuff without getting a permission. Even if it's SHIELD." John said with authority.

"We have orders from superior to take away the belongings. Even Coulson won't be able to stop this" Sitwell said getting a little annoyed this time. He didn't expect to see such a big player here out of nowhere. It made him more suspicious of the things Jane had now. He wanted to retrieve all the things more urgently now.

"Superior? Do you want me to call Fury? I am sure he will be delighted to receive a lawyer's call due to the ignorance of an Agent." John said with a smile.

"Sir you can't do this? SHIELD has authority and power to confiscate anything that might be a threat to Earth." Sitwell was more adamant now to take away the things.

"So Fury it is then.." John said as his hands went to his pocket to bring out his mobile. As soon as he did that the agents around who were looking at him took out their guns and pointed at him.

Chapter 68: The demigod

Everybody got scared by this move except for Thor. Thor didn't have a notion of guns from earth and he felt no weapon of earth could threaten him. John raised his eyebrows when he saw this action.

"Sitwell, you and your agents should lower your guns. I don't like being threatened." John said in a cold tone. His expression showing no fear whatsoever. Eric took both the woman behind him. Eric knew that SHIELD was a big thing but he also very well knew that SHIELD wouldn't be stupid enough to shoot at John. SHIELD won't be able to cover up if anything happened to John.

"Sir you should allow us to do our jobs. It will be better that way." Sitwell replied with a smile.

"Sigh! What a headache." John said with a bland tone.

As soon as he said that a shining long rope tied around Sitwell, making Sitwell stiff in his place. The agents got frightened by this action and turned their head towards the direction from where the rope came from. Only to see a woman in a red-golden armor walking towards them while holding the rope.

She had metal bands in her feet, hands and even on her head which was in the shape of V. All the agents trembled in their feet as they recognized who she was. SHIELD had a policy to watch all works of John so that if someday they cross path in the future with some of the characters of John's works, they would be able to take proper action.

The agents knew who they were facing against. A demigod. Daughter of Zeus.

As the agents were pointing the guns at Diana, she walked towards them. One agent finally couldn't hold it together and shot at her. Diana deflected the bullet by her bangle easily. All agents immediately knew that she was the real deal. Some agents started firing at her. She ran fast towards the agents and started knocking them out. Her attacks were powerful but not fatal enough to kill them. The agents couldn't even respond properly as she was too fast and bullets were always deflected by her bangles.

Thor and others were astonished by seeing her. Jane and Eric didn't even know who she was. Only Darcy knew as she was a big fan of superhero, but she couldn't believe that such a character was real. The notion of a demigod shook her beliefs. Though Eric and Jane knew about Batman they didn't have much interest as they were scientists and superhero genre weren't up their alley.

Even though Thor lost his powers but he could feel that this woman was powerful. For the first time there was seriousness in his face. Sitwell was still stuck in the lasso of truth and standing still. When he saw Diana knocking out everybody his eyes went wide. He knew he was done for. All he could pray was that she wouldn't kill her.

John didn't even look at Sitwell and others but said to Diana who came towards him slowly.

"How was the journey? Lot of bumps on the way?"

"No it was fine. Took me time to realize where I am. Saw Bruce on a poster. And me too. Felt a similar power to my world here, so wanted to pay a visit." she replied.

John smiled to that. He wanted to give vague hints to the agents, who didn't shoot at her, by this conversation in order to misdirect them. The other agents who were trembling on their knees heard their conversation. Since John had lied from beginning, John needed to maintain that lie onward. John took out the mobile and called Coulson to come to his location. Coulson was surprised that John was in New Mexico. He immediately left from the base near the crater.

Truth to be told, John really wanted to kill Sitwell and other Hydra agents here. He was angry with them guns pointing guns at him. But John also knew if does this, it would complicate things and Hydra might just hide away forever. Pierce wasn't the problem, the problem was the other heads of Hydra. It would then take forever to search for them.

After few minutes Coulson reached only to see few agents standing beside and Sitwell tied in a shining rope. When Coulson saw Diana he recognized her immediately. He knew that something happened between Sitwell and Diana and he needed to remedy the situation carefully or he might have to listen to Fury.

"Hello John, can I know what happened?" Coulson asked as he saw Sitwell tied in a rope and many agents lying on the floor unconscious, some were even bleeding. He knew this was bad news.

"Agent Sitwell threatened me with a gun and so did all these agents. Diana was passing by so she taught them a lesson" John shrugged. Coulson heart skipped a beat. Even though John never said anything and was almost invisible to all but Fury had once told him that John was the most dangerous as he might be hiding more characters behind him.

It was fine if it was from John's works but if some characters who SHIELD didn't know had already entered and had contact with John it might be very dangerous. The existence of Naruto's world itself was like a sword pointing at them. He didn't want to make a potential super powered enemy out of John.

Actually it wasn't the total fault of Sitwell. He didn't know the consultant position of John. This secret was only accessible to Level 10 agents and Coulson. So basically he was just following orders, it just that he didn't think properly before threatening John.

"What the hell Sitwell! Do you even know who you are threatening? Do want SHIELD to be on the verge of destruction?" Coulson shouted. Sitwell just stood by and kept his head down. He knew he made a huge mistake. He might even be reprimanded by Pierce. Hydra still wasn't powerful enough to show it's face and making an enemy out of a demigod was a huge mistake.

Chapter 69: Mjolnir

"Miss Diana Prince, hello, I am Agent Coulson. I am really sorry for my colleague's behavior. I hope you can leave him." Coulson said to Diana politely. Diana looked at Coulson for few seconds and then looked at John. John nodded his head. She loosened her lasso and took it back.

Sitwell fell down from his standing position sweating. If before she didn't believe in Gods, now he definitely believed. He thought only Naruto's world was special but now he had change his mindset. Being bounded by the lasso almost made him like a statue and he couldn't do anything, not even move an inch.

"Thank you, Miss Diana. I am an agent of SHIELD. SHIELD is responsible for any extraordinary threats faced by Earth. I hope we can cooperate in the future." Coulson continued. Diana didn't reply to that.

Eric and everybody who were watching was very confused. They didn't understand what was going on. John finally said "We should all sit down and talk." The equipment that were supposed to take away was returned and Jane was happy about it. Finally they all sat down, including Thor even though he wanted to to go and take the hammer away. John convinced him that after the talks they will go for his hammer.

John introduced Diana to Eric and Jane and explained them about her origin. They were dumbfounded as they couldn't believe that the Gods were real. Then they looked at Thor and remembered what John said at the beginning about Thor not being delusional.

"You are really Thor? Then why aren't you powerful?" Darcy couldn't help but ask with skepticism.

"Mortal! How dare you say that? I am a god, I was born powerful." Thor roared.

Coulson who did recent study on theology understood who Thor was. The god of thunder from Norse mythology. The hammer in the crater probably belonged to him but he couldn't understand why was the weapon so far away from him. And John hadn't made a movie out of Thor so it meant that the Norse mythology already existed from in this universe since ancient times.

After seeing so many weird things, Coulson accepted this new information with open arms. He just felt earth was vulnerable and needed more protection.

"So Thor you have heard about Diana. What do you think?"

"Are there really gods in this realm?" Thor with curiosity now as he heard saying Diana was a daughter of a god.

"I have never seen myself as a God. Maybe a powerful being. But never thought myself as a God. Neither are you Thor." Diana replied. Thor was stunned by this but he didn't know how to answer. Odin too used to say the same thing but never paid attention to it. Thor wanted to know about Diana but he needed to take up his hammer

"It's fine Diana. Thor, you can ask about Diana later. Shall we go now? Thor is already fidgeting to get his beloved hammer back." John said as he got up. They went in the car of SHIELD and traveled towards the crater. Jane was excited about it. She saw her whole perspective of world change and wanted to know more about Thor and it added to the fact that she was smitten by Thor. Jane and Thor talked along the way. John was happy to see it as he felt the universe corrected itself here in this regard.

They reached the destination and Thor went in immediately. "We all should take shelter. It's going to rain soon." John said as he saw Thor almost running towards the direction of the hammer. Soon there was a electromagnetic surge from the hammer as Thor came near Mjolnir.

He was happy to see his hammer again. He then proceeded to lift the hammer. But no matter how he tried he couldn't. John and everyone looked at Thor as he was getting drenched in the rain.

"Hello Clint, I heard you went to that world. How was the experience?" John said as he saw Hawkeye from the corner of his eye.

"You know me?" Clint was surprised by John's advance.

"Of course I know. I too have friends there" John smiled at him.

"Oh no wonder! It was good. Doubt my own ability for the first time" Clint said with a hint of sadness. John said "Hahaha. It's fine. You too are powerful. Alright, we don't want Thor to get cold. Take him to a secluded room and let him think about his mistakes."

"Mistakes? Did Thor commit any mistake?" Jane was concerned so asked John.

"Yes he did. It's Thor's private matter. You can ask him yourself. For now let him be in silence." John didn't want to intervene the upcoming conversation between him and Loki. It was important for Thor to realize his mistake.

Thor was taken away in a room while others went away to another place as John asked them to give him space. As the original plot Loki did come to meet Thor to say that Odin died due to sadness of Thor's banishment and there was a truce with Jotunheim on the condition that Thor remained exiled here. Of course it was a lie.

As Loki went to meet Thor, John and others were talking among themselves. Eric and Jane asked questions from Diana about gods. Darcy had already told her story to the two scientists so they were very interested about Diana too. John noticed that Diana flinched for a second.

"Is he here?" John asked Diana.

"Yes he is here."

Chapter 70: Being worthy

"Huh! What are you both talking about? Who is here?" Jane asked as she heard this conversation.

"Nothing! Just talking about a friend." John replied trying to deflect the topic.

"Is there another person from another universe?" Coulson who too heard their conversation asked.

"No. Just a person of interest." John denied it. "You will see him when the time is right."

Coulson didn't force to know more as it would be useless. So Coulson ordered the agents to be on the lookout for a suspecting individual. John and others stayed in their place as Jane and Eric continued to ask more information. Darcy was more interested in John.

Her enthusiasm was too over whelming even for John but he was polite as in future she has a role during the event of Wanda Vision. After few minutes of talking with them John said

"Let's go to meet him. He might have calmed down now." John said at the end. They went to the room where Thor was staying put while Diana and John went to check Mjolnir to see if Loki was trying to pick up the hammer.

As they came to the place that Loki was not there, probably he had already left after trying for few seconds. Loki knew better that no matter how hard he tried he wouldn't be able to lift the hammer if he wasn't worthy.

Coulson too followed them after making sure there was nobody was in the premises. John really was amazed by the magic of Loki. His illusions were really powerful as he never got noticed.

"Do you want to try picking it up." John said to Diana.

"Sure! Why not." Diana said and the next moment she jumped from the ramp towards the hammer. She touched Mjolnir for few seconds but there was no reaction. John felt maybe she wasn't worthy as there was no environmental reaction like the time when Thor tried to lift the hammer.

But the very next moment as she tried picking the hammer, it was easily lifted up. Everybody who was watching her were surprised. All this time almost all agents tried to lift it up but couldn't even move a centimetre and now there is a woman who could easily lift it up. Coulson was stuck for a second but accepted the fact because he felt only gods can handle other gods. Humans were still weak.

"Do you feel anything different?" John asked.

"I can now use electricity to fight. But in a more better way than when I fought Ares. This hammer is terribly well balanced." Diana lamented.

Heimdall who just had a chat with the new King Loki was dumbfounded for a second. It's been years when he started seeing weird beings appearing in Midgard. He even informed Odin about it but Odin only said not to worry about it. Now he saw a woman who could lift the hammer. He wondered if this woman would be the new Queen of Asgard if she came to claim the throne.

Diana looked at the hammer for few seconds and left it in its place. Coulson was surprised by it and asked

"Don't you want to use it as a weapon?"

"Hammer is not my kind of weapon. My lasso is enough. Plus, it belongs to someone else. By the way don't tell Thor about it." Diana said. .com

Coulson now really appreciated Diana. If what they said was real and this hammer was really very powerful it was commendable that she wasn't tempted by its power. Then again she herself was a god with a powerful weapon.

After few more minutes of talking and lingering around, Jane and others decided to go back to their place. Thor didn't have a home in Earth so accepted Jane's proposal of going back with them.

John too left with Diana to a nearby hotel as there would be a fight soon nearby. Even though John won't fight as he didn't want to expose his alchemy powers to SHIELD but still he would watch it.

In the meantime Sitwell called Pierce and told him about the emergence of Diana and Thor. One Naruto world was scary enough now there are gods. Sitwell wasn't sure of how to handle it.

"Sir I propose that we should assassinate John. He is a variable for us." Sitwell said.

"Are you a fool? The people of Naruto world are dangerous enough, we have tried all means possible to entice, catch and even kill a ninja from their world but we have been repeatedly unsuccessful for the last year. We aren't even sure if John has other powers except for dreaming. If he has other allies who he hasn't revealed yet do you think we would be able to survive. Every single character that he has revealed possess extraordinary means. Let the Insight Project come to fruition only then we could be relieved. Even if we kill millions the world of Naruto wouldn't have any choice but to cooperate with us as they need us too for sustenance. About these Gods, don't they come from another planet. They will leave when this farce is over anyways."