

104 Chapter 104 Did you hear us?

Author's POV 1

"Are you sure she didn't have any special training before this?" James asks, looking at his sister.

"No man, she trained a few times with me, before Castellano kidnapped her last time and that was it!" Max said, looking at Meredith with fascination.

She is in the middle of the training arena and she fights with four warriors at the same time. And the funny part is that she is winning.

"I asked dad about primordial wolves" James said keep looking at Meredith.

"And?" and this time Max turns his head to James.

In the last week there was not even a single day without searching for answers. There are stories about primordials. Some of them are scary, others talk about their unimaginable force, but everything seems a fantasy.

In this modern era, to speak about special powers is like a bedtime story. Not even the healers existed in the last two hundred years.

"She is special and we must protect her, Max. I never saw this coming. I can't even believe it. And I can't stop wondering if her coming into our life was just a pure coincidence or if there is a greater plan than what we see. "

And James smiles sadly.

"How did you find her?" Max asks because he never asked this but James is right. What if this is just the top of the iceberg?

"She was so little, man" and his voice trembled. " It was like love at first sight. From the first second I saw her with those big blue eyes she melted my heart and right there I swore to protect her. I took her in my arms and came home with her. Dad and mom panicked thinking that I kidnapped her, because I always said that I wanted a little sister. "

"She couldn't receive a better brother" and Max tapped James on the shoulder.

"I hope you are right" and tears appear in his eyes. "I love her Max. When you hurt her back then, I wanted to kill you but she stopped me. "

"Thank you for staying my friend even though I know now that I didn't deserve this chance." and looking at James he said "Tell me more".

"We searched for her parents for two months and we found out that her parents were killed in a strange car accident. The scene was arranged for an accident, but they were killed by someone else. Legally she was their daughter but my father said that she smelled different and we made our own investigation. She was not their daughter. She was kidnapped and raised by those people. "

"What the fuck man!" Max asks in shock. "Why would anyone kidnap such a small baby?"

"They were hunters, Max!" James said and this time he is furious. "Her so-called parents were hunters. That made my father hide her because he realized that she was special even if she looked just like a tiny human. He knew that we must protect her, so he adopted her, chose a name for her and she lived with us, and made our existence happier. She was the cutest thing I ever met in my life! "

"Did anyone ask for her?" Max asked.

"No, we have been searching for answers for fifteen years and in the end my father said that it is best to leave the past behind. But the past has caught up with us now. "

"What do we know about the last primordials?" Max asks suddenly and immediately jumps to his feet when he sees Meredith knocking down the last fighter.

"Did you see that, James!" he said, clapping his hands in amazement.

"I don't understand what you are asking me." and James looks at him, slightly confused.

"What were they? Alphas? Betas, omegas? There must be evidence. "

"We didn't think to check this out," and James immediately pulls his laptop out of the backpack he has next to him. He is obsessed with having a laptop with him everywhere he goes.

"What are you searching for?" Sam and Luke asked when they came near Max after watching Meredith's show.

"I can't believe this!" James said. "How did I miss this! ??"

"They were all females," James said. "The wolf appears after they find their fated mate and mate with him." and he just looks at Max.

"What do you mean, you mean that if I hadn't accepted her in my life, that if I hadn't loved her she would never have become a wolf?"

"Yes, probably this is the reason for being so rare. She was never a human. Shit! " and James stood up. "She was strong ,Max, even as a human."

"She beat Veronica twice as a human," Sam said laughing.

James just types something and turns the laptop showing Max something.

"Where did you find this?" Max asks and takes the laptop from his hands.

It is a picture with a primordial wolf, like a painting from three hundred years ago. And is Meredith in that picture.

"This is strange," Luke said, not believing it.

"Is not strange, she is the daughter of the Moon Goddess. And this is the way the world knows it about her, it's like a prophecy but no one was interested in it." And James begins to read aloud from the page where he found the image.

"Holy goddess, we thank you for your gift. You heard our prayers and gave us a redeemer. Her blood will heal us and her sacrifice will make us live!"

"WHAT THE FUCK!?!?!?" Max asked, jumping to his feet. "What sacrifice?"

"We must protect her, Max!" Sam said in a panic. "It seems that a primordial appears only when something evil approaches."

"Let's think and don't panic." Luke said trying to calm the spirits "Those are stories and back then things were different, the werewolves lived in isolation. Now we are among humans, we have information and power. Every prophecy must be read in the right context. ”

“He’s right,” James said looking into his laptop.

“I found what you asked me” and looked into Max’s eyes smiling. “This is proof that it is all a story. The primordials are descendants of the King Of Werewolves. We don’t have a king anymore. We just live in packs and have our territories. ”

Max looks at James and doesn’t say anything and he sees Meredith approaching, followed by Vivi and Cara and Lori.

“How did I do?” she asks Max, smiling at him.

“You were perfect!” Max said and went to her and took her in his arms and she put her legs around him like a koala.

Since they marked each other they don’t care anymore about who is looking at them. They just need each other. Only when there are humans around do they act properly.

“Do you think so?” and Meredith looks at James.

“Now tell me what you were talking about”

“What do you mean?” James and Max asked at the same time.

Meredith looks at them and she starts to recite:

"Holy goddess, we thank you for your gift. You heard our prayers and gave us a redeemer. Her blood will heal us and her sacrifice will make us live! "

"Did you hear us?" Sam asked, looking at her as if she had two hands.

"Since Artemis appeared all my senses became much more intense. My hearing is so extremely developed and if I focus I can even hear the heartbeats of your unborn children. It scares me sometimes, but Artemis said that is normal. "

"It's not normal" Max said "I can't hear them"

"And the smell" and she smiles at Max. "I can feel your presence from miles away. Only your smell" and she puts her hands around his neck and kisses him.

"We don't know anything about primordials, Mer," James said. "We have just those old books from the internet but we know one thing. We must protect you. You represent absolute power and when it comes to power everyone wants a piece of it. "
