

118 Chapter 118 Help her now!

Author's POV 1

"Max" Meredith whispered as soon as she opened her eyes.

"I am in the kitchen" he says and letting the coffee container he went straight to Meredith but when he sees her, he just sit near her and caressing her face asks:

"You are very pale, are you sure you are fine?" and now he is very worried.

"Yes, my love. It must be the stress of the day. I am not happy with what I found about my family roots and this trip, even though it is in paradise, it probably made me tired. "

"You're not lying to me?" he asks, analyzing each of Meredith's reactions.

"No, Max" and she catches his hand and pulls him over her body.

"Let me hold you for a few seconds" and she sits with him in her arms.

"When are we leaving this place?" and she is so sad at the thought that this will end so soon.

"After we will have breakfast. I need to deal with Castellano and Veronica, and also to make a plan against those hunters. So as soon as we have our breakfast we will leave. "

"I like it here" and smiling at him Meredith says. "Let's make a deal, Max. Once a month we will come here. "

"You ask me the impossible" Max said but then smiling at her he kissed her forehead. "But I will do it. Once a month we will come here. " And he takes her in his arms.

"Let's go my love, until I don't start something that I won't be able to stop"

"Perv!" Meredith said.

"I'm my grandpa's boy! He taught me well! " and he is laughing saying that.

"Yeah... the perverts of the Cruz's family" and she rolls her eyes making Max laugh even harder. Max lifted her in his arms and went down to the kitchen.

"You made coffee?" she asks and her mouth is salivating at the fantastic aroma.

"Give it to me, please!" she said impatiently as if she had never drunk coffee in her life. "

"Are you sure you're good?" Max asks her again. She is not a big fan of coffee, she prefers teas and natural juices.

"Yes. I need energy. You emptied my tanks, my super sexy hubby!" and hearing, Max puts her a cup of coffee.

It took them two hours to go back to the packhouse but when they arrived everyone was agitated and panic reigned everywhere.

"What happened here?" Max asks while he enters the house, holding hands with Meredith.

"They are here!" James said, running to the front door. "Oh my goddess, they are safe!" and he starts to check on Meredith.

"What are you doing, man?" Max asks, catching his arms. "Stop it!"

"What's going on?" James asks furious. "You disappeared after yesterday's lunch and we thought that something happened to you."

"Shit!" and he looks at Meredith, who in turn looks at their parents and says:

"Oops... We tried the woo thing too and we forgot to tell you that we won't come home last night."

"Oops?" Vivienne yelled at her. "We looked for you everywhere and even my stupid brother left the hospital to look for you, annoying Leia, and now he is back in the hospital with broken ribs and newer with a bruised eye too."

"What the hell happened here?" Max asks. "We were gone for a few hours and the pack went crazy?"

"That jerk bite my neck with his human teeth and scratches me."

"He tried to mark you?" Meredith asks and starts to laugh "O my goddess, this is priceless!"

"She tried the same thing!" Luke said, pointing to Vivienne. "This is the sign that they are siblings!"

"Two siblings mated with another siblings; this is a story to be told" Lori said. "Now that you saw that she is fine, can we go home, please?" she asks James. "I am not feeling well and my tummy hurts. I just want to sit in my own bed and rest."

And she starts to walk to the door while James runs after her. Landon and Olivia kissed Meredith for good bye and followed them and just as Meredith was looking after them she felt it again.

The pain was back, like someone was doing some voodoo on her body.

"Max!" she whispered, catching his hand "help me!"

Meredith yells in pain this time and collapses to the ground before Max can catch her.

"Meredith!" Everyone yelled at the same time.
"Someone bring the doctors!"

Max's heart just stopped. The love of his life lays in his arms almost dead, pale, crying in pain.

"What is going on?" Olivia asks, crying her heart out. "She was never sick as a child. Landon, what's going on with our little girl?" and she kneels beside her, holding her hand.

"Mom!" Meredith said through tears. "Please, don't cry!" but Olivia can't stop seeing her like this.

Maybe she wasn't the one who gave birth to Meredith but she is her mom and Meredith is her baby girl just the way James was her son. She never looked different at her from the moment she decided to accept her as her daughter. She loves Meredith with all her soul, and so does Landon who wants to kill everyone for Meredith's suffering.

"What did you do to my daughter, Max?" he asks growling.

"Her mother is right! She was never sick. Thinking now is not as a child and neither as an adult, so you must have done something to her.

"I didn't do anything!" Max yelled at him. "We had a fantastic time last night and this morning. Last night she had a little cramp but that's it and in the morning was pale but she was alright! I would never hurt her! " Max yelled with fury.

"I love her! I love her, what don't you want to understand !!! "

Vivi and Cara just stay in their mates arms, while Francois comes in and seeing Meredith like this starts to cry and Leia's heart melted a bit. She went to him, holding him, and letting him cry on her shoulder.

Everyone loves Meredith.

"Make room!" Carter said coming with the doctor. "Let him see her." and everyone start to move around to make room for them.

"Help her now!" Max commands him using his alpha command and the poor man immediately starts to consult her but right then Meredith's starts to yell even harder.

"Oh my goddess!" the doctor said, touching her abdomen.

"What happened?" everyone asks in chorus but the poor doctor just stays there with his mouth wide open and is blabbering something that no one can understand. He is counting something and talking to himself.

"Is your pack doctor insane?" James asks angrily.

But right then Meredith's body arched and her legs started to tremble.

"Alpha!" the doctor said suddenly. "Help me put her in bed. She will need to stay in bed and I need towels, fresh water, bandages, and scissors. I already mindlink my colleagues and they are coming here. So is the nurse and the midwife!"

"What midwife? All the women asked in shock?"

"Carter!" Lisa said through tears "James is right. Our doctor went crazy"

But Max takes Meredith in his arms and goes with her in their bedroom. He puts her in bed and lets her stay on her back.

"Max, I think that I am going to die." Meredith whispered without power.

"I want you to know that..." she starts, but Max stops her.

"If you die, I will die too" and Carter and Lisa are so panicked right now, but no one has the courage to say anything.

Grandpa Cruz just stays there with a broken heart, while Auntie Jen cries in silence.

So are The girls, and Luke and Sam are devastated at the thought that they will lose their luna.

"You are not dying, my luna !" the doctor said finally, recovering shortly after seeing her in bed. Now he is ready to do his job.

"Will you leave us alone, please?" he asks looking at all her friends and family that are staying there and crying like at some funeral.

"Please, do as he asks!" Max said without taking his eyes off Meredith and climbing into bed next to her.

But right then her body arched again and she felt something like cracking inside her delicate body and the bed around her was wet with blood and some transparent liquid.

She cried so hard and she clenched her fingers in the mattress of the bed and as well in Max's hand, making all his fingers crack.

"WHAT IS HAPPENING!?!?!?" Max asks and now he wants to kill the doctor for not doing anything.

The poor man looks at Max and takes a deep breath. This is so unusual. It happens very rarely, even with humans, but for Meredith it is even harder to process this because her body is delicate and she had no sign of her...shit! How to give them the news?

"It's hard to explain, alpha!" the doctor said. "It's all because she is a primordial wolf and the process is reduced from six months to 62-75 days, as long as it takes for a normal wolf in the same situation."

"What situation?" Max asks him, looking at Meredith who is more calm now.

"She is giving birth, alpha!"

Comment ⁰

Leave the first comment for this chapter.

Vote

Send Gift

Swipe left to continue >