

131 Chapter 131 Not even death can separate us!

Author's POV 1

"Attack her!" Manganiello yelled as hard as he could from his human lungs. "You can wound her but don't kill her, she would be mine!!!"

Meredith is in her wolf form and gives the hunters a big growl. She just looks around at their weapons.

"If there is any wolfsbane, I can annihilate its effects but if anything will happen to Max, I'm doomed!" Artemis said.

"I know" and growling again at those hunters, showing her fangs.

"Attack her!" Manganiello yelled again. "What are you looking for?"

And one of the hunters, encouraged by Manganiello's roars, rushes towards Meredith, trying to injure her with a dagger.

"Let's test something." Artemis said and she let the hunter come closer and when he lifted his hand to hurt her she caught him under her paws and said:

"Stay still!" but the man didn't react to her.

"Shit, this is only for werewolves?" and having no other choice pulls his head off his shoulders and walks away from him.

"Who's next?" she asks while the rest of the hunters just look at their decapitated colleague.

"Go!" Manganiello commands a very young hunter who is a little scared after he sees what Meredith was able to do. He likes to have a head on his shoulders, his own head if it is possible, so the young man hesitates.

"You fucking cowards!" Manganiello yelled at them and he took off his leather jacket and came in front of Meredith.

"One to one!" and he is laughing.

"I win, your alpha will be dead and you are coming with me."

"I will win," Meredith said, grinning at him.

"There will be no place in this world were you will be a match to me"

And she doesn't lose any minute and attacks Manganiello directly, throwing him to the ground.

"Shit!" the hunters yelled. "How is it possible? A royal wolf is strong but she seems more than this. How can she be so powerful?"

"Stand up and fight!" Meredith growled at Manganiello who tried to understand what just happened. He killed her parents back then. They fought but this werewolf is something new for him.

He is not a match for her . Not at this moment, but he knows one thing. She must be his. He never heard about someone so strong and he can only imagine how it would be if she were his, if she would give birth to his children.

"What are you made of?" he asks her looking into her topaz eyes.

"I am Meredith Cruz, and I am just a werewolf."

"You are not!" he said gravely. "And I will find out what is going on here. Today was not my lucky day, but you are mine and I am coming to take you. Don't forget that!" he said and signaled to his hunters to follow him, leaving Meredith and Max alone.

She runs to Max and takes him in her arms.

"We are safe, hubby" she said and kissed his lips. "We are safe!" and right then from the other side of the forest she smelled James and her dad.

"I are here!" she yelled and tried to lift Max from the ground.

"How is it that you are here alone?" Carter asks.

"They were not a match to me" and she looks at that dead hunter.

"Where's the doctor?" she asks, looking around.

"I am here, Luna!" a man said and she just went to the doctor and said.

"Give me your phone!"

"What are you doing, Mer?" James asks her.

"Give me your phone now, doctor!" she yelled at him and with some trembling arms the doctor gave her his device.

She starts to search through his text messages and when she is completely sure she says:

"You can touch my husband" and then she says to Sam. "He is not the traitor." and she started to look around.

All the men that accompanied Sam and Luke today are their best warriors, the most trustful men in the pack.

"This is a nightmare!" Meredith said looking around but just a look at Max and she doesn't care about anything else.

"We will deal with the traitor later" she said to Artemis and ran back to Max, kneeling next to him and taking his hand in hers.

"How is he?" she asks the doctor. "I've heard his heart stopping twice and I massaged his chest but I hope that was enough to save him.

"What?" the doctor said looking into her eyes.

"Did I do something wrong to him?" she asks, completely panicked.

"No Luna, but in this situation any other female wolf would have gone completely crazy. You did that during those circumstances?"

"I couldn't let him die. I would have done more but those jerks attacked me and I was forced to fight for some time and leave him alone."

Carter and London just look at each other.

"How many hunters were here, sweetie?" Landon asks his daughter.

"I don't know. It was their leader, someone called Michele Manganiello, and maybe another ten hunters that were submitted to him."

"Manganiello?" Carter asks in shock.

"Do you know him?" James asks coming closer to Meredith to search if she is alright.

"He is not a regular hunter, and he is a human with a special diet if I can say it this way."

"What do you mean?" Sam and Luke asked because this is something unheard of until now.

"He is kind of a cannibal, that jerk eats what he hunts." Carter said in horror.

"Does he eat werewolves?" Luke exclaimed horrified, not for fear but for abomination and revolt. "But we are half humans!"

"Exactly!" Carter said.

Meredith leaves Max's hand and looking at the warriors she said:

"You are our most trusted warriors," and she looks straight into their eyes saying that. Not one of them escapes the gaze of Meredith who seems to see beyond what the average person can see.

"Anytime I would have put my life in your hands knowing that you would defend me, but the fact is that one of you betrayed us today. I don't know which one of you is the one who did it" and she smiled when she said "But believe me, I will find out. And I will take care of him PERSONALLY!"

The warriors just look at each other.

But after she said that Meredith kneels again next to Max who is opening his eyes with difficulty.

"Hi there, stranger!" she whispers, smiling at him.

"You are here.." Max said with a muffled voice.

"You are still here"

"Where else should I be?" she asks him and kisses his forehead making him close his eyes and smile.

"Don't you know that where you go I will go, and where you stay I will stay?"

She looked him directly in his eyes while their parents and friends just stood there with a lot of emotion in their hearts seeing them like this.

They hoped their entire lives that Max and Meredith would be together and that they would love each other, but now they are watching the greatest proof of love.

"I thought that I would die," Max whispered, lifting his hand and caressing Meredith's face.

"Then when you die I will die too, Max, because not even death can separate you and me!" and she put her head on his chest letting her tears flow down her face and letting her emotions go.

"..not even death can separate us!"
