

133 Chapter 133 Hockey, this weekend, together!

Author's POV 1

"How are things between you and Leia?"
Meredith asks him while she goes to Luke's condo to take Theo.

"She hates me, and I love her. And please, talk with grandpa Cruz, because I know that he is the one behind, to stop sending me flowers. All my employees think that I am gay, not that this should be a problem, but I am not. Two of my directors started to woo me. "

"What did he do?" Meredith asks, laughing hard.

"Besides the flowers and chocolates he sends me every day? Not much. He hired a mariachi band to serenade me. He sent me tickets to the Vancouver Canucks hockey team game this weekend, he even sent me a t-shirt to come there as a fan."

"This is sweet," she said laughing.

"It would be more funny if he wouldn't do it on behalf of Leia who has nothing to do with what Grandpa is doing.

"So you love her?" and this time Meredith looks straight into his eyes.

"With all my heart. I was stupid, Mer. I never knew how cool it is to be a werewolf. I thought that you are savages, but you are just too good for this world."

"You are too sweet, Francois. Come, help me to take back my daughter from your sister's arms"

"Don't tell her that I told you but she just stares at her waiting for you baby girl to be covered with fur."

"I know, she has an obsession with that." and she starts to laugh, but as soon as the door opens they come face to face with Vivi and Leia who are playing with little Theo's tummy, tickling her and making funny faces at her, while Luke just smiles at them.

Smelling Francois, Leia lifts her head and she just smiles at him involuntarily. He is so handsome, wearing his navy suit with slim fit trousers and a white shirt. His blonde hair is slightly tousled giving him a bohemian air. Leia just stares at him and without realizing she says:

"Hey, you're back!"

Francoise stares at her, not knowing what to do with her attitude, remembering their last discussion.

"Good evening, miss Navarro" he said, making Leia sad, but like a hawk, Meredith is watching them and seeing all their reaction she says:

"It's good to be back home after all this shit! In a day or two Max will be fine too, and I would like to celebrate the fact that we are all good and nothing bad happened."

"And how are we going to do that?" Vivi asks, kissing Theo's little feet.

"We will go to hockey, this weekend, together!" she stated.

"What?" Francoise said, looking at her. Is she really doing this?

"But there are no tickets anymore!" Leia said.

"How do you know that?" Luke asks her, making some big eyes. She is not a hockey fan.

"I brought the last two for Francoise!" she said looking at him.

And Francoise just looks at her with his mouth open.

"Did you also bring that fucking mariachi at my office to sing me" Que Bonita Es Mi Tierra "?"

"No, that was Grandpa. I had nothing to do with it!" Leia said, smiling at him.

"What about the flowers and the chocolate? All my colleagues think that I have other preferences."

"That would be grandpa's hand too" Leia started to laugh "I only give cool gifts!"

And looking at her, Francoise said:

"Thank you for the tickets, my girl would like it" and he just turns his back to her and goes to Vivi and takes Theo in his arms, making Leia almost collapse.

"Baby Theo, would you be my date this weekend?" he asks. "Would you like to see some angry boys on ice?"

"Agagagaga" Theo muttered something in her language.

"Then we have a deal!" Francoise winked at Theo.

"You will need to convince her daddy, to give you his daughter!" Meredith said and this time she takes Theo in her arms holding her at her chest. She missed her baby girl.

"He must let her! I need a girl for that date!"

"I will go with you!" Leia tells him, but Francois just smiles at her.

"Miss Navarro, I promised you that I will never disturb you again, And you know what?" and he takes the tickets from his jacket pocket. "Take it! It's a shame not to use them if you want so much to go to the match. Especially since they are the last two tickets. Anyway, I need to work this weekend."

And he puts the tickets in her hand, making her feel all the tingles between them. They rejected each other but there is still some bond around.

"Will you go now?" Vivi asks him with a sullen face.

"Yes. Meredith is safe, so is Maximillian and I have no other reason to be here and disturb these pack members."

"let me drive you, I'm going anyway to the hospital and it's in our way. Thank you for caring about us so much, Franco!" Meredith said and started to walk with him, while Leia just watched him as he was leaving her, and her heart trembled.

"Tell him Leia!" Luke said, seeing her so sad.

"Tell him what?" she asks, still looking at Francoise's back.

"Tell him that you changed your mind, tell him that you want him"

"You heard him, there is no chance for me to be with him again." and she burst into tears thinking about this.

"I know Franco better than anyone!" Vivi stated.
"I will wash his brain. I want you and only you as my sister-in-law. We are the duo-siblings and I Intend to remain like this!"

Comment ⁰

Leave the first comment for this chapter.

Vote

Send Gift

Swipe left to continue >

