

15 Chapter 15 Mr. Cruz, you are so scary!

Author's POV 1

The next morning Meredith and Cara came to the office together, led by the driver sent by James, as usual.

"Meredith, don't you think it's too much?" Cara asks her, pointing to her clothes.

"No, you just look perfect." she said, smiling at Cara. "You are beautiful and these clothes only do justice to your beauty."

"I've never had anything so beautiful on me," she said, looking at her dress.

"You have a mission, remember? To make Sam Jackson kneel in front of you and apologize. And believe me that this will happen soon. You must be confident and believe in yourself." Meredith told her.

Cara is wearing a dress that Meredith brought special for her last night. It's a Guess light blue tweed-look dress, with a classic collar, short sleeves, slim fit. The dress has an inserted golden belt on waist and some splendid buttons at the front, mid thigh length.

"Isn't it too short?" Cara asked, feeling uneasy with a dress above her knees.

"No, Cara. It's the perfect length. Isn't too short, don't worry. Let's go in until we're late.

And when both Meredith and Cara entered the company, everyone present in the company lobby turned their heads to look at them.

Although Meredith has only been here for two days, she made everyone's hearts tremble, but Cara's new look is just the icing on the cake.

She is so pure and angelic with her straight blonde shoulder length hair. She has blue eyes just like Meredith but she is just 5.4 high and she is very slim, because of the poverty she lived in.

Right now she is just like a sweet and enticing fondant candy.

As soon as the elevator doors open, Meredith and Cara come face to face with Max and Sam, who keep their mouths wide open looking at the two women.

Max feels his body react to Meredith's appearance and involuntarily puts his hands in front of his pants trying to hide what is more than obvious.

But Sam, oh Sam has a little bit and faint seeing how beautiful Cara is.

But how does she afford to wear a dress like this and since when does Cara wear make-up?

Both Cara and Meredith signal to them that they will take the next elevator, but just when the doors close, Max puts his feet between the doors, stopping it from closing.

"Get in" he said in a commanding voice, while Sam was still with his mouth open.

"No, thank you, we don't want you to feel cramped," Meredith tells him, motioning for him to come up.

"GET IN!" Max said a little bit nervous and trying to avoid all the eyes that are on us right now.

Having no intention to provoke him, in order to avoid a show with everyone present here, Meredith gets on the elevator and immediately Cara follows her. They turn their backs on Max and Sam and ignore them completely, waiting for the elevator to reach the 6th floor, where the design department is.

But Sam goes crazy looking at Cara. All he sees are her super slim but very fit legs. He never thought that she could look so good under her old clothes. And her little ass on which he feels the need to put his hands, so he presses the emergency button and stops the elevator between the five and six floors.

"What the fuck are you doing?" Max asks him through their mindlink.

"I will take her down from this elevator, man, and send her home to change her clothes," Sam said fiercely, just looking at Cara.

"Tell me that you didn't press that button! You idiot! Meredith tells Sam looking into his eyes with authority, leaving him with his mouth open.

"How the fuck is it possible for her to use a luna command on me if she's human and she's not your wife yet?" he asks Max.

But Max just looks at her. She has her hair caught in a light bun and wears a very light vibrant pink ribbon detailed tweed dress from Gucci, that looks a lot with Cara's dress but is knee length.

The powder pink and beige cotton blend ribbon detailed tweed dress, make her look more younger and he has the need to kiss her right now. And all this outfit combined with her attitude is just irresistible.

"Alpha!" The elevator maintenance staff suddenly hears, "Is everything okay?"

And Max's heart stopped and immediately answered. "We are fine, just start the elevator."

Feeling his panic after the elevator mechanic addressed him with "alpha" Meredith can't help but ask:

"Is your ego so big that even your employee addresses you as a supreme leader?" and Cara bursts into laughter without wanting to, but just a glance from Max makes her swallow her laughter.

"Mr. Cruz, you are so scary! Meredith says ironically and as soon as the doors open she gets off the elevator with Cara after her.

The doors close, but in a second they open again, scaring them when Max and Sam appear behind them. Max pulls her hand and drags her into her office.

All the department looks at them wondering what is happening. They know Max is capricious and hard to control when he's nervous, but everyone in the design department really likes Meredith.

At the same time Sam takes Cara and lifts her over his shoulder with her ass in the air and goes straight to the kitchen.

Sam puts Cara on a counter, while she tries to pull on her dress and sit back down after Sam almost leaves her bare ass in front of all her colleagues.

"Where have you been in the last two nights?" Sam asks furious, clenching his fists.

"At home!" Cara answers, looking into his eyes for the first time since Sam rejected her and his heart starts beating fast.

She is so beautiful with her white skin, and her little nose. And those fleshy lips. What if he kissed them right now?

But Leo starts laughing in his mind.

"Why are you so tormented, Sam? Didn't you say she's nothing in your life? That she is too weak for you? It just seems to me or this little omega has a lot of power over you?"

"Shut up, Leo!" Sam said and looking at Cara he said.

"You are lying. I searched for you and your neighbor said the you moved from there"

"How do you know where I'm staying?" Cara asks angrily. What bravery on him!

And for the first time she realized that Meredith is right. She will play him on her finger until he comes to her feet. No, until he cries like the last beggar. He will pay for not wanting her from the beginning in his life.

"Tell me where you've been!" Sam shouted at her, holding her in his arms.

But Cara gathers all her strength and pushes him with all her might, moving him only a little, but enough to panic him.

"You know what?" she asks. "Let's end this here. You have no right to ask me about what I am doing. You are NOTHING in my life! I just need to leave and find my happiness!" she said and Sam turned white.

"Is she accepting our rejection?" Leo asks, almost transforming.

"I Cara Lewis" she starts "accept your .." but Sam puts his hand on his ears and runs out of the kitchen. If he doesn't hear words her acceptance will not be valid.

"What a fool..." Cici, Cara's wolf said. "I wonder who is really weak in this story" And Cara just looks at the floor and feels her heart tightening.

"This was close. But why didn't he accept my rejection? Why did he run? "

"Because he's an idiot who doesn't know what he wants."
