

165 Chapter 165 This is war!

Author's POV 1

"What did you do to her?" Landon said and jumping in the air put Max down in one single move, shocking everyone.

In his youth he was the strongest and the most powerful alpha in the US and Canadian continent and there was none that could be a match for him. Now he is almost in his fifties but he is still damn strong.

"She would neve leave like this. I know my daughter. She would never leave her daughter behind if she was fine. Bradley told me that she was fine when she came home, and I saw her a few hours ago. She was fine! She was ready to confront Manganiello and to meet with the rest of the alphas, so I am more than sure that you did something!" and he caught Max by his collar and beat him.

The fact is that Max could beat him, or at least fight with him as an equal, because he feels remorse for the way he talked with Meredith. He knows that his father is right. He did something.

"We had a fight about what she decided by herself that she will do tomorrow." and he just fell to his knees. "I told her to stay away for me..."

and she just left me”

“You did what?” Carter asked. “You kind of rejected her, Max!” and cursing he said. “ She must be heartbroken. Goddess!” and he wanted to punch Max but Luke held him.

“We must find Mer and after that you can beat him as much as you want. I am sure he didn’t want to hurt her. He was probably upset and as I know him , he didn’t even realized what the fuck was saying.”

“He’s right,” James said. All the time he didn’t say anything. He was just looking at his best friend and he knew that not even the most thoughtful beat will not be enough to match with the pain and the remorse Max feels right now.

So he didn’t say anything. He was just feeling sorry for Meredith and her pain, and for Max.

“If something bad happens to her, I will kill you!” Landon said, growling and pushing Max to the ground. James comes near and gives him a hand.

“Let’s go Max, let’s find her!”

“I am sorry” Max whispered.

“I know, man. I know.” and he patted him on his shoulder.

“Fuckin’, fuckin’ shit, man!” Luke suddenly cursed.

“What happened?” but Luke doesn’t say anything, just shows the Meredith bracelet.

“What about my phone?” Pete asked, looking at Pete.

“This one?” Luke asked and showed him some pieces from what was once his phone.

“We have hit a dead end,” Carter said, sniffing the air. “She was here for sure, we could track her but that could be a dead end again and we are losing precious time.”

And all men were looking one at each other and the silence took control over them.

“What if..” Pete Silverstone said after some time and looked in Max’s eyes.

“My father’s shelter is just four miles away. If she called him he would probably attract her there or he followed the original plan that you talked about.”

“And the point is?” Luke asked.

“The point is that he would never leave the shelter unguarded, and he trusts only my younger brother with that. He will help us if he is there.”

“A hunter would never betray his gang.” Landon said. “What the hell are you trying to do? Are you trying to lookin’ to crack down on us? and he starts to walk to punch Pete in the face but James steps between them and stopped him.

“What’s wrong with you, dad? Did you come here to throw punches? Or are you here to find Meredith?” and he holds him.

“Why would this brother help us?” James asked.

“Because he is just like me, he is forced to follow our father. All we want is a peaceful life. That’s all. He wants a family, he wants to leave with humans like him, not to live in a fucking forest, with a gang of psychos.”

“Let’s go “ Max said in the end and looked at Pete. “Help us with this task and I will never doubt you.”

And hearing him Pete’s heart became so fervent that he started to run directly.

“Just follow me!”

But as soon as they arrived in the area where the hunter’s shelter was, four hunters stepped in front of them with arms.

“Are you nuts?” one of them yelled at Pete. “Why did you bring those animals here?”

But before anyone else says anything a bog commotion was heard behind them and a huge growl made the whole forest resound.

"Animals?" Suddenly the boys heard Francois coming from behind, and while he walked looked at Max disapprovingly and said.

"That hurt, Maximillian! You didn't call me to help you!"

"I forgot, man," Max whispered, "it's nothing personal!"

"Nothing personal, my ass. Now I am angry" he growled and looking at the hunters he asked.

"Who are you calling an animal?" And he ran directly to one of them and took his head off, shocking everyone.

"Catch the rest!" Max commanded and it took them five minutes to annihilate those four hunters.

"I bet they never saw such a crowd in their life. So many alphas in a square meter" Françoise said and started to laugh. "And that's how the hunter became the hunt! "

"You are not funny, Francois," James said. "Stop it."

"But I am damned furious, James," he said and looked at Max with a lost of resentment.

"He knows what he did and he is sorry, stop focusing on him for the goddess sake. He is already suffering and he is more panicked than you are. My sister is his Luna. If he will lose her he will never be the same. So just stop whatever you are doing here. You are not punishing him right now." James said annoyed "You are limited Meredith's chances, making him weaker than he is right now." and looking at Pete he commanded "Call your brother!"

"Dean!" Pete started to yell. "Come out. It's me Pete. Everything will be alright!"

"You are lying!" a childish voice could be heard from the shelter.

"I am not. I would never hurt you. Just come out. Everything will be alright!"

"You promise!?" the boy asked.

"When have I ever lied to you?" Pete asked and he smiled and started to walk and open the door.

"Holy shit!" Carter said "It's just a kid!" and he looked in shock at the young boy who was guarding the shelter.

"He is my little brother," Pete said. "Dean. And he is only fourteen. He hates being here,"

"Help us" Max said "and I guarantee that I will help him live the life he dreamed."

"I want to leave this place." the boy said. "I want to live in Australia. I heard from my father that there is no trace of werewolves."

“ I am sorry to take your dream away, but your father was misinformed. There are werewolves too, but I can help you to live as you wish, just help us.”

“Where is dad?” Pete asked.

“He has been in Hamilton since yesterday. He called us an hour ago and he requested additional reinforcements up in the Devil’s Punchbowl Conservation Area. he will meet there with that female wolf he was looking for.”

“How many reinforcements ?” James asked him and looked at Max.

“There must be at least one hundred hunters with him by now. He called everyone from US and Canada” the boy said.

Max looked at him and then at one of his warriors and commanded:

“Take the boy and bring him to our pack, I can’t leave a child alone in this forest.”

“I am not a child!” the boy said but Max just smiled at him.

“You are, but you are a brave one, little one” and looking back at the warrior he said “ Ask the girls to send him to Pete’s room and give him some clothes and some food. Also, talk with Sam and tell him to be at Niagara Falls tomorrow morning. Ask him to call everyone. Every alpha he knows. Tell him that we need reinforcements too."

"This is not just a fight , man" James said and looked at Max and then at his father.

"No, it is not." and Max started to walk away from the shelter .

"This is war."

Comment ⁰

Leave the first comment for this chapter.

Vote

Send Gift

Swipe left to continue >