

33 Chapter 33 You came for me...

Author's POV 1

"Did you track him?" Max asks James.

"No, but he's in White Rock for sure." James said.

"We need to find her tonight. I am afraid knowing that she is with Castellano. He is too unpredictable. "Landon Quinn said, still looking at the map.

And they keep looking at the map trying to find something leading them to Meredith.

"Did you find anything?" Lori asks as she enters with Cara in the room, and brings some coffee in her hands. But no one says anything.

"This will help you to focus, my love" she said putting a cup of coffee in James hand.

"I don't understand, where could he keep her? This place is full of tourists in this period, he will attract attention over him so he must stay in some hidden place. "

Cara looks at the map that stays lying on the table.

"Sometimes the best hiding place is in sight. What is in this area?" she asks, seeing a very large land with a house in the middle of it.

"It's a private property." Sam said. "A rich man from America has a house but he never lives there. Why are you asking? "

"It's the only isolated but inhabited place from this map," she said. "Why don't you check the house?"

"Cara , I know you're worried, but ..." Sam said, but immediately Max stands up and said,

"Let's go. Let's check the place. " and everyone looks at him like a madman.

"Why do you look at me like that?" he asks.

"Castellano has enough money to buy that place overnight, and she is right, the place is perfect to hide someone. On a 72,000 square foot of land you can hide an entire army and no one will notice. "

"I'm coming with you," James said.

"And me too" Luke says and immediately gets to his feet.

"No, stay here in case our men find something." and immediately leaves, followed by James.

"My car or yours?" Max asks but James goes straight to Max's car and opens the door.

"Why, James? I thought that we are friends." Max asks immediately when the car started.

"It wasn't my story to tell you," James tells him.

"You fooled me, you betrayed my trust in you." Max tells him.

"You're an idiot, you know that?" James asks him.

"We were friend when you married her and I never said anything to you while you were mocking her during your marriage"

"You scold me when you talk about her ex!" Max yells at him clutching his hands around the wheel.

"And what?" James asks, "Didn't you want to beat the bastard who was married with her? You are free to beat yourself!"

"I wasn't so bad!" Max said, trying to remember what he had done.

"No, Max, you were a saint. I think I'll have to find a church and start a beatification process for you and officially make you a saint!"

And Max shut his mouth and drove but after some time he says.

"Just to be clear. She is my wife and I want her back. She is also my mate and there is no question about this. She will come back into my house and live with me "

"She is your ex-wife!" James said.

"You sound like Stark right now!" Max says angrily, making James laugh for the first time in almost two days.

"This is the reality. And about the mate thing, this is important for you but for Meredith is not because she is human. And about the last part in which she will live with you... Oh, man! I believe you smoked something wrong."

"So you won't help me?" Max asks as he sees the private property appearing after a curve.

"All I can promise is that I will not interfere in your mate's bond, but for me she should never forgive you."

"What have you done with my friend?" Max asks.

"You lost him the second you hurt my sister again." And as soon as he parked, James got out of the car.

"Fuck! Do you feel the air?" He asks, starting to shake.

"There are rogues here!" and Max immediately goes to the gate and checking the area he finds a werewolf in front of him.

"This is private property, please stay away," said the man.

"We were just looking around" James said smiling at him and in a second Max hit the man making him faint.

"Cara was right. I think she is here. " and both of them walked to the house as if they were the masters of the place, knocking down anyone who came out of them.

"Shit! James, they are too many "and looking around the house they find a place to hide. "Call Landon and the boys , but I'm not going to wait. I am going to search for her. "Max said and immediately broke a basement window and slipped into the house, and James immediately appeared behind him.

"I take the ground floor," James said.

"Did you call them?" and Max is already looking upstairs and he takes his phone out of his pocket.

"Yes, dad and the boys are on their way to this place," said James.

Stark and Stallion take full control of both of them, so to be able to fight if it is necessary and both of them start to look for Meredith, because the house is embraced in her smell. She is here and both of them know that.

Looking at his phone, Max dial Castellano's number and listen with attention around him.

He is in the house. Max hears the ringtone very close.

"We hear again," Castellano said but in a second Max hears Meredith crying. "Max! I am here!"

"Shut up!" Castellano said and a loud slap can be heard at the same time with a crying.

"Shit!" Max runs and stops in front of a door where he knows that he will find Meredith.

"Open the door!" Castellano says on the phone. "I already know that you are here from the second you put your foot in my house."

And when the door opened his heart just stopped.

In the middle of the bed , hurt and full of bandages, with her lips bleeding and a bruised eye, Meredith is looking at him.

"You came!" she whispered and bursted in tears, trying to get up and come to Max, but even if she managed to cope with the pain, Castellano's claws around her neck would kill her instantly.

"Castellano" Max said "Leave my wife alone"

And Meredith just died.

His what?

And she starts to tremble in Castellano's grip, making his claws to get in her soft skin. The blood starts to run down her throat.

"Meredith!" Max yelled.

"If she's not mine, she'll never be yours!"
Castellano said and hit her in the head so hard that the blood rushed to her nose.

Max sneaks up on him and in a second puts him on the ground, punching him in the face.

"Maybe you're richer than me!" and takes him another punch in the face "Maybe you are a big name in the design field" and punches him again
"and maybe you are the heir of the werewolves mob BUT when you touch my family, you are just a nobody!" and he grips his neck and drags him out of Meredith bed.

"Max!" James said coming into the room "His beta and his brother just ran. I couldn't catch them!"

But seeing Meredith in a pool of blood he lost his voice.

"Mer .." James said and running to her starts to put his hands over her wounds to stop the bleeding.

Max gives Castellano one more punch and sends him to the world of dreams directly and letting him fall on the ground he runs away and climbs into bed next to Meredith.

She is looking at him with her eyes half closed and she smiles slightly.

"You came for me," she whispered, looking at him with teary eyes.

"Of course I came after you, stupid woman! You are my wife!" and he takes her from James' arms and puts her on his chest and lifts her in bridal style and runs out of the house with her.

"Wife?" Meredith whispers looking at him while he approves with a nod of his head.

But just before she faint again, she says with her last force:

"Neah... .ex-wife!"

Comment 1

View All >

Leave the first comment for this chapter.

Vote

Send gift

Swipe left to continue >