

10 Chapter 10

Aurora's POV 1

I met Mrs. Kala in the maids quarters, and she escorted me up until the fourth floor of the mansion.

"Up here only the alphas bedroom is occupied. Both the beta, gamma and elders reside on the third floor.

The second floor is only for guests and the offices. And you already know the first floor." Mrs. Kala explained as I followed behind her trying to remember every turn we took.

"Here we are dearie. This is your room." She said as she stood before a door.

"The alphas bedroom is the one down the hall." She said pointing to the lonely door that stood at the end of the hall.

"Here are your keys. Beta Barone already left your luggage in there. Just go ahead and get settled in. I'll come looking for you in a bit for lunch." She said.

"Um. I'm not really hungry Mrs. Kala. I'll just unpack and lay down for a while." I said to the older lady.

"You sure honey? You didn't eat breakfast either, did you?" She said a bit concerned.

"Yes ma'am." I replied giving her a smile to assure her that I was indeed all right.

"Very well. I know you are overwhelmed about all of this, so I'll let you rest. But I'll be looking for you for dinner, okay?" She said to me.

I somehow felt that I couldn't argue with her about not eating dinner, so I sighed and nodded.

"Set your room however you feel like and I'll come check on you later, dearie." Mrs. Kala said.

"Thank you, Mrs. Kala."

With that the older lady turned and walked out leaving me in the huge room which had a pastel painting on its walls and white trimming.

In the center was a simple queen-sized bed against the left side of the wall, with simple white sheets dressing it. There was a little chimney before it lit keeping the room warm.

To the side of the bed sat an adorable white chair. I could picture myself reading my Kindle seated there.

Right behind the chair stood a glass door that lead to a balcony.

I turned and found two doors facing the bed and between each of them was a huge fifty-five-inch TV screen that hung above the chimney. I opened the first one that was on the right and found it was enormous bathroom that consisted of a beautiful marble tub and a shower that stood to the side.?

The wall was adorned with a huge mirror and the countertop was big enough to hold all the vanities of four people. I came back out and decided to inspect the second door which happened to be a walk-in closet. Each side of the wall had hangers and drawers I'm sure I'd never fill.

I walked over to the glass door and opened it walking out to the enormous balcony and I couldn't help but sigh in delight as I admired the beautiful rose yard which its aroma immediately permeated the room.

'Maybe it won't be that bad living here.' I thought to myself.

'Of course not! We'll be closer to our mate!' Rhea who was silent all this while shouted in my head making me jump.

'Rhea, we are gonna be closer but as his personal slave.' I retorted. 1

'It doesn't matter. With time, he'll realize we are meant to be together.' Rhea commented, making me roll my eyes.

'But what if he doesn't?' I said as I walked back into the room and opened my grip.

'He will! I know it!' Rhea said, determination filling her eyes.

'Yeah, sure. Look at us! He literally just turned us into his slave. Oh goddess, please give me strength to endure what's yet to come.' I said while I tried my best to control my imagination from any and every possible torture Wolfgang might have in store for me.

I spent the rest of my evening unpacking and putting my stuff where I thought was best for it, when someone knocked at the door.

"Yes?" I said from the closet.

The door opened and a petite redhead peaked inside.

"Can I come in?" Asked the person who I recognized as gamma Remus mate, Aspen.

"Sure." I smiled at the petite redhead as she stepped into the room.?

Gamma Bowen and Aspen were one of those lucky couples who the goddess connected by faith. I heard that once before the gamma met his mate, he was an uptight pompous workaholic.?

One day, a couple of years ago while on patrol with the alpha, he caught a whiff of a scent that left him rendered motionless. He almost teared the village down in search of that scent until he came across this lonely she-wolf who stood wary and frightened at the outskirts of the village.?

Aspen was a nomad, who became an orphan by the war. She roamed from village to village seeking refuge until she came across Iliamna, and once she placed foot here, their mate bond automatically went in action.

From then on, they have been inseparable.

"So... I came here to see if you needed help with getting settled in, but I see you're already good." She smiled as she sat down on my bed.

"Oh? Yeah. I didn't bring much to begin with." I said as I closed my closet door and headed over to sit next to her.

She stretched her hand out for me to shake.

'You see Aurora? Our mate is interested in us. That's why he brought us here to the mansion. He's afraid we might leave the pack.' Rhea's voice echoed in my head.

"I sincerely doubt it." I said to both of them remembering his words last night when we met in the forest.

I watched Rhea rolled her eyes while she laid down and Aspen just shrugged her shoulders.

"Well, think whatever you want. I know what I'm talking about. I mean, the guy literally had you set in the room right next to his. I wouldn't be surprised if he had you sleeping in his bed, or at least that's what I'd do." Aspen said giggling making me blush of the thought of being wrapped up in Wolfgang's strong arms.

"I don't think that would be appropriate." I answered her.

"Of course it wouldn't. But c'mon! This is alpha Fortier Gagliardi we're talking about." She said as she stood and waved her hands in exasperation. "I mean, he's no Remus but he is the most desired man in the village, and he obviously has his eyes set on you, Aurora." She placed her hands on her hips and gave me a wink.

"It's a pleasure meeting you, Aurora, right? The name is Aspen."

She was really beautiful in a completely unique way. She was just a few inches taller than me with chocolate color skin and bright green eyes. Her hair was a tall curly red Afro which she had adorned with a green bandanna. She was very voluptuous for her small frame, making me aware of my small chest. I took her hand and shook it giving her the best smile I could utter.

"Nice meeting you Aspen."?

"So... You're the alpha's personal maid, huh? I can see why he requested you. You're gorgeous!" She squealed while she gave me a once over making me even more uncomfortable.?

"Um, thanks... I guess. But I'm pretty sure I'm not here because he likes me. I'm just here to work." I told her as I took a people and hugged it.?

"Oh, please. I've known him for the last three years and I've never seen him request a maid, and all of sudden he's taken interest in you." She said as looked me square in the eye making me blush.?

overpowered our packs warriors, killing my father, the former gamma and the former beta back then. Alpha Gudolf had managed to kill Jacques, but his son, Klaus was who defeated our former alpha.?

Wolfgang had been on the battlefield that day, and they say that the moment alpha Gudolf closed his eyes, the alpha's powers kicked in, causing Wolfgang who was only seventeen at the time to claim his spot as leader of the pack and they say there was no wolf more powerful than his, as he ran through the battlefield, biting and snapping necks. The rogues were forced to fall back, earning us the winning position that day with a bitter-sweet sensation.

After that battle, rogues kept gathering and trying to ambush our pack, but thanks to Wolfgang who immediately sought out allies, we've become one of the strongest fortresses on the northern continent.

'Aurora, let's go for a run. I need to stretch my legs.' Rhea's voice resonated in my head taking me out of my train of thoughts. I smiled at her suggestion.

"Sure. I could use some running to help get myself relaxed."?

I walked out the door and headed down the flight of stairs until the first floor. I was about to turn to the kitchen area to ask for the nearest back door when I heard voices in the foyer.

"... I thought you'd meet my gamma with your father Tallulah."?

It was Wolfgang's voice.?I couldn't move. I was glued to the door frame separating the foyer from the grand hall. I peeped just a little and saw the blonde haired she wolf and my mate alone talking.

"I was so eager to see you that I came before him. That little redhead girl tried to stop me, but I could care less what a nomad like her has to say." Tallulah answered nonchalantly. You can see she was the daughter of an alpha cause Wolfgang's strong aura did not affect her at all.

"So, you promised me on the night of the party you'd take me out for a run around the villages forest. I thought we could do that now." She said in a flirtatious tone as her hands glide up and down Wolfgang's chest making my stomach twist in disgust.

Wolfgang swiped her hand from over his chest.?

"I don't recall making such a promise but if you're so eager for a run, I can appoint a warrior to be your guardian." He said as he started to walk off.

"No. I want to go with you." She pouted.

"And I don't have time for fooling around. Now if you'll excuse me. I have somethings to do before I meet your father." He said before disappearing through another door leaving the blonde she-wolf fuming and I with an unsettling feeling in the pit of my stomach.

Why do I feel she is bad news? 2
