

18 Chapter 18

Aurora's POV 1

I take back what I said. Things definitely got worst. It's been a week since Wolfgang's sudden urge of inviting Tallulah for breakfast; now they spend every waking hour together.

'I'm sure there's nothing between those two Aurora. Wolfgang loves us, not that stuck up she-' Rhea kept reassuring me in my mind, but I knew better. This was his way of torturing me. He knows how much it bothers me to see them together. Why did I have to blurt that out!

To top it off, Emma left a couple of days ago to study and I'm left without my best friend for the next semester. In our last conversation she chewed me out for making her worry about me, and then she bombarded me with ways of seducing Wolfgang. As if that could ever work. 2

"Aurora!" I turned to see who was calling me and saw Aspen a Remus heading my way.

"Oh, hey Aspen." I waved at her before bowing before gamma Remus.

"Where are you off to?" The redhead asked, inquisitive as always.

"I was on my way to the backyard. My wolf needs to stretch her legs for a bit." Today was my day off but because I was late last week, Wolfgang took it off as punishment.

"Does alpha Wolfgang know that you're about to leave the mansion?" Gamma Remus asked me.

"Um... Well, no..." I started but Aspen cut me off.

"Oh come on Remus. It's not like she's leaving the premises. She'll be right here in the backyard tight?" Aspen said as she gave me a wink.

"The alpha was clear that she wasn't to leave the mansion." Remus shot back at his mate.

"Come on! She can't be kept in here for his pleasure. Tell you what? I'll go with her." Aspen spoke once more. I was surprised how comfortable they were both in each other's presence. I wondered if Wolfgang and I could ever be like that?

"The answer is no. Those rogues have been trying to get into our village." Remus now looked like he was getting pissed.

"It's just the backyard forest Remus!" Aspen was getting upset as well.

"Guys, guys. It's okay. I don't want anyone in trouble. It's not really urgent for Rhea to run around right now. I'm sure she can hold it for another week.

Remus suddenly faced me; shock clear in his face.

"What did you say?" Remus asked me, surprised still etched in his features.

"Um, that I'm okay with not going out for now?" I answered him not sure if I said something I wasn't supposed to.

"No. What is the name of your wolf?" He asked.

"Oh, Rhea." I answered him still unsure of what that has to do with me going out or not.

He stood there pensive with his thumb pressed to his chin.

"Remus? What is it?" Aspen asked him also not understanding what this was all about.

"Nothing. It's just that I find it peculiar that Miss Craton's wolf name is Rhea, and alpha Wolfgang's wolf's name is Cronnos." He answered me as he started registering things in his mind.

"What does any of that have to do?" Aspen asked the question that roamed in my head.

"In Greek mythology, Rhea and Cronnos are the titans who created the world and are parents of the gods Zeus, Hades and Poseidon. They were husband and wife." Remus explained surprising me with this new piece of information.

"You don't mean that Aurora and Wolfgang are..." Aspen spoke excitedly.

"This is just theory, but it is known that wolfs only mate to the other whose wolfs name connects in Greek mythology, for example, Aspens wolf name is Penelope, and my wolfs name is Odysseus. Miss Craton, you recently turned eighteen, right? Have you found your mate?" Remus asked as I saw he and Aspen putting pieces together.

Oh no. If they know that I'm actually Wolfgang's mate, he'll vanish them for sure.

"No sir. I haven't." Oh my goddess, I lied to the gamma.

"Are you sure Rory? You haven't felt anything?" Aspen asked this time.

"No. I'm sorry. Um, I better get back into my room before alpha Wolfgang takes another day off from me. See you around Aspen. Goodbye Gamma Remus." I quickly bowed my head before darting into the mansion. I didn't want them asking anymore questions.

'But this proves it Aurora. Wolfgang and you are true mates. Cronnos. What an appealing and sensual name.' Rhea fan-girl while I kept remembering what gamma Remus said. This really proves that Wolfgang and I are meant to be together, but why was he so eager to push me away?
