

32 Chapter 32

Aurora's POV 1

It's been three days since I was taken to the rogues lair.

After I was taken out of the hospital, the rogues blindfolded me and took me to their hideout. I'm suspecting it is somewhere near the packs village borderline because it only took us a day and half of walking.

When we got there I was carried into a musty old dungeon and left there. I'd only see one of the rogues once a day when they'd bring me my meal.

I discovered that the leader of the rogues name is Klaus. His father was the great Jacques Roulette. The infamous rogue who tried to dethrone the late alpha Gudolf, but in the end died in the hands of him.

I have been trying to contact my inner wolf, but it's as if Rhea has disappeared. If I could get her, she's could contact Wolfgang and the pack, and I could report my whereabouts so they could save me.

I wondered if Wolfgang would even send someone to rescue me.

They surely wouldn't abandon me, would they?

But it's been three days and we haven't heard anything from them or receive so much as a letter with an answer to the rogues demands.

I felt footsteps coming and the jingling of keys. The door opened suddenly revealing that bastard of Klaus.

"It's been three days lil' Missy and still no answer from your alpha or the pack." He snarled. "I hope you aren't lying to me to protect the true Luna". He knelt before me as he took a dagger out of his waistband and pointed it to my face. It was just mere inches away from my cheek, but I could feel my skin burn. The blade must be made out of silver.

"Have you forgotten about the mark on my neck? I am the true Luna." He grabbed me by my chin.

"Any male could mark you if he wanted to. The thing is that I don't think you've mark your mate." He said inching closer. "If I felt like it, I could remove that mark and have my way with you." He said with that sinister smirk on his face.

I could see it in his disgusting eyes. Lust was written all over it.

I tried to push him away, but I was still too weak. Why was my strength drained. Where was Rhea?

"Taking a good look, you're not that bad lil' Missy." He said as he nibbled on my earlobe while he held me down with one hand and the other caressed between my thighs.

Panic was taking over me quickly. I felt tears trickling at the corner of my eyes.

"Please. Don't..." I tried to plead. "If you touch me, alpha Wolfgang will know through our bond and he'll not be happy about it." I threaten. "You promise you wouldn't harm me." 1

"Oh. I'm counting on that." He smirked.

Wolfgang's POV

"Why are you taking long with this?! We should have sent the troops long ago!" I shouted at my gamma.

"Sir. We haven't gotten the reply from the blue moon pack yet. If we don't get back up, we could be at a disadvantage." Remus answered.

"We are still uncertain on the amount of rogues in that lair. Intelligence have been unfruitful with the exact information." Max added making me even more frustrated. It's been days and we haven't made a move on saving Aurora.

"The Blue moon pack will not aid us because I broke off the marriage with the alphas daughter Remus." I snarled. "We need to move n..."

Suddenly I felt a pain course through me. It started right in my chest and spread throughout my entire body.

"Nngh!" I gripped my chest as I doubled over by the pain.

"Alpha?! What's wrong?" Remus came up to me.

"I... I don't... Aahg!" The pain in my chest increased tenfold. My knees gave out on me and I fell to the ground. That's when I saw it. I... Saw him, the rogue. He was over me... No... It wasn't me... It was her. I could hear her shouts.

'Nooo!!! Pleeease... Stopppp!!!'

He was forcing himself over her... Harming her. I could feel everything he did to her. This must be the mates connection.?

It is said that if your mate is touched by another, you can feel everything she feels.?

This must be it. The connection must have finally been made since I accepted her as my Luna.

"Wolfgang! What's?" Max started to ask as he kneeled next to me, but I cut him off too.

"M... make it stop! Please!" I gripped my head. It was agonizing. Tears were streaming down my eyes.

The last thing I remembered before passing out was hearing Aurora's pleading voice.

"Wolfgang.."

Comment ¹⁰

View All >

Post your first comment!

Vote

Send Gift

