CH 58

Karsyn POV

He was standing in his father's office, staring at the man who was sitting drinking a cup of what he thought was herbal tea. He'd never really seen him do that before. That was a very odd thing for his father to do. He'd gotten up and attended training this morning, his father had stated simply down the mind-link, ' I'm not feeling so well. You run it, Karsyn.'

That had drawn his full attention, but had gone off to do so, had showered and changed and was now with his entire unit in the Alpha's office. His father didn't look like he was unwell at all. Sat calmly now in his chair sipping on that cup of tea, reading some paperwork.

"When did you start drinking tea?" he asked.

"A little while ago. Demi gave it to me as a gift. It keeps me feeling connected to her," he answered, without so much as looking up at him.

Karsyn left it alone. The man wanted his stepdaughter back, missed the girl, and it was likely that her gift of tea would make him feel a bit closer to her.

"Father, I want you to strip naked and let me check you for a bite from a rabid wolf." he stated firmly.

He saw his father's eyes move right to him, that tea cup was put down. "Why?" he frowned right at him "I have not been bitten, I assure you."

"Really, then explain to me your irrational behavior over the past month or so?"

"I'm not irrational, Karsyn. I know where my daughter is, and I will be getting her back."

"Hmm, really. Pray tell father where is Demi? If you know with certainty, tell me I'll go and get her."

He saw his father's eyes harden, knew that man still believed she was in the Wintering Moon being harmed. He was really glaring at him now, getting worked up, Karsyn thought. It wasn't going to take much at all to push him into a yelling match. He was irrational.

"I have told you where she is," his father snapped.

"And I have told you the Wintering Moon is not harming her."

"You have no proof of that, Karsyn."

"You have no proof they are either."

"I have photos," his father suddenly roared at him, "that is the proof."

"Not good enough in my eyes," Karsyn stated flatly.

"That bh has her. I'm going to kill."

Crush was all on the surface a second later, snarling all his alpha aggression at the man that was threatening his Mate. Saw his father's head bow as he was flooded with Crush's aura. He was much stronger than their father was and his wolf was displaying it for all to see.

'Pin him down, boys. Let's strip him and search him,' he mind-linked to his entire unit. Let Crush hold that man in place while his unit stepped up to their actual alpha. His eyes moved to the current Alpha Unit and he tilted his head. As one of them moved to step in.

'Don't do it Rickford.' he shot down the mind-link.

"You're attacking your own father, your own alpha. It's treason, Kar."

"He's irrational, paranoid and delusional, Rickford. Angers easily and is no longer logical in his thought process, he is completely obsessed with the Wintering Moon. No, with Raygan herself being the one harming Demi. I know you see it. We are not hurting him. Just searching him for a rabid bite."

"There isn't one."

"That you know of," he shot back, "Help me to prove it. I'll take the punishment if I'm wrong. Hell, I'll leave if that is what he wants. Calls me a traitor. But you know as well as I do. A single rabid wolf inside this pack. Could be the death of us all. You saw mother. Is he not acting like he's starting to lose his mind?"

Watched as Rickford stepped back and allowed the search to happen. Crush kept his own father in line the whole time. Even though they knew it was likely hurting the man and his wolf. It had to be done. Not once did Crush stop rolling his aura at his own father. Was of the opinion that he deserved it for the insult to his Mate.

They stripped him down and searched every inch of the man, nothing, not a single scratch on him. He knew a bite from a rabid wolf would not heal, and a scratch from one would leave a purplish discoloured scar, didn't infect one but damaged the skin and left a mark.

Stood staring at the man, as his unit backed away from him, stepped right behind Karsyn before Crush released him. It hadn't taken long, a few minutes only. Got snarled at by his father instantly. "You dare to treat me like that. Like you're the alpha and I'm nothing?"

"I do, father. Because you are no longer in your right mind, as far as I can tell. Six months ago, when I came home, you were logical and methodical in all you did. Then I go away and come home to find you've started a war, with no evidence at all. Are constantly stating it is Raygan herself that has Demi. When she has actually cooperated with me, with grandmother. Given you back Danny, didn't even harm the boy. Which he told you himself, I heard, you also just voiced a threat to Raygan even with that Oath on your own Mate, knowing it would kill her."

"I'm not losing my mind boy, I lost my daughter and want her back. All evidence points to the Wintering Moon. Raygan has her."

"Really? Show me a picture of Raygan with Demi. Prove to me beyond a shadow of a doubt it is Raygan. Because I can guarantee you, she was in Germany with me when you started that war. Wasn't even here," stared right at the man as he pulled his clothes back on, "In fact, father, she was in my bed for several days. We spent three days fg each other senseless. That's why you couldn't get a hold of me. If she'd not been called back to war, I'd still bloody be in her bed."

Saw his father's eyes now snap right to him, "You f*d the enemy," he snarled, all anger and aggression.

"Yes. Loved every damned second of it, couldn't bloody get enough, the boys here can attest to that fact.

Can attest to the fact that she was in Germany. I'd be willing to bet you could call that Alpha over there and ask him just how long she was in his pack. From my understanding, six months of drinking and dancing over there, never left the pack ever. So, it wasn't Raygan, you could find that out yourself, with a simple phone call or two."

Watched as his father's anger seemed to notch right up to a full fury, he felt Rick's hand on him, "Kar?"

"No, I've had enough," he stated flatly, and he had. It was time to out the entire truth of the matter, let the chips fall where they may. He smiled at his father's fury, tilted his head to the side and moved the collar of his shirt, "Raygan is my Goddess Gifted Mate, and I have now claimed her for myself."

The roar that came out of his father said it all, there was about to be an Alpha on Alpha fight right here inside this office. His father was never going to win it; he knew this, Karsyn had picked him up one-handed already to show him just how strong he actually was.

He stood his ground even when he saw his father shoot off the spot to come at him, saw that man's entire unit drag him down, were struggling to keep him down at that, shook his head and pulled the tranquilliser gun from the back of his jeans where he'd put it prior to coming into this room.

Saw Rickford's eyes widen a little and then just nodded his head. He wasn't getting a say in the matter though. Pointed that gun right at his father and pulled the trigger. Watched his father's wolf recede with the wolfsbane and then the man was unconscious a minute later.

"He's out of control," Karsyn stated, "you can now see that, right? Knows he's no match for me, yet lost it over the fact that I have a Goddess Gifted, simply because it is Alpha Raygan."

Rickford huffed, "He's been off for a while, Karsyn. But he seems fine most of the time, just has moments where he's not rational. It is completely plausible that its fear for Demi setting that off."

"I get that. But come on Rickford. The mere mention of Raygan's name triggers him into a rage. That is not normal. He could once talk about the Wintering Moon and both Raygan and Grant without losing it."

Saw the man nod, "Then what now?"

"Something is going on, the man is losing his mind. Though I was expecting to find a rabid bite," he sighed heavily, "take him to the pack hospital, have the doc run tests on him. Full bloods, something has to be going on, something has to be wrong with the man."

"He's going to wake up fully pissed off, Karsyn. The first thing Steffen is going to think is the last thing he heard. You and Raygan are Mated to each other."

"It was always going to happen, I just couldn't get her to let me Mark her, due to all that is going on. Got no choice in the matter last night."

"Is she really your Goddess Gifted or are you just going ahead with the alliance your grandmother tried to set up?"

"They are Goddess Gifted father," Rick stated "I was there for that meeting, their first one, if you recall, it was on the full moon. I felt the moon set, as did both of them. I was right there to see them react to each other. They are gifted to each other."

Rickford sighed, "Just great. He's never going to believe it, you know this right. Not with that alliance mating you agreed to."

"Why do you think I agreed to it, so quickly!" Karsyn told him, "get him up, cuff him with silver, he can't be trusted right now."

"Is going to get out of that bed and go right to the Wintering Moon to start war." Rickford muttered.

"So even you see he's practically insane then. That would kill his own Luna; he knows this but still wants war. How is it, you're all just letting him go about like this?" he shook his head, "you're all responsible for him, if he gets up and out of the hospital, goes to war as you think he will. I will hold all of you personally responsible for Renee's death."

"Kar?" Rickford stated.

"No, you will cuff him, he is not fit to rule this minute, therefore I am now the Alpha in charge if you will not do it. My unit will and you will all step aside or I will make you as much as I can him. Raygan is not responsible for Demi's disappearance."

"Do you know where she is?"

"Yes, and she is fine from all accounts. Happy even." he stated, pulled his phone out and clicked through his phone to the picture of Demi and Zac that Raygan had sent him. Turned it to them to see, "There is more going on here than any of us could understand. Raygan and I need to figure out what the hell is going on."

"Is that Alpha Zac of the Wintering Moon?" Rickford asked, more than shocked as he took the phone, could read the words under it. See for himself how happy she looked that she was the one taking the photo even.

"Yes, apparently, they are Goddess Gifted Mates. Though neither Raygan nor I believe that."

"So, she was there all this time."

"Don't do it, Rickford. You go down that road and you'll be dealing with me. Raygan did nothing to that girl. That was taken on the last full moon. A month after she went missing. Does she look harmed to you, unhappy to you?"

He could see his whole father's unit looking at the picture, they were all frowning at it, trying and he knew to make sense of everything they had seen up until that moment.

"From my understanding, she is currently loved up and in heat. Locked away with Alpha Zac mating like crazy. Started the day father got that footage of Demi being mated aggressively. Nothing that wouldn't be out of the ordinary for a Mated pair in heat, yes?"

He watched them nod, "So, what are you doing about this?"

"Waiting for them to come out of that room. Just so you know, there have been several videos sent to father's phone of her being taken to since she went into heat. Demi and Zac are up to something, inciting this war themselves. I don't understand it, neither does Raygan. We will get to the bottom of it. You need to keep father out of it. Nothing, it seems, is going to stop him from thinking the worst."

"Not even this." Rickford nodded, "I think he would just lose it even more, seeing as that is Alpha Zac of the Wintering Moon, would just state he was right all along, and that Demi was forced to Mate to him, is playing along until she can get away herself."

"Agreed, that's why I've not said anything to him. He's completely irrational, paranoid."

12
Comments

5
Vote

LUCK DRAW >