

No Chance 30

Chapter 30 What Brings You Here at This Hour?!

“Alright then.”

Although Julia agreed on the surface, that was not her intention. Instead, she was even more determined to find a perfect man for Elisa, and that man shall be her grandson-in-law!

Two of them had some small talk for a while before hanging up.

Thereafter, Elisa clicked into Twitter effortlessly.

Being involved in a trending topic was nothing new to her. Although she wasn't a celebrity, she was often involved in a trending topic with Gareth, as well as through her anonymous Twitter account.

For the sake of the company's reputation, Gareth and Elisa had been behaving like a perfect couple in public. They often attended some events together to build an image of a loving couple.

In the past, Elisa was willing to cooperate with Gareth because she loved him. Besides, she actually looked forward to those events because she would only feel like she had married a good husband when they were in public.

But now...

Wickam Group might be affected now that the news of Will and her became a trending topic.

After all, it was a known fact that Gareth and Will were sworn enemies.

Why did Mrs. Wickam wife a loving couple? They are always spotted together wherever they go, and Gareth Wickam is a gentleman! This must be Darcey's trick to tackle Wickam. After all, they had been daggers drawn for a long the comments. She wouldn't think a paparazzi would be able to capture such a clear picture and even have the nerve to post

Will must have didn't care what his intention was, but the others might not just as Elisa was going to fall asleep, naturally knew what the jerk was going to say, and she

the car, Gareth wore

but the call

end, Elisa even

Thud!

You're something, Elisa Benett! I've just warned you today not to mess around with Carle, yet there's actually something going on between

of his car and strode peaceful after switching off her phone. She closed her eyes and was ready to have the past three years, Elisa had been living a difficult life as she waited for Gareth's return daily. It was finally let go of everything and slept peacefully at night. She even felt more dong! Ding dong!

the blue. Elisa opened her eyes