

Reborn to Be A Noble Wife

Chapter 5

Chapter 5 Grandmother Came in Time to Back Her Up

“Qing He is Yan’s servant and always looks after Yan. Why is she involved?” Yu looked angry. Qu Qiuyan was her daughter. What the hell did the girl want to do?

“Madam, please bring Qing He here!” Qu Moying lifted her eyebrows slightly and said calmly.

“Moying, before you came to the house, everything was fine. You’ve just been back for a few days, but the whole family is thrown into turmoil. Now, Yan’s servant is implicated. What do you want to do?” Yu couldn’t control herself. She said furiously with her face darkening. How dared the blind girl get Yan’s servant involved?

“What’s Yan’s servant involved in? Why can’t it be talked about?” A serious voice came from the door. The Old Lady arrived so quickly!

Yu was startled and felt upset, but she had to wear a smile, turn around and greet smilingly, “Mother.”

Qu Moying walked forward, saluted the Old Lady, and greeted in a trembling voice, “Grandmother!”

Scenes of the past leaped before Qu Moying’s eyes. In the whole family, only the Old Lady cared about the girl without a mother and always wanted to keep her around. But Qu Moying was too solitary and was not close to the Old Lady because of being alienated by others, so she insisted on living in the village alone.

“Ying, are you all right?” The Old Lady held Qu Moying’s hands and looked up and down at her. Seeing her clothes were slightly burnt, the Old Lady rebuked Yu at once, “You’ve been here for a long time. Didn’t you find Ying was burnt? Cut the crap!”

“Mother, I just punished a hateful servant who offended Moying, and she had something else...”

Yu had to lower her head to explain.

The Old Lady became angrier. She asked her servant to put on a cloak that she brought here for Qu Moying and then said coldly, “It takes you such a long time to deal with the small problem. You even can’t take good care of a person. Are you too busy to handle all these affairs?”

Did the Old Lady plan to divide her power? That was what she cared about most.

Yu was anxious, but she didn't dare to keep silent, so she answered hurriedly, "I'm sorry. It's my fault. I just focused on punishing the hateful servant. Mother, you are right."

"Ying, why is Yan's servant Qing He involved?" Ignoring Yu, the Old Lady held Qu Moying's hands and soothed her softly, "Don't be afraid. I'm here. No one can bully you."

"Thank you, grandma!" Qu Moying responded gratefully.

"Oh, dear... Don't say that to me! You don't have to live in the village later. Just stay here. Don't go anywhere else!" The Old Lady began to sob at the thought of the girl living alone in the village for so many years.

"Yes, grandma. I won't go anywhere else. I will be here with you forever!" Qu Moying felt sad. The Old Lady Qu was nice to her granddaughter, but the girl was not accustomed to being close to her. She usually lowered her head with no expression on her face. When being asked a question, she only answered with the simplest word "Yes", "OK", or "No". She wasn't close to anyone, including the Old Lady. Because of that, the Old Lady had to allow her to live in the village as she liked.

Thus, she had lived there for many years.

Each time the Old Lady thought of it, she felt sad. She was sorry for Qu Moying's mother, and she couldn't dissatisfy Qu Moying anymore.

Hearing Qu Moying agree to stay here, she felt relieved. She was afraid that the girl would insist on leaving as before. In that case, "persuaded" by her son and Yu, she couldn't keep the girl around at that time, even if she wanted to.

"Good girl, don't worry! I'm here for you!" The Old Lady felt delighted. The girl realized that she was nice to her and would like to talk more with her, so she was very happy. She took Qu Moying's thin body into her arms and patted her back lightly.

"Grandma!" The warmth reminded her of Ji Hanyue's father. He used to love her heart and soul, too. She couldn't control her tears anymore, and they rolled down in strings.

She was brought back to life. God sympathized her and gave her a chance for a new life.

She was reincarnated as Qu Moying. This cousin, born of her mother's sister, was solitary and lived in a remote village, so she only saw the latter twice. But she sent her some gifts from time to time lest the Qu Family should slight her. She even sent an important person there a short time ago, and Qu Moying received the special gift.

Now she had become Qu Moying, but she was Ji Hanyue at the same time!

Blood would have blood. This time, she would send those people to hell. Even if she had to fight against God, she was fearless!

She had to avenge the misfortune of both Ji Hanyue and Qu Moying.

The two girls' memories merged, turning the two girls into one. As a result, Qu Moying had Ji Hanyue's memory in the previous life and took on their hatred!

"Dear, don't be afraid. I'll back you up!" Thinking she was treated unfairly, the Old Lady glowered at Yu and comforted Qu Moying softly.

She turned around and told her servants behind her, "Bring Yan's servant Qing He here."

A servant moved away immediately.

"Mother, why is Yan's servant related to it?" Yu asked discontentedly.

"If she is not related, why does Ying mention her instead of others? Do you even want to defend Yan's servants?" The Old Lady was sulky. Hearing what Yu said, she flew into a rage at once.

"Mother, I didn't..." Yu had a grievance.

"If not, just shut up. If it turns out to be related to that servant, not only her but also you can't escape punishment!" Seeing her try to disassociate herself from it, the Old Lady became angrier.
