Chapter 36 The Secret

Chapter 36 The Secret

'Damn Waylon Gray!'

Alena Wright wanted to her own master, and directly covered Waylon Gray's mouth and told him to shut up.

If she could raise her head, she would have raised her head a long time ago. Does she still need his reminder?

If she raises her head now, she will reveal herself directly.

Seeing her silent, Waylon Gray hung his head tightly, his brows frowned slightly, he held her wrist without a trace, and squeezed her secretly, as if silently warning her.

Alena Wright felt the pain from her wrist, but she refused to look up.

She is dead if she raises her head, she is a fool to raise her head.

In short, she just cannot lift her head up.

"I'm still ashamed of such a big person. Vincent Mario is an elder. Do not be so rude. Look up..." Waylon Gray reached out and pinched Alena Wright's chin. The danger in his tone was clearly audible. He ignored Alena Wright's struggle and forced her face to be lifted.

Although Alena Wright was struggling, for Waylon Gray, her strength was undoubtedly enough to shake the tree.

As a result, her face could only be exposed in front of Vincent Mario slowly and she smiled at Vincent Mario with a serious face.

Vincent Mario is an elder. After her identity has been exposed, she only hopes that Vincent Mario will take care of Waylon Gray's face and not let her be beaten to death by Waylon Gray.

Vincent Mario finally saw Alena Wright's face clearly. His eyes opened in surprise, and said, "This is not Alena..."

At this time...

The host's loud voice came from the high platform, and everyone was requested to be seated as soon as possible. The auction would begin immediately.

Vincent Mario was interrupted when he has not finished speaking.

Alena Wright was ready to be dismantled and even thought of her excuses, letting Vincent Mario judge her.

Unexpectedly, she luckily escaped.

Alena Wright could not help but let out a sigh of relief, her tight nerves relaxed, and she suddenly felt weak in her feet.

Waylon Gray looked at the people who were ready to take their seats and said politely, "Vincent Mario, the auction has begun. We will talk after it is over."

Although Vincent Mario was full of doubts about why Waylon Gray wanted to call Amanda Quinston as Alena Wright, he knew that it was not time to speak, so he nodded.

Seeing that Vincent Mario finally left, Alena Wright's hanging heart was truly returned to its original place.

Waylon Gray took Alena Wright to their seat. He looked at the things displayed on it and whispered close to Alena Wright's ear, "Alena, if you see anything, just tell me, I'll buy it for you."

"Hmm..." Alena Wright said absently.

She kept thinking about how to get rid of Vincent Mario later so that Vincent Mario and Waylon Gray would not have a chance to talk.

This way, her identity can be concealed for a longer time.

After all, there are few occasions wherein Vincent Mario and Waylon Gray can meet. Even if they meet again next time, who will still remember today's episode?

But can she stop Waylon Gray and Vincent Mario from continuing to talk after the auction ends?

At this time, the auction has come to an end. The calligraphy and painting on the display stand were replaced by a ring. The host said, "The finale of the auction tonight is this sapphire and diamond ring, with a net weight of 13.22 carats. The shape of the drop is naturally formed without any carving and polishing."

When Waylon Gray saw this ring, he felt that it matched Alena Wright very well, as if it were tailor-made for her. He took another look at Alena Wright's white and slender fingers, and immediately made up his mind and decided to put this ring on her. He would buy the ring and give it to Alena Wright.

He bent down slightly and lowered his head in Alena Wright's ear and asked, "Alena, do you like the ring?"

Alena Wright was still trying to conceal her identity. She did not hear what Waylon Gray said at all but just nodded indiscriminately.

Fortunately, all Waylon Gray's attention was on the blue diamond ring, otherwise, she would definitely find her unusual reaction.

After the host introduced the blue diamond ring, he announced the start of the auction. "The reserve price is 50 million."

The crowd fell silent, but soon someone held up a sign to bid.

The bidding price gets higher and higher later, and many people who want to fight for this price can only choose to give up.

Those who dared to continue to raise the price were all very noble people. Among them, Waylon Gray was on the list. He has no intention to give up.

When Vincent Mario saw this scene, he glanced at Alena Wright with interest, and then at Waylon Gray.

This is for Amanda Quinston? It seems that the relationship between the couple is not as bad as Waylon's father said, which is really interesting.

In the end, the ring was bought by Waylon Gray at a sky-high price.

The hammer and the loud voice pulled back Alena Wright from her thoughts. She blinked blankly and looked at the host on the high stage subconsciously.

She did not know the situation at all, didn't even know what happened before, and asked blankly, "Is it over?"

"Yep."

It is over.

Alena Wright's heart tightened instantly. She has not thought of a countermeasure, but it is over.

At this time, a few men in black suits, headed by the host, came to Waylon Gray. They bent slightly towards him and respectfully handed him an exquisite box. "Mr. Gray, this is your blue diamond ring."

Waylon Gray took the box, never even glanced at it, and stuffed it directly into Alena Wright's hand, "You open it and take a look."

After hearing this, she looked curiously at the box in her hand, then looked at Waylon Gray, and slowly opened the box under his expectant gaze.

When Alena Wright saw the blue diamond ring, her eyes were full of surprises, and she subconsciously said, "It's so beautiful!"

This ring is really beautiful, with radiant and brilliant blue diamonds.

Her expression gave Waylon Gray a sense of accomplishment, and this feeling could not even compare to the fact that he had negotiated a business worth hundreds of billions of dollars.

"President Gray, here is the receipt, please keep it." The host handed a note to Waylon Gray.

Alena Wright glanced subconsciously and was shocked when she saw the series of zeros on it.

Waylon Gray took the receipt and tore it into pieces and threw it directly into the trash can.

His move made both the host and Alena Wright stunned. Seeing his indifferent appearance, they could not help but twitch their mouths.

"Do you like it?" Waylon Gray asked suddenly.

Alena Wright was stunned for a moment and then realized that he was referring to the ring in her hand.

She nodded. No girl would dislike such a beautiful blue diamond ring.

Waylon Gray said, "Here you are."

For such an expensive thing, how can he give it away without blinking his eyes?

'This man really!'

He shocked Alena Wright. She instantly felt that the box was heavy. Without even thinking about it, she stuffed the box to Waylon Gray, "This is too expensive, I can't accept it."
