

O Summoner 1571

Chapter 1571 The Sun, The Moon And The Darkness

A golden gate suddenly appeared next to the two gods as another powerful being was called upon. The Sun God Ra appeared before the two gods and the tension between him, and the Distorted God Apophis was apparent. They were clearly hostile, but the two gods were cordial towards the God Thoth as they did not immediately start killing each other.

"So, this is the reason why you have called for me." The Sun God Ra stated as if he already knew why he was called for.

The Sun God Ra also needs to be cordial to the God Thoth as he is one of the most intelligent gods that even the Twin Gods, The God Abaddon and the Goddess Gaea, wanted under their care. He was incredibly gifted as a god which is why even supreme deities would fight for him.

"I have already asked our old friend on what she wants to do. I am now going to ask you if you have any argument." The God Thoth asked.

The people always thought that the God Thoth was just something like a scribe god, but they did not know his true origin. The God Thoth is actually also the judge of the gods in the Ennead. He is also a being that came right after the Sun God Ra was born. He was always viewed as a messenger because he often takes on the task of notifying the gods of the Sun God Ra's will.

The truth is that the God Thoth was on par with the Sun God Ra and the Distorted God Apophis even at their peak. He became the messenger because he believed that it would mean that he will effectively do his true duty. He was the one who records the continuous destruction and birth of the universe of Hiero.

The universe of Hiero was always a universe of continuous destruction and reconstruction in favor of a better world. The only time that it was destroyed completely when it was overtaken by a foreign god that even the Sun God Ra cannot rejuvenate. The God Thoth was also the judge of the Ennead as to when the disintegration happens in the hands of the Distorted God Apophis.

"You are silent which means it is now the time to start the death and reconstruction. We have done this hundreds of times and the signs for the rebirth are here." The Distorted God Apophis stated as she smiled happily.

The Ennead gods or the gods of the western continent were always reconstructed when something happens to the Sun God Ra. The signs for this would be the rebellion of humans against the gods such as when they create cities and do not venerate or acknowledge the Ennead at the very least.

Another sign is the gods fighting against each other which is happening now as numerous gods of the western continent have become mortal enemies. The last sign would be the weakening of the Sun God Ra which always happens as he becomes an old man in stature and age. The weakening of the Sun God Ra could also mean that the gods no longer see him as their ruler which is what is happening now.

A secret of the three gods is that the Gods of the Ennead has always been reborn after destruction. The one that leads this rebirth is the God Apophis as he has the rare power of disintegration that returns the gods back to the source. The Distorted God Apophis did run rampant when it first touched the energy of the void, but it has now gotten most of its intellect back.

"You wish to start rebirth, but you are still tainted by the energy of the void." The Sun God Ra stated as he did not want to start the reconstruction of the universe when the one doing it has been corrupted.

"Let me tell you something interesting then. Do you remember the time when all three of us were just mere consciousness in the sea of the source? All of us took the form of snakes and swam in the source without a care." The Distorted God Apophis stated.

The Sun God Ra, the God Thoth and the Distorted God Apophis could still remember the start of the Hiero universe. They were mere consciousness in the form of snakes swimming in the vast source until it suddenly started to take form because of a mighty existence. This existence used the source as a way to create the universe of Hiero.

The three consciousness that were swimming in that sea of source are then noticed by this grand existence. The three were then formed at the same time but they did not have absolute roles back then. The three's roles were only formed when they knew what they wanted to do. The powerful existence that started their universe then bid them farewell after it was satisfied with what it did.

"I still remember everything because I have it perfectly recorded. What is your goal in asking?" The God Thoth asked.

"The powerful existence that shaped our universe back then had the same feeling as the energy of the void. You might not know this because it was I that had the ability to seal our universe, but I remembered that existence's might as soon as I absorbed energy from the void. You cannot call it as exact as even gods have differences, but the source is the same." The Distorted God Apophis stated which shocked the two gods as they have never talked to her after she became corrupted.

"Elaborate." The God Thoth stated as he was incredibly intrigued.

"The power used by the great existence is the same as the energy leaking from the void. I am sure you know of this energy as well because the demons themselves are the ones carrying it. Has there ever been a being that could bend time, space and force to their wills? Even our mighty creation god here could never create a being like that." The Distorted God Apophis stated.

The Sun God Ra also agrees with the Distorted God Apophis because he always felt the energy of demons familiar. He was actually really curious about demons back then because they always felt somewhat familiar with them. The ones that he found close to that existence's power would be the Asmodian Daemos.

"I am sure that you also feel it from that little demon that is helping your champion. His abilities and powers are not what a normal demon can do." The Distorted God Apophis stated.

"What that have to do with the cycle of rebirth?" The Sun God Ra asked as the conversation seems to have taken a turn of events.

"You were always the straightforward one which is why you were perfect as the creation god while I was the realm protector as I can see the bigger picture. I am telling you that we need to start the cycle again to birth more powerful versions of the gods that we have now.

The other gods of Pandemonium seem to know that something is coming and being early means our guaranteed survival. I can even use some of the energy of the void to empower some of the gods as you have seen when they can easily break through the restrictions of this world. I mean, you cannot even trust the gods of light in this universe as they were the ones that ripped you to pieces." The Distorted God Apophis stated.

One would think that the Distorted God Apophis was rampaging mindlessly, but she was actually calculative. The Sun God Ra also does not want to admit it but even his remnants could not help him ascend back to his divine realm. He has truly weakened just like what happens during the end of their cycles. He also did not expect betrayal from the gods of this universe which led to the stagnancy of the Ennead without his guidance in a new world.

The Distorted God Apophis has always been split into pieces by the Sun God Ra during the start of each cycle because her power is needed to recreate the gods. The Distorted God Apophis returns the Ennead Gods back to energy which the Sun God Ra would then use to create them again to a more powerful version. In the God Thoth's recording, this event has already happened 887 times.

"I am in favor of Apophis on this one." The God Thoth stated as he always held the Eye of Apophis and gives it to Apophis when it is time for the end of the current cycle.

"Are you not going to give me my spirit?" The Distorted God Apophis asked the Sun God Ra.

"You would have to take it from me like the usual end of the cycle. A fight to the death as always since we are eternal. One cannot truly die until all three of us are killed. I declare that the end of this cycle to officially start." The Sun God Ra stated.

Chapter 1572 The Start Of Rebirth Cycle

The three major gods of the Western Continent have already made their decision. The start of the cycle of rebirth has started and it was even declared by the Sun God Ra himself. The three gods made their way back to their territories as there is much preparation to be done.

The Sun God Ra told the Distorted God Apophis that the latter would need to defeat him in order to get the Spirit of Apophis. The God Thoth reminded them that there should no longer be any foreign interference from this point on which means that they must not rely on foreign gods. The Distorted God Apophis agreed as well because she is only two more fragments off before her completion.

"Will the interference of the Champion of the Twin Gods not be a problem for your side? He also has people with him that are of Asmodian descent." The God Thoth asked.

"If I fail then that just means that the cycle was not truly meant to end. I would just be split into parts once more and be revived to start the cycle of destruction. I actually welcome him because he is the one that I want to talk to the most." The Distorted God Apophis stated as she vanished into darkness along with her other followers.

The Sun God Ra actually wanted the aid of the Champion of the Twin Gods as he wanted to also observe him. He was also the deciding factor back then when the Shadow of Apophis was about to destroy the Temple of Bastet. The Sun God Ra returned to his temple once more as the three gods would start the barrier that will encompass the entire western continent.

The God Thoth gave both the gods a scroll that they would activate once he sends the signal. The God Thoth suddenly destroyed or rather transported his temple back from the pocket dimension that he created. The start of a new age has started, and the followers of Thoth made their moves upon the command of their god.

The followers of Thoth that usually have the abilities of Far Sight and possess supreme intelligence. They have the ability to see far places just using their own minds. They were given the Blessing of Thoth which increases the ability to think by ten times. This basically makes their minds think ten times faster than a normal human being.

The Followers of Thoth's duties are to record everything that happens in the western continent. They have been recording everything that happens and even the interference of the Nordic Gods. They might possess powerful sight, but they must never interfere or else their blessing will be stripped away.

The numerous scribes that are writing could be seen to have stopped because their duty of recording has come to an end. They were not destined to write about the end of the cycle as that is the duty of the God Thoth since time immemorial. The scribes also know of their fates, but they have gladly accepted it in order to have the special permission from the God Thoth.

The God Thoth might not have the ability to interfere with the cycle of rebirth, but he does have special benefits to the scribes that are under him. The scribes that serve him will have their entire line of descendants be safe as the God Thoth himself will save them from being turned back to pure energy. They might be saved but they will have their memories erased about the start of the new cycle.

"The demon has some interesting companions that follow him as shadows." The God Thoth stated as he could see that there are interesting individuals that are able to come close to the Temple of the Moon without alerting the sentries that he has placed.

The God Thoth then remembered that the demon was also a scribe. He smiled and waved his scepter which created a magic circle with a moon at the center. The shadow unit reported everything that they have witnessed from afar like the appearance of the Sun God Ra and such.

"Awraka, do you think the moon is beautiful?" One of the shadow unit members suddenly muttered which alarmed Awraka because it was not yet nighttime.

All the shadow unit members suddenly looked up and that was the worst decision they could make at the time. Even Awraka looked up which made her eyes go big as all of them suddenly fell into a trance. Without the shadow unit members even knowing, they were no longer outside but inside the Temple of the Moon.

"Welcome to my temple. We have something to talk about because I need to talk to your leader." The God Thoth stated as the shadow unit members woke up from their trance.

The Avatar of Babi, the Avatar of Ahti and the Avatar of Menhit could be seen struggling to even fight back. The three are definitely about to die as their dark golden armor could be seen to be extremely damaged and covered by their blood. The three corrupted gods have already descended fully onto their respective avatars as they still need them to be alive.

The corrupted gods were about to go all out and sacrifice some of their divine energy to sweep away all the enemies when they suddenly stopped. All the gods that descended suddenly returned back to their divine realms and their avatars were shocked of what happened. The avatars thought that they were abandoned but that was not the case.

The Avatar of Menhit thought that she would be able to finally die when a large black serpent suddenly appeared from her shadow and swallowed her. The two other avatars were also swallowed by a shadow serpent and vanished from the area. The avatars were not the only ones that had this treatment as their followers were also the same. The only ones that were not transported were the followers of the dark gods.

[The Distorted God Apophis has severed ties with the Dark Gods of Pandemonium.]

[The Dark Gods of Pandemonium are incredibly mad at the Distorted God Apophis.]

[The Sun God Ra sat on his Solar Throne and activated the Solar Disk.]

"Let the end of the current cycle begin. My children, if you want to stop it then fight with all your might. I shall not help you in this endeavor." The Sun God Ra suddenly announced as his voice rang throughout the western continent.

The series of world messages suddenly flooded the notifications of all the players that joined the fight against the Shadow of Apophis. The world messages were not yet finished because another round started when the moon suddenly rose when it was only at the peak of the day.

[The Moon God Thoth has started the Divine Tier Magic, 'Perfect World'.]

As soon as the world message that divine tier magic was used is received by every player, the land of the western continent is suddenly covered with numerous runes that even Adrian could not decipher. Adrian, who was also looking for the God Loki, is suddenly mesmerized by the runes as he has entered a bottleneck as a scribe.

Adrian wanted to touch the runes but stopped when he was suddenly contacted by Awraka that there is someone that wants to speak with him. The disappearance of the enemies in the battlefield was also something that made his mind wander because he did not expect it. Another thing made him focus on something else because the God Loki that hid from them suddenly burst out from the crevice as he could be seen trying to leave the western continent.

"I will not let that happen though. Finding you is like hunting for a devious rat in the field." Adrian stated as he started to bend time using his time reversal spell.

The spell clearly targeted the God Loki, but it was not enough to fully stop him as the latter still possessed the body of a demigod. Adrian was able to slow him down enough though as Charon suddenly appeared next to the God Loki and wrapped him in chains. The God Loki tried to escape with all his might as if he was trying to escape the western continent with all his might.

Adrian did not know why the God Loki reacted like this as two energy pillars of different parts of the western continent suddenly rose to the sky. One was an energy pillar that had pure darkness element while the other had the pure solar element. When the two pillars shot to the sky, the invisible runes that were not visible in the sky are now visible to the naked eye.

[The Divine Tier spell, Perfect World, has been completed.]

[All beings in the western continent cannot leave without special permissions.]

[All gods, demigods, or divine beings that are unrelated to the western continent will have their strength decreased.]

[All the Western Gods will now descend unto the Western Continent.]

Chapter 1573 The Start Of Rebirth Cycle II

[All the Western Gods will now descend unto the Western Continent.]

A world message that is not something that should be seen at this moment in time has shaken the whole world. It is not only the players that were taken aback but also the gods of Pandemonium could not believe what is happening. The gods of the Western Continent have started to descend unto the mortal realm.

[The restriction of the world has loosened up in the western continent.]

[Greater Gods of the Western Continent will now descend and keep their strength.]

The western continent is suddenly covered with numerous runes as the moon rose high up in the clouds. All of a sudden, a meteor shower started to fall down on the night sky with the stars actually coming from the moon itself. The shooting stars could be seen even on the other continents because those are not actually shooting stars.

The 'shooting stars' that are falling from the moon are not space rocks but the gods of the Western Continent themselves. In other words, the shooting stars are the Ennead as all of them are being forcefully descent to the world. All the avatars that were in possession of a part of their god would lose strength as their own patron gods would need strength to descend.

One might think that gods descending would take the form of golden light pillars piercing the sky, but reality is quite different from expectation. The gods themselves tried to forcefully stop their descent but they cannot resist the pull of the moon as they were taken from their divine realms. All the beings in the western continent whether beast or man started to kneel down onto the sky as this is the divine descent of the Ennead.

The gods of the Ennead would descend to the location where their temple resides. All of their followers are suddenly tasked of welcoming their gods. Numerous powerful beings started to descend, and the pressure of the surroundings intensified.

The western continent was already a harsh place to begin with, but it suddenly doubled with the advent of the Ennead. All the Ennead were confused on why they were suddenly taken from their divine realms as it is connected to their divine energy. The descent of the gods is not the only thing that happened as numerous dimensions of varying size and structure suddenly appeared on top of the western continent.

These numerous structures are actually the divine realms of the gods of the western continent. A being with an Ibis Headdress suddenly appeared on top of the western continent. This being had an incredible aura that complemented the large moon background.

"Merge!" The Moon God Thoth stated as the moon released a powerful bright light.

The numerous divine realms suddenly broke down and turned into pure divine energy that seeped into the western continent. The whole western continent was filled with twinkling lights as if small stars descended onto it. The Ennead knew who was the one that broke down their divine realms as there was only one god capable of doing it at this point in time.

"It was Thoth. He activated some sort of spell that pulled all the gods to the mortal realm." One of the Ennead stated.

The gods that were able to descend quickly was able to know the current situation immediately. The ones that are still descending saw the Moon God Thoth using a powerful spell. All the divine energy that was collected by the Ennead is suddenly poured into the western continent.

The entire western continent that was barren and almost a wasteland suddenly flourished. Numerous oases sprung up and lakes that dried up started to flow once more. The lands are rejuvenated with the divine energy that the gods of western continent have collected over the centuries.

The gods of the western continent would have been able to make the western continent flourish if they used the gathered divine energy in their realms. They did not do so because they cannot come to a majority decision because most of them have grown greedy and selfish. They withheld blessings just because they want to become stronger for their own gain hence many nonbelievers of gods in the western continent.

The gods that were able to descend early and normalize their energy suddenly shot to the sky. They wanted to make the Moon God Thoth pay for his sudden divine tier spell while some want to ask what is happening. Just as the gods of the western continent were about to reach the Moon God Thoth, a powerful barrier suddenly slammed on their faces as they were blocked from leaving the western continent.

The Temple of the Moon suddenly appeared above the barrier with its bottom covered with clouds. The gods of the western continent tried to destroy the barrier, but they are unable to do so even if some of them were Greater Gods. The barrier is due to the spell Perfect World and utilizes the divine energy of all the gods affected by it.

The Moon God Thoth looked at the durability of the barrier and tapped to see if it will hold everything. When the Moon God Thoth was satisfied with the strength, he left the area with the other gods of the western continent dumbfounded. They cannot believe that the source of their troubles did not even bother acknowledging their existence.

"Thoth!" The God Anhur shouted as he slammed his spear onto the barrier, but all of the force of the attack dissipated immediately.

The other western gods did not even bother attacking the barrier when they saw the Greater God Anhur have no effect on it. If even a God of War cannot pierce the barrier, then what more of them that lacks in attack power. The God Anhur is also one of the most powerful gods among them as he could easily slay powerful evil spirits with one thrust of his spear.

The confused gods of the western continent are then left to find another answer to their troubles. They wanted to ask the Sun God Ra that is currently residing in the Temple of the Sun. Some of the western gods tried to go inside the Temple of the Sun but they were repelled by the barrier created by it.

"Father! What is happening to us?! Why have we suddenly descended?" One of the Ennead shouted but the Sun God Ra did not answer their pleas.

"Even you are ignoring your own children!" Another of the Ennead shouted.

The noise from the angry gods could not be dampened by the barrier but they cannot barge inside of the Temple of the Sun as well because the Sun God Ra has the power of a Greater God at this stage. Even if they were able to destroy the barrier then they would surely taste the might of a Solar Laser. Just as they were about to all attack the barrier, a human being suddenly stepped outside of the temple doors.

"The Sun God Ra has given the decree that the end of the cycle has started. All of you are now free to do whatever you desire, and he shall no longer help you. The Sun God Ra has expressed his incredible dismay of the children that he created because they have forgotten to honor their father even though he has already descended for a long time." Cairo stated.

"Call our father now, human! If you do not, then we shall tear you to pieces!" One of the Ennead shouted as they were frustrated that all the divine energy that they have gathered is no longer their own.

"The Sun God Ra has said to begone!" Cairo stated as his body emitted a golden glow and a humungous sand giant appeared behind the Temple of the Sun.

The sand giant had the strength of a lesser god, and it was under the control of Cairo. He could easily teach these gods a lesson, but the Sun God Ra has told him to only make them go away. Even Cairo is astounded by what happened as he did not expect that gods would descend after the Sun God Ra returned from his trip.

"Get ready to be devoured and return to the origin!" The voice of the Distorted God Apophis echoed in all of the western continent which made the gods shiver.

The gods that were grumbling suddenly felt their bodies tighten up as a large serpent eye suddenly covered the western continent as the Distorted God Apophis has now fully absorbed his eye fragment. All the gods of the western continent suddenly knew that they were now targets of the serpent as they cursed and destroyed all its followers before.

The haughty gods of the western continent are now panicking because they can no longer hide behind their divine realms. They have fully descended onto the mortal realm, and they can now be permanently killed if their divine source is deleted.

Chapter 1574 The Start Of Rebirth Cycle III

The gods are not the only ones panicking because the players in the western continent or those that were sent there are now sharing the same fate.

The ones that received this quest are players that do not have affiliation with dark gods or distorted gods and accepted the call for reinforcements of the Distorted God Apophis. The players of this faction knew that they cannot guarantee their win because the corrupted gods on their side are fewer. The players also know that Equinox and the other major guilds were on their side.

[The Twin Gods are intervening with the Perfect World divine spell.]

[All the beings affiliated with the Twin Gods will now be transported out of the western continent due to the agreement with them.]

Adrian, Levin Cloud, and Creepysoo with other players that are affiliated with the Twin Gods either being members of the Church of Life or the Church of Death have been teleported away. All of those that were teleported were sent to Avalon as that is the location of the Tree of Life and Death.

Just as Adrian was teleported away, the God Loki tried his hand in escaping but Adrian is not the only one that can incapacitate a divine being with a demigod body. Frey's spear turned black as she plunged it deep onto the God Loki's body. Apolaki was present as well and he plunged his sword as well which is imbued by the power of a creator god called Bathala.

Adrian is supposed to be teleported to Avalon as well, but his transmission was cut off by another divine being. Adrian is suddenly transported to a tall temple that has the moon at its background. He is greeted by a human wearing a golden Ibis headdress.

"Greetings, Asmodian or at least almost one. I have wanted to see you as I have told your spy unit." The God Thoth stated.

"I wanted to greet you, but I am a bit confused of this situation. I was also evicted from the western continent which makes me quite sad as I will not be able to get a prize." Adrian replied.

"That is to be expected because the Twin Gods already know of the agreement that their people must never interfere with what is happening now. Even the Daemos know of this agreement which is why they are not teleporting to this continent as we speak. I am curious about you though because you are a great variable that might have swayed the situation greatly." The God Thoth stated.

Chapter 1575 I am a Variable

"You are basically saying that my own existence is a variable." Adrian stated.

"Such words are indeed fitting for a being such as you. You are not the only one like that in this world though because there is one from the dragon clan like you. Another should be a follower of an unknown gods even to me. There are others but beings like you are rare indeed because even you are different from them." The God Thoth stated.

"You are also now calling me a freak among freaks." Adrian stated which now sounds unpleasant even to him, but he does have an idea on who are the players that the God Thoth speaks about.

"You are a variable because in all my eons of recording the events of this world... you are the only one that can actually contain a powerful negative and positive energy. Your Asmodian blood might have affected your body, but it should not have been possible by storing two. What is your secret?" The God Thoth stated as he suddenly appeared in front of Adrian.

"I know that you are the God Thoth and the originator of scribes. I am a scribe as well which is why I was a bit glad that you wanted to meet me, but I suddenly feel like my enthusiasm was not placed correctly." Adrian stated as the God Thoth was not as cool as he thought he would be.

"I actually forgot that you were a scribe as well. My curious nature might have scared you a bit, but I am sure that you have seen the sequence of the spell that I created. Is it not beautiful?" The God Thoth stated as he started talking about the divine spell, Perfect World.

"A spell that could pull gods from their divine realm is not something that could be described as beautiful, but it is perfection. The sheer amount of focus that one needs to even cover a whole continent is worth of admiration." Adrian stated as he also started to geek out with the spell formation.

"Only a true scribe will definitely be able to see perfection. You have a fine eye for detail." The God Thoth stated as he praised Adrian.

"Thank you but I can clearly see you scanning my body with your ocular skill. I can feel you looking at the very depths of my soul and it is a bit uncomfortable." Adrian stated.

"You have also caught on. You are definitely a unique variable. A being that could handle potent energy that are in the outlines of dimensions is not someone normal even for my standards. If you wish, I can teach you all of my Scribe knowledge in exchange for studying you." The God Thoth stated which shocked Adrian.

"I am afraid that will not be happening." A familiar voice suddenly stated which made Adrian look behind him as space was bent.

"Old Man Ascalor! You are also with Old Man Koronn" Adrian stated as Koronn also followed.

"Only I can experiment on the brat!" Koronn stated.

"Love the enthusiasm but it is a bit misplaced." Adrian exclaimed.

"If you wish we can even share notes." The God Thoth stated as he looked towards Koronn.

Koronn was about to actually say yes but Ascalor was looking at him with judging eyes. Koronn had to swallow the words that he was going to say. Koronn might want that, but he knows that gods are very troublesome to deal with especially someone like the God Thoth that Pann even warned them about.

"Gods like you should not mess with representatives of other gods. We would need our little Arch Demon back because your spell might be perfect to the western continent, but it is not for the rest of the world. Your sudden activation of the spell has alerted the gods of what is happening which weakened the barrier between realms." Ascalor stated as all the Daemos were now deployed all over the world.

"That is not the fault of my spell but the erosion of the world itself. Or rather... should I say the world returning back into its origin. The western continent would be protected with what is happening outside which is why I can care less as I am an observer. You may now take your leave, but you are always welcome to my tower, Champion Equinox." The God Thoth stated as he stopped analyzing Adrian's body composition because something is blocking it.

"Let us go, brat. We need things to do if you do not want worlds suddenly colliding into this world. We will be lucky if only a powerful earthquake will shake the world." Ascalor stated.

"What will happen if we are not lucky?" Adrian asked.

"A country or two sinking in the ocean would happen but that is not something that we should worry about." Koronn stated.

Adrian did not react much to that statement as his mind already processes it like a demon. If it was another player, then they would have their mouth agape as there are people talking about sinking countries like it is a normal thing.

"We have successfully blocked the attempt of another party from scrying the master's body." Paradox stated which made Adrian smile.

Paradox was actually the one that alerted Adrian that he was being scanned by the god before him. Adrian's secrets would have been known if Paradox was not connected to his soul. Still, the God Thoth did sense the nether and aether energy present in Adrian's body which is a big part of him.

Adrian returned to Avalon and met the others that were transported with him. He then asked what was happening in the western continent to the guild members that were left there. They were shocked upon hearing the news because the members of the Sun God Ra faction were reporting that the Ennead are dying by the minute.

"A quarter of the lesser gods in the Ennead are already dead." Adrian muttered as his presence has indeed changed the course.

[A lesser god of the Ennead has died.]

This notification has already appeared about ten times in the span of two hours. The players on the side of the Sun God Ra could not believe that they are experiencing such misfortune. What they did not know is that the other gods of the Ennead are killing each other.

While the players in the faction of the Sun God Ra is in full panic, the players in the faction of the Distorted God Apophis are in a festive mood. They knew that the gods that are in their faction will not kill their team members because they are in the command of the Distorted God Apophis. One might think that the Distorted God Apophis has a hold on the gods that she has corrupted but that is incorrect.

The Distorted God Apophis did not control their minds as she only gave them power that they need. The gods of the western continent that joined the Distorted God Apophis are basically those that know of the end of the current era. They got the knowledge of how they end up when everything becomes chaotic.

The Gods Babi, Ahti and Menhit along with Shesmu are the ones that learned of the real events of the creation. They were shocked upon learning that this is basically their 887th life since they always knew that they have existed since then. The Distorted God Apophis explained to them what really happens when they return to the source.

When the Distorted God Apophis kills a god in the western continent or any that is part of the Ennead, they will be sent back to the source which is located and sealed inside of the Distorted God Apophis' stomach. When the Distorted God Apophis defeats the Sun God Ra then that would mean the end of the current cycle.

A new cycle will be immediately born as the Sun God Ra will be reborn to a more powerful and younger version of himself. The young Sun God Ra would then slice the God Apophis into parts once more and recreate the gods of the Ennead. This happened multiple times but there were some times where the Distorted God Apophis failed in ending the current cycle.

If the Distorted God Apophis ended the current cycle always like it is predetermined, then the number of incarnations would have doubled. The Gods under the Distorted God Apophis returned to her side as she sat on a black gold throne. She looked at them and smiled as the next cycle would definitely produce more powerful gods as long as the God Thoth completes his research on the energy of the void.

"It seems that your avatars do not know what will happen. Give them the rundown as this time, I will no longer save all of you from deaths. Those that bring me victory at the very end shall be granted a boon on their next incarnation." The Distorted God Apophis stated as she left the avatars with their gods as she needs to command the 'blessed ones' that answered her call.

The avatars all knelt towards their respective gods as this was the first time that they have seen them in person. They always saw their avatars in their divine realm, but the avatars were only in their spirits. The gods that have descended have a much better grandeur and might compared to just seeing them in their divine realms.

Even the avatars that were upset with their gods could only kneel down and be quiet. They are quiet because the threat of being killed by the divine is now real. They will no longer be attacked using a holy bolt of lightning but by the gods themselves. The avatars have the same power level as new demigod, but their gods are different as they are divine.

To make matters worse, they can no longer have their gods descend on them because they are now physically present. The divine realms of the gods are also destroyed which means the gods cannot freely waste divine energy. The gods could still grant increased abilities to their avatars but this time they can fight beside them.

"It seems that you are still upset with me, my dear child." The Goddess Menhit stated as she looked at her avatar that wanted to die.

The Avatar of Menhit was a fierce woman warrior of the western continent but she can also feel other feelings other than aggression. She was once a mother but being an avatar is never a safe thing to do. Her daughter was unfortunately swept as a casualty of the harsh environment. She wanted to kill herself back then, but the Goddess Menhit did not allow her.

"You know why I am upset. I want to join my daughter in the afterlife, but you are keeping me here." The Avatar of Menhit stated.

"I know that I am not the best goddess, but you are my most favorite avatar that I have gotten, and I treat you like a daughter as well." The Goddess Menhit stated.

"If you treat me as your daughter then you would grant me my ultimate wish." The Avatar of Menhit shouted which made the others look at her.

"That is not your ultimate wish but a wish of a grieving mother. Do you know why I am here in the camp of the Distorted God Apophis or why all of us are here?" The Avatar of Menhit stated as she looked at the other gods and avatars.

"Were you not just charmed by the snake? You are a goddess of war which means you crave more power and fighting." The Avatar of Menhit stated.

"You are correct that I am a goddess of war, but I was never enticed by the Distorted God Apophis. The others are the same as me. They were not enticed but joined willingly because we are lacking." The Goddess Menhit stated which struck true to the other gods when their faces had a pained smile.

"All of us are not powerful gods that can do things as we are just lesser gods that can only do things that are within our bounds." The Goddess Ahti stated as she looked at her avatar as if she was about to cry.

"We did not join because we want all of you to suffer but we joined because of all of you." The God Babi stated as he looked at his avatar.

Each of the avatars that they have are either outcasts or people that did not have a great life. They are like reflections of their gods as well because they are lesser gods that are only good at one thing but even their blessings have side-effects. They were unable to truly grant the wishes of their followers as even their avatars suffer.

"If you can hear the voice of the world ringing that the lesser gods dying then that is the real face of the other higher ranking gods of the Ennead. The Gods of Justice are gone as they have returned back to the source when the Distorted God Apophis rampaged. With no one to give order as the Sun God Ra was also absent for a long time, our group looked for the truth which we found from the God Thoth." The God Shesmu stated.

The gods then explained how the cycle works and what happens each time. The avatars were shocked upon learning the truth of their gods, but they were more bewildered and confused. They still did not know why their gods joined the side of the Distorted God Apophis.

"We joined the side of the Distorted God Apophis because of the boon that she is speaking off. She grants wishes to those that helps her in ending the current cycle. One of which can revive the dead or rewrite history altogether. The Sun God Ra and the Moon God Thoth are part of this plan as well because they need a unanimous decision for this to happen." The Goddess Menhit stated as she looked at her avatar.

"But reviving the dead is taboo!" The Avatar of Menhit stated.

"Do not worry about that as the God Osiris have kept all the souls of the current cycle that are native to the western continent in his death realm. They have not entered the circle of reincarnation because of the agreement." The Goddess Ahti added.

"In other words, we joined this side because of our lack of ability. We want the children that have cherished us to have the life they want in the new cycle. All of you have your stories that are painful and this time we will make sure that all of you will have the happiness that you deserve. It is time for us gods to sacrifice." The God Babi stated which made almost all of the avatars tear up.

Chapter 1577 The Fall Of The Current Ennead II

"You mean we will get our true wishes once all of this is all over?" One of the avatars asked.

"You will have the happiness that we have promised you. This is the reason why we must win whatever we must do." The Avatar of Menhit stated as the fighting spirit of the avatars soared.

"Which is why all of you must plan the next moves and lead the ones that have gathered. We shall accompany you in the battlefield once everything is in motion." The God Shesmu stated as all of the avatars left the room.

"Such a shame that they will not remember the thing that we will be doing for them." The Goddess Ahti stated as she tried acting cute but that is difficult with her hippo body and wasp head.

"If it makes it all the better for all of you, we will also not remember anything, but we will become stronger in the next cycle. I just hope that our bond will not disappear because we will basically be strangers the next time we meet." The God Babi stated.

While the side of Apophis is preparing for battle, the side of the Ennead is already in a bloodbath. The lesser gods were fearing for their lives while some struggled to kill other gods more powerful than them. There is nothing more powerful than fear and desperation when it comes to a battlefield.

Still, there are some members of the Ennead that are not as bloodthirsty because they also have allegiances. They were the ones that are close to the Goddess Bastet and the God Set. There was a group of them that is about twenty in number and all of them gathered at the Temple of Set.

The gods that gathered at the Temple of Set knew that this location would be the next target for the Distorted God Apophis because the Tongue of Apophis is located here. The swirling sandstorms that are swirling in this area became even more powerful as the God Set has descended. All of the people in the territory are now told to take up arms even the elderly and the children.

The people of the Temple of Set that the deserts are harsh which is why children are already trained at the age of three. They may not be able to defend against the powerful ones, but they will be able to escape, evade or even fight in desperation for their lives. The elderly has started to mount up and armor up as well because they knew that they must secure the future for the young ones.

"Is this really the start of the end?" The Goddess Bastet stated as all of them are now in Temple of Set.

"We have no choice because the Distorted God Apophis has already stated his will to devour the continent. Our only chance to live is to defeat Apophis but some of us seem to have divine blood rushing up their heads because they are killing their own brothers and sisters." The God Horus stated.

"Has the God Thoth truly just an observer? If he was with us, then our odds of winning would significantly increase. Even the Distorted God Apophis will not be an obstacle." The Goddess Hathor stated.

"We agree as well." The other gods present agreed.

"You wish to have Thoth join us when all of you did not even bother greeting or helping him when he asks for something. If worst comes to worst, he will be able to encode all of our deeds in his book. If you do not want to be remembered as gods that cowered or killed their own siblings, then prepare for battle. The serpent is already marching towards us as the sands have warned me." The God Set stated.

The gods could not believe that their time of battle is near. They have called upon their avatars and explained what is happening as those emerges victorious will continue to live. Will it be the side of the Ennead or the side of Apophis?

It is not just the gods of the western continent that are confused on what is happening. The other gods of Pandemonium saw what was happening in the western continent thanks to the eyes of their believers. Some of the players pray to more than one god as each temple does give a buff when they give prayers and donations.

The remaining gods of Pandemonium could not believe that there was a way for gods to be forcefully summoned to the mortal realm. The gods that have seen the spell, Perfect World, are now searching for ways to cancel the effects of the divine spell. They have deduced that only the gods of the western continent were summoned because it only affects gods of the same faction.

Since the God Thoth has been known to be the one that activated the spell, the other gods of Pandemonium deduced that only those of the same pantheon can be pulled by the spell. They do not know if it only affects the caster as they only know that it was the God Thoth that activated it. If the spell could be used to target others, then they would need a way to stop it.

The Gods of Magic from each pantheon started to research on the spell as they also tried peering into the runes used. The gods of magic tried to sneak a peek, but the God Thoth realized what they were doing and blocked the sight of the gods if they peek through their divine realm. The only way for the gods to know what runes were used will be if they are physically present.

They would have descended but that would mean they would also get affected by the Perfect World spell since it weakens gods that are not of the same pantheon. The gods of Pandemonium had no other choice but send higher officials of their churches to see the spell.

Chapter 1578 The God In A Demigod's Body

The God Loki thought that it would finally escape as the demon that was holding him down suddenly vanished. He did not expect that the young Valkyrie have a secret in her weapon that could root demigods to the ground. There was another strange individual that has the backing of a powerful god.

The God Loki looked at Apolaki with bewilderment because beings of other pantheons should be weakened when inside this barrier, but the latter was not. Apolaki was covered in a mysterious veil that not even the God Loki can see but he also blames his demigod body for the lack of strength. The spear and the sword that is piercing his body was constantly sapping his strength.

"You almost got away but I still need to talk to you." Frey stated which made the God Loki laugh.

"Did you think that I would speak just because you have managed to capture me? I am a god! Aghh!" The God Loki shouted as he was in great pain.

"This is the first time that I have seen a god scream in pain like you though. The ones that I have met were valiant warriors that will not even emit a sound if an arm or a leg has been cut." Apolaki stated as he activated his mana on his blade.

"I would want to help you ease the pain, but you are being a major pain." Frey stated as he nodded towards Apolaki.

Adrian already sent some commands to the ones remaining in the western continent. He also told Apolaki and Awraka to help Frey in interrogating the god that they have captured as he might have been the source of the troubles. Adrian will be helping Frey while also knowing what this foreign god was doing in another continent.

"It would take a lot more than that to have me spilling secrets. I have been tortured far worse that you think I am. Give it your best shot little bird." The God Loki stated as he looked at Frey mockingly.

"I will not be the only one that wants some answers though because I have people that will aid me. You see the gods of western continent would like to have a word with you and we have already notified them of your existence." Frey stated as sand suddenly started to swirl behind her.

"The Avatar of Set, Sadiki, has come to take the foreign gods as requested." Sadiki stated as he suddenly appeared with a large sandstorm because members of the Sand Warriors were also present with him.

"Do not touch me filthy mortal!" The God Loki stated as managed to actually repel Sadiki's hands.

The God Loki might be tied up, but his current body is still that of a peak demigod. With the appearance of the Perfect World spell, the world's restriction is no longer affecting the western continent at the moment which means he could increase his strength back to godlike level. The only reason he could not do so is due to the fact that he is not of the western continent pantheon.

He might not be able to influence the large area around him, but he can affect a small area around his body. He should be able to at least make himself be unable to be moved. If he does so, then he believes that the mortals will forget and give up on him. He might be injured and go through pain, but he would not be killed.

The God Loki knew that the western continent gods will not be able to deal with him as it is now chaos upon the western continent. He smiled as the appearance of an avatar just proves this point. The smile on the God Loki's face could be seen by everyone around him and that made Frey even more inclined to slap that grin.

The God Loki would have started to spew nonsense and rile up the players once again, but the sands started churning up once more. The God Loki's smile slowly started to turn into a frown to a full-time face of fear. The sands behind Sadiki suddenly started to form into a jackal headed humanoid that stands at a height of three meters.

[You are in the presence of the God of Storms, Set.]

"What are you taking so long, Sadiki? Did I not tell you to return immediately upon getting the demigod?" The God Set stated as his presence alone made the atmosphere heavy.

The players could not believe their eyes as a god was truly present in front of them. Some players even thought that only gods that are weaker were the ones that descended but they now believe it differently. The players could tell that the god before them could easily kill them with just a flick of his finger.

The players could sense the disparity in strengths just by looking at the God Set. He exuded immense pressure that just looking at him makes one's legs weak. Some players actually had to kneel down because of the divine pressure that they were experiencing. The ones that could stand tall are those that have increased their persona and also have encountered some powerful existences back then.

"Apologies, my god. The prisoner is much more troublesome than it seems. He can emit the strength of a lesser god using his body but cannot use it outwardly hence why a lot of them are still alive." Sadiki stated.

"You are correct! If you do not want to waste time and save the lives of the people of this continent, then you should focus on sa...!" The God Loki stated but he was suddenly cut off by a hand made of sand gripping his neck.

"Did I tell you to speak, foreigner?" The God Set stated in a deep and commanding voice.

The God Loki could be seen struggling to breathe as is the weakness of a body of a demigod. Demigods are still mortal but have divine energy almost equal to that of a lesser god. They still have the bodily functions of a mortal.

Chapter 1579 The God In A Demigods Body II

The God Loki knew that he will be killed at this rate, but he would be tortured for answers even more. The God Set is notorious even if he is only a Greater God since he could combat the Distorted God Apophis. He is also known as a god that is ruthless to his enemies and would do everything in his power to defeat them.

The players could feel the pressure in the surroundings become heavy as the God Set was exerting dominance over the God Loki. The Nordic god could barely breathe as he struggled to even emit a sound. The God Set loosened his grip a little as the one he is punishing seems to want to say something.

"Did you think that I would fall for such petty torture?" The God Loki stated as he will still survive even if it is barely.

"I see. Let us see if you can survive this then. Struggle all you want because I will always stop when the mortal body that you created will be killed." The God Set stated as sand started to swirl around him.

The sands started to swirl around the God Loki as it formed into small lines that attached to the body of the demigod. The sand then started to crawl towards the mouth of the God Loki as it entered his body. This was not the end because all types of orifices are starting to be entered by sand. The God Loki was being punished in front of mortals which is the highest known humiliation to godlike beings.

Mortals are supposed to fear and be in awe of gods but the scene before them makes them feel pity for the God Loki. The gods have special senses that can detect emotion and the God Loki could feel what the mortals are seeing him as. The pitiful gazes and the remarks about how weak his body is in his current state can be detected even if he is being tortured.

"Such shame! It all started with that demon! I would have killed him already if not for the restriction and being watched by the world. Now, I am captured because of him, and this Valkyrie is also looking at me with contempt. I am the God Loki! I am as powerful as my sword brothers, Odin and Thor! For me to be in this pitiful state must not be seen by others anymore!" The God Loki thought.

The God Loki's demigod body started to break down as he is now prepared to kill every being that witnessed such a pitiful sight of him. The God Set noticed this but he did not panic as he wanted to make sure what this god is about to do. The God Loki started to sacrifice some of his own divinity to escape the clutches of the God Set.

The sands that were holding him suddenly scattered as the demigod's body suddenly elevated towards the strength of a lesser god. The God Loki suddenly created daggers on his hands as he aimed towards the neck of Frey. He wanted to punish the weak Valkyrie that dared to raise her weapon against him just like her goddess when she went against the Odin.

The God Loki is about to reach Frey's neck but the God Set smirked because the latter was waiting for this. The God Set immediately created a scimitar using sand and slashed towards the God Loki. The right hand that was holding the dagger is suddenly cut off as an empty arm passed through Frey's neck.

The God Set suddenly kicked the God Loki and created a wall of sand which the latter crashed upon. The God Loki looked at the God Set in surprise because his speed is already equal to that of a greater god or even above. The level of divinity he sacrificed was far too great to be easily caught by the God Set.

"Did you really think that you can outrun the God of Storms? Since you are not willing to speak of anything then killing you here will send a message to those of your pantheon." The God Set stated as sand suddenly grasped the God Loki's entire body.

"Do you think that my sword brothers will let this go!? I am the sworn brother of Odin and Thor! You shall know their wrath just like what happened to the goddess of that weak Valkyrie! Even if you manage to kill this body, I will revive and descend to kill all of you once again! I shall start with that demon!" The God Loki rambled as his entire mortal body is covered in sand.

"Sand Tomb!" The God Set stated as he crunched his hands into a fist.

A loud crunching sound could be heard as the sand is dyed with red blood. Not even a speck of flesh or bone was left from the mortal body of the God Loki. The players shivered upon seeing such a sight because the God Set basically instantly killed a powerful individual that would take them hours to kill.

"We did not even get much information." Apolaki stated as he wanted to know why a foreign god is in another continent.

"We did as I already know that my goddess must be extremely hurt or worse...dead. She is no longer communicating to me and even the other Valkyries are nowhere to be found." Frey stated.

"You do not need to worry proud warrior. Gods cannot be killed in the divine realms easily. You still have the blessing of your goddess from you as I can feel divinity in your aura. Your goddess might be locked up somewhere as I know that the Goddess Freyja is one fierce fighter that can take on Odin himself." The God Set stated.

"How can I save her then?" Frey asked the God Set which made the latter laugh.

"A mortal saving a goddess is such a new thing for my ears, but I know of a way." The God Set stated.

Chapter 1580 A Mortal Saving A God?

"Can you please tell me?" Frey asked as she owes so much to the Goddess Freyja since she was very generous to her.

"All you have to do is to go to the dimension that she is being held captive." The God Set stated.

"But mortals cannot go to divine realms without the approval of the god or goddess." Frey stated as she knows this because she was told of the rules.

"What if I tell you that your goddess might be in a place where the mortal realm and the divine realm is fused together like the spell covering the western continent?" The God Set stated which made Frey jump in surprise.

"If that was the body of the God Loki earlier or rather a clone of his body then that only means he has partially descended." Apolaki stated as he immediately knew what the God Set was talking about.

"Are you saying that my goddess is locked up in a special realm? If so, how do I go there?" Frey asked.

"A body like the one earlier was definitely made of divine flesh that has been turned mortal through powerful magical suppression. It is a clone, but the divine spirit was indeed of the God Loki. He must have sent his soul back towards the realm as I am not a god that can trap souls. If the Champion or Envoy of the Twin Gods were here, then we would have been able to torture even a divine soul.

For the way there, you already know of someone that can bring you there. Only demons can traverse through dimensions and search for specific ones. I shall give you a guide that can point you in the right direction, but you can only get there after this whole ordeal." The God Set stated as he held his hand out.

The God Set waved his hand as the blood and sand that was mixed suddenly floated. The sand and blood compressed so forcefully that it created a crystal that had a deep crimson color. He then handed this crystal towards Frey as this will be her key to that special realm.

"Thank you for giving it to me even if I have done nothing for you." Frey stated as she bowed.

"Fret not. I also needed to squeeze information out of him, but he was very adamant of not speaking. Still, I was able to ascertain that he was indeed part of the ones that released the Shadow of Apophis." The God Set stated as he saw a black jewel with a small serpent crystallized when all the sand was no more.

The God Set could detect such foreign magic in this crystal even if it was already empty in energy. The God Set could deduce that the energy present in this crystal could definitely be used to harm even a god like him. No wonder it was powerful enough to break the seal of the Shadow of Apophis.

"As a way to repay you, I shall be part of your army. Please bring me." Frey stated as she bowed towards the God Set.

The other players bowed towards him as well because they would rather be part of his army than wander the vast deserts of the western continent in search of an enemy. They might even be killed by other violent gods of the Ennead. The God Set told all of them to rise as proud warriors should not lower their heads too much.

"I shall take you all in as you wish. Fight with all your might because the lives of the people of the western continent depend on it." The God Set stated as his voice rumbled in the desert.

[You have been acknowledged by the God Set to be in his army.]

[You have gained the Blessing of the Sands buff.]

[You will not be damaged by the desert winds.]

[You will deal 10% more damage when in the desert.]

[You will have 50% more natural regeneration when in the desert.]

A huge sandstorm suddenly swept across all of them as the players could feel coming. Frey and the others were not afraid of the sandstorm because it was the God Set that summoned it. All of their bodies are suddenly swallowed but they were already gone when it settled.

"Huah!" The God Loki exclaimed as he awoke back in Asgardr.

He broke out in cold sweat as he could still feel the sands entering his body. The God Set knew what he was doing when he tortured the God Loki with divine sand. The damage he felt was very uncomfortable as it even reached his divine soul.

The God Loki stood up and rampaged all over his room as everything was destroyed. The commotion made the God Thor look at his sworn brother and checked if he was fine. The God Loki relayed all of the events but made sure to hide that he was tortured in front of mortals or else he would become a laughingstock.

"You have done the best job, brother. Preparations have been made and it will only take less than a year before our return. You can vent your anger then." The God Thor stated.

"I am still angry brother! Do you have the whip made of the Flaming Snake of Muspell? I shall whip that good for nothing traitor as one of her birds dared to look down upon me." The God Loki asked as he intended to use it on the Goddess Freyja.

"I do have it brother, but you cannot use on her brother. She has been punished enough by my father." The God Thor stated.

"Are you still keen on her changing her mind? Just because she has aided you in some of your excursions does not mean that she will be forgiven for stopping the Allfather." The God Loki stated.

"She meant well but she is only confused because she was one of the few that remained active in the mortal realm after all. Besides, you are being called in the main hall." The God Thor stated as he was able to pacify the God Loki.
