

O Summoner 1721

Chapter 1721 Choose Which Vault II

The vault of Lust was more into items that granted Endurance stat enhancements. It was the perfect for those that used stamina as a resource instead of mana. It is also quite perfect for those that used health as a resource since the items offered inside also have great regenerative properties.

The next Original Sin is the Sin of Envy which is Leviathan. One would think that Leviathan would be like Mammon that kept the items, but it was not. The spread for the Vault of Envy was 70% Epic Tier, 25% Legendary Tier and 5% Mythical Tier. The items inside the vault also made use of powerful physical defense enhancements. This was the perfect vault if one was a warrior type of character that relied on defenses. The tanks that relied on their defenses that chose this vault almost shouted for joy when they got the items that they actually needed.

The next vault is the vault that Adrian chose which is the Vault of Gluttony. The spread of the item is the same as that of the Vault of Envy which is 70% Epic Tier, 25% Legendary Tier and 5% Mythical Tier. Beelzebub did not think to much on what he put inside as those were all the excess that he had which he did not necessarily need.

One might say that all the items inside the vault are scraps, but those scraps could even put a master blacksmith to shame. All the items inside the Vault of Gluttony were items that enhanced magical qualities which are a blessing to mages. All the mages that picked this vault would be crying tears of joy when they get out.

The next vault is the Vault of Wrath which belongs to Satan. The spread for this vault is much wider in terms of Legendary Tier. The spread is 55% Epic Tier, 40% Legendary Tier, and 5% Mythical Tier. All the items are also the best when it comes to offensive qualities such as physical damage.

All kinds of weapons could be seen inside but all the players that entered could only see Glamoured item so they cannot analyze it. All the ones that wanted physical damaging items would see this vault as the best paradise.

The last vault is the Vault of Sloth which has an ever better spread of items compared to before. Belphegor seemed to not care about the items inside which explains the variety. The spread of the items is 50% Epic Tier, 43% Legendary Tier, and 7% Mythical Tier.

Belphegor just placed all the items that the devil god managed to find and went to sleep. All the items are mainly things that can increase the Health and Mana regeneration of players. The players that picked this vault would not cry tears of regret like the others. Actually, only a few players picked this vault due to image of the Belphegor not having any care in who enters it.

==

"All the items are rocks?" Adrian stated as he was inside a vault that was filled with rocks that are the size of his hand.

"You are correct. All items inside the vault are glamoured to look like rocks. All the other vaults are just like mine which is why the others have the same view. Although the item tiers vary from devil to devil. It will now be up to your luck if you could get the prized Mythical Tier items in my vault." Beelzebub stated.

"Do we have a timeline on how long we can decide? Also, can you give us a clue?" Adrian stated as he raised his hand.

"Since the first in the ranking contribution is here, I guess I might give you a clue. The duration of choosing is one day. If you fail to choose within a day, then the rock that is closest to you will be the item of your choosing. The clue would be to not use your five senses in choosing an item. I wish you luck." Beelzebub stated.

All the players immediately scattered upon hearing what Beelzebub said. Some did not care on what they pick as they relied on their gut feeling. Those that used their gut feeling immediately picked a rock and presented it to Beelzebub. The players that used their gut feeling either jumped for joy or slumped in regret. Most of them did the slump of regret but they used their chance of getting an item suited for them even if it is only Epic Tier. The substitute items were actually items that would greatly improve the weaknesses of the players, so they did not feel that bad.

Some of the players looked at Adrian to see what he would do but he can only be seen examining the entire area. Those that saw Adrian only wandering about no longer focused on him as they would lose precious time. What they did not know is that Adrian was already inspecting everything with the help of his most trusted helper.

"Are there things that interest you, Paradox?" Adrian asked his ego weapon.

The Devil Beelzebub already gave them a hint that they should not use their five senses. Adrian faithfully did just that as he chose to have Paradox choose. Since Adrian is not one to choose based on luck most of the time, he wanted to use Paradox' capabilities of sensing energies that is beneficial for both of them. Adrian could be seen mumbling as he flew by which made others think that he was talking to himself/ but he was actually talking to Paradox.

"I am still searching, master. I have already got the candidates that can be useful but even my sensing abilities are not a hundred percent certain. There is something that is also tampering with my ability to see energy. We are inside something akin to a God's Domain which is why my abilities have been limited." Paradox stated.

"I think you are correct because I cannot use any skills inside this place. Even my own inventory has been sealed." Adrian replied.

Chapter 1722 The Rock I Chose

About half a day already passed and Adrian was still choosing between the rocks that Paradox has already sensed. He did not focus on them much as that might alert some of the players that those rocks might be special. There were some rocks that he was told that were chosen but they were only Epic Tier.

Adrian observed the rocks that he marked that were chosen by other players. They were items that had a special ability regarding to origin magic. Adrian believed that this was the reason why Paradox reacted to them strongly.

He saw a bead that is a material that can be attached to a wand that can negate 1 minute of cast time. It was an incredible item, but one would also need a skilled craftsman to fuse it with your current weapon. That was one of the legendary tier materials that is inside the vault.

Paradox also classified the items based on what it could sense. Paradox has marked three items that is special and one of them was the bead that was already taken. The items that Paradox could not easily classify were actually Epic Tier items that had specialties that lets the user escape a few meters if hit by a powerful spell or erupt a barrier that can negate magic spells for two seconds.

Adrian thought that he would never find a Mythical Tier item from the pile of rocks that are in the vault until Paradox trembled. Paradox was flying around Adrian until it shook heavily for the first time and separated from Adrian on its own whim. Paradox suddenly flew towards the pile of stones that were present in the very first area that one can see rocks.

The players did not think that an important item would be present in the first area which is why it is mainly untouched. There are some that chose from the first area, but they were extremely small in number when compared to the people that entered this vault. Since Adrian was already circling the area since he entered, the other players did not find his action different.

"Is there something wrong, Paradox?" Adrian asked.

"Master! This is the thing that we need." Paradox stated as it hovered on top of a rock that is piled up against other rocks.

Beelzebub saw that Adrian managed to pick an item that is of the mythical tier, but it is also something that eludes him of its use. Beelzebub smiled but did not react that much as he was only there to take off the glamour. The players are the ones that will need to pick what type of fate that they have.

Adrian chose to trust Paradox as it always made sure that he always gets on top. Adrian picked up the rock and immediately proceeded to where Beelzebub is as he is the only one to turn the rock into the real item that it should be. Adrian handed the rock to Beelzebub as the latter took the item with a smile.

"As expected, you are incredibly interesting even for me. If you had been born as a devil, then I would make you, my successor. Do you wish to become a devil? I can easily bypass the laws of the world when I am in Hell." Beelzebub stated.

"Not really interested. I quite like what I am." Adrian replied.

"Such a pity. Your devious mind is perfect for being a devil." Beelzebub stated as he finally took off the glamour that he has cast on the rock.

A powerful light suddenly exploded from the item as a Mythical Tier item has finally been picked inside the Vault of Gluttony. There have been other players that also unlocked a mythical tier item, but they are part of other vaults. All the players inside the vault could only look at Adrian with eyes full of envy and longing as they also want to pick a mythical tier item.

==

Item Name: Essence of the Rift

Item Tier: Mythical

Item Type: Consumable

Item Effects:

- This item can only make its effects known when the holder of it has origin magic.

- Gives the user the passive ability called Rift Manipulator.

Description: An unknown item that is said to have been forged from a source that is unbeknownst to many. It is shrouded in mystery and is said to only be usable to those that are blessed by that very source.

Restriction: Can only be used by those with Origin Magic

==

Adrian did not think that he would get a Mythical Tier consumable and it also gives him a skill when used. Beelzebub could be seen looking at Adrian's expression as even he could not read the description of the item. Beelzebub could only see what the item looks like which vexes him as he could not know the true purpose of it is.

The Essence of the Rift looks like a small marble that is about an inch in diameter. It would be more appropriate to call it a pill instead of a real item since it was actually much smaller than the rock that Adrian picked up. Adrian was amazed by that glamour as it actually felt like a real rock instead of the item that he sees now.

The Essence of the Rift is a one-inch diameter marble that has a swirling galaxy inside of it. Beelzebub did not know its use which is why it only thought that it is a beautiful marble that has a small galaxy trapped inside of it. He thought it was an item where the user can use in order to escape momentarily but it is not.

"Thank you." Adrian stated as he took the item from Beelzebub's hands.

Beelzebub wanted to ask Adrian what the item is, but the demon just took the item and immediately left. Adrian did not want to waste anymore time there and he also did not want to stay there any longer. The commotion of getting a mythical tier item is already a lot.

Adrian did not stay in Hell either as he already sent a group chat to his guild members saying that he needed to return to Avalon which is why they could resume whatever duties that they have. Adrian immediately entered the guild house upon arriving at Avalon and took out the Essence of the Rift.

"How do I consume it though? Do I actually need to physically ingest this thing?" Adrian asked himself but he was also asking Paradox as it was the one that picked the item.

"Do you feel like ingesting it, master?" Paradox asked Adrian as even it did not know how to use the item.

All Paradox knows is that the item that it picked would be beneficial for both of them but mostly for Adrian. Paradox made sure to prioritize Adrian before itself which is why it picked an item that was better for its master despite it sensing an item that would be good for itself. Adrian stared at the Essence of the Rift and actually felt his tummy growl as if his body wanted to eat it.

"My entire body is screaming to eat it. There is also no instruction to use it which means anything goes. I can just spit it out if I do not need to consume it." Adrian stated as he opened his mouth and swallowed the Essence of the Rift.

"Hmm? Nothing is happening. Maybe, I do not need to eat it. Let me spit it out." Adrian muttered but he suddenly felt his whole body becoming hot.

A powerful explosion of cosmic light suddenly filled the entire guild house which shocked the other guild members that have already returned as well. They thought that the guild house was getting attacked but it was actually their guild master releasing powerful beams of cosmic light as they saw his body being wrapped in it.

Adrian looked like he was undergoing a cocoon process as the cosmic light that he released also created a blanket for him to be covered upon. The cosmic light soon faded after a few minutes of Adrian groaning in pain as he actually felt all his skin was about to get ripped off. The energy that suddenly exploded in his body was almost difficult for him to even contain.

"Sensing vital signs. The master is fine. Any chance of death has been minimized due to the master having the body of an Arch Demon." Paradox stated in its robotic voice.

[You have gained the passive ability of Mythical Tier called the Rift Manipulator.]

"Did you actually calculate the odds of me dying? Maybe give me a heads up before you let me devour a monstrous pill that actually carried the power of an extremely miniscule universe!" Adrian stated as he actually saw flashes of civilization and life when he devoured the Essence of the Rift.

"The master is incredibly sturdy due to his demonic body. You will not die even if you swallowed three more of those." Paradox replied to which Adrian was in disbelief.

Chapter 1723 Rift Manipulator

"It seems that you are severely using my own body as a catalyst for power. I know that my body is sturdy, but it does not mean that I do not get hurt. Have you become devious and started to form some sort of emotional intelligence?" Adrian stated.

"If I have formed emotional intelligence then I would not have used a straightforward way of making the master ingest the Essence of the Rift. I would have made sure that you have the best emotional stability when you ingest it." Paradox replied.

"Should I be worried that my own ego weapon has started to think of me as a lifeform to be optimized? Not really! Paradox has never failed me so I should trust it." Adrian thought to himself as he looked at the Rift Manipulator skill.

==

Skill Name: Rift Manipulator

Skill Tier: Mythical (Can be evolved when merged with other related skills)

Skill Type: Origin Magic Passive Skill

Effects:

- The skill bearer will have 30% less mana consumption when using skills or abilities relating to Origin Magic.
- An Additional lesser 20% resource consumption is utilized for Spatial Magic Related skills.
- The skill bearer will have 30% less cooldown reduction for all skills relating to Spatial Magic.
- All skills relating to Origin Magic has a 10% chance of not going on cooldown.
- All skills relating to Origin Magic has a 5% chance to ignore the resource consumption.

- Enables the user to store one Spatial Magic skill that can be used immediately without resource cost. (2 hours cooldown) (Cooldown is not affected by this skill.)

Mana Cost: None

Cast Time: None

Cooldown: None

Note: This skill is only one of three parts. Collect the other two skills in order to unlock or evolve this skill to the next tier.

==

Adrian is actually in awe of the skill because it was really tailored to him as a demon. He wanted to kiss Paradox right then and there, but it would make him look like a psycho since his other guild members were there. Adrian told his guild members that there is nothing to worry about as he was just testing a new skill.

"Still, this skill is something that any other demon would want. It might be a passive skill, but it has the ability to reduce resource consumption. The only real weakness for spells of Origin Magic is that they often use lots of mana or resources. This is also one of the reasons why demons have much better physique than other beings.

"Can you calculate on how much more spells I can use now that I have this skill." Adrian asked Paradox.

"I have already calculated. The master will have 50% more spell casts than before as this skill is a perfect passive that suits all of master's abilities except for his Netheros and Aetheros skills." Paradox reported.

"Thanks. You always have my back partner." Adrian stated.

Paradox did not reply back to Adrian immediately as if it was blushing or shy from the pure praise that his master has given it. Paradox then returned back to swirling around Adrian, but one might see that it looked more energetic. Adrian tested the last effect of the Rift Manipulator passive skill, and he was not disappointed.

Adrian was able to store the Vortex skill inside the passive skill so that he can use it later without cooldown or mana. This was a perfect skill to use in an aggressive manner as he could store powerful Spatial Magic skills in advance. He visioned himself creating two large black holes that could actually rip the enemy apart if he positioned it correctly.

"I should now view the memory so that I can get the reward for the quest." Adrian stated as he opened the interface and clicked on the Memory of Abel.

==

Adrian suddenly saw his surroundings go pitch black as his body turned into particles. The next thing that Adrian could see is that he is in another body. He was in a body of a young Asmodian boy.

[You are currently viewing the Memories of the Asmodian named Abel.]

"Abel! Come here! We need to fix the broken spacetime rifts!" Cain or rather a younger version of him stated.

Cain and Abel looked like they were only eleven years old at this point in time. They were not Asmodians that were created through the pure source but through parents. The birth of Cain and Abel was actually celebrated by the Asmodians as they are a race that have great difficulty in increasing their numbers.

Since the Asmodians are basically immortal, their reproductive instincts are incredibly dull due to their age. Even the young Asmodians suffer from this as Asmodians actually age incredibly slower compared to other races. Asmodians need at least a hundred years to grow older physically and they stop growing physically after two thousand and five hundred years.

Adrian could not control Abel as he was only viewing the memory through the latter's eyes. Adrian was only there for the ride, but he was excited about the scenes, nonetheless. Adrian thought that he would see the same outside world, but he was incredibly wrong.

Adrian saw what the world looked like before it split or got fractured into different smaller worlds. The world was incredibly vast that even Adrian's eyes could not see everything even if he is taking in all of the scenery. What amazed Adrian the most is a gigantic warp gate installed in every metropolis like city.

Adrian was in a city or rather a place that is mostly demons just like his place except the city is an actual spatial anomaly. The houses and establishments were all floating and encased in a barrier that prevented any weather conditions that are affecting the outside. There are also futuristic looking hoverbikes which makes the ones that the gnomes create pale in comparison.

"So, this is Pangea!" Adrian stated as he was able to see the world before everything collapsed.

The most incredible thing that Adrian has seen is that the gods themselves were walking on the mortal plane. Even the mortals were interacting with the gods as if it was an everyday occurrence. The mana in the world was also incredibly dense which meant that any normal being born in this environment would have the qualities to easily become a powerful mage.

"Everything is incredible! Artifacts that can basically do complicated spells that needs a Master Mage is held by everyone. Everything is in order, and everyone was at peace. This is basically paradise!" Adrian stated as his vision suddenly darkened once more.

The next view that Adrian could see is when the beautiful paradise has started to be tainted by other beings. About five unknown beings suddenly entered the boundary of the main world, Pangea. These five beings were none other than the first five dark gods the world have seen.

These five dark gods were not like the ones that have arrived before that wanted to assimilate to Pandemonium. They were dark gods that wanted to devour everything in Pandemonium. This was the start of the invasion of the dark gods.

"Cain! What should we do?! Our land has already been corrupted!" Abel stated.

"We can always rebuild that, but we must go to the place where the Asmodians rest. We must seal it in another dimension!" Cain replied as he pulled Abel in a rift.

==

[You have arrived at the Secret Tomb of the Asmodians.]

"We must seal it brother! We are the Guardians of the Tomb, but we must not let the dark gods or distorted gods find this place! This is where those that died first are buried and their bodies will not rot away like those of mortals.

The dark gods or distorted gods must never get the bodies of the first to fall. They will defile the bodies of our proud people and use them as vessels to carry out the end of reality. Are you ready, brother?" Cain asked Abel.

"I am ready, brother. I already have the seals from the other Asmodians as well. It is now time for us to sacrifice some of our energy to create a seal for our lineage." Abel stated as he and Cain slit their palm and blood came out.

Cain and Abel's blood fused together to create a purple crystal. There were also four other crystals which represented the other Asmodian lineages. When the five crystals were gathered, the five crystals formed into a star that suddenly created a powerful vacuum that sucked the Secret Tomb of the Asmodians. An empty space or nothingness replaced the surroundings as all of it was sealed by the star shaped crystal before disintegrating to dust.

"Nice job, brother! Now that we have completed it, we can now go to war and even sacrifice our entire existence should we lose. The only way to unseal the location is for the five lineages to undergo the same ritual that we did." Cain stated as both of them left the area and prepared for war.

Chapter 1724 Abel's Memory

The next part of the memory was showed when Adrian's vision returned. It was not perfect as it was more on vague memories as if the consciousness of the one that he is seeing from is not stable. All he was seeing was scenes of destruction and of great misery.

Adrian's vision suddenly changed when a powerful light appeared before his eyes when his vision faded. The light actually healed the vision as Adrian could now see the scene quite clearly. When Adrian can now see everything, his vision is filled by none other than the sight of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel.

Adrian thought that he would see the arrogant and condescending attitude of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel, but he was wrong. The Angel of Chastity Jophiel that was in front of Abel was meek and shy as if she was in love. Abel could be seen thanking the Angel of Chastity Jophiel for her help as he was injured heavily.

"Thank you for your help. I would like to know your name since you are my savior." Abel stated.

"I am named Jophiel. I helped you because we are allies in this war against invaders after all. The beautiful paradise that is Pangea must not become tainted anymore." The Angel of Chastity Jophiel stated with a beautiful and calm voice.

Abel thanked the Angel of Chastity Jophiel for her help, and they seemed to have steady conversations. The war against the dark gods lasted long but the situation was not at the point where they are suffering from the invaders. In fact, there was a time when they could be seen pushing the dark gods back.

At this point in time, Abel and the Angel of Chastity Jophiel were now more than normal acquaintances. One could see that the Angel of Chastity Jophiel was actually in love with Abel and what they had was pure. Adrian thought that the Angel of Chastity Jophiel was only manipulating Abel from the start, but he could see that she loves him with all her heart.

The Angel of Chastity Jophiel even told Abel that she had a male form, but the latter did not care. The both of them have already transcended the point of love where it is easily broken. It was when a decisive victory against the dark gods is when Adrian started to see the changes.

The Angel of Chastity Jophiel met with Abel once more, but Adrian could see that she felt incredibly different. The Angel of Chastity Jophiel that was cheerful and graceful has suddenly become elegant and condescending in aura. Even Abel noticed the change that occurred, but he figured that the Angel of Chastity Jophiel was just keeping an image since she was the leader of angels.

"My beloved! I missed you!" The Angel of Chastity Jophiel stated which shocked Abel.

The Angel of Chastity Jophiel never referred to Abel as beloved as she would always tenderly call out his name. Still, Abel thought nothing of it as the Angel of Chastity Jophiel might just be incredibly tired from the war. It was then that the Angel of Chastity Jophiel was no longer just herself as the Goddess of Light Luminaria has already taken control of her.

The Goddess of Light Luminaria found out about Abel and the Angel of Chastity Jophiel's relationship. Since the gods back then did not have a divine realm, the Goddess of Light Luminaria had to infest the angel that she created in order to pull off her plans. The Goddess of Light Luminaria took out a relic and pushed it inside of Abel's mind.

Abel screamed in pain as Adrian's vision also became erratic as he was seeing what the former was seeing. Seeing that her plan has come to fruition, the Goddess of Light Luminaria no longer infested the Angel of Chastity Jophiel. Upon seeing her lover in pain, the Angel of Chastity Jophiel actually scorned the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"Silly child! You are not worthy of love. You are only created to love and worship me." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"What have you done to him?!" The Angel of Chastity Jophiel shouted.

"I have done something that will change the course of power in this world. The enemies are already getting pushed back and I want power. He will be the key for me to achieve that power. It was very difficult getting an Asmodian of his lineage having his defenses down, but it seems that you make him soft.

You did something very good my child as this will catapult your brethren to be as powerful as them. You have contributed greatly to my rise to power. Now that the invaders are about to be finished off, I shall be the one to lead the new gods as some of the old ones have died from the war." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"I did not want this! Take it off him!" The Angel of Chastity Jophiel stated as she tried pulling out the relic that the Goddess of Light Luminaria inserted inside Abel's mind.

The Angel of Chastity Jophiel was actually almost able to pull out the relic that the Goddess of Light Luminaria at the expense of her own life force. The Goddess of Light Luminaria saw this and activated the 'Absolute Command' that she has used on all the second-generation creation that she has created. The Angel of Chastity Jophiel suddenly stopped what she was doing but her own mind was still aware of the things happening.

"What is happening?!" The Angel of Chastity Jophiel stated as this was also the first time that she has seen her own body not listening to her.

"You live for me because all of you that I have created have some of my blood. The first generation, those that you call the Fallen, were not able to cater to my every whim because they do not have my blood. The Fallen were only created with my energy which was my mistake which is why I bound all of you angels to me when I created you.

You will cater to my every whim as that is what I wanted from all of you. Free will is not free for beings such as yourselves that were created as perfect in my image. Beauty can only be sought when I am in control." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"Why are you doing this to him!? You can see that he is in great pain! If you wanted to punish me then you should not have touched him." The Angel of Chastity Jophiel stated as she was actually able to force herself to speak although her body is not moving through her will.

"He is a needed piece in my plan to conquer the humans of this world. I should be the chief goddess of light. I have already put my plans in motion when I made scenarios of the other gods of light getting killed. I have come this far! I will not let your petty love for this Asmodian to be my undoing." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

"Will he be fine?!" The Angel of Chastity Jophiel stated as a tear actually came out of her right eye.

"Such a lovestruck child. He will be fine if you do not do anything that is not within my wishes. I can easily make his head explode when I want to. The relic inside of his head is made with my own blood that I can control. Be good and I will let both of you stay with each other at the very least." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated.

The Angel of Chastity Jophiel could only agree as she knows that the pain that Abel felt is something that the Goddess of Light Luminaria is doing. When she agreed, Abel could be seen no longer squirming in pain which delighted her. Although, the Angel of Chastity Jophiel noticed that Abel no longer has life in his eyes as if he was dead inside.

Adrian's vision changed once again but it was now the scene where Abel and Cain were fighting. Cain learned of what happened to his brother and flew in rage to kill the Angel of Chastity Jophiel. The fight between the brothers became intense with Cain being forced to concede as Abel was actually able to get his mind back when the former was about to land a killing blow to Angel of Chastity Jophiel.

"Do not kill her brother. I love her." Abel stated as he managed to control his body for the first time in a long time.

This sudden statement from his brother shocked Cain which made him be caught off-guard by the other angels. Cain was sealed with golden chains of light which were created by Mikhail. In the end, the last sight of Abel was his brother getting sealed and caught because of him. Abel's mind control was once again returned as a laugh from above could be heard.

Chapter 1725 Sealed Location I

[You have received the coordinates for the Sealed Tomb of the Asmodians.]

[You have gained a piece of the Asmodian Abel's soul.]

[The quest Find My Brother's Soul Fragments have been updated.]

==

QUEST NOTIFICATION

Quest Name: Find my Brother's Soul Fragments

Quest Tier: SSS

Quest Description: Cain, the last living but almost dying Asmodian, wants you to find the soul fragments of his brother that is scattered. He will tell you more of the details after you accept.

Completion Condition: Find out how many soul fragments there are and collect them. (1 / ???)

Reward for Accepting: Blood of an Asmodian

Reward for Completion: Secret Asmodian Skill Book

Failure Condition: None

Failure: None

Time Limit: None

Note: A location of one of the souls will be sensed per soul fragment that you have collected.

==

[You have collected one of Abel's Soul Fragment. Do you wish to use Soul Sweep in order to find the nearest one in your current location?]

"Not yet." Adrian stated as he was still inside the guild house which is a pocket dimension.

[You did not use Soul Sweep this time.]

[You can use Soul Sweep once every three days as it puts some strain on the soul fragment.]

[The soul fragment must rest so that it will not be extinguished.]

Adrian did not want to waste his chance in finding a soul fragment since it is also at a weakened state right now. Adrian could see that Abel's soul fragment was not something that would actually survive the use of a Soul Sweep. He would need to wait a few more days or strengthen the soul fragment before performing the skill.

"I think I need to visit the underworld at this point. The soul fragment looked like it was about to die out. It seems that even though the Angel of Chastity Jophiel became a beast, they still managed to make sure that the last remnant of their lover will continue to live on." Adrian stated.

Adrian did not think that a soul fragment of Abel would be kept by his ex-lover, but it seems that the Angel of Chastity Jophiel made sure that he might have a chance of resurrection. Even Adrian could deduce that the Angel of Chastity Jophiel might have kept the soul fragment in hopes of finding a relic that could revive a dead being.

"Still, the Angel of Chastity Jophiel is asking for too much. One cannot revive a soul that is scattered that easily. The intelligence in the soul that the soul fragment possesses is almost no more.

Even if the Angel of Chastity Jophiel does find such a powerful relic, it would usually cost the lives of other beings.

The only reason why the Sun God Ra was able to revive is due to the fact that he willingly split his soul into fragments. From what Cain has told me, Abel's soul was not split willingly but forcefully. A lot of traumas would have accumulated in the soul.

It is actually a great feat that Abel's soul was still able to hold onto a piece of memory. Once I find all the soul fragments, I will make sure that you will pass onto the afterlife and hopefully reunite with your beloved." Adrian stated as he was actually able to anger the Goddess of Light Luminaria for the last time after he killed the Angelic Beast of Chastity.

Adrian was able to extract the soul of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel inside the Angelic Beast of Chastity. He did not think that a soul was left even for the Angel of Chastity Jophiel as he saw that the Angelic Beast of Chastity devoured them in their entirety. He is actually impressed with the tenacity that the Angel of Chastity Jophiel has shown which is why he saved the last remaining wisp of soul that they have.

"I even used the divinity of the Goddess of Light Luminaria to strengthen the Angel of Chastity Jophiel's soul. I guess both of them ended up having the same fate and karma. Is this the work of the Three Sisters or just something that the game has decided to do?" Adrian thought as he opened the door to the underworld and entered.

==

In Limbo, Adrian could be seen accompanying a soul that is quite different than those that are falling in line. This soul was glowing in golden light which meant that this was an angel's soul or what was left of it. Adrian was able to at least save a piece of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel's soul, but it is a mystery if it would be able to continue itself with reincarnation.

[The soul fragment of Abel is getting stronger due to the energy in this place.]

"Yes. You must heal yourself or else you might not be able to last long until you reunite with your other parts." Adrian stated as he suddenly saw the Angel of Chastity Jophiel's soul circle around the soul fragment of Abel.

"Is this what it meant by people being destined to love? Even their souls actually recognize each other." Adrian thought as he sat on his seat of power in Limbo.

Adrian called upon an Anubis to have the soul that he brought be kept until it becomes stronger. The soul of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel must be strengthened before it could be judged. If the soul of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel is suddenly judged while in this state, then it might become extinguished.

"It seems that the young master's action has riled up the Goddess of Light Luminaria as some of the gods of death were getting yelled at when the gods convened." An Anubis stated.

"What can she do? All she can do is bark anyway. I just did my job when she herself twisted her own creation into a monstrosity. She is actually quite lucky that the God of Death Abaddon is not present in that meeting or else she would have been unable to even rant." Adrian stated.

Chapter 1726 Sealed Location II

"As the young master has said, all she did was shout at them as all she can do is prattle. She did tell the gods of death that they must surrender the soul of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel to her as she is the rightful owner of that soul. She even told us to also bring the souls of the other angels that you have killed." The Anubis stated but he already knew Adrian's answer.

"Should we give her the souls of the ones that I locked?" Adrian stated as he snapped his fingers and five large crosses suddenly descended from the sky.

Each of the cross were angels crucified and bound in chains with their wings also bound. They were the souls of the angels that Adrian tested his Shepherd of Lost Souls ability on. He directly caught their souls and sent them to the afterlife which is why they could not reach the Silver City to revive themselves.

The soul of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel suddenly shuddered when it saw the souls of other angels getting sealed. It was so afraid that it actually cuddled up to Adrian like a small child. If it knew that it was Adrian that sealed those souls, then it would have run as fast as it can, but it was also him that strengthened it when it was on the verge of being extinguished.

"Tell me. What can you give me in return for your freedom?" Adrian stated with a smile as his form that was already incredibly frightening is intensified as he was in his true form in Limbo.

"Do you think that we would sell out our own kind?!" One of the angels shouted as it was the most recent one to be sent there so it still has more energy to resist.

"Your esteemed and snobby goddess has asked for your souls. I am willing to return the soul of the one that could tell me what the angels are planning. If only one of you answers, then I will not believe you.

If two of you answers, then I will believe the one that speaks the second time. If another speaks up, then I would be more inclined to believe that one. Now tell me, what can you give me in exchange for your own freedom?" Adrian stated.

The angels then looked at each other as if looking on who would speak first. They were all trying to make sure that they were the last one to speak up as they wanted to be returned to their goddess. They might not want to betray their kin, but they were willing to have their kin be in purgatory just for them to escape this place.

"Since none of you wants to speak, I think a refreshing visit to Ah Puch might be a nice change of pace." Adrian stated.

"No! Please not there! I will speak!" One of the angels stated but Adrian did not care.

Adrian snapped his fingers and the ground below the angels suddenly cracked open as hands of the dead grasped them. The angels along with their cross was dragged to the pits of the underworld where Ah Puch resided. The screams of their terror could be heard but it all fell in deaf ears as their goddess demanded and not wanted to exchange.

"Did they not say anything?" Adrian asked the Anubis.

"They did say some information, but it was all false in the end. They were actually full of lies unlike their counterpart in Hell." The Anubis stated.

"I see. Then can you please make sure that this little one recovers to a point where it could survive judgement." Adrian stated as he gently gave the soul of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel to the Anubis.

"But this is the soul of the angel that the Goddess of Light Luminaria wants! Are you sure you want to strengthen it?" The Anubis stated.

"That is no longer the soul of the angel that the Goddess of Light Luminaria wants. That is a new soul that is formed from her divinity and the remaining soul spark of the Angel of Chastity Jophiel. It is a new soul which means that we are now in charge of it.

You can even see that it has already been registered in the Book of the Dead. The only thing it is missing is a name because it was born as a soul first. Make sure that it will be ready for reincarnation." Adrian stated with a smile as he could see the fuming and raging face of the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

"As you wish. Come here, little one." The Anubis stated as it picked the new soul.

"Are you sad? You might be a fragment, but it seems that the memories have been etched to your very core. Let us just hope that your other fragments are the same as you or else you might not get a chance like that little one." Adrian stated as he organized the information about the Lost Tomb of the Asmodians.

The coordinates that were given to Adrian are coordinates of Pangea and not Nebulon or the current main world. He does not know if the Lost Tomb would be in that location if he goes there as it might have been sent away in another world. The coordinates that were given to him are actually the coordinates of a danger zone in the central continent.

"I should check it to make sure, but I cannot even teleport there due to the unstable mana field. I guess I need to take a much-needed expedition into one of the danger zones." Adrian muttered as another Anubis suddenly came to him.

"Young master, it seems that we have a dream walker once again." The Anubis reported.

"Is it the same person?" Adrian asked.

"Yes. It is the same young girl that suddenly appeared one day in Limbo. It seems that she is taking too many trips here." The Anubis stated with worry.

Chapter 1727 Dream Walker

Adrian went to the location of the dream walking girl as she always makes it to Limbo when she uses her Astral Projection. Adrian knew of this skill as it is actually a skill that is said to be available to those that have been blessed by the God of Dreams. The blessing of the God of Dreams is usually the case but this one is different.

Usually, those with the God of Dream Morpheus' blessing would Astral Project in the mortal plane as their soul could separate from their body. They would usually use this to travel to places that they can never visit, or they wish to visit. This is the reason why they have this type of skill as the God of Dreams actually took pity on them.

People with the ability to Astral Project are usually beings that are laying in bed or those that could not endure travel to long distances. The God of Dreams Morpheus is someone who gives joy and finds comfort on giving those that cannot have a chance in the real world in the dream world. It is also an incredibly strict process as the God of Dreams does not give this ability just to anyone else.

The last time that someone with an evil personality was given this blessing had resulted in a whole kingdom getting erased off the map. That was a very sad incident that increased the workload of all the people in the underworld as those people should not have died yet. The God of Dreams Morpheus had to shut himself up for a century or two before he returned to duty.

A Dream Walker is what the people of the underworld call those that are blessed by the God of Dreams Morpheus. They literally traverse the plane of existence via their souls while they are dreaming in their sleep. They are not dead but are in a death like state since they need to be like that in order to astral project.

The Dream Walkers are also protected from any of the gods of death when they are astral projecting. They are often covered in what people call Dream Dust, but it is just like sand with magical properties. This makes sure that random grim reapers would not suddenly ferry their souls to the afterlife.

"How many times does this make?" Adrian asked as he lost count after the fifth.

"This makes it the thirteenth time, young master." The Anubis stated as even it was already tired of having to escort the girl's soul back to the realm of the living.

"This is a very strange case since those with that blessing should not be able or rather should not be allowed in the afterlife. If they were even to step inside, then they would be repelled as per the law of the Book of the Dead." Adrian stated as he memorized the rules of the underworld in his free time as he found it intriguing.

"I have consolidated the God of Dreams Morpheus about her situation but even he has yet to know why as well. He even said that the little girl does not have his blessing when I asked the last time." The Anubis stated.

"Did you say that she is not blessed?" Adrian asked to make sure that he heard it correctly.

"Yes. The God of Dreams Morpheus verified that she is not blessed by him as he did not bless anyone during this century." The Anubis stated.

"Then is she actually a natural Dream Walker? Someone that was actually born with the ability to Astral Project. Have you seen her origins? Did you check that since I have already told you that last time?" Adrian stated.

"I went to personally check but it seems that her origins itself is very unusual. I cannot step foot inside her house as there is actually a house god that resides there." The Anubis stated which shocked Adrian as that would mean that the little girl has very special origins.

"Nether!" The little girl called out as she suddenly ran towards Adrian and hugged him.

The little girl was about five to seven years old in age. She is also quite small for her age as she does not even get pass Adrian's waist. She wore a simple kimono like dress, but one could see that it is made of high-quality silk.

"Yumeko! I thought I told you that you should not be here as this is not a place for the living." Adrian stated as he was always straightforward even as a child.

Adrian was raised based on logic but with love so that he has the ability to empathize with others. Since he was raised just like this, he is not really the favorite of the children as he would often be called as boring. He was someone that does not cater to the playful whims of a child when it comes to chores and such.

"But Yumeko likes it here! This is the only place that I can visit when I am asleep. Shirohe said that this is all a dream and that you are not real." Yumeko stated as she tilted her head.

"That is the thing. This place is very real, but it is not for those that are still alive, and you are still alive." Adrian stated but Yumeko seems to not understand clearly what he meant.

"I guess we cannot do anything unless we visit the God of Dreams Morpheus himself." Adrian stated as he sighed since he did not want to go to another death realm.

"Shall I notify the God of Dreams Morpheus or your arrival?" The Anubis stated.

"Notify him of our arrival as I will bring Yumeko with me." Adrian stated.

"But you must not bring that child to Hades! It would make her more accustomed to the afterlife which might make her soul unable to return back to the world of the living." The Anubis stated in shock.

"I will protect her myself since I need to bring her with me. We will not be going to Hades though. We will go to the direct residence of the God of Dreams Morpheus which is Erebus." Adrian stated as he opened a portal that looked like it was all darkness.

"Where are we going?" Yumeko asked.

"We will be going to the Land of Dreams. Do you want to come with me, or do you want to go back home?" Adrian stated.

"I do not want to go home when I just got here! Besides, I will wake up once you send me home and that would be boring." Yumeko stated as she held Adrian's hands.

Adrian is actually impressed that Yumeko is not afraid of him because his true form is very terrifying for children. Even the normal adult ghosts that come to Limbo thought they were getting punished by the god of all evil when they saw him. It was only when the Anubis explained what he was is when they calm down.

The little girl before him was definitely a person with such a strong will. She might even be someone that could become a person of high authority if she ever makes it pass the age of fifteen. The numerous times that Yumeko has already been in Limbo has made her very familiar with Adrian and the others.

It seems that she has a very weak constitution in the real world which is why she said that it is only in her dreams that she can travel. If Adrian is not busy and returning to the main world, he would often bring Yumeko to parts of the central continent in her sleep which made her incredibly fond of him. He also brought her to Avalon where she actually was able to interact with kids her almost her age which are the two oracles.

Yumeko was already used to Adrian, and he always answered truthfully when they take journeys. To Yumeko, all of it is just a dream and she treats it as a figment of her creative mind, but Adrian knew that everything was real. He did not want to witness Yumeko suddenly being unable to return back to her mortal body should a strange complication were to take place.

"I also have to talk to the God of Dreams Morpheus about something since it is related to memories. He is the one God that should be asked when it comes to things that deal with memories." Adrian muttered as he entered the portal that he created with Yumeko holding his hand.

The God of Dreams Morpheus is said to be the one God that everyone prays to in order to have sweet dreams, but he also has another power. He has the power to give people their memories that they have forgotten back as if it was fresh. Many scholars even called him the God of Memories as well but the God Morpheus always told the others that dreams are also memories that became creative.

Chapter 1728 Land of Dreams

[You have arrived at the Land of Dreams Erebus.]

Adrian and Yumeko arrived at the Land of Dreams Erebus without any implication. He checked Yumeko's condition and saw that the little girl is still relatively safe. Adrian is coating her with his own energy so that the negative effects of the Land of Dreams Erebus will not consume her.

The Land of Dreams Erebus is like a gigantic cloud when viewed from Adrian's eyes. For the eyes of others, they would see something that they have always dreamed about. Each person would be unique in what they see as every person has a different version of a dream.

"Wow! Are we in the outside world? This place is full of beautiful flowers and cute animals!" Yumeko shouted as she ran around but made sure that she is not that far away from Adrian as she is still scared of the new place.

"This is the Land of Dreams Erebus. Make sure that you will not go too far from me." Adrian stated as he knows that getting lost here might mean getting lost forever.

The Land of Dreams Erebus is an extremely nice and cruel place at the same time. It could be a paradise to those that have dreams but a nightmare to those that are tormented by evil deeds. It is also a part of the afterlife that is special since the things here are what makes the trials of the afterlife.

A dead soul would float to Limbo as that is where the entrance to the underworld is. The dead soul would need to be classified in Limbo and they would be sorted to the death realm they should be in order to be judged. The Gods of Death that judge the dead souls would use clouds from the Land of Dreams Erebus.

The clouds from the Land of Dreams Erebus would be used on the dead soul in order for the gods of death to view the events of the life for that being. They would then judge the being based on what they have done or rather relived inside the dream that was given to them. This process might look like it would take a long time, but it is actually just an instant.

"If I could just scoop up some of these clouds then I would be on my way, but I do not want to be cursed to sleep eternally." Adrian stated as returned the clouds that he had scooped up.

"I would not do that if I were you!" A quirky but energetic voice stated.

"Greetings to the God of Dreams Morpheus. The Champion of the Twin Gods greets you." Adrian stated as he looked at the godlike being that appeared before him.

The God of Dreams Morpheus is actually one of the oldest gods in the world as he is a child of the Goddess of Night Nox. He usually goes with two names as he is also called Hypnos, but he only uses that name when it comes to his followers. To those that are friendly to the God of Dreams, they want him to use his name given by himself which is Morpheus.

The God of Dreams Morpheus looked like a normal human being that is actually in his teenage years. The only striking difference is that he has wings behind his back, but it is not angel wings. The wings are made of clouds, and he uses these clouds as a bed.

He also sports a regal looking night attire or pajama with a matching sleeping mask. If he is not in his usually drowsy state, he would be incredibly quirky and energetic which matches his tone of voice. He is usually drowsy 90% of the time while the other 10% would be his incredibly energetic time.

"It seems that I have come at a good time since you are being energetic." Adrian stated.

"I know why you came here, and I am actually glad that you did because an Anubis cannot really bring her here." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he pointed at Yumeko.

"So, did you really not bless her?" Adrian asked.

"No. I did not bless anyone for a long time already. I have made my criteria so strict that I might not even bless anyone anymore." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he suddenly slumped down.

"To think that the God of Dreams Morpheus no longer wants to dream. Why not choose an Envoy or Champion? You will have someone that could do adventures for you, and you may create stories based on the hardships of the Envoy or Champion that you choose?" Adrian stated casually but the God of Dreams Morpheus looked at him in disbelief.

"That is, it! I now know why I decided that I will not punish you. To think that I was about to send you to the Nightmare Woods for an hour!" The God of Dreams Morpheus stated with a sudden jolly expression.

"Uhhh...excuse me?" Adrian stated but the God of Dreams Morpheus started to excitedly execute the suggestion that Adrian made.

==

[The God of Dreams Morpheus has interfered with the mortal plane.]

"Huh?! Why did a world message suddenly appear?!" All the players in the mortal plane stated.

[The God of Dreams Morpheus has placed an inheritance of his own powers in the mortal realm.]

[Mortals that have given me countless stories and vivid dreams. I have hidden my inheritance in the land where the one who inspired me is. Go there if you wish to have a chance to have a piece of my power. I wish all of you have good dreams.]

==

"Excuse me... what did you do?" Adrian stated in complete shock as he was actually unable to process just what happened.

It was not only Adrian that was unable to process what happened because even the other players did not understand the world message completely. It was only when the players read the world message is the time where all of them created a loud stir. The players finally realized that the one who was able to induce a world message was a god.

It was not only the players that made a stir because even the developers were now in full panic. They did not expect that the passive God of Dreams Morpheus would suddenly do something out of character like that. He was designed to be lazy and passive with outbursts of energy, but he was supposed to not listen to the whims of others.

The God of Dreams Morpheus is not just a powerful god that could govern dreams, but he is also able to look into memories even if those memories were already erased. Any being that is related to him would or could induce powerful abilities that might sway the world itself. The developers immediately looked at the item that the God of Dreams Morpheus left on the mortal realm.

"Emergency patch! Make sure that the sudden appearance of that relic does not mess up the approved timeline." The director watching the real time events of Pandemonium stated.

"What about Equinox? Should we do something about him? He was the one that triggered the sudden change in the God of Dreams Morpheus." One of the developers stated.

"We must not worry about him now. We must focus on the sudden change of the God of Dreams Morpheus from passive to actively seeking a representative." The director stated as he already has too much on his plate at the moment to deal with what Adrian did.

"I followed your advice and made sure that I raise up a Champion that could grant me wonderful stories. I created a trial that will find that Champion for me. It seems that my sudden whim may have upset the other gods which is why they are trying to minimize the power that I granted on that item but all they can do is seal it anyway. It might actually be better since that would pose as a challenge to my champion as well!" The God of Dreams Morpheus stated in an extremely excited manner.

"I do not really care about what you do because you are a god. I cannot even stop you once you put your mind to it but why is it placed on my territory?" Adrian asked as he could see notifications of the sudden appearance of a black divine cloud in his territory.

"You were the one that suggested it to me, so I chose your place. It will do you good as I remember that foot traffic is needed for a place to flourish." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he gave a thumbs up to Adrian.

"I think I need to breathe for a second as I did not know that you can influence gods like this. Calm down... you have talked with other gods and this one is just one of those nutjobs that do not understand sarcasm." Adrian thought to himself as he calmed himself down.

Chapter 1729 Land of Dreams II

"Do not worry because I know that you have something else in mind when you came here. You want to have that little girl stop coming to Limbo, am I correct?" The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he pointed at Yumeko.

"That is one thing that I am in need as you know that the dangers of having a living soul repeatedly cross to Limbo is not something that we take lightly. She might suddenly transform her living soul into a dead soul if she repeats the process a bunch of times. She was only able to go to Limbo about once every two weeks when she started but the frequency of her visits increased.

I worry that there may come a time that her visit would suddenly become permanent. She might trap her soul in Limbo despite her body being alive. If her soul is trapped in Limbo, then there might be evil spirits that would want to take over her body." Adrian stated.

"You are correct in that thinking as even I have never seen a normal human being able to do what she does. She can even touch the dream beasts that are present here in the Land of Dreams Erebus. She is special indeed and might even become a goddess relating to dreams should she become deified." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated with a serious expression since he knew how special Yumeko's ability is.

"If you did not bless her then, was she blessed by another god of dreams?" Adrian asked.

"You do know that is impossible because there is no other god of dreams other than me. All the others that are worshipped as gods or goddesses of dreams are just a version of me. I am what others view me as because dreams are not completely solid in physique." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated.

The God of Dreams Morpheus is indeed the only god that has the ability to rule over dreams. He has different forms due to the way people view dreams, but he is all of them in the end. He is also one of the gods that actually never used the faith of the people to empower himself because he does not need to do so.

The God of Dreams Morpheus would use all of the faith given to him by the people to make sure that they have pleasant nights. Faith to him would actually just increase if people were just to say 'Have Sweet Dream' before they go to sleep. He would have faith over multiple beings or different races which is why he is one of the most impartial of all the gods.

The God of Dreams Morpheus did not bother in making the mortals tell them that they need to praise the proper god of dreams because he does not need to. He is a god that was born to be essential and useful for the well-being of people. One might even say that a good night's sleep is much better than resting the body from fatigue.

A person with a very good dream would be able to rest well in the night which will energize them in the morning. Not only is their body well rested, but their mind is also incredibly refreshed because of the good thing that they experienced. All of the dreams that living beings create are actually all hosted in the Land of Dreams Erebus.

The Land of Dreams Erebus is a very special place that expands as more people dream of better things. If a lot of people were to dream of things, then the Land of Dreams Erebus will grow much more and can host even the dreams of those that do not believe in sleeping. This would also make the God of Dreams Morpheus more powerful because the Land of Dreams Erebus is both a part of his body and his divine realm.

"Can you do something so that she would only be able to Astral Project in the mortal plane? She must not return to the death realms." Adrian stated as he knew that Yumeko would be in great danger if she were to continue arriving at Limbo.

Adrian is worried that Yumeko might not just end up in Limbo when she astral projects. He knew that they could easily send her back when she arrives in Limbo since the Anubis are beings that adhere to strict order. The problem now lies if she was able to astral project in a death realm that is further in the underworld.

If Yumeko were to astral project herself to a death realm and gets the fancy of a god of death, then she would be trapped there forever. This would hasten the process of her having a living body with a dead soul since a soul can transform into the environment that they are afflicted with. If a soul acclimates to the environment, then they would never be able to leave that death realm unless they have unleashed all their grudges.

If that happens to Yumeko then she will never be able to release any of her grudges because she never truly died in a mortal sense. Her soul would be doomed to spend eternity in the death realm that she is trapped in. Adrian would have to challenge the god of death to a match in order to free her soul which he would definitely lose.

"You know better than anyone else that the other gods of death are not friendly gods. They might not be evil, but they do not want outsiders encroaching upon their domains." Adrian stated.

"You are correct regarding that. Some of the people here are indeed pricks. Let us see where her ability came from then." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he took out a small pouch that was wrapped on his waist.

"Yumeko, come here for a moment!" Adrian called Yumeko as she would now be inspected by the God of Dreams Morpheus.

"Nether! Who is that sleepy dude?" Yumeko asked as she pointed at the God of Dreams Morpheus.

"I am the owner of this place. This wonderland is my domain! Did you like it?" The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as his tone actually became softer and more childlike to level with Yumeko.

"If only the other gods would be this reasonable. If she pointed at them and called them another nickname, then they might threaten to kill her. Then again, she might faint if she stared directly at a god or goddess. She is only able to withstand the pressure from the God of Dreams Morpheus because of me and the god himself shrinking his vast presence." Adrian thought as he smiled.

"Wow! You are suddenly the coolest mister that I know! You own such an amazing place that is like a paradise!" Yumeko stated with excitement.

"I know right! Others think that my place is childish, but I know for a fact that I have the most amazing place out of all of them. Where do you think will you find a domain that any people can enter as long as they are dreaming? None! Only I can have that kind of ability." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he puffed his chest with pride.

"On second thought, maybe the God of Dreams Morpheus is really just a child at heart which is why he is like that." Adrian thought as he smiled.

"Do you wish to know the origins of your ability, Yumeko?" The God of Dreams Morpheus asked.

"What do you mean ability?" Yumeko asked and it was Adrian that answered her.

"You see, Yumeko. You are not actually just dreaming but your soul is actually travelling to a different place. Do you understand that?" Adrian asked in a gentler manner as he crouched down to be on Yumeko's level.

"You mean this place is real?!" Yumeko stated in shock.

"Yes, this place is real. In fact, all the places we went through when I escorted you are in fact places in the real world as well." Adrian stated.

"Wah! Yumeko is actually able to go outside!" Yumeko stated as she actually started to cry.

Adrian is suddenly caught off guard on what to do since he never had experience taking care of a child smaller than him. He has seen Levin Cloud do it, but he made sure to always have candy to bribe his best friend's younger siblings away from him when he goes to their house. Also, Levin Cloud's younger siblings have not cried in front of him like what Yumeko is doing.

"There... there sweet child. Why don't you tell us all about why you suddenly cried? I am sure that you repressed some feelings in the real world which is why you are crying before us now." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he suddenly looked like a dependable older brother.

"The fact that I am even worse than an AI when dealing with a kid." Adrian thought to himself as his pride took a hit.

Chapter 1730 Land of Dreams III

"Yumeko is very weak and cannot even go outside her own home!" Yumeko stated as she cried.

Yumeko then proceeded to tell Adrian and the God of Dreams Morpheus about her condition. She can only walk in the confines of her own home because she is usually incredibly weak. She could actually faint any instant that her body suddenly loses out on energy.

Yumeko told Adrian and the God of Dreams Morpheus that she was not like this when she was younger. She said that she remembers that she could play and even run outside without any problems. Now, all she could do is view the children of the other houses play happily while she is trapped inside her home.

"Do you remember why you suddenly got a weak body?" Adrian asked as he seemed to know that something must have happened to her.

"I do not remember." Yumeko stated.

"Perhaps she was so traumatized by the experience that she forgot about what really happened. I can reveal that memory if it is buried deep into her mind or even if she managed to forget it. The only thing that I need is to have her consent about it as we are basically prying into a child's mind." The God of Dreams Morpheus.

"Can we see that memory, Yumeko? The cool uncle might be able to find a way to fix you up so that you could run again in the outside." Adrian asked with a gentler tone.

"Will it be scary?" Yumeko asked.

"It might be for you, but you can just close your eyes and the both of us will look into that for you." Adrian replied.

"Yumeko wants to be strong which is why I must become strong myself. I will watch it!" Yumeko stated as the God of Dreams Morpheus sprinkled her with some sand.

The sand that was sprinkled on Yumeko came from the pouch that is tied on the God of Dreams Morpheus' waist. He then manipulated this sand and extracted a cloud like substance from Yumeko's mind. The God of Dreams Morpheus then proceeded to create a projection using magic.

The sand cloud suddenly became a square screen where the deepest and darkest memory that Yumeko has sealed could be seen. The God of Dreams Morpheus could see a lot of unhappy memories in her mind that she has sealed such as the scene of her sitting by the window while the laughter of the other kids echoed in the area. The God of Dreams Morpheus was filtering through the memories until he found something shrouded in a strange energy that felt very familiar to him.

"It must be this memory. Are you ready?" The God of Dreams Morpheus asked.

"What do you mean ready? We are just going to view the memories through the projection, right?" Adrian asked as he has been viewing the memories through the projection.

"This was just the selection process for the memory. The real viewing will start now." The God of Dreams Morpheus stated as he made the sand affect their eyes.

Adrian, Yumeko and the God of Dreams Morpheus suddenly saw themselves in a place where Yumeko described as her house. Yumeko could be seen playing happily as she was full of energy while a bluish-purple flame is burning at the very end of a long hallway. The other adults that are taking care of her looked happy that Yumeko was happily playing until the sound of clashing swords are heard.

"Rebels!" One of the guards of Yumeko's family shouted.

The adults that were taking care of Yumeko suddenly told her to hide behind the altar where the bluish-purple flame burned. Yumeko did as she was told and made sure to not emit a sound because her father was not present in the household. Her father went to the capital city in order to report something to the emperor.

It did not take long for Yumeko's attendants to scream as the rebels managed to enter the shrine hall. Yumeko's attendant was about to be killed by the rebel when she suddenly screamed and tossed the small stone that she picked up that was placed on the shrine. Yumeko managed to divert the attention of the rebel and saved her attendant, but the eyes of malice are now directed at her.

"The kid is here!" The rebel shouted in order to get the attention of the other person.

"Shirohe! Where are you?!" Yumeko called out to the house god of their home, but she was also busy fighting against an evil spirit that had the same power as her.

The attack on Yumeko's home was not something that was accidental. The rebels or rather those masquerading as rebels were waiting to strike when Yumeko's father was not in the home. About half of the small militia that they have were also away as they were also sent to the capital.

"Young lady! Run away! I shall buy you time. You must escape to the mistress!" The attendant stated as she took out a small knife from her sleeves and charged towards the rebels.

"Nanny!" Yumeko cried out as her attendant fell on the floor due to her getting pierced in the abdomen by a sword.

"We shall now proceed to capture the target! Surround her so that she will not get away." The rebel stated as the other started to flood the shrine hall.

"Guardian spirit, please help me!" Yumeko cried out to the bluish-purple flame as this was revered by their house since it was a magical flame that guided Yumeko's father when he was lost in the Alphine Woods.

Yumeko cried out but the flame did not answer because it does not have the capability to do so. Exorcists from the eastern continent told them that this flame was a guardian spirit that lost its memory which is why it needs to be venerated in order to ascend. Since it helped their family, they did so but it was now too long since it really did something.