

O Summoner 1791

Chapter 1791 Might As Well Show Myself

Adrian marked all the locations that the gods of light were present and all of them paired up like they are the best of friends. In reality, the gods of light hate each other and that they only talk and cooperate because of the God of Light Luminaria. The Goddess of Light Luminaria does know of this, but she does not care to mend as she thinks that competition is essential to serve her better.

"They are in high alert and would even retreat during the night which means that any movement from my side will surely be spotted by that angel with the gift of light sight. Thankfully, the dragons are now in full battle mode and will raid the Silver City tomorrow which means I can rampage as much as I want. Since they are being careful then I shall show myself and kill the paired gods."

Adrian thought as he started to bide his time.

Adrian hid in his pocket dimension and waited for the right timing as that is what he has most. The most important thing is that the angels are now becoming the number one target for all the oppressed races that they are killing. The Daemos Elders did not prioritize revenge as the world is going haywire, but they are just waiting for the joint coalition.

Adrian has been filled with the information that the Daemos would immediately transport all the soldiers. This time the angels have incurred the wrath of the world as this world has been interacting since they were sealed. What they did not know is that there are humans that they have conquered that are also plotting their downfall as some have loved other races and produced offspring.

The world is no longer like the time when the angels were tyrannical, and they spread human supremacy. The world that they live in now has received the benefits of the joined innovation of all races. There might be some differences where one will not agree but it is not the point that people will kill each other for it. The human supremacy kingdoms have also been severely weakened ever since the strongest human empire was wiped off the map. The ones that advocated for human supremacy could not sustain themselves in a world that has the ingenuity of the gnomes, the craftsmanship of the dwarves, the nature work of the elves, the military might of the orcs, and the fierceness of the dragonkin along with other known races.

The only reason that some human supremacy kingdoms managed to operate despite great economic deficit is due to the silent funding of the Church of Light. The treasury of the Church of Light started bleeding as soon as they made sure to keep those kingdoms afloat. The richest religion in the world could no longer be called rich as their funds are now rock bottom for supporting numerous small human supremacy kingdoms.

This is also one of the reasons why they have been hell bent in conquering all of the kingdoms around their pawns. The Church of Light must refill their treasury so that they can operate once more. Even if one does not want to say but money is needed in everything even in charity work.

In Avalon, the entire floating island is suddenly covered in a powerful barrier to make sure that unknown communication will not be applicable. The spies sent by the God Baldr has their communication cut off from the angel players that sends information to the head angels. The spies thought that something was wrong in Avalon which is why they started to leave its premises which is what the others really want.

"We are starting. Alert the joint coalition that the activation of the hidden teleportation magic circles will commence. We might not be able to completely join in the war as we are fixing fractures, but Elder Bronx will be our representative. Make sure that all those angels and even the gods be teared to shreds." Ascalor stated as he was incredibly furious.

"I shall make sure to carve to them why we were feared even by their best warriors." Bronx stated as his aura made the space around him tremble.

"The time cracks also started to appear which is more of a pain to fix. They must have used a divine weapon to break the world barrier. If you can retrieve that weapon, then we can destroy it and use its essence to fix the world barrier anew." Koronn stated as he still believes that they can restore the world barrier if given the right items.

"I shall see if it is there when I bring destruction upon them." Bronx stated.

"Also, do not die. We are spread thin as it is. We do not need any more deaths from us, or this world is doomed." Ascalor stated as Bronx nodded.

"The Joint Council of the Central Continent is in position. We are ready to be transported." A crystal ball suddenly stated.

"All Daemos in Avalon, commence casting the spell, Multiple Transition!" Ascalor stated as all the Daemos that were busy suddenly stopped what they were doing and chanted words.

The ordinary citizens of Avalon and even the passerby players did not know what was happening, but a powerful wave of energy suddenly filled Avalon for a moment before it returned to normal. The people thought that it was just one of the blessings of the Tree of Life and Death located in Avalon which is why they did not worry. Even the spies did not suspect a thing but those that saw the weird chants went out of Avalon to report what happened.

The spies that regained the ability to communicate could not call their contacts or rather their contacts cannot answer. What the spies did not know is that it was already too late because the forces that opposed the angels were already sent to the respective targets. The Dragons in particular that accepted aid were directly transported in the skies of the Silver City.

Chapter 1792 Chopping the Heads of Gods I

Adrian did not even have to wait long as he sensed the disturbance in space and smiled. He knew that the Joint Council of the Central Continent has arrived. This made him smile as this would lessen his burden as he will not need to fight against two gods alone. The demigods that were backing each nation also stepped up to the plate as this might be their chance at divinity by killing gods and taking in their divine essence.

Adrian peeked at the army that was sent in front of the kingdom that he was eyeing where two lesser gods were guarding. The angels seem to have become lesser as some might have been pulled away to retreat. Adrian thought that something must have happened to the Silver City that warrants their attention immediately.

Adrian looked at the two gods that did not show fear as they believed that they would be enough to protect each other against the unknown enemy killing the gods of light. In fact, they thought that getting defeated just means that they will be evicted from the mortal realm and sent to their divine realms to recuperate. The Goddess of Light Luminaria did not even bother to tell her subordinate gods that those that were killed mysteriously did not return to their divine realms.

The ones that were guarding this conquered kingdom were a light god and a light goddess. They made every being in this kingdom cower in fear and even toyed with races other than humans by killing them as if they were ants. Adrian really wanted to interfere immediately but going against two gods even with his soulbounds is not easy with the threat that reinforcements might come for the gods.

"I did not even remember their names which is why they are stuck being lesser gods. They would not have been important if they just plainly guarded but they toyed with lives. That is a crime punishable by death and torture for a hundred years." Adrian stated as he saw that the army that came to this kingdom has two demigods with them.

"Release all of the people in the kingdom and both of you gods will not be harmed. That goes with the angels as well." One of the demigods stated.

"Foolish demigod! Who are you to demand us beings that are beyond you?!" The Light goddess stated as she threw the severed head of a female elf towards the army which made all the elves scowl at her.

"Let us just kill them!" One of the demigods stated as his rather slightly long and pointy ears can be seen.

One of the demigods that came was a half elf that cared for both humans and elves because he was nurtured carefully by both his parents. He did not have any prejudice at all as he was raised with love even though both his parents have already returned to the soil. He vowed that no being conceived from parents that loved each other must never be hurt.

"Let us test them first." The Light God stated as he conjured a large magic circle that created swords of light that headed towards the army.

The swords of light are then met with a magic that is similar to it which is noticed by the two light gods. There were ten hooded individuals with the army and the gods of light knew what they were. They were angels that have turned their backs on Luminaria and lived the lives of their human vessels. One might even say that they are no longer angels as they fused with their human bodies perfectly to become Nephilim due to Ark's intervention.

Ark has gathered all the angels that turned their backs on the Goddess Luminaria and stabilized their bodies. The angels possessing the human bodies have harmonized with their mortal flesh to transform into Nephilim. Even Ark did not know he was capable of such but the Fallen believed that he really is the promised one to bring down the Goddess Luminaria.

"Traitorous Wretches!" The Light Goddess scowled as she created a powerful burst of light that is aimed at the enemy army.

"It seems that they are not taking us seriously?" The female demigod stated as she created a spell that is of equal power but using darkness magic.

The two magics collided with each other and cancelled out like nothing happened. This made the two light gods a bit shocked as their attacks were deflected easily even if it was only slightly serious. The two light gods stared at the female demigod and saw the aura that she was emitting, and it made their noses stuffed.

"A devil child with a human. A Cambion is amongst them. This might be a bit difficult." The Light God stated.

"It will only be a little difficult, but I would love to have that Cambion's head to decorate my sanctum." The light goddess stated.

"Shall we show them the difference in strength?" The Light God stated as he looked at the Light Goddess.

"Let them taste despair in the bright light!" The Light Goddess stated as the two of them released their domains at max capacity.

The two light gods might be downplaying their enemies, but they were wary. They only put on a brave front but even they are not sure that they will not leave this battle unscathed. The both of them suddenly transformed into beings of pure light and released their domains to the point that it covered the entire battlefield which is bigger than the size of the kingdom they are protecting.

All the angels also changed to their full golden armors as they were about to engage in war. This is not just the site for this kingdom as all the kingdoms that were invaded by the angels and the gods of light are having the same scenario. The fight for the central continent has started after the monster hordes were over.

Chapter 1793 Chopping the Heads of Gods II

The two gods of light changed the terrain as sparkles of faint golden light became scattered in the battlefield. The two demigods wanted to use domains as well, but they are not that powerful. The two demigods have yet to fully awaken their domain that can change the surroundings.

Just because one becomes a demigod does not mean that they can create a large domain. The best that the two demigods can do is create a small domain that is two meters in diameter with them at the center. They were able to protect themselves from the effects of the domains of the two gods of light.

The army that they came with was not able to lessen the effects of the domain of the two gods which is why their fighting power slightly weakened. The enemy angels were able to get more powerful as a result, but the army was still bigger in quantity compared to the enemy angels. They did not lose hope as the two demigods that they are with did not falter when it came to the domains of the gods which means that they have hope.

"I shall deal with the annoying one first as he is someone that I can defeat without any interference." The female Cambion stated as she suddenly sprouted one devil horn on the left side of her forehead.

The female Cambion suddenly vanished from her position with a puff of black smoke. She then reappeared next to the light god as she used dark magic to create sharp claws. The two light gods were a bit shaken that a darkness magic user was as fast as them but that does not change their stance.

"Cheeky devil brat!" The light goddess stated as she was the first that reacted and created a spear made of light to hit the female Cambion.

"Pierce!" The half elf stated as he suddenly thrust his rapier and a powerful green light suddenly shot out from it that targeted the light goddess.

The light goddess was not able to defend against the sudden attack to her and the rapier sword aura hit her perfectly which sent her flying a few meters away. The female Cambion managed to hit the light god with her claw, but he was able to defend against it at the last second. The female Cambion laughed as her claws were not ordinary and the light god noticed it as well.

The arm that the light god used to block the attack of the female Cambion could be seen getting darker and darker. The darkness claw was injecting some of the darkness element into the armor of the light god. The light god did not think this was possible that he could be tainted by the darkness of a Cambion and not a devil.

The light god suddenly exploded in a bright light which made the female Cambion retreat as she is still weak against the light element. The light god created seven spheres of pure light that released light swords that targeted the female Cambion. The female Cambion had to focus on dodging as each of the swords were made of pure light energy that is deadly even to her.

The light goddess and the male half elf were also in full battle mode as well since the former felt that she was embarrassed by the half elf demigod. The battle style of the male half elf is to use sword aura in a swift way like launching a piercing needle at the speed of light. Even the light goddess must evade his attacks as one hit from earlier made her armor crack which is a great achievement.

The light goddess is different from the light god as she made use of melee combat more. She shot towards the male half elf at a fast speed with her spear, but she is not able to due to the fact that the male half elf launching repeated concentrated attacks. She was fast but the male half elf was able to predict her flight path which made it easy for him to attack her.

The two gods and the two demigods were not the only ones fighting as the angels and the army started to clash as well. The Nephilim were able to block the long-ranged attacks of the angels but that is not the case for melee combat. The army and the angels clashed with one another but the differences in strength could be seen.

The angels empowered by the domains of the two gods can take on five of the army people at a time. This made it difficult to see who would win and angels are a race that do not get tired as long as light is continuously poured in their bodies. The angels thought that they have the advantage as the fight drags out since they are of the superior race.

What the people fighting do not know is the fact that they were all being watched carefully. A being was peeking from another dimension waiting for the perfect chance to attack. Adrian was patient even though he really wanted to jump into the battle, but he needed to prepare as well. Even he will find it difficult killing two gods at the same time.

Sirius was already out and slowly used Samael's Domain to cover the entire area. He still wanted to cut off the communication of the angels to their goddess as he did not want someone interfering. Adrian did not use Samael's Domain to just cut off the inside but also the outside so that his presence will not be easily found out by the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The less they know about him then the easier his job would be. Adrian could also see that the gods of light are fighting against the demigods a bit lightheartedly. It seems that the gross behavior of the two gods is not easily seen through by the demigods that think that they are winning.

"Make sure to enjoy that sight as that will be your last." Adrian stated as he finally deployed Charon as well since everything is now in place and he is just waiting for the perfect timing.

Just as Adrian observed, the two demigods suddenly felt that the two light gods' attacks started to get heavier than before. The female Cambion could see that her darkness claw could barely penetrate the armor of the light god and she is getting hit more and more by his projectiles. Her senses could tell that the light god was toying with her all along as she saw him start to laugh.

The same is true for the male half elf as his attacks could no longer hit the light goddess. The light goddess could be seen easily evading his attacks by a hair's breadth. She would perfectly dodge at the right moment and the right time which made him go to the defensive.

"They were toying with us." The female Cambion stated as she could be seen getting exhausted with her back against the male half elf.

"I agree but we must not falter here or else the world is doomed." The male half elf stated.

"Are you kids done playing? We barely broke a sweat?" The light goddess stated but she was still a bit exhausted as well since battling the demigod is not easy.

"We should destroy everything just in case. I am done playing here." The light stated as he knew that the enemy might get used to his fighting style if it dragged on.

The two light gods wanted to use their remaining energy to destroy everything in the area even the kingdom. They thought it was a bother to protect and they believed that the humans can just reproduce again anyway. Sacrificing one kingdom is much better in their eyes than doing tedious guarding work.

"Luxa Prima!" The Light God stated as he started to fuse all of his seven light balls like a powerful sun.

"All of you are doomed. Release it!" The light goddess laughed as she knows that the light god, she is working with was the best spell caster when he was a mortal.

"Why are you not releasing it!?" The light goddess stated as she looked towards the light god in horror.

The lower body of the light god suddenly separated from his head and fell to the ground. The large sun that the light god conjured fizzled out like it never happened. There was dead silence in the battlefield as that happened because no one expected or sensed the being that they are seeing.

"Die!" The light goddess managed to recover from her shock and is about to plunge her spear towards Adrian's heart but...

"Realm Ender." Adrian stated calmly as Sirius suddenly manifested below the light goddess and bit her whole body off.

The only thing remaining of the light goddess' body was her head which Adrian caught. The angels screamed in terror but that is all that they can do because the sound of chains echoed in the distance.

The invisible chains soon manifested in the eyes of all the people in the army as the proud golden armored angels were struggling to escape.

Without even waiting for Adrian to command him, Charon crushed all of the angels and their screams were pure agony. The angels were not easily crushed because they had their armors on but that only increased their suffering. The scene of three beings made of mist killing all their enemies were engraved in the minds of those who witnessed it.

Chapter 1794 The Angels are Surrounded

The two demigods saw what happened to the two gods that they were battling and were still in shock. They only managed to recover when Adrian suddenly vanished from the area. All the angels were also dead which made them feel like they have accomplished their tasks without any sacrifice.

The army and the two demigods knew that they needed to sacrifice some things and even lives in order to win. The fact that they were able to win the fight without dying made them cheer. The army knew that this was just a coincidental win because someone intervened, and the two demigods already had information on that someone.

"To think that the Reaper of the Gods was actually real." The male half elf stated as there were some rumors going about that a being was hunting down the gods of light and killing all the angels in the process.

"I am just glad that the being did not separate our heads off while we were also at our weakest. We can still join up with the others and attack the other conquered kingdoms." The female Cambion said as she looked at the army that they brought and could see that all of them had their legs giving out.

All of those that gazed through Adrian's body suddenly felt like death was coming to them. They had shortness of breath, time moved slower, and they felt their body getting colder as if death personified was coming to them. This is not an isolated case as all those that did witness Adrian's true form in all that power either fainted or thought they were crazy.

Adrian did not stop with his crusade of death as he managed to hunt down six more gods of light until he was summoned back in the underworld. The gods of death could no longer hold his true form without causing a backlash on him which is why he was told to stop. Even if Adrian did stop his current killing spree, fear has already been planted unto the gods of light that descended as they finally learned of what happened to the gods of light that were killed.

The Aspect of Death Thanatos personally visited the Gods Baldr, Magec, and Prende as they were the leaders of the gods of light that have descended unto the world. The Aspect of Death Thanatos delivered to them an eerie note saying that this is just a warning for the unstable death wave that they created. The next time that the Gods of Light do something like this again then all of them will be judged.

The Gods of Light that were captured were also sent straight to the underworld to be tortured. The ones in the list that Adrian was given were the ones that created bloodshed upon their descent. The ones that were spared were ones that have yet to kill any other being but are indeed lesser gods. There were still some in the list that Adrian was not able to kill but they were Greater Gods that did not leave the Sanctum of Light.

The Sanctum of Light is the greatest temple of the Gods of Light where they are also at their most powerful. There were at least ten more gods there which is why Adrian did not attack any of them. He would be walking inside a lion's den if he did so and be killed in the process. The Gods of Light did not take kindly to the threat of the gods of death, but they can only suck it in.

"Did they really capture them after killing them?" The God Baldr asked.

"I just returned from my divine realm and tried to reach out to those that were killed. They were not in their divine realm and the Goddess of Light Luminaria is not pleased. She is rampaging like a madman in the divine realm and cursing at the Gods of Death." The Goddess Prende stated.

"We are lucky that they only gave us a warning as we only invoked a large monster horde when we destroyed the world barrier. If we created a calamity that wiped off half the planet then all of the Gods of Death would surely not stand around and personally claim us." The God Magec stated.

"What is the condition of those that were captured?" The Goddess Prende asked as the gods of light were not killed but apprehended for their misdeeds.

"They are being tortured if the letter speaks true. The Aesir Gods would no longer participate in this foolishness now that even the Gods of Death have been angered. We will no longer work with you from this point on." The God Baldr stated as he decided that it is best that they no longer form an alliance with the Gods of Light under the Goddess Luminaria.

"You cannot do that on your own! You cannot break the vow that the God Odin himself has made." The God Magec stated.

"I can and I will because I have the authority to when the God Odin is at rest. Your goddess did not even inform us of what was happening. Some of the gods of light that were under me were also dragged to the underworld because of what happened.

We have sacrificed enough for this alliance that does not even bother to inform us of the important events that are happening. This is where we part ways and I hope that whatever you are planning would be successful, but we would no longer be part of it." The God Baldr stated as he vanished from the Sanctum of Light.

"Coward! I thought those Aesir Gods are the bravest and most brutal, but they ran away when the Gods of Death became angry." The God Magec stated.

"They have already done their end of the bargain. It is actually a shock that they kept in contact and were helping us until now. Still, the God Baldr was correct. The Goddess Luminaria should have told us that the other gods were killed by a warrior sent by the Gods of Death. Now, we are now only ten in number from the previous thirty." The Goddess Prende stated.

"It does not matter. We can still rule this continent as long as we have the angels on our side." The God Magec stated but someone suddenly burst into their meeting room.

"Who dares!" The God Magec stated as he saw an angel with a burnt wing rush to them.

"Apologies, gods of light... but... the winged lizards! They have come and started burning the kingdom!" The angel reported as the screams of all the beings in the city suddenly echoed in the area to which the gods of light could hear.

The dragons did not only attack the kingdoms that were inhabited by the angels but also the Silver City directly. About thirty dragons have been transported outside of the Silver City by the Daemos. All of them spewed their dragon breaths towards the Silver City which invoked its powerful barrier.

Despite not being able to damage the barrier after using their dragon breath for ten minutes, the dragons did not stop as they were out for blood. All of them continued in using their dragon breaths until the barrier started to shake. All the angels in the Silver City started to panic as they started using their own magic to reinforce the barrier.

The angels thought that the dragons would have been tired after an hour, but they were severely mistaken. After an hour, ten more dragons arrived to contribute to the destruction of the barrier to the Silver City. As if to add fuel to the fire, the kingdom where the Sanctum of Light is located started to be the object of revenge for the dragons as well.

"Gabriel! We are surrounded! The lizards managed to cure the disease that we have inflicted on them! We should never have trusted those Followers of the Dark Gods and the fallen eastern gods!" Raphael stated as she was the one using most of her power to create the barrier around the Silver City.

"I have even received news that some of the gods of light were killed in action." Uriel stated.

"Most of the angels that we also deployed reported a being that easily killed them. I made sure to use my Light Vision to see everything that the light touches, but it must have happened on the dark areas that I reported to you about." Camael stated.

"What should we do?" Zadkiel asked Gabriel since Mikhail was still recuperating.

"We shall fight back as intended. We are the righteous ones in this world and the only pure beings that should exist." A voice from within the hall suddenly stated as Mikhail showed himself.

"Have you recovered?" Gabriel asked.

"I have recovered enough as the Goddess Luminaria is not pleased which is why she gave me strength. Gabriel, prepare to use the Light Wing Domain. All of us shall go into battle!" Mikhail stated.

Chapter 1795 The Six Virtues I

"You are permitted to use all of your powers to drive away the overgrown lizards. Kill them if you can but we must defend the honor of the angels first that we cannot be looked down upon." Mikhail stated as he cannot stand still anymore since no angels can get out of the Silver City.

"There are six dragon kings present. We just need to heavily damage all of them and the dragons would back off. If they are not stopping even if we scare them off, then I also permit to you in massacring all of the kingdoms that we have occupied." Gabriel stated as he believed that they could push all the attackers back by killing the lowly beings.

"Since we are all going to go full power, let me be the one that starts us off. We must prepare just in case that they are planning a surprise attack since that kind of attack is not beneath the lower beings. I will release deadliness of light that has never been seen before." Uriel stated as she is the most powerful when it comes to pure elemental power in the Seven Virtues.

"I shall permit that. All of you will be wary as there might be some filthy beings that infiltrate the city. The Daemos are also participating this time as they are no longer implementing the hands-off approach." Mikhail stated as he knew what had happened since he sensed that the dragons suddenly appeared as if they were transported from another space.

"I shall command a platoon." Camael stated as she headed to seize commands over the angels.

"I shall make sure to sweep the city to make sure that we do not have vermin in our holy sanctuary." Zadkiel stated as she was the perfect one to deal with intruders.

"I shall help all of those that are injured on our end. I will show them the fear of an immortal angelic army." Raphael stated as he also went out of the room.

"The plan is starting to create holes! We did not intend to have the Daemos participate in the war. You know that they are a major variable that we cannot predict. They also have the Champion of the Twin Gods in their ranks. The plan started to fail the moment those gods of light killed members of their race." Gabriel stated in a bit of a panic since the plan was not being done to what he expected.

"I know that, Gabriel. I even gave clear instructions that they should not bother the Daemos should they come to fix the unstable rifts. It was not among the angels that pulled that trigger but the gods of light which some of the angels just listened to.

Create another contingency that we can use with the Daemos in the mix for the war. Our plans to occupy every city in the central continent without their interference is no longer an option. We must plan ahead so that we can counter whatever the Daemos are up to." Mikhail stated.

"You cannot counter what they are up to because all of them are beings of chaos! Even the gods that weave fate cannot accurately determine when they die. Now, those freaks of nature are seeing us as targets of destruction." Gabriel stated as he is afraid of the Daemos.

One might think that Gabriel is not afraid of the Daemos because he is just below Mikhail but that is not the case. The more intelligent a being is and the more they can gauge the strength of another will make them fear the Daemos. Just like what Gabriel said, the Daemos are an uncontrollable variable that cannot be predicted.

Mikhail and Gabriel planned to get half the central continent upon destroying the world barrier. They planned that they could achieve this with the help of the gods of light that will descend. It was also their plan to leave the Daemos alone to their job of fixing the rifts in the world that will result in the destruction of the world barrier.

The plan started to derail when the gods of light killed the Daemos even when they were told not to touch them yet. The plan is to keep the Daemos with their isolationist mindset and keep them doing what they were tasked to do. This would have been easy, but gods are not beings that even the angels can control as Mikhail was also not present when they descended since he was healing himself.

"Recall all the gods needed to fight against the dragons." Mikhail stated as he suddenly heard a powerful explosion that was located inside the city.

"This is bad! A Daemos is rampaging in the Silver City! Zadkiel is fighting him, but she is being overwhelmed." Camael stated as she immediately reported what happened.

"It has only been half an hour since our briefing and Zadkiel is already losing?! I shall immediately join the fight to aid her." Gabriel stated as the entire Silver City started to shake, and a loud roar was emitted from the direction where the fight was taking place.

A few seconds after the other Seven Virtues decided on what they needed to do; the Daemos Corps led by Bronx have successfully infiltrated the city. By successfully, they just weaved space to instantly appear inside. They were immediately seen upon their arrival but were not reported instantly because they bashed the heads of all the angels that they saw them.

Bronx and the others were given information that they need to destroy the large tower located in the center to make a statement. Causing great destruction in the process was just a bonus so that they can vent their anger. All of the corps members that Bronx has taken with him are Diabolon and they were his personal troops that have been with him before he was an elder.

"Let the destruction begin. Release all of your anger and let them know why we are feared as personification of destruction!" Bronx stated as all of them suddenly expanded in size.

A powerful wave of energy came from the east side of the Silver City which alerted Zadkiel and the other angels. Zadkiel arrived the fastest in the location where the energy anomaly occurred and saw six hulking figures that were emitting a powerful force aura. They were three-meter-tall hulking figures that have three horns on their head while emitting an ominous aura that distorted space around them.

"Destroy everything! We will reconvene at the tower!" Bronx stated as he spoke that in a language that only the Daemos could understand.

"Stop, heathens!" Zadkiel shouted as she released her limiter.

A powerful bright light suddenly exploded and numerous magical writings appeared in the area. A staff made of light and wood materialized in her hand. Zadkiel's six wings expanded to a great wingspan of three meters which made her look large and powerful akin to a god.

"Light Scripture: Blast!" Zadkiel stated as light magic letters materialized from her staff to create a magic circle.

The magic circle was large, and a powerful blast of light was released from it. Bronx saw the magic circle but did not bother to dodge as a powerful burst of light enveloped his body. Zadkiel smiled as her spells are not normal because she can seal any defensive spells that they use when they are hit by her magic spells.

"Die!" Zadkiel thought but she suddenly saw a silhouette of a being inside her magic spell attack radius.

Zadkiel's spell ended and Bronx was able to tank it like nothing happened. Parts of his body was not even damaged as his clothes are still undamaged. There were not even signs of him being burned by the magic spell even if he was blasted by concentrated light.

"Is that all, angel?" Bronx stated as his large body suddenly vanished from his spot.

Zadkiel looked around as he did not expect that a large body like Bronx could move faster than what she can perceive. Before Zadkiel could sense Bronx, her whole body that was flying in the air is suddenly sent crashing down to the floor of the Silver City. She was able to get a glimpse of what happened and saw two huge knuckles pound her straight without even her noticing.

"Impossible! His movement should have been sealed as well!" Zadkiel thought as she released another spell.

"Light Scripture: Law Reversal!" Zadkiel stated as she suddenly became weightless and stopped before her whole body reached the ground.

"Light Scripture: A..." Zadkiel stated as she was prepared to cast another spell when she was suddenly grabbed by the wings.

Bronx then proceeded to use all his arm strength and slam Zadkiel to the floor even though he felt that she was weightless. A weird energy enveloped Zadkiel which suddenly made her incredibly heavy which is why she felt the damage when her face met the floor. The Angel of Righteousness could not believe that she was eating floor when it was her that often did it to others.

Chapter 1796 The Six Virtues II

Zadkiel, the angel that is said to be the most difficult opponent, is now begging for Bronx to stop. Anyone would think that a mage that can seal skills would be able to topple their opponents as long as their spell hits but that is the case if their enemy needed skills. Bronx, or rather the Diabolon, rarely cast spells or skills which is even more for the Diabolon Daemos elder.

The world itself distorts when a Diabolon moves because force, time and space are all coating their bodies like an invisible armor. This is called Complete Origin Armor which is obtained by Diabolon once they become an Arch Demon. All the spells that hit them can be negated with a chance of it being 80%.

The 20% chance of a spell succeeding to break their defenses would just hit their naturally magic resistant body. This is the reason why the Diabolon species is the toughest among the Daemos species when it comes to magic. They are also the ones that charge first into the frontline because the Origin Armor is not only perfect for magic attacks but also physical attacks.

The special armor that the Diabolon has distorts the very space and time around them which can easily disturb the flow of kinetic energy. A sword's master must coat their weapon with aura to even have a chance of hitting them with a physical attack. It would need someone that is at the same level as them in order to deal damage to a Diabolon.

Diabolons are basically a force of nature that cannot be bent. All seals are ineffective against them unless they use a specific skill and not rely on their own body. They are basically the perfect counter to Zadkiel, the Angel of Righteousness.

"There are no gods here it seems. Did the youngest already kill them all or have they all gone into hiding?" Bronx stated as he knew that Adrian was killing off all the gods of light as per the reports that he received.

Bronx actually expected gods to attack him which is why he did not stop using all his full power for the first time. Even the other Diabolons that he came with are giving it their all and destroying everything in their wake. The angels that tried to stop them are having a difficult time because stopping rampaging beings that can teleport is not easy.

The Silver City that could be seen as pristine and beautiful has become rather dull in the east side. Most of the buildings are already in bits of rubble or look like a gust of wind can destroy them. The angels also lost a lot of their lives when they tried to physically block a Diabolon. Some of them even became scared as one of them exploded into bits of light when they tried to physically stop the charge of one of the Diabolons.

"This cannot be! I am one of the Seven Virtues! I will not be shamed!" Zadkiel stated as she flew back to the skies but this time, she did not use mediocre spells.

Zadkiel released all of her magic aura in the surroundings which created numerous seals. She was even able to seal the mana in the air which is quite a feat. This interference of mana might be effective against spell casters but is not a deterrent to the Diabolon. In fact, she restricted her own allies instead of her enemies.

The angels were now defenseless against the other Diabolon as they rampaged, but Zadkiel became much more powerful. Zadkiel actually becomes more powerful with the number of beings that has a sealed spell or skill due to her. She has gained a lot of power because she no longer cared what beings were affected by her own innate power even if it is her own allies.

"I shall let you taste despair! Light Scripture: World Seal!" Zadkiel stated as magical writings could be seen exploding out from her wings.

The area that Zadkiel and Bronx are fighting in suddenly had all the color around it become dull. The words of light are all restricting even the space around them which makes it impossible to escape for a normal being but not for a Diabolon. Bronx just emitted a roar and an energy orb suddenly appeared or rather materialized on top of his horns.

"Origin Bomb!" Bronx stated as he released this pure mass of energy unto the sky.

The Origin Bomb collided with the Light Scripture: World Seal and it destroyed the very skill that Zadkiel was proud of. All the energy that she used was destroyed in an instant by one attack. The destruction of the Light Scripture: World Seal also created a backlash towards Zadkiel as her wings were part of the seal function.

Zadkiel's wings failed and her body started to fall to the ground while Bronx moved in to secure the kill. Bronx would have killed Zadkiel then and there but another of the Seven Virtues came to rescue. Camael arrived just in time to save Zadkiel from getting killed.

"Another one? And this one seems to have a special ability as well." Bronx stated as he could feel some of his strength slowly leaving his body, but it is only such a miniscule degree that he cannot even feel it leaving unless he was focusing.

"Are all the Daemos this monstrous? Usually, any being that sees me will need to surrender their health and mana to me, but I can feel that my blessing can barely squeeze anything from him." Camael stated as she released numerous light rays in order to create a screen that can protect them from Bronx.

"I do not want to admit it, but my ability is useless against that beast. He does not use any notable skills as his body is almost built perfectly to the point that any skills will be useless. Report this matter to Gabriel as he would be the only one to stop him." Zadkiel stated as she recovered from the backlash.

"I cannot leave you here or else you might be killed. Uriel is busy dealing with the six dragon kings outside which is why she cannot help you with this battle. Only I can help you, but I am more of a supporter myself. We will be able to defeat him if we work together! It is just one Arch Demon." Camael stated as she is confident that she can win with Zadkiel's help.

"We cannot defeat him as we are not built to handle a being like him. I felt it when my Light Scripture: World Seal was destroyed. That Arch Demon is one step away from becoming a demigod or rather the world itself is sealing his power which is why he cannot become a demigod. If I am not wrong, he is an elder of the Daemos.

He is just one of the elders which is why I am afraid because what if the other elders were like him. They are beings of pure power that is being held by the world itself. They are prevented from becoming demigods because of the influence of the world barrier.

Tell Mikhail and Gabriel that we must not shatter the World Barrier for High Gods as of now. If not, then we will release the seals on those monsters. They can potentially erase us from existence as we have provoked beings that we cannot hope to defeat." Zadkiel stated as she emitted mana towards Camael, and she was transformed into a beam of light that shot towards the Tower of Babel.

"It seems that you have saved your comrade. I did not think that angels were the type to care as all of you would get at each other's throat in the pursuit of power." Bronx stated.

"I have seen what you truly are! I have seen what your forms really are when you hit me with your attack. How can such anomalous beings exist in this dimension!" Zadkiel stated as she stood up.

Bronx twitched a bit on what Zadkiel spoke about as he suddenly realized that she is more of a threat than Mikhail. The fact that she was able to pierce the veil that shrouded the Daemos meant that she has seen what their bodies are made of. Just like what she said, she now has an idea that the Daemos were not created from this universe.

"You would have been kept alive if you did not see anything special, but it seems that your perceptiveness will bring upon your doom. The youngest said that all of you angels will revive even when you die as your souls are tethered to the Silver City. I want to see what will happen to your soul when I rip your body into pieces and scatter it in different pocket dimensions. Let me see if you can revive even in that kind of state where you are neither dead nor alive." Bronx stated as his purple body started to become a darker violet instead.

Chapter 1797 The Six Virtues III

Bronx started to turn dark purple as his body is also starting to get covered in prism like scales. When he finally became covered in this prism like scales, Bronx moved at a speed faster than before. He aimed his claws towards Zadkiel as he intended to rip the angel's body apart so that she will not give the information about them.

Just before Bronx is about to pierce and destroy Zadkiel, another of the Six Virtues appeared with his shield. Bronx' claws hit the shield that is being carried by Gabriel as the Angel of Patience arrived just in time to defend Zadkiel. Gabriel felt the immense weight of that attack and he would have lost his balance if not for Zadkiel boosting him.

"Reversal of Light!" Gabriel shouted as his shield glowed.

A powerful light shot out of Gabriel's shield that headed straight towards Bronx. The Elder Arch Demon did not even flinch as he grabbed that attack and destroyed it as if it was easy. The prism scales that cover Bronx' hand was destroyed but he was not even harmed since it regenerated. The look of disbelief could be seen on both the angels.

"We did not know about this in the reports. I thought Daemos can only control time, space and force. That is not something a demon can do." Gabriel stated as he calmly assessed the situation.

"Gabriel, did Camael not tell you? You need to stop Mikhail from destroying the world barrier! The Daemos! They grow stronger the weaker the barrier gets!" Zadkiel stated as she believed that they should be briefed by that information.

"Camael only told me that you were in danger and that we should rescue you. What is this about demons being connected to the world barrier?" Gabriel stated.

"Megaton Force Bash!" Bronx stated as he suddenly went on all fours and charged towards Gabriel and Zadkiel.

Gabriel tried to block the attack by enhancing his shield with everything he has. Zadkiel also made sure to enchant Gabriel's shield with her strongest enchantment. Bronx became a dark violet comet that clashed with the golden shield held by an angel.

The moment Bronx and Gabriel's shield clashed has resulted in a powerful and deafening explosion. The explosion created a massive rift on the ground which cracked the eastern part of the Silver City. A large crater formed until part of the floating city separated from the main part.

Uriel is the next strongest angel after Mikhail and Gabriel but that is only the ranking when it comes to who can beat her. In terms of energy levels, Uriel is the one that could blast off a moon if she focused all of her energy into doing it. She has near unlimited power source when it comes to the light elemental as she possesses the Luxa Prima Heart.

It is a core that is created from the heart of a dead light god that is said to have been one of the most powerful light gods in existence. She was given this heart as a way to protect the angels or rather to protect Luminaria when a being of great power source is needed. She can also give some of her energy to the other angels that are under her, but she rarely does as she does not trust them with the power output.

She would have been more useful should she use it for attacking but she cannot as she is using her power output to defend the Silver City. A lot of dragons have come for revenge and their dragon breath can destroy any building in the Silver City should their attack touch it. She might have near unlimited energy but that would not be used in killing her enemies if she is busy defending.

The six dragon kings were present in the field as they wanted revenge for the endangerment of their young blood. The dragons do not care if you steal their treasure or sneak into their lairs to get some chump change. What will anger the dragons is the endangerment of their young because they cannot easily reproduce which makes children to them extremely precious.

Dragons would sunder villages, cities, and even kingdoms should their young be injured. This has always been a taboo topic even to the other races, but the angels tried that taboo. Now the angels face the wrath of all dragon kind especially the dragon kings.

The six dragon kings circulated the silver city and released all of their breath attacks at the same time. Even their servant dragons and dragonkin are participating in this attack. There were angels that tried to get near them, but they were all fended off by the other dragons.

"Are you still fine, Uriel?" Raphael asked as he was to heal Uriel should she needed to.

"I am fine but why is Mikhail not doing anything? You are not meant for attacking while Zadkiel and Camael is busy. Mikhail and Gabriel should be free to aid us but what are those two doing?" Uriel asked.

"Mikhail cannot come because he is preparing the last phase of the plan. He plans to tear open a hole for the Goddess of Light Luminaria to descend upon even if it is for a few minutes. The goddess should be able to wipe out the lizards and even the demons away. Gabriel should be the one guarding him in case someone disturbs his process." Raphael stated.

"I see then for the goddess! I shall make sure that the Silver City will be untouched by these heathens. Still, we cannot defend forever. What of the other gods of light that we have summoned back into the Silver City?" Uriel asked.

"We have lost contact with almost all of them. Those that no longer reply are tagged as killed or sealed. Some are already in our way so you do not need to worry as they would be able to defeat even the dragon kings." Raphael stated but even he believes that they are too late or taking too much time to get back to the Silver City.

Deep in the underworld...

The deepest parts of the underworld are said to be the place where the most awful of sinners get delivered to get punished. This is also where the God of Death Abaddon resides when he does his duties as the leader of the Gods of Death. This is also the place where it is the least occupied because barely anyone can get imprisoned here.

One would need to commit a lifetime of offense in order to get admitted to the deepest part of the underworld. This is also the place where the gods that have been severely punished are being held. Gods that have betrayed Pandemonium are all sealed in this lower level. Gods that have withered away because they have been forgotten or gods so evil that they have become treated as evil gods.

In this land where only darkness and emptiness could be seen, a demon could be seen looking up at all the gods that are hanged up. The Gods of Light that shined as if they were stars glowing in the night sky are all dim and screaming for release. Some even accepted their fate and just asked for respite instead.

"The Chains of Repentance. To think that these harsh things would be used on gods. How many people were killed because of what they did?" Adrian asked as he was curious and not feeling pity towards these gods.

"Their sudden performance in widening and destroying the world barrier inadvertently set off lots of things. The primordial beasts that were sealed off deep into the land have started to spring up. The expansion of the land has created a million deaths." The God Hades stated as he appeared next to Adrian.

"They have littered the ground with corpses when they trampled on conquest which gods should never do. Gods earn faith from the belief of people not their fear. They should have known that is taboo in the central continent as they should never slaughter any life." The God Ah Puch stated as he also appeared next to Adrian.

"How long will they be trapped here? Time moves differently here, and time also moves differently for gods. One day out in the real world is basically a hundred years here. Coupled with the slow time dilation of gods, a day of torture is equivalent close to a thousand years." Adrian stated.

"This is what they deserve for holding hands with not just the dark gods or distorted gods but also the fallen gods. They deserve to be punished for eternity if I was the one to make the judgement, but the God Abaddon told us to only keep them here for a few years." The God Hades stated.

"I always wanted to torture other gods as I was not allowed to touch those that are already rotting in here. Also, you need to look out for something, Champion Equinox." The God Ah Puch stated as he gave some instructions to Adrian.

Chapter 1798 The Unknown Reincarnation System

Quest Name: Investigate and Destroy

Quest Difficulty: B

Quest Description: The angels that are supposed to be sent to the afterlife upon death are not getting delivered there. Find out why the souls of the angels are able to bypass the security of the underworld. All souls must be led to the underworld upon death unless they have been given the exemption.

Completion Condition: Find the source of the anomalous reincarnation of the angels and destroy it upon learning of its functions.

Reward for Completion: A One time Summon Chance for the God Ah Puch and the God Hades. An additional Level reward will be given depending on how fast you complete the quest.

Failure Condition: None

Failure: None

Time Limit: None

Note: The faster you complete this quest then the bigger the level up reward would be.

"You want me to look into the reincarnation that the angels are doing? I thought that they had this ability as the devils are also in the same boat. When a devil gets killed, they are transported back to Hell instead." Adrian stated.

"The Devils are an exemption because they are guarding the body of the Dragon of Revelation. The moment the Dragon of Revelation escapes will be the moment that the promise with the devils be null and void. The Underworld cannot contain the Dragon of Revelation because it taints everything around it even souls." The God Hades stated.

"If those devils were not guarding the Dragon of Revelation, then they would have already turned to ashes by now. It is also the reason why they became frantic when the Dragon of Revelation was freed. All the Seven Original Devils had to use lots of their power to contain the Dragon of Revelation from their side or else they would no longer have that benefit." The God Ah Puch stated.

"I see. If you want to know how the angels got such an anomalous system, you need someone to investigate and that someone is me. Can I kill any angel that gets in my way?" Adrian asked.

"You can as I do not care as long as you complete the task." The God Ah Puch stated.

"I think it would be better for you to kill one so that its soul would lead you to the thing that reincarnates them. You can kill the others after you have seen what you need." The God Hades stated.

Adrian thought that the God Hades would stop him, but he just gave him a go signal after the job was done. As expected of a god of death that does efficient work, he must do the work first then murder after. Adrian agreed as this system is also annoying him to the point that he needs to escort every angel soul that he kills so that they can get to the underworld.

"I will be right back then. I will make sure to look at it." Adrian stated as he pulled one of the angel souls that he dragged to the underworld.

Adrian returned to the mortal realm with the soul of the angel in his hands. The souls could be seen trying to fight for its life as it was getting called by something. Adrian did think that it was a blessing for the angels that they could skip the underworld, but he was mistaken.

"I guess it is true what the other gods say about the gods of death. Never mess with one unless you want to die a peaceful death and have disastrous transition to the next life. The reincarnation system of the angels must also contribute to the angel's disregard for life as they are basically eternal. They did not fear the gods of death because they will never see one... until I mess with them." Adrian stated with a smile as he let go of the angel soul.

The angel soul suddenly slipped towards the direction of the Silver City where the fighting is still pushing through. Adrian felt the presence of the dragons and even Bronx, but he did not show himself. He no longer has the blessings of multiple gods of death which is why he is back to his old self. He also needs to be careful as he can no longer fight on equal terms with the Six Virtues if he is alone.

Adrian made sure to cast Spirit Form Transformation so that he could not be easily seen. Thankfully for him, the angels were getting distracted by Bronx and the dragon kings which is why he slipped in easily inside the Silver City. It also helps that the thrashing of the demons and the destruction of the dragon breaths created small holes in the barrier of the Silver City.

Adrian was easily able to slip inside the Silver City thanks to these small holes, but one must be very perceptive of mana to even see them. Adrian followed the angel soul with great speed and care that angels that were around did not notice him. The angel soul slipped towards the bottom of the Tower of Babel.

Adrian thought it was strange that a soul would go underground but he did not think much and just followed. He needed to find the source of the reincarnation, which was his main objective. Even though he wanted to rip all the heads of the angels he passed through, the mission is still priority as the God Hades told him. He also smiled as he imagined the angels horrifically learning that they can no longer be revived.

Adrian passed through the first gate of the Tower of Babel and quietly slipped or rather sunk to the floor. Since Adrian is also a spirit right now, he can pass through any physical objects as long as he has the mana capacity. Upon slipping underground, Adrian is shocked to see the scene before him as he did not expect that there was an underground facility below the Tower of Babel.

The underground facility was massive but not that big that it would cover the entire underground floor of the Silver City. It was filled with numerous glyphs and magic circles written in different languages that Adrian could understand while some flew over his head. There were guards in place as there were hooded angels praying on each side of the triskaidecagram which is a thirteen-sided magic circle.

The hooded angels were chanting something that is not their language as Adrian would know angelic language. Ark gave Adrian a copy of the textbook for speaking the angelic language. The thirteen hooded angels were not chanting in their angelic language as it was a darker and heavier language compared to theirs.

The angelic language tends to be more melodic and high-pitched but the tone of the language that they are speaking is dark and heavy. It was as if the angels were reciting a prayer to a god of death instead of singing praises to it. Adrian saw the angel soul or rather angel souls get sucked into the center of the magic circle.

The angel souls that are sucked into the magic circle are then filled with a familiar energy as the body of the angels starts to materialize or rather its soul starts to stabilize. Adrian is not mistaken about this feeling as this is the energy that is similar to Limbo. He could not be wrong as that is basically his workplace where he hangs out when he is needed to be a judge.

"Impossible! There should be no way to create energy that is the same as Limbo. They may be able to create an environment that can contain that energy, but they should not be able to create it... unless." Adrian thought as he suddenly inspected the magic circle much more closely.

Adrian saw the magic circle and he felt that his head was getting heavy as the incantation on it were not for the faint of heart. The magic circle contained an element that can seal a god or a godlike entity. Adrian wanted to know which entity is sealed as it is releasing the same energy as Limbo, but his soul started to materialize as he gets closer to the magic circle.

Adrian did not notice that his body started to become corporeal as it reacted to the energy being emitted by the magic circle. The angelic guards were suddenly on high alert as they saw a demon barging in on their sacred grounds. One of the angels is even someone that Adrian knows very well as they are not in good terms.

"The Demon Equinox!" Pope Pristina or rather the Angel Pristina stated as she saw Adrian's upper half materialize from thin air.

"I guess the energy from the magic circle reacted to my body constitution that is the same as death energy. By this principle, the being trapped by this magic circle should be a being of death. Who captured a being that is death itself?" Adrian thought as he was more focused on the magic circle than the angels pulling out their weapons.

Chapter 1799 Equinox Versus Pristina I

Adrian could not believe that an archaic system is able to draw out the power of the soul. He could even feel the pull on his own body since he was in soul form. Still, the magic circle did not pull him as tightly as it had for angelic souls. There is also a shrine where one needs to offer something of them so that they can be pulled to this system than the current one that the death gods use.

The shrine looks like a collection of angel feathers in small capsules. These capsules are connected to the magic circle via a hex line. Adrian wanted to study it even more because his curiosity is peeked to the extreme. He even forgot that he had to take revenge for the demons for a second but that was only for a short period of time.

"We might need a software update on the death logic of this world. The death gods will not be happy about this." Adrian stated as he manifested his physical body and used Enhanced Blink.

Pristina did not wait for Adrian to become hostile as she already launched a spell towards him. She thought that she hit Adrian, but she was wrong since he was able to easily dodge. She might have become at the same level as the Seven Virtues, but she cannot go ballistic in this special temple.

Pristina was given the utmost importance that no other being must know about this place. This is the source of the limitless revival of the angels. If they did not protect and keep this place hidden, then all of the angels will die a natural death. They would even be sent to the underworld as all living beings should have a karma that they follow.

"What is the source though? Should I start destroying it so that I can see where they are drawing that death energy from?" Adrian thought as he summoned his axe to slice an attack that was about to hit him.

"Demon Equinox! This place shall be your grave! I have waited for so long to kill you myself." The Angel Pristina stated.

"Why wait so long? You were the Pope of the Church of Light? You could have marched towards Avalon with the angels, but you could not. The moment you released all the angels in the Silver City is also the moment where you lost control of them. You just became a leader at the bottom of the ladder where even your subordinates from before no longer follow your commands to the exact words." Adrian stated as an insult, but he did not expect that he was hitting all the marks.

Adrian did not even guess that much but the reaction of the Angel Pristina was pure outrage. She did not want to admit it for the longest time, but she really felt that her voice was no longer valid. She loved the praise and attention she got when she was the most powerful of the angels but that all changed when Mikhail was unsealed. She is now regretting her decision to unseal the Silver City as even the Goddess of Light Luminaria is not paying as much attention to her.

Adrian did not even blink at the sudden ferocious attacks that Pristina did such as launching numerous light spheres towards him. He easily weaved through it as Pristina was not putting all of her power and attention to killing Adrian. She was carefully assessing the surroundings if her attack would destroy them as she needed to be careful.

Adrian did not fail to notice this as all the attacks that Pristina released would vanish before it made contact with the surroundings. She was controlling her power at a very detailed level that Adrian even acknowledges it. She was even doing while angry which means that she has yet to lose reason and have no care for her surroundings.

"Let me see if we can attack those angels that are praying." Adrian thought as he suddenly tossed his axe towards the nearest angel.

Pristina immediately created ten shields of light that were easily destroyed by Adrian's axe, but it did make the attack power lower. When the axe would have hit an angel, a loud ding could be heard as it collided with a powerful barrier. Adrian's axe even went flying back towards him at double the initial speed which he had to catch with more strength.

"An Attack Reflection Spell that can bounce even magic damage. Whoever created this must not want it to be destroyed but that only makes it even more fun. I want to search more but destruction is the way to go since I cannot investigate it. After all, I have heard that there is knowledge to be gained from disintegration." Adrian stated as he suddenly gripped his head.

"Chaos Pierrot!" Adrian stated as he knew that normal attacks will never be able to destroy the pseudo reincarnation magic circle that is protected by six layers of defenses.

Pristina suddenly felt a chill on her body which is not normal as this was not cold but fear. Pristina's instincts were actually screaming at her to run away. Contrary to her instincts, she did not run away but fully exploded in power as she must defend this place even if she gets killed. If she does not protect this place, then Mikhail would definitely outcast her.

Pristina looked at Adrian whose body suddenly vanished, but a clown mask remained in his former position. The clown mask then slowly released energy as the body of the clown started to materialize from it. The clown was indeed a clown, but its happy smiling mask did not make Pristina even a little bit happy. She could feel her body screaming to get out of that place now, but she has a duty to do.

"Please grant me strength my goddess! Activate the Throne of Faith!" Pristina shouted as her power suddenly exploded.

Pristina made sure that the angels chanting below her would be safe while she drew all the power that she could from what she collected from the people. She was the Angel of Faith as she draws upon the beliefs and awe of living being. She grows more powerful as long as the faith of those that believe in the Goddess of Light Luminaria and on her are not shaken.

Pristina could be seen wearing a beautiful golden gown armor while her staff became actual light itself. She could easily fire off any spell she chooses as long as one of the followers of the Goddess of Light Luminaria knows it. Her resource in using these spells is faith instead of mana which means that she can fire off spells wantonly as long as she has faith.

"You shall not taint the glorious Resurrection Hall of the Angels! Light Apocalypse!" Pristina stated as she cast one of her more powerful spells.

A powerful beam of light suddenly erupted from below Adrian and enveloped his body. Pristina even made this spell stronger so that she can kill Adrian in one hit. She knows that demons have tough bodies which is why she used a spell that can pierce even the most powerful magic resistance.

She did use up a quarter of her collected faith for this spell to manifest fast to the point that even Adrian cannot react to it.

"Finally! I have killed you with my own two hands." Pristina stated as she believed that Adrian is killed by her Mythical Tier Spell.

"Marbles of Chaos!" Adrian stated as he was not even hit by the mythical tier spell.

Pristina looked behind her and saw a masked demon creating thirteen marbles. Each of the marbles then descended unto the thirteen praying angels. Pristina thought that the attack would be defended by the powerful barrier that is erected but she was taken back that these small marbles passed through the barriers as if a marble penetrating water.

"Chaos Blast!" Adrian stated as he snapped his fingers.

The Marbles of Chaos suddenly exploded in a powerful explosion which made all the angels scream in agony. To makes matters worse, the barrier that is supposed to protect them from outside forces bounced the explosion inward. It seems that the powerful barriers that were in place not only prevented attacks from outside but also prevented the praying angels to leave as well. All the angels that were praying suddenly stopped as the power of the blast hit them numerous times.

"Impossible! I saw you get hit by my spell! The angels! Healing Light!" Pristina stated as she could still see a clown silhouette getting blasted by light.

Pristina saw the agony of all the praying angels and attempted to heal them, but the explosions still continued. The barrier that protected the angels also became the source of their agony. Pristina's healing spell managed to cure some of their pain but that is only for normal explosions. All of Adrian's spells in this form is tainted by Chaos Energy.

Chapter 1800 Equinox Versus Pristina II

"No! Ethereal Cleansing Light!" Pristina shouted as she gripped her staff and poured a massive amount of her gathered faith.

The angels kept on screaming in agony while Adrian felt the fluctuations of the magic circle. He suddenly saw a silhouette of a being that is trapped in golden chains. He was sure that it looked like a bird, but the silhouette was a bit faded that he is not completely sure. The silhouette then vanished when some of the angels managed to recover to continue with their praying.

"Devoted. To think that all of you would sacrifice yourselves for the good of your kind. I never thought that angels could be selfless because all of you were very selfish. You guys are not that different when it comes to the devils after all." Adrian stated which triggered the angels, but they did not take lightly.

Adrian's voice in his Chaos Pierrot Form would always sound irritating to any of his enemies which doubled the effectiveness of triggering the angels. Still, Pristina did not stop healing all the angels until they were back to full health. She managed to save all of them but the accumulated faith that she gained was reduced to less than half.

"Not only are your attacks poisonous but also your tongue, demon!" Pristina stated as she slammed her staff unto the ground and five magic circles suddenly appeared.

The five magic circles summoned golden golems that looked like warriors. Adrian felt the incredible mana that was embedded in these golems. If the golems were to be given life, then it would make all of them become equivalent to Greater Elementals. Adrian also smelled something that golems should not have and that is a thick scent of death.

"Golems made from the sacrifice of the living. Demihumans no doubt but I would not even think less of you to also include humans in that mix. All of you really do have such hatred for innocent life after all since it is making my nose scrunch up." Adrian stated to which Pristina just laughed.

"At least those worthless scum had some use for their pathetic lives! Thanks to their sacrifice, I have perfected the created of the Heavenly Golems which was lost when the great angelic craftsman died. You should at least die knowing that you will be killed by these perfect soldiers meant to serve us angels." The Angel Pristina stated as she commanded the Heavenly Golems to charge towards Adrian.

The Heavenly Golems looked like silver armored knights when on standby, but they change when activated. A golden light suddenly lit up when they were commanded, and a pair of white light wings sprung from their backs. They were also able to create swords made of light that served as their weapons when they charged.

Pristina did not sit back and watch as she also chanted numerous spells that buffed the Heavenly Golems. She also released some light elemental spells to hit Adrian as even she is not sure that the Heavenly Golems can kill him. She believed that the Heavenly Golems were powerful but the dread that she felt from seeing Adrian has not yet vanished.

"Heavenly Golems! Sword Charge of Light!" Pristina commanded as the swords of the Heavenly Golems became a bright golden light.

"A light show but that would not be enough. Spatial Crack!" Adrian stated as his gloved hands suddenly turned into sharp claws which he slashed at the front.

As soon as Adrian's claws made a slashing motion, the sound of something getting ripped apart could be heard. Adrian tore through space with just a simple motion of his hand and created five rifts where the Heavenly Golems collided with. The Heavenly Golems may have been a peak creation of angelic alchemy but even they are physical beings.

As soon as the Heavenly Golems hit the rifts, the bodies started to explode into bits and pieces. One of the heads of the Heavenly Golems even got blown away towards Pristina. The head flew fast that even Pristina was unable to dodge reflexively. Fortunately for her, the blown off head passed by her cheek with just an inch of space.

The five rifts then fixed themselves as if nothing happened but the evidence of the Heavenly Golems being destroyed are all over the place. Pristina knew that she cannot defeat Adrian on his own which is why she swallowed her pride and sent a beacon for help. She used up another quarter of the faith she accumulated and created a spell that punctured a hole on the ceiling.

The light beam punctured a hole on the ceiling which alerted all of the Six Virtues that something was happening in their Resurrection Room. Even Mikhail started to fly towards the location as that room must never be touched as he could not recreate it should it be destroyed. The only angel that knew how to create it has already vanished from existence due to the long time they were sealed.

"You created a scene which is unlike you. I guess even angels need help when they know that they cannot win." Adrian stated but even he knew that his transformation time will not be that long.

Adrian can feel the presence of all the powerful beings that are headed toward him. He can sense five angels heading to his location due to his unique senses in Chaos Pierrot Form. Adrian did not want to entirely destroy the magic circle without understanding it, but Pristina has already pushed it too far. He can deal with Pristina in his Chaos Pierrot Form, but the other six virtues are a different story.

"Chaos Art: Dance of the Mad Clown!" Adrian stated as he spun around.

As soon as Adrian spun around, countless Marbles of Chaos suddenly manifested around him. Pristina had a look of horror as she used up all her faith to create a powerful shield. With another graceful spin, chaos ensued while Adrian smiled.
