

O Summoner 1821

Chapter 1821 Upgraded Lodestone Heart

The Azure Dragon handed over the Lodestone Heart that it is carrying and grabbed the Moon Rock that Adrian has. Adrian does not know why the Azure Dragon would want that rock, but he did remember a collector back in the real world. Collectors would actually trade items that is not in their favor as long as they get the thing that they want the most.

"I hope you are happy with it." Adrian stated.

"Yes. I am very satisfied with this trade. You can now go and leave as I will need to assess my collection." The Azure Dragon stated as he whisked his hand.

A powerful lightning suddenly struck both Adrian and the sleeping Hajime. One would think that they would have been killed by the lightning strike, but they were just ejected from the divine realm of the Azure Dragon. They were sent straight back to the first floor of the Palace of the Azure Dragon where Hajime's subordinates were having a relaxing time.

"Huh?! What? What just happened?" Hajime stated as he suddenly woke up from his sleep.

"I have gotten the Lodestone Heart as you have promised. Thank you for this favor." Adrian stated as he showed that the Lodestone Heart has indeed landed on his hands.

"You do not need to thank me, Champion Equinox. I have only done what I need to do because of the great debt that you have done for my daughter." Hajime stated.

"Well, I have done what I came to do. What will all of you be doing?" Adrian asked.

"We shall also return back as we have only escorted you to this place. The Azure Dragon seems to have already given me my reward for defending the territory well." Hajime stated as he could be seen carrying two dragon scales on his right hand.

"If that is the case then I can return all of you back to your territory. Please gather here, everyone." Adrian stated as he called all of the warriors that accompanied them.

"All of you line up and gather." Hajime stated but even he is a bit apprehensive on how they will return.

The soldiers lined up and Adrian made sure that all of them are accounted for. Paradox suddenly expanded into a large portal that swept across all of them in an instant. Adrian did not even tell the ones he is helping that the transport will happen but that is much better for him. He wanted to eliminate the fact that one might get scared.

The last one that the Portal Paradox swept was Adrian as he vanished from the interior of the Palace of the Azure Dragon. He would not have been able to achieve this feat if the Azure Dragon flooded the first floor of his palace with powerful energy that destabilized space. As if thinking that Adrian would indeed teleport away, the Azure Dragon isolated the first floor of his palace just for him.

The next thing that the soldiers and Hajime knew is that they are outside of their territory. Adrian appeared last as he made sure that nothing anomalous happened to any of them. There were some that were queasy, but they were all in good health.

"I have transported you back to your territory. I shall now bid you farewell as I am already running out of time." Adrian stated.

"Will you not say goodbye to my daughter? She misses playing with you as she is often bored." Hajime stated.

"I believe that Yumeko is not bored but she is just tired of dreaming too often. She has become the chosen one of the God of Dreams. She might be having more fun in her dreams than in the real world which might be a bad thing if done too often. Please make sure that she wants to stay in the real world and not in the dream world. Although, she is smart enough to know that even if I do not tell her." Adrian stated with a smile as he vanished.

Adrian appeared back in Avalon and immediately went straight to the guild house. He immediately took out Kimat as the bonding process of the Lodestone Heart and the Tempest Core will commence upon his instruction. Adrian did not immediately give Kimat the Lodestone Heart because it is not ordinary by any means.

Item Name: Lodestone Heart

Item Tier: Semi-Mythical

Item Type: Material

Effect / Uses:

-Anyone that has this will be able to absorb a powerful lightning attack of Legendary Tier or below once every hour.

-It is said to be a good source of lightning energy which can be used to enchant weapons and armor.

-Gain the passive ability Quaint Storm Dragon Force

Description: A Lodestone Heart that has been a possession of the Azure Dragon of the East that was traded to Equinox. It is a powerful conduit of lightning magic and is said to be the greatest treasure any lightning magician may obtain. It has taken in a miniscule amount of characteristics from its previous owner due to it being bathe in the Azure Dragon's energy.

"It has slightly become a variation, but it is so small that it did not make the item evolve. I just hope that nothing will happen when Kimat ingests it." Adrian stated as he proceeded to give Kimat the Lodestone Heart.

Adrian expected that Kimat would eat the Lodestone Heart, but he did not. Kimat released powerful lightning from his body that attracted the attention of the Lodestone Heart. He was using the Tempest Core that has fully formed as his new core to absorb the Lodestone Heart.

The power of the Tempest Core was subtly being absorbed by the Lodestone Heart. One might think that this is unfavorable as another material is absorbing another but that is not the case. Kimat is making sure that the Lodestone Heart would be able to take in his own version of lightning as each lightning monster has different lightning attributes.

Chapter 1822 A Rock Fights Back

The Lodestone Heart was not absorbing everything that Kimat was giving it as if it was very selective and had a mind of its own. Adrian just made sure to watch everything as that is all that he can do. He will need to trust Kimat to be able to solve this, but he will step in should the need call for it.

Kimat's lightning was silver in color which is different from the lightning that the Azure Dragon of the East calls upon. This made the fusing stage with the Lodestone Heart a bit challenging as there were different attributes. The remnant energy of the Azure Dragon even became sentient for a moment as it started to fight off Kimat's influence.

The remnant energy of the Azure Dragon took the form of a lightning lizard. Adrian would have called it a dragon if it was at least one foot tall, but it was as small as a lizard. Kimat asserted his dominance and overpowered the lightning lizard until he was able to devour it.

Kimat's fur suddenly shined brighter when he was able to devour the lightning lizard as his silver lightning suddenly had streaks of deep blue. Adrian felt that something qualitative has already changed within Kimat but he is not sure unless he goes to battle with him. Now that the lightning lizard has been dealt with, the Lodestone Heart no longer shows any resistance.

A powerful lightning suddenly came down from the skies and onto Kimat which shocked all the guild members that were at the guild house. They wanted to see what was happening, but they were afraid that they would be injured. They did know that the guild master was present and is using the currently vacated training area.

With a loud roar, Kimat was struck by another powerful lightning again. Adrian's eyes were flooded with light which made him close it. As soon as he was able to open his eyes, Kimat's energy suddenly doubled than it was before. He also looked more regal and powerful as if the lightning was always at his mercy. One could even see small lightning strikes coming down from the skies to his body as if he was protected by it.

[Your soulbound Kimat has successfully integrated the Lodestone Heart and the Tempest Core.]

[Your soulbound Kimat has successfully created the Storm Bringer Core.]

[Your soulbound Kimat has used all of your nether energy, aether energy, and primordial energy deposits to make this happen.]

[You cannot use these energies for three hours due to overuse.]

"Did you meddle, Paradox?" Adrian asked.

"Yes, master. Kimat would have failed to properly fuse the two items should he not use something as a binder. As per your request, I have decided to use the energy in the master's body to bind the two items. It is also done so that Kimat will be more compatible with his new Storm Bringer Core." Paradox replied like an AI.

"No wonder I feel a bit sluggish but that is not an issue as long as Kimat succeeds. Now, what is next?" Adrian stated as he looked at the evolution requirements remaining.

Evolution Requirements for Tempest Lodestone Kaiser Tigris

- 1.?Soulbound must be at least level 250. (Completed)
- 2.Soulbound must have absorbed lightning filled with divine energy (Completed.)
- 3.Soulbound must integrate the item called "Lodestone Heart" (Complete)
- 4.Soulbound must integrate the item called "Tempest Core" (Complete)
- 5.Soulbound must fuse the Lodestone Heart and the Tempest Core to create the item called "Storm Bringer Core". (Complete)
- 6.Soulbound must devour five "Eye of the Storms". (Incomplete – 0%)
- 7.Soulbound must turn its mortal flesh into a divine flesh body. (Incomplete)
- 8.Soulbound must have the blessing of a Greater God of Wind. (Incomplete)

"Just three more and Kimat would evolve. I just hope that I will make it in time." Adrian stated as he checked if Kimat was experiencing any backlash from his new core.

Seeing that Kimat is not experiencing any mana deviation, Adrian concluded that the core has perfectly fused with Kimat. They must now travel to the five Eye of Storms that Adrian has already tagged. He was able to get this information thanks to Amelia.

"We have ten storm locations. I just hope that each of them has at least one so that I do not need to go to all of them." Adrian stated as he used Rewind on himself and vanished from his location with Kimat.

Adrian appeared at the western part of the central continent where it is always ravaged by storms. Adrian has asked the Daemos elders about the Eye of the Storms and how does he get it. They answered that he cannot get it because those are basically created by natural phenomena. Adrian was puzzled why he cannot get them but then they pointed out that demons do not have elemental affinity for that kind of thing.

Just like before, Kimat would be the one that needs to handle whatever that challenges him. Adrian can only assist him as he travelled directly to the mouth of the storm. Adrian flew higher than the storm and saw a lightning like orb thing in the middle of a powerful cyclone. This was the Eye of the Storm that Kimat needs to devour but lightning is not the one opponent in the skies.

Inside the storm itself were numerous debris that are flying in a circular motion. Some are rocks while the biggest he has seen is a tree. If Kimat gets hit by that thing, then he might get interrupted while he devoured the Eye of the Storm.

"I cannot make the storm weaker because that would also weaken the Eye of the Storm and make it vanish. I need to dive into the center with Kimat in order to protect him." Adrian stated as he summoned Kanlaon as he was the only one that can help Adrian and Kimat in a situation such as this.

Chapter 1823 Eye of the Storm

"We must help Kimat so that he does not get interrupted while he is devouring the Eye of the Storm." Adrian stated as he suddenly dodged an incoming stone traveling at a high speed.

He was not yet inside the actual storm yet there are already lots of things flying about that could potentially take him out if he was not present minded. Kimat would be descending at the very center which is not the most dangerous area but there are so many variables that can happen. Just because the center of the storm is considered the safest does not mean that it is safe.

"I could technically freeze the storm in time but that will not take us anywhere but only by a couple of seconds of time. I should reserve that when it will be a crisis as that should be a saving grace." Adrian muttered as he looked at Kimat who was beside him.

Kimat is now showing one of the qualitative changes that happened to his body. Kimat could now basically fly in the sky as sparks of lightning could be seen on his paws. The fur on his body is also flowing with lightning which made him almost weightless. If one had a fear of flying tigers, then Kimat would be the best example of that.

"Are you ready?" Adrian asked.

"I shall not make master be too burdened. I shall make sure to quickly devour it." Kimat stated.

"Do not worry about the burden part as your safety is a better priority. Any danger to you will affect your entire body. Pull back if you know that you cannot handle it as we will think of other ways. Even if you do not evolve when the battle comes, we will think of a way to increase our combat capacity." Adrian stated as he was also looking at other alternatives in increasing his fighting capacity.

"I also wish for this kind of strength, master. I am a bit jealous of my older siblings." Kimat stated.

Adrian did not know when the hierarchy between the soulbounds started but they referred to themselves as brothers and sisters even though they are not the same species. Adrian asked Old Man Pann about such interaction and even he was shocked since monsters of the same species tend to not talk with one another as much. This is the case for the different monsters that Old Man Pann is taking care of.

"Just exercise caution as we dive inside the center of the storm." Adrian stated as he dived straight towards the center with Kimat and Kanlaon.

Piercing the storm was an issue but it was not difficult with the aid of Kanlaon and Kimat. They broke through the savage wind wall that the storm has and entered the center of the storm. Adrian is shocked to see that the Eye of the Storm is not mere a formation or clump of electricity but actually looked like an eye.

If Adrian did not convince himself that the Eye of the Storm is not a monster, then he would have attacked it. Eye of the Storm is like a large entity that has an exterior made of lightning while at the very center of it is a sphere cluster of winds that revolve around itself. This appearance made it extremely close to its description as the Eye of the Storm.

"If it had any sentience then it would have already attacked us. The blades of wind are no longer present as much in this area, but we must still be cautious. Kanlaon, only use light based or darkness-based attacks that will not disrupt the wind flow. Kimat, be careful." Adrian stated once more as he saw Kimat slowly get close to the Eye of the Storm.

Kimat slowly went to the Eye of the Storm and there were no problems that he encountered. He then proceeded to circle the Eye of the Storm as if he was curious about it, but Adrian could see that Kimat was looking for a weak side. Just like any core be it living or natural disaster, there will be a weak part where it would be ideal to break down.

Kimat carefully navigated the storm and dodged any projectiles that came his way that would throw him off. Small stones flying at high speeds would be ignored as long as it did not hit his face. Even though Kimat is flying in the air, his fur is still made of extremely durable material that is harder than steel. Kimat's defenses are so tough that even Dodu's touch will not immediately take effect.

Kimat suddenly froze in place as he finally found the spot where the Eye of the Storm is the weakest. He signaled Adrian that he will now be attempting to devour it. As soon as Kimat told Adrian, a silhouette of a larger Kimat made of energy came to view.

Kimat was using his energy to create an energy avatar of himself as he really did need to devour the Eye of the Storm in a sense. The larger Kimat energy avatar was still smaller than the actual Eye of the Storm that is five times bigger than it. With a roar so mighty that the sky might shake, Kimat's energy avatar pounced at the Eye of the Storm to take a literal bite.

As soon as Kimat took a bite of the Eye of the Storm, the surroundings suddenly became fierce as the storm itself looked like it was protecting itself. The wind wall that it put up suddenly became ferocious and moved like waves that it became hard to predict. The rotation of the flying things also changed as more and more debris got picked up and is being flown all over the place.

Still, the Eye of the Storm had no sentience as it did not have any clear direction of who should it be attacking. Kimat picked the perfect spot because it is also the place where the least number of dangerous things are getting drawn to. As if the Eye of the Storm is unconsciously avoiding its weak spot, Kimat was relatively safe but that did not mean completely.

A number of large trees that were uprooted by the thrashing Eye of the Storm. Those large trees often travelled to Kimat's location, but Kanlaon shot it down with light or darkness spells that is not hindered by the immense wind pressure. The reason why Adrian did not want to use any fire, water, wind or earth spells is that they could all influence each other greatly.

If Kanlaon used a fire spell, he could inadvertently create a fire storm. If he used water, then he could also create a waterspout. If he used wind, then he might counter the flow of the storm and disperse it along with the Eye of the Storm. If it is earth, then he just might add more flying debris that are dangerous.

When it would get dangerous enough that Kimat could not defend against it or Kanlaon cannot deflect it, Adrian started to move as well. As if he trained for this or rather used this as a training opportunity, Adrian used Time Stop for only one second intervals. When time is stopped Adrian would immediately create a small space rift that would suck in the debris that should hit Kimat.

Adrian's first attempts were not as great, but he could now accurately do it by his fourth attempt. Kimat could be seen to have some bruises on his body, but his health was still great overall. Adrian partially summoned Saena to heal Kimat as he cannot fully summon her since the wind was too great for her to bear.

After minutes of not knowing how long it was, Adrian noticed that the winds next to him started to subside. He thought that Kimat was failing but he was actually succeeding. The energy avatar of Kimat is now bigger than the Eye of the Storm itself. Adrian also noticed that the Eye of the Storm was smaller in size as it was not Kimat's energy avatar that grew bigger.

A few seconds later, the entire storm crashed into nothing as if it was never there, but the signs of devastation could be clearly seen in the surroundings. Adrian summoned Saena to heal of his wounds along with Kimat and Kanlaon. Adrian clearly looked at the area of devastation and the surrounding was totally wrecked.

Even the earth itself was carved by the immense storm that they have experienced. The mountain area that there were in no longer looked like a mountain since part of it was destroyed. Adrian did not notice it entirely as his focus was on Kimat, but the storm might have been rougher than he thought.

[Your soulbound, Kimat, has successfully devoured an Eye of the Storm.]

[The Gods of Wind have their interests piqued by the display that Kimat has shown.]

Chapter 1824 Living Storm I

"Finally got their attention as expected of the wind gods." Adrian thought as he knew that having one of his soulbounds devour a storm from the wind gods.

The nature gods are not like ordinary gods as they are incredibly petty in a way. Adrian was told that the nature gods that ruled over fire, earth, wind or water would usually create disasters when they are either offended or bored. The storms that are almost never ending are usually created by gods of the wind when they are in need of attention.

Unlike some gods, the nature gods do know how the mortal brain works as they are often called upon by the mortals. The gods of fire would often be prayed to when people need a source of heat. The gods of earth would be called upon when the soil is practically barren. The gods of water would be prayed upon when there is a drought. The gods of wind would be called upon to calm the heavy winds that destroy everything.

The nature gods crave the attention of mortal beings which is why it is much easier to get them to notice you. Some would need to take drastic measures to get a god's attention but that is not the case for nature gods. One would just need to either destroy or harm their creations like the storm that Kimat has just devoured.

"Let us move on to the next one as we have already gotten their attention." Adrian stated as he vanished along with his soulbounds in the next location.

The next three locations were duds as the storm that was reported there has already been dissipated by court mages of the respective kingdoms. The three storms that were listed are all near some bigger sized kingdoms which is acceptable that they would deal with it before it reaches them. Adrian just proceeded to the next one that is farther out but still in the central continent.

The next storm that Adrian found that has an Eye of the Storm is located further southwest of the central continent. It is located near a sea which made it challenging compared to the first one because blades of water are now introduced. Seeing that Adrian cannot perfectly defend against water unless elemental attacks are used, he opted for a defensive solution.

Adrian used Charon's barrier to always protect Kimat from harm. One would think that that should be impossible as the barrier would only be given if health is taken from another being. This made Adrian think of a solution for that which is luring monsters using Wisteria.

Wisteria emitted such a powerful sweet scent that is akin to the smell of a very powerful spiritual herb. Lots of monsters were lured and some were very powerful that Adrian needed all the help of his soulbounds to do this. The initial wave of monsters was not many which is why Adrian only had three soulbounds out which is Kimat for the devouring of the Eye of the Storm, Charon for the barrier, and Wisteria for the lure.

Five monsters were the first one to get lured by the scent which was easy to deal with by Charon. The undead would just trap the monsters with his chains and absorb their life to transfer to Kimat. This was easy for Charon even if there are thousands of monsters but that is only the case if they are weak monsters.

Soon stronger monsters started to be in the mix which is why Wisteria also had to step up. With a stomp of her foot, vines suddenly grew from the ground and wrapped around the monsters. The more powerful ones were affected by Charon's chains and Wisteria's vines.

Still, Adrian did not think that Wisteria's scent was very effective because it even pulled some boss level monsters in the area. In the end, Adrian had to use his limit break to summon all his soulbounds to defend Kimat. Thankfully, the thrashing of the Eye of the Storm also destroyed some monsters along the way.

Kimat was able to successfully devour the second Eye of the Storm due to that. He was badly battered by numerous water blades, but he was very much alive and active. Adrian was drained due to intense never-ending battle that happened that day which is why he decided to rest. He knew that the third one might end up the same way and opted to rest before he makes a mistake and dies.

He is also a bit shaky in thinking that Kimat would always succeed. Even though he knows that Kimat is strong and can absorb the Eye of the Storms as long as he is not disturbed, the undisturbed part is not always true. Adrian does not know as there might come a powerful boss level monster that is lured near them which kills Kimat with a hit or two.

If Kimat unsuccessfully absorbs an Eye of the Storm, the storm itself will dissipate as it will be unstable. It will also hurt the attention that they got from the wind gods. Adrian is also aiming to please them so that they would be willing to give Kimat their blessing. He does not want to go to the option of threatening or making an enemy of a god because that does not end well.

As soon as Adrian felt refreshed, they headed to the third storm, and he almost cursed out loud. He thought that storms were just funnels of wind and rain but the next one was located in a desert area. It was a large sandstorm that swirls continuously that it has started to process the sand into glass shards.

"Why do I feel like it is getting much more difficult than before? Are the wind gods messing with me?" Adrian thought. He thought this way because the wind gods love to use pranks out of the nature gods. Their pranks usually are large storms to create great devastation but that is their definition of pranks.

Chapter 1825 Living Storm II

Adrian had no monsters to pull which meant that the plan to use Charon has gone up in smoke. His assistance is also not helpful as he cannot swallow a large amount of sand with his small rifts. He did think to use a larger rift to subside the storm but that would release the storm.

"Should I start with Time Stop and force myself to use it until I pass out?" Adrian thought.

Adrian could extend the limit of Time Stop to five minutes if he concentrates but that would mean his body becoming incredibly weak. There is also a chance of him dying which would unsummon Kimat. If that happens then all his progress would be gone with the wind.

"I have asked the gods of life if they know some wind gods, but they are not really the group that likes them. In fact, the gods of life are quite annoyed at the wind gods for their antics. Should I go to Alfheim and ask the elementals if they know a trustworthy Greater Wind God?" Adrian thought but he knew that elementals are also hard to please.

Elementals being difficult to please and get a favor from came from Vayu and Soleil themselves. Vayu told Adrian that wind elementals would only listen to you if you can catch them. Soleil told him that fire elementals would need to be embraced physically before one can get a favor from them. Other rules also apply to other elementals, but they do not know that.

"Should I call upon the power of the God Seth then? No harm no foul, I guess. It would not hurt to try as gods can hear everything as long as one prays with a sincere heart." Adrian asked himself as he does not know if the God Seth would actually remember him since he also underwent transformation. Even the effigy that he has for the Temple of Storms were broken when a drastic change happened in the western continent.

Adrian took out the broken jackal figurine and placed it onto the sands as he muttered something. Adrian thought that something mystical will happen or a powerful light will come towards his area that will make the sand vanish. Adrian was waiting for something to happen but there was nothing.

As Adrian was about to pick up the broken jackal effigy, the effigy suddenly crumbled into sand. As soon as that happened, the sands that were being picked up by the intense storm winds suddenly fell as if the sands became heavier. An impossible moment could be seen as the sand separated from the winds.

Kimat did not waste the chance that his master has given him because he knows that this might not be permanent as a solution. As soon as the sands returned back to the ground, Kimat dove straight to the heart of the storm and started absorbing it with renowned vigor. As if Adrian felt a sharp glare, he looked behind him only to see nothing.

"Weird... I thought someone just grumbled behind my ear. Also, maybe I have committed a mistake because the God Seth is a God of Storms! I should have asked for his blessing for Kimat instead!" Adrian stated as he realized that he could have cleared another hurdle if the effigy was still in place.

As if someone or something took offense to what Adrian said, he was slapped with a powerful gust of wind. He thought that it was just an aftereffect of a subsided storm and paid it no heed. He decided to go to the next area where there was another kind of problem.

The next area is located further south which is actually near Avalon but that is Adrian's sense of direction. Adrian's description of near in the game is a day or two travel time via walking. He has no actual perception of distance since he is a demon that could just warp time and space to save more time to himself.

The problem with this next storm was that it was on top of an active volcano. The storm itself was digging the volcano and making sure that it remains active. Adrian also thought that he saw the Eye of the Storm look at him, but he thought that should not be possible as that is a natural disaster.

"We need to freeze the volcano or stop it from becoming active which means that Kanlaon is up." Adrian stated as he looked at Kanlaon.

Adrian instructed Kanlaon to divert the heat emitted by the volcano to another source or way. Kanlaon was both shocked and horrified by the request of its master. He knows that he is a dragon but that does not mean he could divert the heat inside an active volcano as if it was another Tuesday.

"Even I will have difficulty with that master, I alone am not sufficient for a volcano that size." Kanlaon stated as he knows his abilities.

"You will not be alone because Wisteria and Yuki will help you with it. You also have me to meddle with it if it comes down to it." Adrian stated as he can summon a Blue Dragon to aid as well.

Adrian went with his crazy plan and decided to cool down the active volcano which is a pretty out of the box plan. He was confident that this will be easy but the sudden feeling of being stared at by the Eye of the Storm he felt earlier was not a fluke. The large Eye of the Storm that is more orange in color due to the heat it draws from the volcano looked at Adrian.

As if he knew that something should be done to preserve his life, Adrian teleported away with his soulbounds. A few seconds later, another small crater appeared in the area that Adria was in. The small crater spewed lava in that general direction which would have greatly injured Adrian and his soulbounds since they were unprepared.

Chapter 1826 Living Storm III

Adrian was not seeing things anymore because that sudden burst of lava was not an accidental or natural thing. If it was not pinpointed to hit him, the crater would not be at his general direction or area. There should also be other craters that appear to burst out if that were the case.

Adrian knew that the storm before them is not mindless like the other three that he first encountered. The Eye of the Storm looked like it was still looking at him and his soulbounds. It had the pressure of someone waiting for the other to move as if it was a predator.

[A Greater God of Wind Notus has influenced the storm with his powers.]

[The Lava Storm has gained sentience to be called a Living Storm.]

Adrian could only click his tongue as he did not expect that the god of wind that was observing them would interfere this way. He thought that they would just happily be watched as the storms get devoured by Kimat but it seems that they have another definition of fun. The gods of wind that were watching were not that many, but they were a handful. It was only one greater god that made direct interference though as if he is not satisfied with what he is watching.

Adrian already knows what the favorite sport of the gods and that is watching mortals go on with their lives. They view mortals from their divine realm and somewhat interfere to make their boring lives a little bit more exciting. Mortals would sometimes call this as blessing but to most that know what it really is would call it annoying.

[The Great God of Wind Notus is challenging you to defeat his Living Storm that he has created.]

[Should you be able to defeat it, he will bestow you a gift that you will want.]

Adrian's eyebrows were raised at the sudden challenge issued to him by the Greater God Notus. At the very least, he was able to know the name of the wind god that created direct interference. Adrian is somewhat glad that something like this happened, but he is not here to destroy storms as Kimat needs to devour them.

[The Great God of Wind Boreas saw that the Great God of Wind Notus was doing something exciting and decided to join in on the fun.]

[The Great God of Wind Boreas summoned his own Living Storm.]

Adrian almost spit out blood and cursed at the god of winds for what they were doing. The living storm that was created by the Great God of Wind Notus was difficult enough, but another is now added to the mix. The heat that the Living Lava Storm started to get dialed down as another storm that has cold winds were brewing.

[The Blizzard Storm has been created by the Great God of Wind Boreas has become a living storm.]

[All beings must be wary of the Living Storms as they are a primal force of nature that has only one job and that is returning the world to its origin.]

[The Great God of Wind Boreas is rooting for you to also defeat the Living Storm that it has created. He says that he will also reward you if you are able to defeat it.]

The Living Blizzard Storm has an eye made of swirling ice shards, but it was as menacing as the Living Lava Storm. Adrian did not know what to do first because he is not supposed to destroy the storms. He was meant to use them to power up Kimat but doing that would be difficult with what is currently happening.

[The Greater God of Wind Notus started to fight with the Greater God of Wind Boreas on who has created the more powerful living storm.]

"Seriously! This is why I do not like the nature gods because they always move on a whim." Adrian thought to himself as he might be heard if he says it out loud.

Adrian is no longer just fighting a normal natural phenomenon but a natural monster phenomenon. The storms earlier did not have any description to them as they were not monsters but now, they have it. Adrian did not know if the living storms will still count as an objective if Kimat devours it, but they cannot get away.

Monster Name: Living Lava Storm

Monster Level: 299

Monster Type: Natural Disaster

Monster Tier: Legendary

Description: A lava storm that was originally created by the Great God of Wind Notus because he was bored and wanted to play with heat. He suddenly noticed a challenger that destroyed the previous storms that the gods of wind created and wanted to pose a challenge. It has gained sentience to know who wants to do it harm and destroy it.

Monster Name: Living Blizzard Storm

Monster Level: 299

Monster Type: Natural Disaster

Monster Tier: Legendary

Description: A blizzard storm that was summoned by the Great God of Wind Boreas as he found something interesting. He then made it a living storm after seeing what the Great God of Wind Notus did. It has a fierce personality due to awakening its sentience abruptly upon its creation.

"Master! They have blocked all the exits with their great gaseous body." Kimat stated as the Living Lava Storm was at their left while the Living Blizzard Storm was at their right.

"There is no way out which means all we can do is fight. Make sure to absorb the storm that you can first as we will protect you while also dealing with the remaining one. Aether Domain! Aetheros True Form!" Adrian shouted as the area that was chaotic due to the flames and ice getting scattered were introduced with a sparkling particle.

"Limit Break: Summoner!"

"Greater Summon: Sirius!"

"Greater Summon: Kanlaon!"

"Greater Summon: Saena!"

"Greater Summon: Charon!"

"Greater Summon: Dodu!"

"Greater Summon: Kimat!"

"Greater Summon: Wisteria!"

Adrian summoned all the soulbounds that could fight as he knew that he would need them all. He also used his domain to enhance all their abilities with priority of the defense. As if the gods of wind were reacting greatly, the area that they were in suddenly had some unexpected breezes that flowed. They were all watching the sudden fight that is happening as they know who the challenger is.

Kimat immediately dove towards the Living Lava Storm as he is blessed by Kanlaon using a spell called Stable Temperature. It is a spell that Adrian told Kanlaon to learn as it is a useful spell that negates the effects of the surrounding by 50%. If it is hot, then it would feel cool and vice versa. It should be helpful to Kimat but the heat that the Living Lava Storm emitted is not the only problem.

Kimat is also being scorched despite the spell as it is not just heat being carried by the winds of the Living Lava Storm. Thankfully for Adrian, the moment that the two natural disasters became monsters meant that they now have health bars. Charon immediately chained the two Living Storms, but it is only magically where he can siphon health as they do not have any mana.

Kimat had to swallow the pain of the heat while the damage is negated by Charon's shields. Sirius would enter the shadows and flick off any large stones that comes in the way so that Kimat will not get distracted. Saena would heal them all and also slightly recover their stamina to make sure that the team holds on.

Dodu and Wisteria were with Adrian as they needed to think of a way to stop it from moving. The Living Lava Storm was focused on Kimat as he started absorbing parts of its core. The Living Blizzard Storm, on the other hand, was shooting out freezing winds and ice wind shard blades on all directions. Wisteria would match the ice wind blades with her blast of leaves to at least counter or weaken the attack.

Dodu would extend its body to try and devour the freezing winds, but parts of its body started to become frozen. Thankfully, Dodu could just devour that part of its body to dissolve it which makes the damage almost negligible. Adrian would use the Aether Dust that he has spread and create solid shields with it.

This is another trick that Adrian was able to learn after training with his Aetheros True Form and Aether Domain. He always thought that the Aether Dust was just a by-product that he can guide like wind to enhance the regeneration and defenses of his allies, but he was only scratching the surface. Aether Dust could actually be collected in small groups to create shields made of it which is as durable as steel.

Adrian would create small shields which will block the bigger ice shards from reaching all of them. If one thing gets in the way, then they would definitely get wiped out as the two living storms could just hurl everything at them without any cooldown.

Chapter 1827 Living Storm IV

The two living storms were not working together to destroy Adrian and his soulbounds which is a good thing for them. The two storms are even clashing with one another and somewhat weakening the parts that touch. He also observed something about the living storms as time went by.

"The living storms have sentience and also coherence to itself. The two of them are making sure that they do not touch as they cancel each other out which will end up in my victory. I can play defensively for the time being and make sure that they clash at each other as Kimat gets to absorb more when that happens." Adrian thought as speaking his mind will not be wise when gods of the wind are watching.

Unlike other gods that know things due to a top-down perspective, the gods of wind can hear everything as well because the wind is like their ears. They are also known as the gods that know a lot of gossip which tends to make other gods stray from them as they do not want to be the subject of such talks. There was even a story that one of the gods that had gossip on them sealed themselves due to the embarrassment but that is just a hearsay.

"Your living storm is interfering with my living storm!" The Greater God of Wind Boreas stated as his living storm cannot move properly because of the other living storm.

"You were the one that presented yourself to the fun that I was having. You are the one that should take your living storm and go!" The Greater God of Wind Notus rebuked as even he was not enjoying the show.

The two gods started wrestling one another as they wanted the other to have their living storm be elsewhere. The rumble between the two shook the collective divine realm of the gods of wind that the lesser gods started to panic. The two great gods control directional winds and fighting each other might affect the real world which might land them in trouble from the other gods.

"You two should behave as you have already devastated that area for far too much that the gods of life have sent me a petition!" another greater god suddenly stated which made the two gods stop their fight.

"Eurus! He was the one that joined in on my fun against the Champion of the Twin Gods. He was devouring the storms and I found it hot to watch that the other storms were not much of a challenge. He accepted my challenge when he did not run away when I created the living storm. Someone here just had to ruin my fun and dip his cool fingers to ruin it for me." The Greater God of Wind Notus stated.

"It does not matter who started it. What matters the most is that he is paying attention to my living storm the most. You should have yours dissolved before the gods of life punish us with their never-ending lecture about how all life is sacred even rocks!" The Greater God of Wind Boreas shouted back.

"I have one solution for this dilemma that will satisfy the both of you child-minded gods." The Greater God of Wind Eurus stated as he sent something down from their divine realm.

Adrian was smiling as he is now getting the hang of dealing with two living storms. Kimat told him that he is about to penetrate the first layer of defense for the Living Lava Storm. Once he does that, the absorption of the Eye of the Storm would become much easier.

A sharp wind suddenly came from the east that suddenly blew all of Adrian and his soulbounds away. The sharp wind from the east also stopped the two living storms from rampaging which also saved Adrian from defending. He thought that this was just a powerful gust of wind, but he was incredibly wrong.

[The Greater God of Wind Eurus has interfered.]

[The two living storms created by the other two greater gods of wind will now fuse into one entity.]

Adrian's eyes suddenly became wide open as the two living storms actually fused together. A body that was like a giant that has two swirling cores that looked like eyes. The form it took was slightly humanoid as it created a left arm made of swirling hot wind and a right arm made of freezing cold wind.

"I give up." Adrian stated as he was done with this because that behemoth of a living storm is no longer something that he can deal with on his own.

Monster Name: Coldburn Living Storm

Monster Level: 310

Monster Tier: Semi-Mythical

Monster Type: Living Natural Disaster

Health: 81%

Description: A monster that has been created by fusing the Living Lava Storm and the Living Blizzard Storm by the Great God of Wind Eurus. It has unparalleled heat and cold temperature that it can easily destroy an area just by staying in it for one hour. The two cores of the previous two living storms have fused together to become a smarter and more powerful entity.

"Master, I lost all my progress when the two living storms fused." Kimat stated which made Adrian frown.

"Forget it. Let us just go back to Avalon." Adrian stated as clearly as possible which suddenly made the Coldburn Living Storm halt its attack that was supposed to hit Adrian.

"You cannot do that!" A voice from a north blowing wind suddenly stated.

"You should fight like your life depends on it!" A south blowing wind stated.

Adrian is then bombarded with numerous wind messages that he does not even know where the source is from. All he knew is that the voices contained traces of divinity which means that it was the gods that were watching him. The voices irritated him so much that he actually created aether dust earplugs.

"It is not worth it anymore. We shall find other things to help you, Kimat." Adrian stated but the Coldburn Living Storm suddenly glowed in a radiant divine light as if a god has possessed it.

The Coldburn Living Storm started to form a mouth as it was attempting to say something. The first few things that came out were not the sound of words, but just hot and cold air fused together. It was only until a few minutes later that audible sounds can be heard but not words. It took at least half an hour with Adrian's transformation ending for the Coldburn Living Storm to actually speak words.

"Champion Equinox! This is not fair! You have accepted the challenge which means you must finish it so that we can have our entertainment." A voice that Adrian recognizes from the north wind stated.

"I accepted only one challenge. I did not accept two, but I still tried because I know I can at least handle it with some sacrifices. Fusing two legendary monsters together is a different challenge entirely.

I will no longer play because you might change the challenge once more when you feel like it. I do not like to deal with gods that are indecisive when the only thing at stake is one favor. Three gods have already sunk their hands in the challenge. What happens if there are more? This will go on forever if that happens" Adrian stated.

The Coldburn Living Storm suddenly became silent as they did not expect to be scolded by a mortal being. They cannot smite the being that scolded them as well because he is the Champion of the Twin Gods, and he did not violate anything. If someone did violate something, then it would be the gods of the wind for suddenly increasing the difficulty as time passed by.

"Speak what you wish for your fight against our creation to continue." The voice of the south wind stated.

"I want the Eye of the Storm of that being even if I destroy it and the Blessing of the High God Aeolus for my soulbound, Kimat." Adrian stated his terms.

The gods of wind suddenly started chattering amongst themselves as three blessings of Greater Gods are not even equal to a blessing from a High God. Ten Greater God Blessings is equivalent to the blessing of one High God which is why people would often pray to the most powerful gods to get their attention. The three greater gods of wind are stunned because they cannot accept it easily as they cannot force a High God to a challenge that they have created.

"That are my terms. If one is not met, then I have no time to waste here." Adrian stated.

"We cannot agree to his terms as we cannot speak to our father to demand him to give a blessing. You know that he is very picky when it comes to giving his blessings." The Greater God of Wind Notus stated as he looked at his two siblings the Greater God of Wind Boreas and the Greater God of Wind Eurus.

Chapter 1828 King of the Winds

"If we do not do anything then the creature would be wasted. We will not be able to have any fun watching." The Greater God of Wind Boreas stated.

"It would be a waste of a powerful monster to just suddenly extinguished." The Greater God of Wind Notus added.

"Let me remind you two that the fused monster can no longer be destroyed by our power as it has already transcended the Legendary tier. We can control it to some extent, but we cannot destroy it by ourselves in the divine realm. One of you would need to descend to destroy that monster and sacrifice some of their divinity." The Greater God of Wind Eurus stated which shocked the two greater gods of wind.

"We never agreed to this! We created legendary tier monsters so that we can destroy them when we are done playing. You were the one that fused them together to create one monster. You should be the one that deals with that and descend." The Greater God of Wind Boreas exclaimed.

"I did not create that monster as I only fused them. I cannot destroy it because I was not the creator. Both of you would need to descend to destroy that thing. Also, the gods of life are already complaining about what is happening. Will you two be the gods that handle their wrath?" The Greater God of Wind Eurus stated.

"No! I hate dealing with the gods of life. They are relentless when it comes to their scolding sessions. I also do not want to descend because that will make me weak for two months. I have other things to do misch... I mean bless." The Greater God of Wind Notus stated.

"I also do not want to descend as the mortal realm is not for me. There is nothing interesting about descending anyways. I do not know why some gods want to descend when they would just be burdened instead of being free." The Greater God of Wind Boreas stated.

"Silence fools!" An authoritative voice suddenly exclaimed in the collective divine realm of the gods of wind.

"Father!" The three greater gods of wind exclaimed as their father, the High God Aeolus, suddenly appeared with a matching anger.

"I heard from the gods of life that you summoned a living disaster without their permission! How are all of you going to deal with that!" The High God Aeolus stated as the greater gods of wind started to ramble on about their explanation.

"Did they forget that they are still connected to the mouth of the Coldburn Living Storm?" Adrian stated as he looked at the monster giving juicy details on what is happening to the divine realm.

Still, Adrian finally heard an authoritative voice that made the greater gods of wind shiver. If he is correct, then this should be the High God Aeolus. He is called the King of the Winds because he has control over all kinds of winds. Adrian learned of his existence from Vayu as a wind elemental should be more knowledgeable about the wind gods than some history books. The discussions went on for five minutes until only one voice echoed from the Coldburn Living Storm.

"Champion Equinox, we would like to agree with your proposition. If you destroy the monster, then we would gladly give you the two cores and my own blessing as you have desired. I am the High God Aeolus, and this is my official challenge to you." The High God Aeolus stated via the Coldburn Living Storm.

Adrian smiled as he did not expect that things would escalate to such a degree, but he gathered that even the greater gods of wind cannot easily deal with the monster that they have created. A high god would be able to easily deal with it, but they cannot descend to the world unless special measures are taken. It is now up to Adrian to destroy the monster on their behalf.

"I guess I should thank the gods of life for their nagging. They are probably fuming right now because of the immense destruction that the Coldburn Living Storm is currently doing." Adrian thought as he did not want to let the gods of wind know what he is thinking. He wants to let them see that he is still a bit apprehensive.

"If even the High God Aeolus is asking me to then I will gladly oblige." Adrian stated as the battle is now different.

Adrian is now in full destruction mode because he was in protection mode earlier. He had to be careful earlier that he cannot destroy the storms accidentally but this time he needs to destroy them. If all the storms earlier would drop their Eye of the Storm like monsters, then Adrian would not have to find ways to protect Kimat.

"It would have been better if they did that when I had my limit break active, but it is better late than never." Adrian stated as he used his other domain.

"Nether Domain!"

"Netheros True Form!"

"Primordial Armament: Bow!"

Adrian's form changed as did the soulbounds that are with him. He summoned Saena, Kanlaon and Kimat for now as they would need to focus on the offensive. The form change of Adrian signaled the start of the battle which made the Coldburn Living Storm move once again.

The Coldburn Living Storm did not have many attacks as it had only its storm breath which releases cold and hot wind that greatly damages all that are hit. It mainly uses its own elemental body to destroy the surroundings as its touch has different effects of hot and cold. The most dangerous thing is that it can swallow you whole which will make you be blasted by hot and cold air until you die.

Saena focused on the offensive as she blasted the Coldburn Living Storm with rays of light along with winds to try and counteract the monster. Kanlaon would empower Saena's elemental damage and also blast it with its own breath attack. Kimat is different as it can summon powerful lightning to hit the cores of the Coldburn Living Storm.

Adrian fired arrows that contained nether energy which severely weakened the Coldburn Living Storm. The nether energy is incredibly effective as the monster could be seen to become weaker with each arrow that Adrian hits. Adrian's arrows are also made of mana which means that the wind could not entirely influence its trajectory.

The gods of wind are shocked that Adrian was no longer struggling with the monster. Earlier, they thought that Adrian will lose as he utilized all of his soulbounds to just deal with one. It is only the High God Aeolus that know that Adrian was not out to kill earlier as his eyes landed on Kimat.

"That beast is incredibly interesting. I have never blessed another beast again after my own divine beast died. The power of the lightning element in that beast is also something that has surpassed my divine beast. Should he really defeat that living disaster then I would not have any qualms giving my blessing as it should also increase my influence in the mortal realm." The High God Aeolus thought as he continued watching the battle.

Adrian might look like he is not struggling but he knows that he could not defeat the Coldburn Living Storm without a domain. The monster is already at the realm of a bit under the lesser gods which will need the core members of his guild to be present to raid it. Adrian can manage but he knows that it will be close since even his domain is limited.

"Make sure to buy me enough time." Adrian commanded as he pulled every bit of nether energy into the attack that he is about to release.

Saena, Kanlaon, and Kimat understood the command as they released powerful attacks. Saena glowed in a rainbow colored light as she released her most powerful attack. Seven colored lights blasted from Saena's body that headed straight towards the Coldburn Living Storm. Kanlaon used all of his dragon orbs to create an Elemental Disaster. Kimat summoned a copy of himself and made the sky rain down lightning as if it was releasing the wrath of the sky.

The Coldburn Living Storm could be seen to be staggering as it is bombarded with powerful attacks. It was not enough to kill the living disaster, but they were pushing it back. Adrian finally infused all the nether energy in the arrow that he can handle as he stated the skill.

"Andromeda!" Adrian shouted as he released a powerful arrow that shot towards the Coldburn Living Storm.

The arrow flew straight as no wind could knock it off its path. The Coldburn Living Storm could feel the immense power in that arrow and dodged. It actually made its body scatter and reform a few meters away which shocked Adrian. The Coldburn Living Storm thought that it was safe, but Adrian is a demon.

"Rewind!" Adrian shouted as he used it on the Coldburn Living Storm.

Chapter 1829 Defeating a Storm

The magic arrow that was supposed to miss its target did not stray from its path. It was the target that was sent back to its former location as time warped. The Coldburn Living Storm looked like it was reenacting the reverse of what it did earlier, but this is due to the Adrian rewinding its time.

Adrian looked tired as the amount of mana needed to rewind the time of the Coldburn Living Storm was five times its normal skill cast. It was a good thing that he was able to save some of his mana and not put it all in the magic arrow earlier. The magic arrow that was supposed to hit nothing has landed perfectly right inside the eye of the Coldburn Living Storm.

"Boom!" Adrian stated as a powerful explosion resounded.

The explosion of starlight was incredibly amazing with the accompaniment of the rumble from the Coldburn Living Storm. A sudden blast of hot and cold wind escaped in the entire area as Adrian was able to make the form of the Coldburn Living Storm unstable. He needed to be protected by Kanlaon as the sudden mixing of hot and cold winds created a powerful lightning attack.

Adrian was not damaged by the sudden lightning discharge as Kimat was there to devour it for him. Adrian did not expect that Kimat can now easily devour lightning, but he was thankful that he can. When the smoke cleared, the Coldburn Living Storm could be seen as it was not yet dead.

The body of the Coldburn Living Storm looked incredibly unstable as it no longer looked humanoid in shape as it was just a messy blob of cold and hot winds. The Coldburn Living Storm tried to roar but it cannot speak since it did not have the power of the gods. Adrian knew that he cannot get close as it might have an attack that might kill him with it.

"Elemental Dragon Summoning: Elemental Assault!" Adrian stated as he forced his mana to the limit, but he made sure to chug the mana potion to also add more of his own mana.

Six Elemental magic circles of different colors suddenly came out from behind Adrian. Six elemental dragons are also released from them that released their own dragon breaths towards the Coldburn Living Storm. It was not the end of the assault though as Kanlaon flew to the skies and released his most powerful dragon breath attack.

Seven different colored breath attacks hit the Coldburn Living Storm. The living disaster tried to escape but Adrian used Chrono Lag on it to make it even slower. He did not think that spells like that would affect a living disaster, but it might have because it is now a monster.

The Coldburn Living Storm could feel the end of its life, but it did not want to be killed pitifully. With its last energy, the Coldburn Living Storm supercharged its core. The amount of heat and cold that the eye of the storms had created was enough to destroy a large area. Adrian even had to summon Charon to pull him to a pocket dimension as even he will not be able to survive the aftermath of that attack.

A powerful explosion that resulted in the area being hit by a devastating lightning surge came down. The Coldburn Living Storm is no more as it made a last-ditch effort to take its attacker with it, but it ultimately failed. The Coldburn Living Storm did take a large chunk of the land was either scorched or carved out. Adrian appeared a few seconds later with Charon as they returned from the pocket dimension.

[You have defeated the Coldburn Living Storm.]

[The Gods of Wind enjoyed such a battle that they have never seen before.]

"You have successfully completed the challenge. As promised, I shall bestow upon you the Eye of the Storms for the Coldburn Living Storm." The voice of the High God Aelous stated.

A shining item suddenly started falling down from the sky which looked like a miniature version of the Coldburn Living Storm. This was the Eye of the Storm that Kimat needed for his evolution. Just as the promise stated, the eye of the storm was in perfect form as the one that Adrian battled has already been destroyed. The High God Aeolus recreated the Eye of the Storm for the Coldburn Living Storm in order to give it to Adrian.

"Thank you. About the other promise." Adrian stated.

"Do not worry as I will not go back on my word. I, the High God Aeolus, give my blessing to the being named Kimat. May his valor and power be reflected as it now carries power using my name." The High God Aeolus stated as a powerful pillar of light came down and filled Kimat with power.

[The High God Aelous has blessed your soulbound, Kimat.]

[All beings that is blessed by the High God Aeolus will have immunity to Epic tier spells of the Wind and Lightning Element.]

Adrian smiled as he saw the blessing be registered under Kimat's name as this is what he really wanted. With the blessing now secured, Adrian conjured the portal to return back to Avalon as the next step is the most difficult. Adrian would need to make sure that Kimat evolves successfully because failure is still an option.

"Thankfully, Champion Equinox was able to resolve it or else." The Greater God of Wind Notus stated.

"I agree. Now we can go back to our duties." The Greater God of Wind Boreas stated.

"I shall now return to my station as well." The Greater God of Wind Eurus added.

All three greater wind gods started to prepare to leave but a powerful force compelled their bodies to stay. The powerful force is none other than their father, the High God Aeolus. They were being restrained by their father because they should be punished for recklessly creating a living disaster of that level.

"The Gods of Life would like to have a word with the three of you. Appease their anger or else you will not be able to return. Be grateful that you did not create unnecessary death as even the gods of death would be watching. Of all the beings that you challenged; it was the Champion of the Twin Gods! I do not know if all of you are courageous or stupid." The High God Aeolus stated.

Adrian saw the needed requirements and only one is remaining. Kimat would need to turn its mortal flesh into divine flesh in order to prepare the power that it will receive upon its evolution. The Tempest Lodestone Kaiser Tigris is not an ordinary monster but a divine beast of myths. If the High God Aeolus learned that this would be Kimat's evolution, then even he would have helped Adrian without batting an eye.

The Tempest Lodestone Kaiser Tigris is a beast that has gone extinct because their numbers are extremely small. It also does not have the ability to proliferate as a divine beast usually sacrifices that function to become immortal. Saena is also in the same boat as she has turned into a divine beast that cannot easily give birth to offspring.

"We should rest first and make sure that you are in perfect condition. We cannot rush it even though we still have five days left." Adrian stated as he is still worried about the timeline that the Goddess of Light Luminaria will be released.

"Are you confident, Kimat? Once we start this process, there is now going back." Adrian asked his soulbound which would have been unthinkable for other summoner players as they would just push for the evolution despite the status of their soulbound.

"I am confident, master. You are always there to support me which means that I will never fail. I have also learned from the guidance of the Vermillion Bird on how the process is." Kimat replied.

Adrian needed to know about the changing to divine flesh which is why he directly asked one of the beings that is a divine beast. He asked the Vermillion Bird, and he was given the rough explanation as this process is mostly dependent on the beast that is undergoing the transformation. If it fails, then it is only Kimat that will be blamed as he was not worthy to become a divine beast.

Chapter 1830 Kimat's Transformation

"Let us begin." Adrian stated as they were in front of the Tree of Life and Death.

Adrian cannot be inside the guild house for this next part as they needed the natural world. The process of transforming mortal flesh into divine flesh is something that needs the energy of the world or whatever that is according to the Vermillion Bird. The Vermillion Bird told him that the more natural the surroundings are, the better.

"Do you know if this is true?" Adrian asked the Tree of Life and Death.

The Tree of Life and Death did not reply as it seems that it has yet to awaken from its slumber. The Tree of Life and Death is currently supporting most of the world as the Twin Gods are injured. It is also the reason why Saena is needed more in Avalon than before which is why Adrian only summons her when absolutely needed.

"I am ready, master." Kimat stated.

"Wait! I should at least do something to aid you." Adrian stated as he drew a magic circle on the ground.

The magic circle that Adrian drew was not something that give Kimat a boost or empowers him. It was a magic circle that increased luck and gives protection, but the protection part is vague even for him. Adrian found this magic circle in a book about folk rituals as it had a different language which is why he read it.

The magic circle does not even need to be charged with mana or anything. It was just a drawing of a magic circle, but Adrian thought that this would be fitting. Adrian cannot actively help Kimat in his journey this time which is why he used this folk magic circle. Adrian believes that things in the game are not created just because it can be, but he was just hoping that it will not be useless.

"Please succeed." Adrian thought and prayed as he does not want to lose Kimat.

The Vermillion Bird also told them what might happen to Kimat should he fail. The good news is that there are different levels of punishment depending on the failure. The slightest level of punishment is that Kimat will not fully succeed but manage to make his body into a semi-divine state. This is akin to the status of the demigods, but they are different compared to divine beasts.

The next level of punishment would be Kimat ultimately fails his transformation and his body gets severely injured. He might not be able to try this evolution for another year or until his body fully heals but he is still alive. The worst type of punishment is that Kimat's body and soul will be vaporized.

Adrian does not know what will happen if the worst comes to worst. Adrian and Kimat's soul are tied together which is why he thinks that they will both receive damage. Still, it also meant that Adrian could save Kimat if something really does happen to him.

A powerful roar then woke Adrian from his deep thought as Kimat has started the process. Kimat opened his mouth as powerful thunder clouds suddenly appeared on top of Avalon. Adrian already told the citizens to not be alarmed and not investigate what is happening in the middle island as he is doing something there.

Adrian also told the Daemos Corps members to not bother him and to kill anyone that attempts to go there. He is already preparing for there to be intruders as he knows that there might be some demigods roaming about in Avalon. The Vermillion Bird warned him that there might be beings that take advantage of the process.

The Vermillion Bird pointed out an example that a demigod can suddenly barge in and absorb all the energy that Kimat is supposed to intake. This is not a known process but demigods that are sensitive to powerful natural energy would want to attain it should they feel it. The Vermillion Bird has seen a lot of would-be divine beasts getting killed defenselessly while the power they funneled was stolen by immortals.

It is not just immortals that can do this as mortals can also kill the beast attempting transformation. This is akin to a divine tribulation which will transform the body of a being into another composition. A lot of people have been blinded by greed to possess great power and they did not care if the beast dies in the process of their ascension. The Vermillion Bird was extremely sad when it told Adrian about this, but such is the way of nature.

The dark clouds on top of Avalon were full of power but it was more natural than magical. The clouds suddenly rumbled as Kimat roared which is heard all throughout Avalon. The roar was a message that he was to start and a threat to those that have sinister intentions.

As soon as Kimat roared, a powerful lightning bolt suddenly came down from the clouds. Kimat endured and absorbed the energy from the lightning as this is the way he can transform his mortal body. Kimat needs his body to be tempered by the power of natural lightning. Adrian stopped himself from suddenly putting up a barrier to protect Kimat as he needs to do this without help.

All Adrian can do is protect him from any external sources of trouble. It is not just Adrian that will keep watch as all his soulbounds are situated around Kimat. They would immediately be able to react once they see any type of threat that comes their way. They would not let anything get in the way of their brother.

The rain of lightning continued on but there was actually an hour interval per bolt. This made it clear that Kimat can recover some of his stamina. Adrian could clearly see that Kimat is struggling a bit even though he can devour lightning. He could feel that the lightning coming down from the clouds was vastly different from lightning being discharged by other beings.

Kimat can devour lightning from other beings as they were already processed and stripped out of their raw form. The lightning that is coming down towards Kimat is the purest and rawest form of lightning that the world can conjure. This is like being hit by a large ice ball instead of a water balloon.

It is not just Adrian that is watching Kimat's divine body transformation as some gods have become intrigued. The one that is most intrigued is the High God Aeolus as he can feel that Kimat is being bombarded with such pure lightning energy. The blessing that the High God Aeolus has given Kimat is not ordinary as it is like a blessing to be his representative in the mortal realm.

In exchange for such a boost from his blessing, Kimat can be monitored by the High God Aeolus whenever he is in the mortal realm. He might have some difficulty if they are in other dimension, but he can still sense him to give some messages. The only time the High God Aeolus cannot interact with Kimat is when he is inside Adrian's soul chamber.

"What is Champion Equinox doing? Is he punishing his pet?" The High God Aeolus muttered as he can also feel the pain that Kimat is enduring.

Kimat could feel that the lightning hitting him was not something that he could have survived if he did not get prepared. The Storm Bringer Core was helping him regulate the energy that needs to be processed. The Blessing of the High God Aeolus was shielding him from the terrible aftereffects as well.

All the troubles that Adrian did earlier was a step to make it easier for Kimat. Kimat knows this which is why he is incredibly thankful that he found such master. He knew that it might have been his dumb luck to be captured that day by his current master.

The lightning bolts did not stop until night came as it was even fiercer during that time. The lightning bolts also became more frequent as it came every thirty minutes after the initial eight hours. The interval then switched to every fifteen minutes after the next eight hours. Kimat could be seen struggling a bit but there were changes in his body.

Adrian could not just feel the changes but also see it as Kimat's body now has a glow. It is not an ordinary glow that is given off by light bouncing off his fur, but he was the one shining. Adrian is familiar with this glow as all divine beasts have this innate glow as Saena has it as well. Saena's glow is more light gold while the glow on Kimat's body is silvery.

The dark clouds above are also getting scarce which meant that the end of the process is near. Adrian is about to smile when the large thunder cloud suddenly morphed itself into the last streak of lightning that is supposed to hit Kimat.

"Kimat!" Adrian shouted but the area was dyed with a very bright light that made him close his eyes.
