

O Summoner 2091

Chapter 2091: Restoring the Territory

Adrian already returned back to the surface along with the elders. The players could be seen celebrating as they managed to hunt more monsters to increase their contribution. All of the players were waiting for the system to calculate the points for each player as there was still a minute left before the count starts. A lot of the players were even celebrating even if they had such a difficult battle.

"According to the Territory Status Board, the damage was only 31% which meant that the territory was mostly protected. The damage was evenly spread and not focused on one area. The restoration will mostly be on the barrier as the entire territory is only partially damaged.' Adrian stated as 10% of the damage is actually the two barriers being entirely destroyed.

Just as Adrian was looking at every inch of this territory to assess if there was something hiding, he suddenly felt the need to look after Wisteria's chrysalis. Saena did not participate in the last parts of the battle because Adrian told him to protect the chrysalis. Adrian did not want to see Wisteria's evolution become in vain as she really wanted to become stronger. Just as Adrian was about to see Wisteria's chrysalis, his consciousness was pulled once more towards the divine realm of the Fates. He did not like that the Fates wanted to talk to him urgently without even an invitation, but he knows that upsetting them might make them put a curse on you. The Fates looked rather amused as they enjoyed the way all of the players including Adrian struggle against the Ziz.

"You have done well, Mediator Equinox." The first sister of the Fates stated.

"With this, you have avoided a gruesome fate for your territory." The second sister of the Fates stated.

"You also avoided a more problematic future that would have happened should the Ziz succeed in claiming your territory." The third sister of the Fates stated.

"I just did my best which seem to have impressed all of you. Still, the entity that gave or rather parasitized the Ziz seemed far older than I think. He talked about a Blind Idiot God that has already noticed our universe. Do you know which god it was pointing out to?" Adrian asked as he knows that the Fates know more than normal gods.

"You should know of this god as well, but we will not tell you, its name." The first sister of the Fates stated.

"Why not?" Adrian asked.

"Knowing that god's name might invoke it and you uttering it might make it notice you." The second sister of the Fates stated.

"The horrors it could inflict into this world is unimaginable which is why only talk about it in names given to it by others." The third sister of the Fates stated.

"If that is the case then I will not ask anymore about that god. I should also give my gratitude for your warning as it helped me prepare somewhat." Adrian stated.

"We accept your gratitude, Mediator Equinox." The first sister of the Fates stated.

"Still, it does not mean your territory is safe forever." The second sister of the Fates stated.

"You need to become stronger as there would be more dangerous opponents that you will face." The third sister of the Fates stated.

"One who is blessed by both life and death shall always be plagued with challenges. This is our last warning for now." The Fates stated simultaneously as Adrian's vision changed back to his territory.

"Seriously, they are incredibly creepy but helpful." Adrian stated as he is shocked to see Creepysoo pinching his cheeks.

"Do you need something from me, Creepysoo?" Adrian asked.

"Sorry about that big bro. You were kind of spaced out for a minute which is why I was checking if you fell asleep or something." Creepysoo stated.

"I talked to some goddesses just now and they are only giving me a doom clock. I wish they could have given some good news or something. So, what do you want?" Adrian asked.

"I am actually here to accompany, Hexy. It seems that she wants to talk to you about something." Creepysoo stated as Hexy came up from behind him.

"You seem to have returned to your usual attire. Your fairy transformation was quite the sight though. Still, seeing you in this form just feels right. It also seems like someone here wants you in this form as well." Adrian stated as he winked at Creepysoo.

"I am just like you now, guild master. Having that true form is quite refreshing as the miasma and curses I could wield was full of potential! Oh! The ecstasy of that form is such a thrill but maintaining it is quite strenuous." Hexy stated.

"I suppose, the matter that you want to talk to me about is related to that form?" Adrian asked and he was right on the money.

"Yes. I suddenly got a quest to go to a place called Alfheim to meet the Fairy Council." Hexy stated.

"I see. I would love to help you immediately, but the territory is as you see now." Adrian stated as he was needed here now.

"Oh! There is no rush, guild master. I can wait since I am also not in a hurry." Hexy stated as she did not want to impose too much on Adrian.

"Did you try asking Levin Cloud? He can also go to Alfheim." Adrian stated.

"Big Bro Levin Cloud had to leave immediately as something important was triggered after the battle. He went to the central part of the continent with Peridot and Kabrakan in haste." Creepysoo stated.

"I guess that leaves me then. I can help you after the territory is fixed." Adrian stated. "Great! We can do some tests with your new skills while we are here. We can read about fairies in the library here. Did you know that Elder Ascalor's lover is an Elder Dryad?" Creepysoo exclaimed.

"Really! I want to know! Maybe Aernas knows a lot." Hexy stated as she looked more relaxed than before.

"I guess I should take my time for those two." Adrian stated as he suddenly heard a familiar voice call out to him.

"Equinox!" Frey called out which absolutely shocked the Adrian's system.

"Ye..yes!" Adrian stated albeit almost biting his tongue because he did not expect that Frey would still remain as he knows that the Valkyries are extremely busy.

"Why do you seem so nervous? Did I perhaps trouble you in some type of way?" Frey asked as she did see that Adrian was busy talking with Creepysoo and another girl that seems to be a guild member.

"I was just caught off guard as I thought that you would leave after the battle." Adrian stated. "Do you want me to leave?" Frey asked playfully.

"No! I am sorry I meant to say... please take your time." Adrian stated hastily which Frey found a bit cute as he was flustered.

The people that saw this scene could only look at the two with judging eyes. Some were having butterflies at their stomach due to watching the two. The hopeless romantics were glaring at their guild master as they thought that he was one of them. There were others paying gold coins to others as there seem to have been bets placed on who the guild master would end up. There are also those that are couples that had their own world.

"I should thank you for aiding us. I did send the reinforcement request in the guild chat, but I did not expect that you would come hastily. Was the travel bad? Are all the business that you have in the northern continent done?" Adrian asked a series of questions which was odd for his guild members as they never seen their guild master be this chatty.

The guild members did not know that their guild master was already in the talking stage with Frey. They even gave their contacts in real life and the only thing separating the two from meeting was the literal ocean. Still, Adrian still has his reservations on meeting Frey as he has yet to fully recover and might get stares when they meet. If Adrian knew that Frey did not care for things like that then he might get a confidence boost, but he was still afraid to talk about it.

"Things in the northern continent seem to be quiet for now but the people there are in high alert. So, are you busy right now?" Frey asked.

"I was about to go around the territory to fix things as it seems the Territory Lord needs to assess the damage in person to fix. Do you want to come with me so that I can also tour you around? The last stop will be the guild house." Adrian stated.

"Sure! I can accompany you but do not mind me too much and focus on your work. I will be just by your side observing so that you will not be distracted." Frey stated.

"Do not worry as I will be a good host." Adrian stated as he went around the territory and explained all the parts to Frey like a tour guide.

The people living in the territory were still full of smiles as the damage was not that extensive. The personal homes of each of them were pocket dimensions which is why they were relatively safe. The ones that are damaged are buildings like inns or restaurants that the residents gather to. In fact, some business owners started fixing the damages without Adrian's intervention. A lot of races even joined in to help others of a different race.

The harmony and sense of community in Avalon is actually so big. Some even started to open stalls even if they were not totally fixed. The main menu that they have now are mainly fried wings or barbequed flying monster. The menu was definitely made from the surplus of flying monster meat that flowed into the territory.

Even if the residents themselves were fixing the stalls without Adrian's help, he gave them the necessary materials and even lowered the overall tax by 5% to ease the burden. In fact, the residents themselves were the ones complaining that the tax was already small. They were the ones that actually wanted to pay more tax because the abundance that the land gives is phenomenal.

The presence of the Tree of Life and Death makes Avalon a powerful production hub for specialized things like herbs, vegetables, and produce. No crop or livestock would ever go sick in this place, and they reproduce at an even faster rate. The benefits of the crops here are also apparent as there is a large demand for them.

The crops or livestock in Avalon never go below B grade and even the elusive S grade ingredient is possible. The addition of Farmhand Vince boosted the grades of crops even more to the point that all of them are all A grade. A lot of magic towers or even kingdoms are requesting herbs from Avalon due to this. Adrian is aware that the produce in Avalon is in high demand, but he does not know that a lot of places are raving about it.

The ones that fully know the prices and the trade are none other than Solstice and Piggy Bank. The two of them were working together to make a powerful market. In fact, it is said that they already control 10% of the market for the entirety of Pandemonium. They are even said to have joined the secret trade society that controls the flow of goods in the market.

This is not yet proven to be true as it is not general information but the facilities in Avalon are top notch and is said to be because of these two people. Frey enjoyed the company and just smiled as Adrian was greeting and being thanked by those that live in his territory. He could see that there is no great problem here than to the places that she has been. There were many guild run territories that were not optimal as they were mostly using heavy taxes and such but Avalon was different.

Chapter 2093: Restoring the Territory III

"I see. It is quite troubling that the northern continent started having more rifts. We have also found that out but even we could not pinpoint the source." Elder Ascalor stated as he was talking to one of the Valkyries as they were also here for another agenda.

"Yes. There have been numerous reports of rifts appearing and then disappearing after a few hours. Some even appear suddenly and then vanish suddenly as well. It is quite alarming as some rifts release monsters that are not native to the northern continent. This disrupts the already harsh ecosystem of the north." The Valkyrie stated.

"We will dispatch more demons in the north as we the brat already has an alliance with the Ice Queen Elona. He did say that an envoy from the north is coming but I did not think it would be the esteemed Valkyries." Elder Ascalor stated.

"You flatter us too much. We have also made the northern continent our home base as we are preparing for the invasion of the Aesir Gods. The northern continent will definitely be the place they will arrive first should they start that plan. Which is why we also want some trade agreements in place as the north is not necessarily the best at making food." The Valkyrie stated.

"I see. The northern continent might be harsh for food, but it is a treasure trove for ores which we lack. Given that the demigod blacksmith resides there, we can assume that the ores in the north are in surplus. We can create a trade agreement when it comes to ores and food which will benefit both parties. Transportation of goods are not a problem for us as we can do it in just a snap after all." Elder Ascalor stated as there was indeed a growing need of ores and precious stone for Avalon.

"That would be most appreciated. We hope that this collaboration will do well." The Valkyrie stated as the two started talking about other things like the state of the north and such.

"Here is the entrance to the guild house." Adrian stated as he pointed to the portal near the Tree of Life and Death.

"It really is a portal! Also, the Tree of Life and Death is so pretty but eerie at the same time. If I might say... its eeriness is giving the tree its own unique beauty." Frey stated as the twin prophets suddenly came rushing towards Adrian.

"Big Bro!" Both Vitae and Mortem shouted in excitement. The two of them might have grown up but they would always show their childish side towards Adrian.

"You two! I thought I told you to be careful as you might trip since the roots of the Tree of Life and Death are scattered about here." Adrian stated.

"Do not worry as Yewdrassil will not harm us." Vitae stated as she puffed her chest due to being confident. You can even see some of the branches of the tree nod in agreement to her statement.

"Is the pretty lady your friend? She feels familiar and comforting." Mortem stated but such phrase is rare even for him to say.

When Mortem says the phrase familiar or comforting, the meaning could be derived from two things. Either the person is going to die, or they are a being blessed by death just like Adrian. Frey is part of the latter since she is a Valkyrie, and they are beings that are warriors of the Goddess Freyja which is a Goddess of Life and a minor goddess of death.

"This is my friend, Frey. She is a Valkyrie which is a warrior of the Goddess Freyja. She might seem familiar because she exudes her energy and is also the vessel of the goddess as well." Adrian stated.

"I see. No wonder I could see the pretty goddess beside her." Vitae and Mortem stated simultaneously as their eyes glowed in divine light.

Seeing the change in tone and atmosphere of the twin prophets, Adrian and Frey looked behind their backs and saw a beautiful woman sitting by the Tree of Life and Death. The Goddess Freyja appeared before them in an apparition which is actually never a good thing. Adrian always equates the apparition of a goddess into a troublesome situation.

"Hello, my child and Mediator." The Goddess Freyja stated as she has indeed created an apparition thanks to the powers of the Twin Prophets.

The Goddess Freyja manifested as a normally clothed but extremely beautiful woman. She even has a boar and a cat beside her which are her divine beasts. Frey immediately knelt before her goddess while Adrian nodded to her. The Goddess Freyja smiled at this interaction and beckoned the four of them to sit with her. The boar and the cat intrigued the Twin Prophets which is why they played with each other while Adrian and Frey talked with the goddess.

"Greetings to the goddess. May I know why you suddenly appear before us?" Adrian asked as he clearly knew that this would become a headache.

"Hahaha. As said by the other gods, you do not like our presence because you think we bring troublesome news. It is quite amusing to see a mediator with your personality which is actually great in my opinion." The Goddess Freyja stated as she found Adrian's expressions and mannerisms when in front of a god or goddess cute.

"Great Queen Mother, why do you appear before me?" Frey stated in a respectful tone. "You do not need to do that much, my child. You should be more like the mediator and relax." The Goddess Freyja stated as she looked at Frey with eyes full of tenderness.

"To what we owe the pleasure of your appearance?" Adrian asked bluntly which made Frey slap him on the back which amused the goddess.

"I came to congratulate you on protecting your territory as it is a holy sanctuary for the gods of life and death. I am here as someone that brings gifts on behalf of them." The Goddess Freyja stated as she extended her hand and released a powerful pulse of divine energy.

Chapter 2094: Sanctuary for the Gods of Life and Death

[The Gods of Life and Death have decided to reward those that defended Avalon as they consider this territory as their sanctuary.]

[The Gods of Life have sent their blessing to the Avalon Territory.]

[All beings that reside in Avalon will receive a 50% increase in health regeneration for one month.]

[All beings that reside in Avalon will receive a 50% increase in mana regeneration for one month.]

[All beings that reside in Avalon will receive a 20% increase in experience points for one month.]

[All production in Avalon will increase by 10%.]

[Beings that helped defending Avalon will receive a 50% of these benefits for one month.] [The Gods of Death have sent their blessing to the Avalon Territory.]

[All beings that reside in Avalon will receive a 20% increase in experience points for one month.]

[All beings that reside in Avalon will receive a 10% chance of gaining more drops from killing monsters for one month.]

[All beings that reside in Avalon will receive a 1% chance to Instant Kill an enemy for one month. (This is not applicable for normal type monsters and not boss class monsters.)]

[All beings that helped in defending Avalon will receive have their death penalties lessened by half.]

[Beings that helped defending Avalon will receive a 50% of these benefits for one month.]

The sudden rush of notifications after the beautiful rush of colorful light shocked all of the residents. The players cheered out loud as they saw the beautiful notifications that could help them gain their lost levels. Even the ones that only wanted to gain some rare loot from participating in the defense were overjoyed as they got a lot of rewards. The sudden surge of buffs made headlines immediately in the forums.

A lot of players that were from Avalon became overjoyed as they bragged about the lavish rewards that they have received. These buffs were also stackable from the normal buff they received for being citizens of Avalon or when they offer prayers in the Church of the Twin Gods. Some players were jealous but congratulated those that received the buffs but there were still those that are salty.

The territory rivalry between players flared up once again as they started comparing Avalon to other territories. They even told them that Equinox was just a territory lord instead of a king since there have been players coronated as king already. Adrian did not care much about news like this as this is just two sides bickering like children, but he did like the players defending his territory. This made him fired up in fixing his territory even more to the point that his savings is sinking like a boat with a leak.

"Thank you for delivering the blessings of the gods of life and death." Adrian stated as he bowed since he still knows when to be grateful.

Bowing to the Goddess Freyja did not mean just bowing to her but bowing to the representatives chosen by the gods of life and death. He was giving respect to the gods that shared their divine power to empower a lot of individuals. The Goddess Freyja smiled beautifully as she beckoned to her divine beasts.

"That is all for my visit. Thank you for your time, Mediator. To you my child, be wary of Loki and his schemes but be extra careful when it comes to Odin. Always be alert as there are times when I cannot look over you." The Goddess Freyja stated.

"I shall definitely be careful, Great Queen Mother." Frey stated as she bowed.

"I hope that you cherish my child, mediator. You seem to have such fond feelings for her. I am counting on you to protect her when the time comes. Valkyries might be fierce warriors but even they can fall in battle when left alone as is any other being." The Goddess Freyja stated.

"Do not worry as I will have her back. I know that she has mine as well and she will not hesitate to jump to my aid like this time." Adrian stated which made Frey slightly blush.

"I am holding you to that promise, mediator. I must go now as I do not want to strain the twin prophets. May the northern light guide light your way." The Goddess Freyja stated as she vanished in a flash of light.

"Why does it feel like she was in a hurry to leave?" Adrian suddenly stated as he felt that the Goddess Freyja wanted to leave as fast as possible.

He knew that apparitions are not that straining to the Twin Prophets as they have grown strong. Even Adrian could feel that Vitae and Mortem were not that far from him when it comes to strength. He also noticed that the Goddess Freyja was glancing at the Tree of Life and Death behind her as if she was scared but that is just Adrian's guess.

"The goddess is busy looking after all those that pray to her after all. She does not only protect us Valkyrie but also women that pray to her for protection." Frey stated.

"Is that so? Maybe that is the reason. Let us enter the guild house then so I can set your room up." Adrian stated as he led Frey inside the guild house and vanished into the pocket dimension.

In Paraiso...

In the large island where the spiritual body of the Tree of Life and Death is planted, one could see numerous heads popping out from the ground. They were none other than the gods of life and they were under the vigilant gaze of none other than Yewdrassil. The Goddess Freyja could be seen getting dug up by the Tree of Life and Death as she was set free due to doing her duty.

"The gods of death wanted to help but could not because of their nature. Yet you... all of you just stood by as my territory was attacked. My anger has subsided a bit because you prepared the blessing well, but you will still be buried for at least a day." The Tree of Life and Death stated as it learned the art of burying due to none other than Adrian.

Chapter 2095: The Black Fairies I

Adrian spent an entire day touring and talking with Frey, and he actually enjoyed it. He was actually glad that his friends were not there to tease him. His sister is still in the territory, but it seems that she was busy with something which is why she did not bother him. Frey also liked the tour and decorated her own pocket dimension room in the guild house. She was given the best service as Adrian was the one that customized everything.

Frey opted for a cozy bedroom looking home that has a large glass window. When one gazes out the window, the beautiful scenery of glaciers and the northern lights could be seen. Adrian even added special effects like a silhouette of the Goddess Frey riding the northern lights that appeared randomly. He did not know how he did that but his will to impress became the fire to create such a wonderful room.

Even Adrian's room is not that detailed as he often changed it when he gets bored of the layout. Seeing Frey like her room and smiling happily made Adrian happy as well since his efforts were praised. Still, Frey had been quite the popular person as almost all of the guild members wanted to talk to her. Her image of being quite cold and distant was shattered as the guild members learned that she was actually quite easy to talk to.

The guild members even felt this sort of elder sister energy from her even though most of them were older than her. Adrian also participated in the exchanges of the guild members that were there as some asked for changes in their rooms as well. Adrian was able to accommodate them, and Frey did not get bored as she also visited the rooms of each guild member. She got to see the unique tastes of each guild member due to this which made them closer.

"Time surely flies when one is enjoying themselves." Frey stated as the Valkyries were now set to depart.

"I guess so. All we did is talk but a day already passed." Adrian stated as he suddenly felt a feeling of lost.

"Ok, loving brats. Do not worry as you can easily meet each other more as we are connecting the northern continent to Avalon now. Space is something that the Daemos do not have trouble with." Elder Ascalor stated as he teased Adrian.

"We should go as well, Frey. We will need to help the Daemos in search of the rifts that suddenly form in the north. Thank you once again for hosting us, Daemos Elders." The Valkyrie stated.

"No worries as you are also easing our burden by investigating. We are already stretched thin because of the expansion of the world. You are doing us a favor at this point. I will treat you to a feast and spirits when all of our problems are over." Elder Ascalor stated.

"Haha! I will hold you on that promise. Thank you once again." The Valkyrie stated as she entered the portal.

"See you!" Frey stated as she waved cutely to Adrian before returning to her usual cold looking demeanor.

"See you!" Adrian waved in tiny as well.

"So, you like that little lass, brat. I thought that you have yet to grow your horns but to think that you are already to leave the dimension. It could even make this old man cry." Elder Ascalor stated as he teased Adrian.

"Keep on teasing me and I will tell Elder Danaya on how you charmed that Valkyrie. I have everything recorded in a crystal so better be careful, old man." Adrian stated in a voice that is monotone while his face looked serious.

"I was just tasing you as this old man could see your youthful spirit in action. Did I always tell you that you are my favorite, little demon." Elder Ascalor stated as he massaged Adrian's shoulders but it, he was really hiding his killing intent.

"I will meet Elder Danaya after I fix the territory completely as I promised one of my guild members to help her." Adrian stated.

"You mean the Black Fairy." Elder Ascalor stated as his time became a bit serious.

"You know about them?" Adrian asked.

"Of course, I know of them, and I also witnessed how they were hunted down by those despicable distorted gods." Elder Ascalor stated as he suddenly looked like he relived an awful memory.

"Why were they hunted down?" Adrian asked.

"It is a very sensitive subject, but I think you already have an idea when you gazed at her. She might just be newly born but her energy is very pure and overwhelming. Still, seeing a species that was supposedly erased gives me hope that we can multiply once more. You also feel it. We are getting more and more strained as this world expands." Elder Ascalor stated.

"I know. I am also looking for the Eye of Chaos." Adrian stated as he was always making sure to scour every area that he went to in order to search for clues, but he only found a few.

"We are also helping you in the search, but the gods have become more powerful in the world. A lot of areas have become obscure for us. I am telling you this since you are often away alone but make sure to always be careful." Elder Ascalor stated.

"I always am. I can feel their gazes even if they are hidden." Adrian stated.

"You feel them to. I guess you are the most sensitive amongst us. The only place we can truly be safe is your territory which is why all of us elders will protect it when you are not here. There should at least be a place safe for us." Elder Ascalor stated with a pained smile as he truly did care for all Daemos.

"Do not burden yourselves too much. Remember that we are a unified race. We share our struggles together." Adrian stated with a smile which made Elder Ascalor tussle his hair.

Chapter 2096: The Black Fairies II

"Are you finally done, big bro?" Creepysoo asked as he was with Hexy.

"Are you coming as well?" Adrian asked with a face full of uncertainty.

"Why not?! It is a new realm! I want to know what this magical place is that is filled with dryads, leshy, and elementals!" Creepysoo stated.

"And natural life energy. Do you know what happens when an undead is filled with that?" Adrian stated as he has seen what happened to Creepysoo once when Levin Cloud pumped him with life energy one time and not death energy healing magic.

"Why? What happens? Is it interesting?!" Hexy asked filled with curiosity.

Adrian then remembered that these two are not in the proper wavelength when it comes to normal inside the game. They are two people that love creepy looking things and experimenting with creepy looking things. In fact, Creepysoo was once banned from the Undead Citadel for week because of his experimentation with undead. He did not harm them but let just say that some limbs were placed in not so optimal locations.

"When undead are pumped with natural life energy, they are in a state of ecstasy. To the point that everything in the area becomes sweet smelling." Adrian stated.

"So, they get into a state of intoxication!? I suddenly got curious of what would happen. Will I also become like that since I am also a being filled with miasma?" Hexy asked.

"Nope. You are of the Faekin race now. The Fae is known to be good at handling energies and your body itself takes natural life energy and transforms it into miasma. Him on the other hand... I do not think he would even be able to take five steps when we get there. Also, I do not want my ears to burst and start bleeding." Adrian stated as he remembered the time when Creepysoo was intoxicated.

Adrian and Levin Cloud was actually filled with cringe at that point as they saw a side of Creepysoo that they have never seen before. He is very spirited and that is already difficult for Adrian or Levin Cloud, but it was magnified to a hundred when he was intoxicated. He would become extra clingy and even do cringy cutesy poses to express his affection. That state would last a while then he would transform to the most depressed being in the world that one needed to take care of.

"Please, big bro! I have become better! I even increased by own Persona so I can handle life energy better!" Creepysoo begged to the point that he even used fake crying.

"Get a charm from the Dark Elven Elders first to aid you. Alfheim is not only a place filled with natural life energy but also natural death energy. The people living there have yet to see an undead and might become curious. If there is one thing that you need to know is that you must never see a curious Fae." Adrian stated as Creepysoo gave a salute before dashing towards the church.

"I see. I thought that I was the only Fae that can used death energy. Still, the vice guild master is also a being like you that handles life and death energy." Hexy stated.

"Your death energy is different from mine and Levin Cloud. Levin Cloud's death energy is natural death energy that is taken or comes out when life ends. Yours is more like miasma death energy which is harmful for others when wielded wrongfully." Adrian stated.

"Oh! There are distinctions! As expected of the guild master!" Hexy stated as her eyes sparkled because she liked hearing stuff about death energy, curses, or miasma.

"Then, what about your death energy, guild master?" Hexy asked.

"Mine?" Adrian exclaimed but it was a different person that answered.

"Big Bro's death energy is something that is produced when world, universes, or divine beings die." Creepysoo stated.

"Did the other undead elders tell you about it or was it the gods of death?" Adrian asked as he was shocked that Creepysoo gave the textbook answer that death gods do.

"The gods of death did. They are very chatty and often talk about how you are a strange but cool existence." Creepysoo stated as he returned with a flower necklace.

"Awesome! Is it true, guild master?" Hexy asked as she suddenly saw Adrian like an extremely rare specimen.

"That is just speculation in their part but that is what the gods also said about nether energy. It is also the reason why they are fearful of it because it can be used to erase them from existence." Adrian stated.

"Awesome! Do you have like an item soaked in nether energy, guild master? I need it for research purposes." Hexy stated confidently but Adrian pretended like he did not hear anything.

Adrian did not ask them if they were ready and immediately snapped his hand to teleport them away. In the blink of an eye, Adrian, Hexy, and Creepysoo were falling from the skies of Alfheim. Adrian did it too abruptly that he was not able to properly set the coordinates in terms of elevation. The default elevation of his teleportation spells were always five hundred meters above the ground.

"Is that a world tree? It looks bigger than the previous one at the main world and even bigger than the Tree of Life and Death. Awesome!" Creepysoo shouted as he pointed at the world tree.

"Ah! Such abundant death energy in the area but also full of life! I wonder if they have things such as exotic curses in that blackened region!" Hexy shouted as she pointed to one of the forbidden zones in the world of Alfheim.

"Right. I forgot that they were unique but at least they are sincere and genuine." Adrian thought as he could see the fascination and could only smile as they were genuine. "Alright! I am going to teleport us to the ground so brace for impact." Adrian stated but he was not heard by the two because they were busy admiring the view.

In the end, Adrian immediately casted teleportation to quicken their descent to the ground. With a thud, Creepysoo landed on the ground, but Adrian managed to decrease his fall speed by manipulating gravity. Hexy, on the other hand, released her black wings albeit smaller compared to her true form to float. As soon as Adrian arrived, he suddenly felt that a lot of people were staring at their general direction. He thought that the gaze was for him or Creepysoo, but he noticed that all of them were looking at Hexy.

"Alert the king and queen! Immediately!" One of the fae shouted to the guards as soon as they saw Hexy.

"Why would they alert the king and queen, big bro?" Creepysoo asked.

"I do not know but they did not say that out of fear or anger. It almost feels like they are shocked and happy." Adrian stated as the faces of the fairies looked like they have seen their savior or something.

Adrian was about to ask one of the fairies in the area when a powerful burst of glitter exploded in their area. The burst of glitter was none other than the Fairy King and the Fairy Queen appearing right before them. Creepysoo got the brunt of it and had to sneeze and cough out the glitter, but he was fine.

"Could it really be!" The Fairy King stated in shock.

"I did not think that such a thing was possible!" The Fairy Queen stated in shock as well.

"Our daughter! You have returned!" The Fairy Queen and Fairy King stated simultaneously as they hugged Hexy while crying tears that turn to diamonds.

"What is happening, big bro?" Creepysoo asked.

"An origin story is happening. We might be here for a while." Adrian stated as he could see that Hexy was also crying with the Fairy King and Fairy Queen.

It was not Hexy really crying but her character itself was crying as this was part of a story quest that is triggered. Adrian might have an idea of what it is and how it happened, but he would rather see it play out. When the Fairy King and Fairy Queen have dried their tears out, they looked at Hexy as if she was a precious child that they lost since a long time ago. The two of them would then look at Adrian with eyes full of gratitude.

"The fairies are once more in your debt, mediator. To think that you brought my daughter back to us. We should talk more in the palace and not here. It is a good time to celebrate! Our missing princess has finally returned!" The Fairy King shouted out loud as all the fairies rejoiced as well as all beings in the town.

"When did Hexy become a princess?" Creepysoo asked as he was confused.

"You are seriously questioning that when you are a prince yourself?" Adrian stated as he pointed out that Creepysoo is also royalty.

Chapter 2097: The Black Fairies III

Adrian and Creepysoo were led to a pocket dimension within the world tree where the fairy royalties are currently living. They were greeted by not only numerous fairies with butler and maid outfits but also fairy nobles. All of them bowed towards Hexy as if she was higher in rank compared to the Fairy Queen or Fairy King. As if Hexy or rather the character that she was before saved the entire fairy kingdom or something.

"Greet the mediator as well as the Prince of the Undead everyone." The Fairy King stated.

"We greet the Mediator and the Prince of the Undead." All the other fairies stated as they bowed towards Adrian and Creepysoo's direction.

"Can I now have an explanation? I am still a bit in the dark here and I am having emotions that I cannot control." Hexy stated as she now has full control of her body.

"It is no wonder that you lost your memory. You have just been reincarnated after all." The Fairy Queen stated.

"Did you mean that you're a Black Fairy Princess that died?" Creepysoo stated which made the entire audience hall a bit solemn.

"Sorry about that. I have very poor social cues sometimes." Creepysoo added.

"Do not worry, Prince of the Undead. What you have said is true, but it is now a joyous occasion because our daughter has returned." The Fairy Queen stated in a motherly voice.

"Can we get the full story at least? It will also be able to help Hexy as she has no idea of what is happening. We all know that reincarnation does not mean that all memories will be kept intact." Adrian stated as he is an expert when it comes to reincarnation.

"The mediator is correct. It would also give some light to the confusion that our daughter is now experiencing." The Fairy King stated as he recounted the events that happened on that fateful day.

The Distorted Gods attacked the world tree back then and the protectors were none other than the Faekin. The fairies and dryads even used their life in order to protect it and many of them have fallen because of it. The ones that were targeted first was none other than the Black Fairies because they had the innate ability to absorb and use miasma. They were the ones that purified any tainted energy that befell on the world tree.

As long as the Black Fairies did not fall, the World Tree would be kept safe and the ones leading the Black Fairies was none other than the youngest daughter of the current Fairy King and Fairy Queen. They did not say the name that they have given as it would only confuse the soul of Hexy which Adrian also agreed. The Black Fairies were an essential part of why the World Tree could purify any miasma that the distorted gods have released.

The fight was arduous and difficult, but they were able to hang on because of the talented Black Fairy Princess. All would have been well until another Black Fairy that was the sister of the current Fairy Queen sided with the distorted gods. The Black Fairy known as Mavros killed all of the other black fairies while the distorted god attacked the world tree. The only one that was able to escape the slaughter of the Black Fairy Mavros was the Black Fairy Princess.

Still, the alliance of the Black Fairy Mavros and the distorted god created an almost unbeatable enemy for the Faekin. The Black Fairy Mavros were not the only ones that sided with the distorted god as those under her also joined. The dryads and leshy that were part of her royal guards became tainted to become horrible creatures that no longer have any resemblance of humanity.

To make matters worse, the Black Fairy Mavros and the distorted god even woke up the Primordial Beast Nidhoggr. The world tree was undergoing an attack from both above and below which made defending difficult. The Faekin were essentially immortal beings, but they can still die when killed. The difference is that they can live on as different beings as long as a part of themselves were planted on the ground which is called their 'Grafts'.

The Black Fairy Princess would have attempted to revive the other black fairies, but the Black Fairy Mavros devoured all of their 'Grafts'. Devouring the Grafts of another faekin is basically cannibalizing their own species but the Black Fairy Mavros gained a new power from the distorted god. She was able to devour the Grafts of other faekin to absorb their own power to grow her own.

The Black Fairy Mavros managed to absorb all of the Grafts of the black fairies except for the Black Fairy Princess which made her incredibly powerful. She was so powerful that she could singlehandedly rival both the Fairy Queen and Fairy King despite the latter being equipped with almost transcendent equipment made from the World Tree. When almost all hope is lost, the Black Fairy Princess unleashed her full potential and managed to repel the initial combined attack.

Unfortunately, the Black Fairy Mavros committed even more taboo by devouring the 'Grafts' of her own parents that was sealed in a special vault. The Black Fairy Mavros grew more in power and launched another attack with the distorted god that she allied with. The Fairy Queen and Fairy King combined were unable to match the strength of the Black Fairy Mavros to the point that they were almost killed until the Black Fairy Princess intervened.

The Black Fairy Princess should have been able to even the playing field by attacking the Black Fairy Mavros along with her family, but she needed to subdue the distorted god. The distorted god fused with the Primordial Beast Nidhoggr that was under the Black Fairy Mavros' control. The fight against them was so fierce but the Black Fairy Princess was able to defeat the distorted god. She was victorious but she was heavily injured as a result.

The Black Fairy Mavros saw that her niece was more powerful than both the Fairy King and Fairy Queen which is why she demanded her niece to offer her life in exchange for her parents. The black fairy princess agreed but her parents did not and tried to struggle. Seeing the pathetic struggle of her sister and brother-in-law, the Black Fairy Mavros cursed them with Withering. The sight of the fairy king and fairy queen slowly drying up triggered something inside of the black fairy princess.

The sight of her dying parents unlocked the fierce potential of the black fairy princess. This was the first instance that the Cursed World was awakened. A powerful domain skill said to have been owned by an Asmodian Black Fairy. A powerful wave of miasma that the army of the Black Fairy Mavros carried suddenly vanished as the black fairy princess absorbed all of it. The black fairy princess even undid the Curse of Withering that afflicted her parents. The Black Fairy Mavros suddenly saw the real power of this powerful domain skill and wanted it for herself. Using all of the Grafts that she devoured, the Black Fairy Mavros went into battle with the black fairy princess. The battle between the aunt and the niece was so fierce that all of the remaining faekin had to create a barrier to protect them and the world tree.

The battle lasted for five days and both combatants were battered to the point that they could barely remain standing. In fact, it was actually quite a surprise that both of them were still alive. The Black Fairy Mavros looked like a walking stick while the Black Fairy Princess no longer has her left wing, right hand, and left foot. The Black Fairy Mavros was the first to look like she was dying but she actually had a trump card.

The Black Fairy Mavros actually stole the Graft of the Enlightened Dryad. The Enlightened Dryad are none other than demigod level dryads that is equal to the strength to that of a Noblesse. The black fairy princess knew that she would definitely die and all of her loved ones if the Black Fairy Mavros absorbed that Grafts. As a last resort, the black fairy princess activated the Forbidden Skill attached to the domain Cursed World.

"Cursed World: Forbidden Sacrifice!" The black fairy princess shouted as she sacrificed her life and even the possibility of being erased from existence to kill the Black Fairy Mavros. The Black Fairy Mavros was cursed to death before she could even absorb the Grafts. The body of the Black Fairy Mavros started to turn to dust as well as the black fairy princess. They were both receiving the effects of the Cursed World: Forbidden Sacrifice as they were both the targets.

"No! I would have been queen! Remember this! I shall return one way or another!" The Black Fairy Mavros shouted as her entire body turned to dust.

Chapter 2098: The Black Fairies IV

"I curse you! To be barren forever! No Black Fairy shall ever be born until I return!" The Black Fairy Mavros cursed her sister before her entire body turned to dust.

The Black Fairy Mavros' Grafts dropped but it was actually swallowed by the ground as there was still one more dryad under her that lived. The dryad hurriedly took the Grafts of the Black Fairy Mavros and ran away as fast as she could. The other Faekin wanted to chase but they were too tired to do so.

"My daughter!" The Fairy Queen wailed as the Black Fairy Princess started to turn to dust as well.

"It is fine, mother. I have already accepted my death as I wanted to protect all of you." The Black Fairy Princess stated.

"Do not worry my child. We will make sure to plant your Grafts so that you can live again." The Fairy King stated but the Black Fairy Princess could feel that her Grafts was already starting to also turn to dust.

"I shall be with you once again, father and mother. It might take a long time but please be patient as I shall return." The Black Fairy Princess stated as more of her body started turning to dust.

"What do you mean, my daughter? Tell me what is wrong?" The Fairy Queen stated as she cried as she felt like she knew what her daughter meant.

"Promise me that you will wait for me. I will definitely return even though I will not be the same... I will still return." The Black Fairy Princess stated as she finally turned to dust.

The Fairy King and Fairy Queen tried to reach out and pick up the Grafts of their daughter but it suddenly vanished. The Grafts did not turn to dust as the Black Fairy Princess used the last of her power to send it to a special place where even the gods cannot tamper. The Grafts of the Black Fairy Princess landed on the town of Genesis where it was sealed in a cursed earthen tomb.

The Fairy King and Fairy Queen cried out loud as the thing that could revive their daughter vanished. Even if the one emerging from the Grafts will not be their exact daughter, he or she would at least resemble her when it fully blooms. Even if the black fairy princess promised to return, the Fairy King and Fairy Queen still mourned for her loss as well as the other Faekin that died that day.

"I see. So, Hexy is now the reincarnation of your daughter because she got the Grafts." Adrian muttered as Hexy did say that the item that gave her the quests was from the starting town.

"So, you are now known as Hexy. Even if you do not have memories of us, remember that we are your parents. I might not have birthed you this time, but you are my daughter." The Fairy Queen stated.

"You are my daughter and there is no denying it. Come! I shall tour you so that your memory will return." The Fairy King stated as he touched Hexy's hand like a father reaching out for his daughter.

"Should we help her?" Creepysoo whispered to Adrian.

"Hexy is not even making any fuss so why should we interject? She might look timid sometimes, but she is not someone that needs to be looked out for. Still, if it looks like she is signaling us for help then we will interject." Adrian whispered back.

"How about my friends?" Hexy asked as she looked at Adrian and Creepysoo.

"I almost forgot about the Mediator and the Undead Prince because of my joy. We will hold a banquet for sending you home to us. Butlers and maids! Prepare for a feast as the princess has returned!" The Fairy King announced.

"Please come with us for a tour of the palace while the food is being prepared." The Fairy Queen stated with a smile.

Adrian and Creepysoo could only accept as Hexy seems to want to see what the palace of the fairies looks like. The Fairy Palace as they call it is actually like another dimension inside of the world tree. It is a pocket dimension inside of it but there are actually windows where one could see the outside. The Fairy Queen explained that the windows are actually a doorway outside as well, but it is never a doorway in.

Only fairies were allowed to be inside of this place as there is also a separate place where the Dryads and Leshy gather. Unlike the fairies, the Dryads and Leshy do not have hierarchy and would rather be rooted in ground than live in a world tree. The Fairies are not like them as they need a place to stay and do their activities.

Adrian observed and saw that Hexy was not uncomfortable as she actually enjoyed the tour. She would even stop and look at cursed objects that are inside of the palace. The Fairy King and Fairy Queen did not question her hobbies at all. It seems that the past Black Fairy Princess is also like her and is curious about anything cursed. Adrian could actually see why the Grafts of that Black Fairy Princess fused with Hexy's soul.

"I did not think that there are a lot of cursed objects here in Alfheim." Adrian stated. "Yes. We have the largest amounts of cursed objects in terms of quantity. The World Tree can also purify it and turn it into energy as well, but it is slower. It used to be faster when there were a lot of Black Fairies, but they are none. Well, there is one now and that is my daughter." The Fairy Queen stated as she affectionately hugged Hexy which the latter did not mind at all. "Why? Does that mean that the curse of the Black Fairy Mavros really did come true? No Black Fairy will ever be born until she comes back?" Adrian asked.

Chapter 2099: Return of the Black Fairies

"We thought that those dying words were empty, but it seems that she was able to put a curse on us. Not only did she curse me to become barren, but no black fairy has also been born ever since." The Fairy Queen stated as she touched her belly.

"The curse is true. I can see it as a swirling cloud of miasma." Hexy stated which shocked the Fairy King and Fairy Queen as even the dryad or leshy that handles death energy could not see it.

"I can sense it slightly, but I cannot see it like Hexy does. If she says that you are under a curse, then you might really be in one. Can you see it, Creepysoo?" Adrian asked as he can only partially sense the malevolent energy. In fact, he already sensed it once when he met the Fairy Queen.

"It seems to be different compared to death miasma, but I can sense the faint malevolent energy from the Fairy Queen. The source or how it moves is all blank even for me. I guess I am not as sensitive as both of you are." Creepysoo stated.

"No... It is actually impressive enough that you are able to sense it. It is subtle because it is slowly fusing with the Fairy Queen's life energy. It is not deadly, but it is inhibiting her ability to reproduce because of it." Hexy stated as she can clearly see the miasma move.

"You can call me mother." The Fairy Queen stated but Hexy was still a bit shy to call someone like that.

"My daughter is really a genius! Tell me, can you help your mother?" The Fairy King asked. "At my current level, I do not have that kind of power. If we have a sample of the miasma that was used to curse her then I might be able to reverse the curse." Hexy stated.

"Why can't you just extract some of the miasma in her belly?" Creepysoo asked as he knew that Hexy should be able to do that.

"I can but I should not. Doing that might hurt the Fairy Queen. The curse has already attached to her very life force. Ripping it out would kill her." Hexy stated which shocked the Fairy King as he did not think that taking it out would have killed the Fairy Queen.

"I am so sorry, beloved. You could have died when I asked the other elders to extract whatever was cursing you." The Fairy King stated as they have tried some things before.

"No worries, my love. You did not know this will happen and the elders were unable to do anything anyways. There was no treatment that happened which is why I am safe as long as it is not extracted forcefully." The Fairy Queen stated but the Fairy King looked at Hexy for confirmation.

"You do not need to worry. Just like she said, the curse is intact and there was no tampering that happened." Hexy stated.

"That is good then. We can wait for a long time now that our daughter is here. When she regains her lost powers then she might be able to help you." The Fairy King stated.

"Do not pressure our daughter like that! She just woken up and you are already burdening her. I am just glad that she has returned." The Fairy Queen stated as she pinched the wings of the Fairy King for suddenly giving Hexy a burden.

"I do not think that all of you will wait a long time though." Adrian suddenly stated as all of the gazes shifted towards him.

"What do you mean?" The Fairy King asked.

"Since Hexy has awakened as a Black Fairy, it also means that the Black Fairy Mavros has awakened as well." Adrian stated which suddenly made all of the people there feel the gravity of the situation.

In a dark forest located in the central continent, an elder dryad that has thorns as parts of her body is watching vigilantly as a black flower bud bloomed slowly. The black flower bud was not like the one that Hexy found as this one was filled with miasma so potent that it killed everything in the area. The tree that it was grafted onto has withered along with the air becoming stale. Even the lake beneath the tree looked incredibly polluted that it will not host any life.

"It has been ages. I am finally awake." The Black Fairy Mavros or rather a small pixie with her image appeared when the black flower bud opened.

"You have finally returned, my queen." The Elder Dryad stated.

"You have served me well, Dorn. You have protected me and fed my Grafts until I recreated my body. Still, this body is so pitiful that a bird might kill me." The Black Fairy Mavros stated.

"Do not worry, my queen. I shall help you return back to your former glory! I will lay my life for you!" The Elder Dryad Dorn stated.

"Are you the only one that managed to survive that day?" The Black Fairy Mavros asked as she looked around and only the Elder Dryad Dorn was there.

"Unfortunately, the others were unable to escape as they were hunted down by the reinforcements of the other descendants. I do have their Grafts should you need a feast, my queen." The Elder Dryad Dorn stated.

"It matters not. We are currently weak, and this place does not even have enough miasma for me to absorb. We need to start by reviving the others and I have just the way. Is there a village near this area?" The Black Fairy Mavros stated.

"There is none, my queen. Although, there is a hideout of a shady organization in this place. The numbers that they have are equivalent to the Grafts that we have. They are not that strong right now as that place is just another one of their secret warehouses." The Elder Dryad Dorn stated.

"Take me there, Dorn. It is time for the others to awaken as well." The Black Fairy Mavros stated as a sinister air swept across that dark jungle.

Chapter 2100: Return of the Black Fairies II

"Is that possibility true?" The Fairy King asked but it was not directed at them but to the World Tree itself.

"The mediator does not lie. I felt something vanish in the area and the Grafts that held the other black fairies have started to get nutrients from me. It is both blessing and a curse that the black fairies are now returning." A temporary ghostlike body was created instantly by the World Tree.

"If that is the case then my sister has also revived." The Fairy Queen stated in a tone filled with anger and resentment.

"But she would not have the memories of her past life... right?" Creepysoo asked but the Fairy King and the Fairy Queen was not agreeing with his statement.

"If she became that powerful and her minion used everything to save her Grafts then it is a possibility that she revived with her memory intact. It might not have been a perfect memory, but she would have persevered the memories she needed for her to rise again." Adrian stated as he knows that beings that could revive via something else would not necessarily have their memories erased.

"Does this mean that our daughter has her memories from back then?" The Fairy Queen asked as this might have been more important to her.

"I am pretty sure that she can answer that herself." Adrian stated as he smiled at Hexy and all of them looked at her to hear her answer.

"I see brief flashes of memories, but I do not have all of them." Hexy stated but that one statement made the Fairy Queen and Fairy King exclaim in joy.

Hexy knows that some people in the game like roleplaying as other beings. In fact, some players have virtual kids inside the game but that is a special thing that can only be petitioned. The players often choose to become children of NPCs in the game as this gives them benefits or they just like it. In fact, there are a lot of players that are even adopted by NPCs because they got attached to them.

Creepysoo is a good example of a player that was not really born as an undead but became one. He was even adopted by the Undead King as a result. Adrian can also be described as this as he is like the favorite bratty grandchild of the Daemos Elders. Most of the successful players in the game are actually interacting with it like it is a different world.

"Enough of this talk for now. I will send out scouts in the main world to check if Mavros has really revived. We will make sure that she would be killed before she regains power. For now, we will need to go and enjoy the banquet." The Fairy King stated as the banquet has been prepared.

Adrian, Hexy, and Creepysoo all enjoyed the banquet prepared as all of the fairies even did some talents. Even the dryads and leshy came to party as the Fairy King and Fairy Queen invited all of them. Even the world tree is actually more relieved as the black fairies are now returning. The world tree also remembers her grudges and will fight to the death and would even kill the primordial beast gnawing at its roots to make sure that it will not be used against the Faekin.

"I think that I will stay here for now and master my new powers. Thank you for helping me, guild master." Hexy stated.

"That is fine as you need to master that power because the fight with the Black Fairy Mavros might become real. It might not be now as she might have just awakened but we will need you to face off with her." Adrian stated.

"As expected of big bro, you really want to help her defeat the Black Fairy Mavros." Creepysoo stated but Adrian really did not want to fight against that opponent since she is not a good match for him.

"A being that could manipulate curses like that would definitely bypass my immunity to status ailments. I remember the mock fight with Hexy and 60% of her curses affected him." Adrian thought and just smiled.

"What about you? Do you not have any chores on your end?" Hexy asked Creepysoo.

"The Dryads and Leshy that are fascinated with my death magic are asking me to try out some death magic they use. It is very fascinating! I might even make a zombie plant monster that I always wanted to do!" Creepysoo stated as he seems to want to stay as well.

Adrian could only smile as he knew that Creepysoo will not stay just for that. He knew that this rascal is now blooming into love and want to stay and chat with Hexy. Adrian just nodded and pretended that he understands him. If Creepysoo is able to summon zombie plant monsters, then he might have a way to fight in enemies that live in places full of life energy.

"I am leaving now as I now have a new quest from the Fairy King and Fairy Queen as well. It might involve in something that I need to do." Adrian stated as he looked at the quest given to him.

Adrian was requested by the Fairy King and Fairy Queen to meet at another room. In that room, the Fairy King and Fairy Queen asked him a favor that turned into a quest. It seems that the sudden change and rise to power of the Black Fairy Mavros. It seems that they also noticed changes in her behavior before her betrayal.

"She found a strange stone back then that is filled with an immense power no one has ever felt. When she touched that stone, she suddenly started acting out her desires and wants. It was a stone that made her release all her resentment and pent-up feelings." The Fairy Queen stated.

"It was a power that is similar to what you have now. Yours is much purer compared to her but she managed to extract it and turn it to miasma. The power of that stone is unmatched as it releases such pure energy. We need you to find it as well since it was lost when we fought with her." The Fairy King stated.

The Fairy King and Fairy Queen told Adrian that the stone might interest him as it is something that has the same energy as him. They managed to send it to another place in the main world back then, but they are not sure where. They tasked Adrian to look for it as they do not want to risk the Black Fairy Mavros looking for it.

"Do you have any leads or clues to find it?" Adrian asked.

"We do as we managed to chip a part of it when we fought against her. We may have lost but we also weakened her in the process." The Fairy King stated as they presented Adrian with a small box the size used for wedding rings.

Inside this box was none other than a small shard of pure violet stone. Adrian might only sense traces of it, but he was sure that this was indeed Chaos Energy. It seems that the unknown stone of power that the Black Fairy Mavros obtained was none other than a Chaos Shard Fragment. This made Adrian accept the quest even if he deemed it troublesome.

"If you come across the Black Fairy Mavros, you need to be careful as she is a crafty individual." The Fairy Queen stated.

"If you can kill her then that would be great as well." The Fairy King added as he filled the room with bloodlust.

"If I can then I will go for the kill since it is also a matchup that I am not confident once she restores her power." Adrian replied.

"Please be careful as her minions might still be alive, or she might have revived them as well. The Black Fairies were experts in reviving our fallen ones using Grafts after all. She might have an army should you meet so please exercise caution always." The Fairy Queen added.
