

O Summoner 2151

Chapter 2151: Cursed Opera

The eerie sound of the screams that the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros is scattering made everyone's body shiver. The song was a cursed song that can destroy the confidence of any being that hears it. It not only demoralizes you, but it also feeds those affected with a vision of their greatest fears. The players that were unable to block out the effects of the song were screaming as they were being shown their worst nightmares.

The effects of the Cursed Opera: Lament was so incredible that it could even affect those that are unaffected by nightmares like the undead. The undead players that thought that they could never be subjected to status ailments due to their body are experiencing what it is like to be trapped in a nightmare. The cursed song was too powerful that even Adrian had to hide inside the pocket dimension as he saw his soulbounds affected by the spell that the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros used.

"Yes! That is it! That is what all of you should be feeling!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros thought to herself as she released more horrendous singing.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros thought that she would be the one that will destroy everyone in the area as she even made the demon escape to another dimension. She could see all the proud fairies that wanted her dead writhing on the ground as they could not take on her attack. She needed to complete her execution of the fairy royalty in order for her to truly take the throne after she devours the energy of the young world tree.

Just as the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros thought that she will now win, a powerful beautiful melody could be heard from the people being protected by Hexy. Since the attack of the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros could not be stopped, Hexy could only deploy a large shield that can protect the people or rather decrease the effects of the Cursed Opera: Lament by half. The players still had to close their ears, but they did not need to stuff it with something like the others trying to escape from the effects of skill.

One of the support players could hear the voice of her goddess speak to her ears as if she was there near her. She was not an incredibly great player, but she managed to become part of the Pantheon guild as she was picked for her rare class. Her rare class was Muse which is a rare magic class that used instruments as weapons.

She was picked by Levin Cloud because she was a rare buffer mage type player that can even attack via sound. It is said that she is even favored by the Goddess of Music Euterpe, but she did not even know that. Levin Cloud and Adrian knew because they could see the silhouette of a goddess from behind her as if she was being guided. They did not know the goddess until Adrian confirmed it himself by praying to the temple in Avalon.

"Protect them from the unbearable sound, my child. Be the muse that I have foreseen you to be." The Goddess of Music Euterpe whispered to Musika, the player that she looks favorably.

Musika did not know but the reason that she was also taken in by the Pantheon guild is due to the essay that she submitted when they were asked to narrate why they are playing the game. Some of the recruits thought that this was not needed but this is actually Adrian's test. Adrian chose her to be in the last line up because she wrote that she wanted to play music again because she could not easily do so in the real world.

This answer resonated with Adrian as he also played the game back then because he wanted something out of it than just having fun. She always thought that she was chosen because of her job class and was pitied but she eventually enjoyed the atmosphere in the Pantheon guild. She has joined previous guilds before but was kicked out because she was shy, and her job class is not like others.

The Muse class was not a normal magic class that can use burst damage. She also cannot do powerful buffs like priest class but what they can do is be consistent. The powers of the Muse job class excel in prolonged combat just like now as her passive skill finally kicked in. The passive skill of the Muse job class called Prolonged Performance kicks in when at least two hours have already passed.

[Prolonged Performance have been activated.]

[Transforming the Muse Job Class into the Diva as per the Muse' decision.]

The simple robed clothing of Musika suddenly turned into a beautiful dress made of silk, gems, and precious metals. Her look also changed from that of a refined and polished lady to that of an exceedingly beautiful and charismatic lady. The Cello that she used as a weapon also became smaller as it turned into a violin that has a beautiful chamber that exuded prime elegance.

[You have transformed into the Diva for 20 minutes.]

[All buffs will be prolonged by twice the duration and have double the effects.] Musika's eyes looked determined as she took the bow of the violin and played. A beautiful sound could be heard all around as if the music she was playing was amplified by the air itself. The horrendous song that the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros is using suddenly started to deafen. The beautiful, serene notes of the song that Musika played lessened the effects of the Cursed Opera: Lament.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros noticed this and raised her eyebrows as she spotted Musika in the crowd behind Hexy. She was clearly a standout because of her beautiful and lavish dress but most of all due to her calm demeanor and the powerful magical aura that she was releasing. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros could feel that another being like her was in the area. A being that could govern over sound and frequency, but the only difference is that Musika was not a fairy.

Seeing that her cursed noise was getting pushed back, the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros decided to punish the one that dared to go against her. The mouths that floated around the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros suddenly gathered more in the area where Musika was. This change made Hexy feel even more pressure as she was the one protecting Musika against the effects of the cursed noise. Just as the barrier that Hexy created was about to get destroyed, the music that Musika was playing suddenly started to change.

The previous song was calm and serene as it had a slow tempo, but the next song was vastly different. The next song that Musika played was incredibly fast to the point that you could see her vigorously using the bow of the violin. This change of tempo also did changes to the effects that Musika released in the area. When the calm and peaceful song was playing, she was able to reduce the effects of the Cursed Opera: Lament.

When the song changed with a fast tempo, the air itself suddenly vibrated around the barrier that Hexy was maintaining. Hexy suddenly felt that the pressure against the barrier decreased by a large margin as if the sound waves were not reaching it. Musika opened her eyes, and they resembled golden music notes that terrified the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros.

It was not the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros herself that was afraid, but it was the essence of the power she absorbed that is terrified. The eyes as music notes are a characteristic of a demigod race known as the Mousai. Musika might not be a full blooded Mousai as of now, but she certainly has the blood in her as they were a race that had full control over sound.

"Kill her! She must not become more powerful." A strange voice of inside the head of the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros could be heard.

"You do not need to tell me as I will really do it!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros shouted as she actually forgot that she was in a battlefield.

"Deadly Arts: Black Butterfly's Touch." Awraka stated as she suddenly appeared behind the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros and plunged her clawed finger into the previous area that she successfully attacked earlier.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros is in shock as she did not notice the being with deadly killing intent behind her. She was too focused on the Muse that she forgot that there were assassins that can go inside shadows. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros suddenly thought why she forgot and that is because of the descendant of the Mousai below her. Musika smiled as she successfully did what she wanted to do and that is for the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros to focus only on her.

Chapter 2152: Downfall of a Fairy

Musika never really intended to fight against the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros. She was not a great fighter in the first place but there is one thing a Diva is good at and that is getting attention. A special buff is also applied when one notices a Diva called Starstruck which makes any being that sees you in that form focus on you. There is also an added effect that they might lose sight of their initial plans when they see you like something akin to a short-term memory loss.

This is what the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros experienced as she was incredibly angry that she was getting slightly pushed back by a being lower than her. The Starstruck effect becomes more prevalent when one focuses on the Diva and this effect also has no limitations. Even charm resistance will fail if they focus too much on the Diva that is Musika.

"You dare!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros shouted as she released a blast of sonic waves towards Awraka and sent her crashing to the ground, but she was already injured.

Blood suddenly came out of the mouth of the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros as she was not just heavily injured but also poisoned. Still, she was able to kill Awraka because she was able to hit the latter successfully with a direct attack. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros found some sort of comfort that she was able to at least kill the one that dared to attack her. She looked at the direction where Awraka crashed but she did not see a dead body.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros saw a golden light filled with life energy and vines in the area. The dead body of Awraka is surrounded by this energy and was brought back to life. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros could only attribute this situation to the Leshy that was filled with unique energy. She could see that Levin Cloud was the one that revived Awraka.

This infuriated the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros as she gathered a lot of cursed energy from her body but the wound on her back suddenly throbbed. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros tried to close the wound via magic, but it was not healing or even regenerating. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros suddenly remembered something that she was able to get from the memories of the Corrupted Elder Dryad Dorn.

A Fairy Killer was seen by her servant, but she was unable to report because they were already attacked when she was just preparing. The fairy killer that the Corrupted Elder Dryad Dorn saw was coated in shadows and the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros already pieced the puzzle. The fairy killer was none other than the being that stabbed her in the back.

"This would not have been a problem if the Linked Heart was still active." The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated.

If the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros and the fairy eater was still linked, then the former could have sent some of the damage she received to the latter. This would have solved the pain that the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros is experiencing now. She was also weakened because of the loss of the Linked Heart.

"This cannot be my end. A queen should not end like this." The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated as her body was now on the verge of collapse.

The poison that was injected to her body by Awraka is not simple poison as it was designed to kill mystical beings that are full of corrupted energy. She learned of this poison and painstakingly made it as it was the best one she could. In fact, her master even told her that this poison could kill an immortal if the ingredients used were of high quality.

"It is still slow acting. I guess that should be expected since the quality I used were only all legendary." Awraka stated as she vanished in the shadows once again.

The poison might only have been legendary grade, but Awraka paired it with her skill that deals increased damage. One could say that the poison she uses slight jumped in tier to at least Semi Mythical as he was affecting a powerful fairy. One of the effects of the poison is the difficulty in gathering mana which is now evident to the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros. Even if she is using cursed energy, mana is still needed in her body for it to be cast.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros has already all her mana passages going into a frenzy due to the poison. Just using mana in her current state would harm her body instead of helping it. The puncture that Awraka also added will not heal in just a day which is why her assassination capabilities are fearsome.

"No! This will not be my end. I must survive!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros thought as she did not want to admit it, but her impending doom is upon her.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros could be seen to suddenly stop in mid-air, but the players did not. They all launched attacks at the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros, but the mouths of the fairy eater were still working. The mouths created a sonic forcefield that prevented anyone from getting close to the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros.

"Destroy the mouths first!" Mariposa shouted as she along with other players directed their attacks at the floating mouths since the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros seemed to have been stunned.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros is still in stasis as the other players attacked the floating mouths that defended her. Destroying the mouths also meant killing the fairy eater but it seems that the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros no longer cared about it. The only reason why the fairy eater was defending the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros is due to the remaining loyalty it has.

[You have killed the Fairy Eater. Experience points will be distributed to all those that have participated.]

It did not take long for all the players to destroy all the mouths. With all the destruction of the mouths, the fairy eater has finally met its end. All of the players then focused their attacks on the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros. The combined magic spells of the players hit the body of the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros directly and set it ablaze. The players even cheered that they were able to directly hit the enemy, but the guild officers were not.

"We have been tricked! This is not her body! Find her immediately as she might have escaped!" Siegfried stated as he swung his axe at the burning body, but it already turned to ash.

Adrian suddenly appeared in the battlefield once again, but he was now accompanied by a gigantic turtle dragon. This turtle dragon floated in the air and had an entire gem forest in its back. The turtle dragon was incredibly beautiful, but the players did not know which summon this was. It was not until they remembered that Equinox had a turtle dragon summon but it was now vastly different than before.

"Wisteria, activate your special ability." Adrian stated as Wisteria nodded.

The crystal tree in the center of Wisteria suddenly glowed as the orb that nested on it suddenly shined. The orb is not really an orb but the second head that was previously Wisteria's tail head. The second head then peeked outwards like a curious toddler and then emitted a powerful wave of mystical energy. The wave of mystical energy immediately expanded in the area and revealed everything that was invisible.

The struggling flying body of the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros could be seen as she headed towards the World Tree. She did not stop with her ambition as the only way she knew of healing herself is the absorption of the World Tree. She would have become more powerful if she absorbed the Heart of the Forest, but a demon was able to snatch it under her nose.

"I will kill all of you when I fully recover! I shall curse all of you in eternal torment to relieved myself of the humiliation that I have faced today." The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated as she believed her perfect cursed spell to turn invisible will not be found out.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros thought that she would be able to escape unhindered, but she suddenly felt gazes behind her. She thought that this might just be coincidence, but she looked back only to see that all of the players were looking at her with full killing intent. She wanted to believe that it is coincidence, but they were all staring at her even when she swayed side to side.

"Fu..!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated but Solstice already arrived in front of her.

With a smile on her face, Solstice punched the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros which sent her crashing downwards. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros landed perfectly where Adrian is located and saw the grinning face of the young demon.

Chapter 2153: True Death

"It was you!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated in a weak breath.

"Yes. It was me all along." Adrian stated.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros was about to rise up again and try to kill Adrian, but she was already too late. Adrian already summoned all of his soulbounds and all of them launched powerful skills at the weakened Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros. The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros was not able to even dodge at this point as even using mana decreased her health.

"This will not be last of me! I shall curse you! As long as you live, I will continue to haunt you!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros spoke in her cursed tongue even though half of her body was already missing.

The Cursed Tongue is the most powerful ability that a Black Fairy could ever unlock but it is also the most difficult to master. It is a powerful ability that could rewrite reality itself if done correctly but there is also a downside. The Cursed Tongue basically makes something called a Cursed Law which can only be true per black fairy. In order to create the new Cursed Law, the previous one should be dispelled first.

The Cursed Law that was affecting Hexy' soul and even the Fairy Queen is suddenly lifted as a new one is starting to formulate. A dark and sinister energy started to cover Adrian's body as the cursed energy that the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros controlled started to swirl around him. The delight on the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros face could be seen as she could see the cursed energy that was about to imprint on Adrian.

"If I used the Cursed Law on a blessed demon then that would make me as immortal as he is!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros thought as she laughed sinisterly with all her remaining energy.

"Is this it?" Adrian asked as if he is not even troubled by the energy that suddenly surrounded him.

"You! You can see it!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated weakly as she could not believe that a being other than a black fairy could see the Cursed Law that she was placing on him.

"I can see it, but I did not expect it to be so eerie looking. What do you expect from cursed energy." Adrian stated nonchalantly as the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros thought that the former would have been begging to stop the curse by now.

"You cannot stop it! I shall have my fun tormenting you." The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated with a laugh.

"If it is at his level then it is weak." Adrian stated as a powerful flash of divine light suddenly expelled all of the cursed energy that the Cursed Law has coalesced.

"Impossible! How could this be?!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated as she saw her powerful cursed energy suddenly getting dispelled.

"Let me explain to you while you wither away into nothingness. The only way to apply a law to another being is to make sure that the being you chose cannot do a more powerful version on you. Do you not remember my declaration earlier?" Adrian stated with a smile.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros suddenly remembered that a powerful energy was released at the sky earlier, but she never thought that was a law. In fact, the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros did not even know what a Law is because she always thought that the Cursed Law is just a special power only for her. She believed that she became the chosen one because this was the power to overwrite reality.

"Imposs- kuah!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated as she vomited blood as her whole viewpoint suddenly shattered.

"You must have thought that you were special because you can rewrite the laws of the world albeit in simple terms. That might have inflated your ego because you thought you were special. Sad news for you... you are not the only one." Adrian stated with deprecating smile.

"Damn demon!" The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros stated as she lost all signs of life from her eyes as her body started to disintegrate.

The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros did not know that the being that she crossed with was a mediator. She did not know that mediators can also create laws far more powerful than the simple parlor trick that she could do. The Cursed Law that the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros could use is simply using all of her remaining cursed energy and life force to imprint on another. It is just a glorified revival ceremony as that is the extent that she could use it on.

A mediator could basically rewrite the laws of the concept that they are representing. Since Adrian is the Mediator of Death, he could rewrite the laws of death, but it also comes with certain sacrifices. Fortunately for Adrian, the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros cheated death and even tampered with her own Grafts that he did not need to do anything but defeat her.

[The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros has been given True Death by the Mediator of Death to serve as a warning to those that toy with death.]

A powerful world message that is spread out to the entire world was given. The beings that were hidden were alerted by this message and reacted in different ways. Some became afraid and ceased their activities, some ignored it, while some saw it as a challenge and set their sights on the Mediator that could grant True Death.

"Why was there suddenly a world message?" Adrian thought as he and the others finally received the defeat messages of the Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros.

[The Cursed Bell Fairy Mavros has been killed. Experience points have been distributed.] [The Effects of Cursed Land is now cancelled due to the death of its caster.]

[The land shall now return to normal.]

[The World Tree gives her blessing to all of her children that participated in protecting her.] [The World Tree has given all of the participants a Small Leaf of the World Tree.]

Chapter 2154: Pit of Corruption

Eldritch did as Adrian had told him and went to the bog that the latter has pointed out. What he did not know is that the way down would be laden with traps. It was not just normal traps but also monster traps that are filled with mana eaters and even the rare life eaters. This proved quite the difficulty for Eldritch as he was not able to resist or defend against them as there was only one way down.

"That demon brat! I will definitely humiliate you when I finish what I need to do!" Eldritch stated as he knew that Adrian did not tell him about the traps on purpose even though he also withheld information like the location of the corrupted heart.

By the time Eldritch reached the bottom of the bog, he is suddenly greeted by two guard monsters. He already lost half his health from the life eaters while only 15% of his mana was remaining due to the mana eaters. He did not have a problem killing off the two monster guards as they were not high leveled, but he felt that he was walking into a trap.

"Those two have always been weird ever since they joined. To think that they were connected to that damned player in the eastern continent." Eldritch stated as the two players he was hunting is actually or rather were members of the Followers of the Dark Gods.

One rule for joining the cult is none other than not telling others which Dark God they follow. Some of the Dark Gods were not beings that craved destruction or violence which is why even the cult had different factions. One faction had the peaceful Dark Gods that only wanted to survive without any difficulties. The other faction is composed of Distorted Gods that want to twist the very fabric of the universe to their whims by using either death or destruction.

The last faction is where those in the middle come in and would orchestrate the plans come in. This is the faction that Eldritch is the head of as he is meticulous in using all his resources. He thought that everything was in his grasps, but it seems that even he could be blindsided. He always let moles or traitors in the cult, but he would be able to manipulate everything to his whims.

He had firm grasp over the Followers of the Dark Gods, but a crack formed when he was publicly humiliated. As if the humiliation was planned, the traitors that he did not sniff out managed to steal some of the influence he had. Even his clever and twisted mind could not stop the loyalty of some people. The traitors that usurped some of the power from him were actually in league with the player with an oni mask.

"I need to hasten my movement. I can feel that they have already started." Eldritch stated as he finally reached the end of the dungeon.

Eldritch found the two traitors he was supposed to punish and is about to deal with them when he noticed the killing intent. In just a split second, Eldritch swung his staff above him and it clashed with the powerful fists of another person. Eldritch could be seen shocked as he knew who the owners of those powerful fists were.

"It is you, Oni Mask!" Eldritch stated as he and Tai got repelled by the forces of their attacks.

"See! Even now, he does not even know Tai's name despite the fact that he utterly lost to him." One of the traitors stated.

"What do you expect of a narcissistic brat? He does not even know our own names." The other 'traitor' stated.

"I should have expected that you were involved in this shady mishap. If you beg now, then I might rethink of how I am going to punish both of you." Eldritch stated.

"Does he really think that we will join him when we were never an ally of him in the first place?" The first 'traitor' stated.

"Let him live in his own bubble. We have already finished creating the Pit of Corruption." The second 'traitor' stated.

"I am warning you that opening it up is not the right time. This is why I hate dealing with stupid idiots." Eldritch stated as he viewed other people lesser than him.

"We are not doing this to get you to notice us. It is simply business as you seem to know more about that." The first traitor stated.

Eldritch wanted to taunt them but it seems that they are not falling for it. He is also a bit wary of Tai since it would become a three on one scenario if a fight really does break out. Eldritch never thought that his carefully crafted plans would suddenly fail. He even made sure that all other continents will be weak because of his meddling with time via a secret hack.

"I should have killed all of those troublesome hidden reincarnated gods in the eastern continent when I had the chance instead of splitting the Vermillion Bird in half." Eldritch thought as he already planned out his way to dominate the entire game.

Eldritch plan is complicated, but the goal was simple for him. He just needed to weaken all of the players and other beings until the distorted gods were ready. He even made sure of this by defeating powerful monsters when the game was in its early release. He crafted a plan that could immediately rise to the top.

He wanted the general player base to be weak and also the NPCs as well. He wanted all of the world to be unable to resist the coming of the Distorted Gods. He even planned to kill off the Dark Gods that were soft, but he is not yet doing so because he still needed them for his plans. Everything would have been perfect but cracks in her plan started to form ever since other remarkable players appeared.

Chapter 2155: Unleashing the Seven I

A world unable to resist the advent of the Distorted Gods would have become Eldritch' playground as he had the most powerful among them as his patron god. He would have achieved it in six months after the first year of the game started but he had interruptions. One interruption he encountered was none other than Equinox as he revived the dying faith of the Gods of Life and Death.

"He might be a big troublemaker, but he is not something I cannot handle. I defeated him when we fought before that means that he can never beat me again." Eldritch thought but there was uncertainty somewhere deep down in a place in his consciousness.

"Both of you would have become kings or queens if my plan had succeeded but your pathetic loyalty clouded your better judgement." Eldritch stated.

"We might change our minds." One the 'traitors' stated.

"If you tell us what our names are then we will consider your option. We are twins and our in- game names are close to each other which makes it easier." The other 'traitor' stated.

The statement of the two made Tai flinch as it seems that the two of them were telling the truth. Still, Tai decided to stay put and observe because Eldritch had a look of bewilderment. Eldritch opened his mouth but nothing came out because his mind is blanking out. He did not remember or even acknowledged them because there was no benefit for him.

A minute has passed but Eldritch has yet to utter the names of the two. In fact, he could not name them because he did not know their names. He thought that it was beneath him to remember the names of those around him as they were all tools for him. Chess pieces that were meant to be used for his own benefit and dispose of when they are no longer useful.

"I told you he will never have remembered our names." The girl 'traitor' stated.

"I just wanted to test him if he did but I guess it is to be expected. I am not even disappointed." The boy 'traitor' stated as he dropped an item to the large dark pit that they have summoned.

[You have activated the Pit of Corruption with all the correct materials.]

The Pit of Corruption which was just a large bubbling pit of darkness suddenly started to become active. This prompted Eldritch to act as he must stop the Pit of Corruption from activating. He still had time to stop the completion of the activation, but Tai suddenly confronted him or rather appeared in front of him. With just a gentle palm strike, Tai managed to send Eldritch back by two feet.

Tai thought that he would at least send Eldritch flying towards the wall as that palm strike was a legendary tier skill called Buddha Palm. It looked like a gentle attack, but it actually carried a powerful pressure and damage that can easily destroy diamonds. Eldritch managed to react in time and create a barrier made of strange flesh that absorbed the impact of the skill which is why the effects diminished.

"You left me no choice." Eldritch stated as he suddenly activated one of his more powerful skills.

Eldritch transformed himself into a Star Spawn but this one was larger and more complete than the one that Adrian battled before. The transformed Eldritch then gathered miasma in his large palms and shot it towards the Pit of Corruption. The powerful attack is then met with Tai's palm, but this attack was more powerful than the last one as it had a golden glow.

When the palm attack and the beam of miasma collided with each other, Tai was sent flying and crashed to the other wall. Eldritch was only knocked back by a few inches but he was in a more robust form. All of this happened in a span of three seconds which is why the twin 'traitors' were unable to even react. The twins could only see Tai being etched into the wall with a quarter of his mask destroyed.

"Tai! Are you okay!?" The female twin exclaimed as she ran towards Tai to help him.

Eldritch no longer cared about the others as he was more focused on the Pit of Corruption. He did not want it to be activated this early because it might make other players more monstrous. He needed the other players weak and easy to be trampled or else it would upset his timeline even more.

"Both of you chose the wrong man to serve." Eldritch stated as he now collected more powerful miasma via his own monstrous mouth.

Eldritch needed to overload the current Pit of Corruption with energy in order to disperse the magic sequence it was activating. Eldritch did not bother with the twin traitors as he knew that they could never stop him in his current form. All the twin's attacks would just tickle him, and they would die from the aftershock of the explosion anyway.

Just as he was about to finish accumulating a large quantity of miasma, a large red fist suddenly slammed Eldritch' face. This large fist was actually five times the size of his monstrous head and it immediately cancelled his attack. All the accumulated miasma fizzled out as it was only collected because of Eldritch' channeled attack.

The source of the large red fist was none other than Tai who was previously etched into the wall. As soon as a quarter of his mask was destroyed and his right eye appeared, a seal that was keeping his power in check suddenly broke as well. This seal that released some of his power was not detected even by Eldritch himself as it was only an internal seal. Only the owner of the body could feel their power growing and Tai became stronger slightly at that moment.

"Secret Oni Arts: Oni Fist!" Tai slowly muttered as his body was released by the wall and his right arm swelled to a large degree to smash Eldritch' monster face.

Chapter 2156: Unleashing the Seven II

Now it was Eldritch that is etched to the wall as the sudden gigantic fist that sent him flying pierced through his barrier and weight. Eldritch felt that his body was suddenly weightless for a split second when the fist collided with him. The power of the attack was not something that he expected, and he did not even sense it as if it was an invisible force.

"What happened!" Eldritch exclaimed as he did not think that something like that would happen to him.

Eldritch then looked at Tai and noticed that the broken upper portion of his mask that had a horn was missing. He thought that Tai was a simple human immortal player in the eastern continent, but he learned a new thing. The oni mask that Tai was wearing is not just simple decoration but a limiter or a seal Eldritch could clearly see a real horn made of ominous energy on Tai's upper right forehead.

The shock from seeing Tai like that was only for a brief moment as rage boiled inside of Eldritch. Just as he was about to release a reckless attack that will bring the entire cave structure down, the Pit of Corruption suddenly released a powerful blast of corrupted mana into the ceiling. The Pit of Corruption erupted like a geyser, but it was corrupted mana instead of water. The large quantity of corrupted mana went towards the surface and exploded in the sky.

"We have done the deed. We can go now." The male twin stated as he took out a scroll and used it.

"No!" Eldritch stated as he used a powerful quick blast of miasma and aimed it at the escaping twins.

Tai did not let the twins get hit as he appeared in front of them and parried the miasma blast. Tai used the power of the blast to be sent directly at the location of the twins. As if everything was timed or coordinated, all three of them vanished in a flash of light. Eldritch is now left in the cave with the overflowing Pit of Corruption.

[All Seven Primordial Beast of Sin will now be unsealed.]

[The world barrier has weakened a bit.]

A world message suddenly appeared to all the players as the sky suddenly became dark. It was not just the area of the Pit of Corruption but also the entire world. Adrian, who was in New Alfheim, felt his entire body become cold as he suddenly shivered immensely. It was not just him but also Levin Cloud that did the same action as well which prompted them to look at each other.

"This is not good!" Both Adrian and Levin Cloud's eyes told these words without even needing to speak to each other.

The blast of corrupted mana in the sky also split into seven directions. One landed in a large canyon in the Central Continent. The second one landed in a large frozen sea in the Northern Continent. Two landed to the eastern continent but the exact locations were buried in mist. Two landed at the western continent in locations that seemed like the desert and a large pit.

The last one landed in the southern continent where it seems to be a place where a temple is built on top of. It was only when the spewing corrupted mana is split into seven did it stop erupting from the Pit of Corruption. As soon as all of the corrupted mana landed, all the demigods, gods, and even primordial beasts sensed seven powerful entities being awakened.

"What just happened?" Anastacia asked as she also felt a small shiver in her spine because she was connected to the tree of life.

"Something bad just happened because I can hear all of the gods and goddesses of life speaking simultaneously in my head! I need someone to be a delegate or else I will make all of you shut up!" Levin Cloud stated as he suddenly looked up in the sky and exhaled with relief as he will not be getting a headache.

"Good thing that I handle the gods of death then. They just send me post it notes in the form of a creepy desiccated scroll." Adrian stated as he was now holding one right now, but it had numerous scribbles in all of them as if numerous beings wrote on them. There were even some ineligible writings which made Adrian doubt their method of relaying messages.

"I take it back. I think the telepathic bombardment would be better because they all speak in riddles." Adrian stated as all the words he can read are in riddles.

"Can anyone mind telling us what happed?" Ain asked.

"Yeah! It seems like fun... I mean we were distributing the loots, but world messages suddenly started to pop up." Siegfried stated.

All guild leaders of the guilds that participated in defending the Evergreen guild were currently present in the meeting hall because they were distributing the loot equally. They were taking their time as there were a lot of things they got from killing numerous enemies. A lot of the players even got Grafts as a dropped item, but they were told by the fairy king to keep them as they might be able to use it as only fated beings can handle them.

The fairy king that said that also burst into the room with the fairy queen with a worried look as he wanted to talk to Adrian and Levin Cloud. Given the worried look of the fairy king and fairy queen, the two mediators immediately knew that this would be a major headache. They could deduce this because even the gods they serve were becoming a bit frantic.

"Mediators! The Primordial Beasts of Sin have been unsealed! This world might be doomed!" The fairy king stated with a serious and grim face. All of the guild masters in the hall are shocked by this piece of news because a strong being like the fairy king looked afraid.

Chapter 2157: The Story of the Seven I

"Ouch!" The Fairy King suddenly exclaimed as he was pinched hard by the Fairy Queen next to him.

"You should calmly explain, my king. If you do not, then they might panic. Please remember that the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin are no longer as powerful as they once were." The Fairy Queen stated with a smile, but she was emitting a pressure next to the Fairy King. The pressure that she was emanating is basically telling the Fairy King to compose himself.

"I forgot about their sudden weakening because I was always told bed stories about how fierce and terrifying the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin were." The Fairy King stated.

"Can you please elaborate as well for us? We would like to know the beings that were just awakened." Anastacia stated as she wanted to know as well but the avatar of the world tree appeared.

"Hello, mother." The Fairy King and Fairy Queen suddenly bowed as the avatar of the young world tree appeared before them. Even if the world tree is still young, all Faekin will respect them as they are pillars of worlds after all.

"I guess I should be the one to tell the younglings on what those primordial beasts are. The duty of the world tree such as myself is to educate the ones she cares for after all." The avatar of the world tree stated.

The avatar of the world tree then scattered something akin to golden dust that affected all the eyes of the people present in the room. They closed their eyes when they were affected by the golden dust, but the view changed when they opened it. The people in the room were suddenly transported to the past where the world was vast and large.

Adrian saw what Pangea really looked like and he was amazed as this was the original look of the world. He saw numerous beings, trees, and floating islands in the distance. They suddenly felt so small like ants as if they were the ones that shrunk and not the world. One might say that the world shrunk or was fragmented to accommodate the smaller beings that now lived in it.

"This is the original world of Pangea where gods, beasts, and mortals freely wander. It was a beautiful world, but it is not entirely safe especially for the humans or beings with weak power upon their birth. The gods themselves lived with the ones that worship not just to accumulate power for themselves but also protect the weaker beings. A god's power is proportionate to those that believe them but there are few exceptions." The avatar of the world tree stated as she looked at Adrian and Levin Cloud.

"Wow! The world is so beautiful and mysterious!" The all the players exclaimed.

"Yes. It was beautiful but also deadly because the world itself is a cruel mistress. The world favors balance which meant that good and bad are subjective to it. All the world needs are for it to survive as the planet itself is alive like the rest of you. This is the reason why the world itself gave birth to Primordial Beasts." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"Beings born from the world because of necessity. It is also the reason why they revive overtime as they are basically made of essential energy of the world." Adrian added.

"Yes. Primordial Beasts are not inherently evil or bad. They just exist to balance the scale which is why the gods and mortals never bothered them. In return, the Primordial Beasts did not bother the gods and mortals as well and stayed in their own realms." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"How does this relate to the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin?" Anastacia asked.

"Do you believe that the beings back then were always righteous? They were not valiant and understanding like all of you. Mortals are quite fickle and easily swayed as long as they get what they want. In this time, mortals have a more difficult time sticking to their upright beliefs. In a world where gods and primordial beasts reign, mortals became more cutthroat in order to survive." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"You meant to say that they did anything they desired as long as they were not punished. Since gods did not have divine realms back then, they cannot watch over the mortals that are in the world with them." Adrian stated.

"The mediator of death is correct. A large majority of the mortals followed the gods for protection and guidance but there are also quite the number that did what they wanted. Even the gods cannot save everyone unless they are in areas where the gods are. Also, gods are not infallible beings as well because they are not perfect." The avatar of the world tree stated. "Due to the numerous negative emotions that drifted, the world itself needed to find a balance. Negative energy freely floating about could cause aberrations. Monsters that are born from negative energy are beings that heavily disrupts the balance of the world. Quite a few have been created back then but the gods destroyed them at the behest of the world itself." The avatar of the world tree added.

"The world itself created the Seven Primordial Beast of Sin. It created them so that all the negative emotions would flow to them instead of freely floating about." Levin Cloud stated. "The mediator of life is correct. The Seven Primordial Beast of Sin born from the negative energy that the world split into seven parts. Each of the seven represented the worst of living beings. Pride, greed, lust, envy, gluttony, wrath, and sloth. These seven sins as they call it became Primordial Beasts that absorbed the overflowing negative energy." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"Still, you said that the primordial beasts do not bother the gods and mortals. Did them being made from negative energy have anything to do with it?" Adrian asked.

"In fact, the creation of the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin was quite successful. The world is able to maintain equilibrium and is back to normal." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"Who disrupted it then?" Adrian added as he already knew that it would have been something that someone did that messed up everything.

"As expected of the Mediator of Death, you already know the how. The negative energy floating around that created the seven is due to the living beings, but it did not take the negative energy of the gods. The gods felt the power of the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin and it was vast. The gods themselves became greedy for this power but they did not openly covet it." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"Since gods are immortals, they observed and waited." Levin Cloud stated as he knew that gods are beings that are not hasty. They would see if everything would go their way before making a move.

"That is correct. The gods might have shown interest, but they did not move because there was a race dedicated to protecting the balance and they were the Asmodians." The avatar of the world tree stated as she looked directly at Adrian and smiled.

"Who are they? Were they powerful?" One of the guild leaders asked.

"They were. The Asmodians were protectors of the universe itself as they possessed powers that defy existing laws of nature. Even the gods fear them because of this although they will not admit it." The avatar of the world tree replied.

"If the Asmodians were there then did they seal the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin?" Another guild leader asked.

"The Asmodians would not have done that as the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin would have already been determined as a vital part of the world. If they did something to them then they would upset the balance. The gods knew this which is why they waited until the Asmodians were weakening because of the arrival of the foreign gods from other universes." Adrian added as he could more or less predict what happened.

"The mediator of death is correct. The gods that craved power started to move when the strength of the Asmodians started to weaken. In fact, the world would have been much safer if the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin was not disturbed but mortals tend to forget the rules as they have short lives. The truth can be distorted as long as they are told about dangerous beings that could threaten their lives." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"Which of the gods moved?" Levin Cloud asked.

"It was not just one god that pursued the power of the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin but many. Still, the first god that tried to absorb them was heavily punished by the world and is sent to Tartarus. Seeing that the world itself could still punish them, the gods decided to be masterminds instead and use their followers or creations to do their dirty work." The avatar of the world tree stated.

Chapter 2158: The Story of the Seven II

"The angels. They were the ones that were successful." Adrian stated as he suddenly remembered the Seven Devils that ruled over Hell.

"Yes. The angels were one of the races that participated but they were the ones that succeeded in absorbing that power. The Seven Primordial Beast of Sin that had weakened were sealed by an Asmodian that could control miasma and curses so that the seven would never get preyed on by other gods or their creations." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"If that was the case then it was a good thing, right?" One of the guild leaders exclaimed.

"No. It was the worst possible scenario because there would no longer be beings that absorb the freely floating negative energy. Since a Law has determined that these negative energies should flow into a vessel, the new ones that absorbed it were none other than the seven angels that absorbed them." Adrian stated.

"The mediator of death is correct once again. The Goddess of Light Luminaria thought that she would become more powerful because her servants were now the new vessels as she created the angels to be always subservient to her." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"What she did not expect is that her own angels evolved to become beings that possessed individuality and the negative energy they absorbed released them from the chains that their goddess has placed on them." Adrian added as he knew that there was a master control logic implanted on all the angels.

"The angels rebelled and casted off their subservience to become the Devils. The original seven devils became gods and maintained the balance that was lost when the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin were sealed. It took quite some time, but the damage has already been done." The avatar of the world tree stated as the scene changed.

The avatar of the world tree showed all of them the death of the Asmodians along with the destruction of the world into fragments. A small timeframe of two decades was all it took when the devils were not there yet to replace the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin. The disappearance of essential beings such as primordial beasts made the world collapse much faster. The world would not have collapsed even if the Dark Gods invaded if the balance of the world was still there.

"In the end, the world and even the primordial beasts needed to be separated. The fragmented world could not hold the weight of the primordial beasts which is why they were sealed to maintain equilibrium." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"If that is the case then why is the Fairy King saying that the end of the world is near?" Siegfried asked.

"The Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin were sealed but that does not mean they could not be released." The Fairy King stated as if defending his earlier stance of being afraid.

"My child is correct as there would be foolish beings to lift the seal as they stumbled upon the hidden ruins where the seven are sealed. The ruins of the seven would invoke great emotion and thirst for power which made them easier to manipulate." The avatar of the world tree stated.

"But... I thought the Primordial Beasts did not care about other living beings." A guild leader innocently pointed out.

"They did but getting attacked and having most of your essence drained out of you would make you want to take revenge. Primordial Beasts are not mindless beasts that just move on instinct. Primordial Beasts are like living gods that have flesh, and they also have the same intellect as them. They did not bother the other living beings because they were also restricted by the world like the gods." Adrian stated which shed light on those that were not familiar with primordial beasts.

"The mediator of death is correct. The Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin wanted revenge which is why they would destroy whenever they are released from their seals. At least one of them gets unsealed every century or two and they create a world of pure chaos and destruction. When they get unsealed, the negative energy floating around empowers them to a great degree as it is also containing the miasma from the dark gods.

The miasma from the dark gods enrages the unsealed Primordial Beast of Sin even more. The result is the decimation of the continents. The Devil Gods had to descend unto the world in order to seal them back again so that peace would return albeit temporarily. One Primordial Beast of Sin can wipe out an entire continent. What do you think seven being unsealed could do?" The avatar of the world tree stated as she clapped her hands.

As soon as the avatar of the world tree clapped her hands, the view of all the players returned back at the meeting room. All of them were now in cold sweat as they were shown visions of what happened and what could potentially happen. All of them have territories and they fear that their territory could be wiped out should a primordial beast visits them.

"If the world restricted the primordial beasts, then why could it not restrict them now?" Faust asked the avatar of the world tree, but she looked at Adrian instead.

"The world is dying." Adrian stated with a deep sigh. The sudden statement made all the players panic.

"You should not scare them like that, mediator of death. Explain so that the poor children will not be confused." The avatar of the world tree looked at Adrian as if she was ready to scold him.

"What I said is true, but I guess I needed to elaborate. The world is losing the restrictions because most of it is being applied to the world barrier. Back then, the world barrier was not there as there was no need to separate the world from the gods. If the world's energy is being used to maintain the world barrier, the world itself could no longer spare any to restrict the beings that live in it.

It is why we have world quests because the world itself could not protect itself. The world is delegating us to protect it which also protects all other living things that live in it. If we accomplish the world quests, then we get rewarded and that is due to the world gaining more energy. We are basically the ones that maintain the world's equilibrium." Adrian stated which made all of the guild leaders shudder as if they got the most mind-blowing information of all.

Chapter 2159: Secret of the World

All of the players that managed to process the information that Adrian has given are in complete shock. Some were looking at others as they did not understand what Adrian told them but those that did were stunned. They did not expect that the world itself in the game would be alive as in a being that possesses consciousness. They were even told that the world itself was rewarding them when world quests are cleared.

"How is that even possible?" One of the guild leaders asked.

"I think you are still stuck in the convention that the world is not with a soul. Remember that this is a game, and you can think of this as a different world. Even the rocks outside of this place have what we call 'souls' or essences. Souls are just essences that have unlocked sentience." Adrian stated as his words were now flying over the heads of the players.

"In other words, you can think that everything in this world is alive including the planet itself. The World Quests are created by the world itself to cleanse itself from impurities. Think of us like we are the white blood cells of the world since we are living in its body." Levin Cloud stated to explain in a more descriptive statement.

The players somehow understood the explanation that they were given but it would take some time for them to wrap their minds around it. Those that did suddenly felt like they received a jolt of electricity in their body as if everything started to become clearer. The guild leaders of each guild were the ones that understood the situation even more.

"If the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin are dangerous then why is the world not giving a world quest right now?" Siegfried asked.

"You can think of it as a shock to the system. There might not be a world quest as there are ways to avoid the eyes of the world after all. Still, I think a world announcement would be given. We just need some time as it is not just quests that necessarily make the players move." Adrian stated.

[The Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin are released from their seals.]

[All Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin will be considered as respawning world bosses.]

[The Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin will grow stronger as time goes on but the rewards upon defeating them would also increase as well.]

[The first to defeat a unique Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin will have double chances of dropping a rarer quality item.]

"There you go." Adrian added as all of the players received prompts or world messages that tell them to defeat the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin.

There might not be a quest but there is a sense of urgency and proper reward for those that kill the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin. This is what Adrian meant that it is not always world quests that the world can give but also increased drop chances. The world itself announcing this meant that it is enticing the players to destroy the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin. "The world is good at making us move. Go girl!" Peridot stated as she is also in the room. "You mean to say that the drop rate chance is due to the influence of the world?" Ain asked. "Yes. The world can manipulate probability as long as it has energy to work with. It would have already raised a world quest to stop the revival of the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin but the ones that unsealed them must have ways to avoid it. Anyways, do you guys want to hunt down the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin?" Adrian asked as he knows that more powerful allies would be better.

"Our guild will be in the alliance in the raiding of the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin." Siegfried stated as he liked beating up powerful monsters.

"Ours as well." Ain stated.

"We want to be part as well!" The other guild leaders also added as they know that they cannot hope to defeat one without the other top guilds.

"If that is the case then the first step would be to locate them. It seems that there have already been sightings for each continent. We just need to decide on which one to attack first." Adrian stated.

Just as Adrian is about to use the demon eyes to check if they were able to locate them, a dark and flaming portal suddenly manifested below him. Adrian was suddenly sucked inside of it without even being able to resist. He was able to sense it, but the sheer power of the portal made him remember another.

"I am getting dragged to Hell. Continue on without me!" Adrian shouted as if that was a normal occurrence to him.

"Did I just see Equinox get sent to Hell? Can he go to Hell since that is the place where devils live?" Anastacia asked as she was puzzled like the rest of them.

"This is new for me too, but he did summon a powerful Devil once, but I never thought that you could be reversed summon. Oh! He messaged me and said that we should start planning since something needs his attention." Levin Cloud stated.

"Are we not going to talk about one of the most powerful players suddenly getting snatched from a place protected by a barrier?" Faust pointed out as he is a bit taken aback.

"He will be fine because this is not the first time that he returned from the depths of Hell." Solstice stated as she led the meeting since Adrian messaged her to be his proxy.

The meeting then continued on but there was still this weird atmosphere and all of them lifted their feet from the floor. There was now a visible fear of them being the next victim being dragged to Hell. The tension was there as all the players would often glance below their feet since they might not know if they become next.

Chapter 2160: Dragged to Hell I

Adrian was not even resisting anymore as he already knew where he will end up in. The mode of transportation for him is not ideal because he is literally being dragged to Hell. He can even taste the sulfur as five minutes of him falling changed the overall layout of the portal. He is actually impressed that the Devil Gods were able to create a stable portal that directly led to Hell.

Adrian then kept going down and down as he passed through numerous places in Hell. It was not until he was in a place where seven different castles floated above a sea of magma that made him stop from falling. Each of the castles are the places where the Seven Devil Gods reside as they make sure that the seal of the being locked in Hell is always kept.

A beautiful veranda could be seen at the center of the seven castles as it was the meeting place of the Seven Devil Gods. Adrian is directly sent to this place as he was the only one that could withstand the energy of the Seven Devil Gods. They could have other players as candidates, but Adrian is the one that knows them the best which is why he is the one summoned to them.

"I never really thought that we are this close that you could just suddenly drag me to Hell. Maybe I should really delete the Demon Summoning Spell." Adrian stated as he did not like being at the beckon and whim of the other gods.

"We are really apologetic that we have to summon you in such a rushed way. We need your urgent help because there is something incredibly wrong going on." Lucifer stated with a smile.

"If you had to drag me to Hell then you must have used a great amount of power because bending the rules like that is not easy and takes a lot of energy." Adrian stated as he sat down with a calm look.

He could more or less tell that the Seven Devil Gods summoning him meant that they are in a situation where they need help because they cannot move themselves. He knew that they were connected to the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin and their request might be tied to them. Adrian decided to observe and hear what they needed to say as it might be important for the world.

"We can no longer absorb the negative energies that we have taken from the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin." Lucifer stated with a worried face.

"Maybe the reason is the fact that the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin are all revived. I think that is the best reason why all of you no longer gets that negative energy." Adrian stated.

"It is not that, mediator. Even if they get revived, we will still have ways to tackle the negative energy. There are cases where their revival is not foreseen but we usually held at least half monopoly over the energies. This time is a bit different because we can only get about 10% or 15% of the negative energy." Beelzebub stated.

"This should not happen as we also maintain the seal that makes sure that the Beast of Revelation does not get revived in the world. It is already annoying that we could barely maintain the seal, but those ugly beasts are trying to take all of it from us. Talk about being greedy!" Mammon stated.

"What happens is all of you no longer gets the negative energy? All of you are pillars of the world that take on that negative energy so that it will not create Aberrations." Adrian stated. "The best-case scenario is that Aberrations are created. The worst-case scenario is that the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin gets all of their power back and destroys the world." Asmodeus stated.

"But all of you defeated them over and over." Adrian exclaimed.

"We did not defeat them but take their power from them. We were only able to do it the first time because there were other gods that helped us. The gods themselves could not handle negative energy which is why the angels were used for that. We were able to weaken them, but it also led to the world weakening." Belphegor stated.

"We tried compensating by becoming the new nexus of power for the negative energy but even our bodies could not keep up. This is why we needed to ascend to godhood because the negative energy is never meant to be handled by beings other than those created for them." Leviathan stated.

"Thankfully, we had a way to use the negative energy instead of just storing it in our bodies. The seal of the Beast of Revelation is made of negative energy which was the perfect energy to use against it. Who would have thought that the negative energy created by living beings is perfect to counter a monster that could wipe out universes." Satan stated.

"From what I have been told, you guys can descend unto the mortal world to kill the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin." Adrian recalled that the avatar of the tree of life telling him that. "One of us could do so if all of us combine our efforts but we cannot do all at once. Not just talking about the enormous energy needed, no one will be left to look after the seal of the Beast of Revelation. This is one of the reasons why never leave this place even if it is already connected to the main world." Beelzebub stated.

"I see. So, the descent was effective because it only needs to be one of you to reseal as only one of the Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin gets revived. This time, all of them got revived which is not the ideal way." Adrian stated.

"That is one of the reasons as we need your help. Another is the fact that all Seven Primordial Beasts of Sin are all silent." Lucifer stated.
