

O Summoner 821

Chapter 821 – Battle Against The Six Monsters I

[You have been affected by Blight.]

[You have received damage.]

[Light Elemental Resistance has been decreased.]

[Darkness Elemental Resistance has been decreased.]

Even if they do not want to admit it, the United States, Germany, Australia and Brazil national teams are facing a dragon for the first time. Even wyverns were a difficult opponent because they take to the skies and are usually above level 200. They are now facing a legitimate dragon that has control over two elements.

The United States national team managed to damage the dragon with their great teamwork, but their frustration erupted when the Sunburst Yatagarasu. The black crow with three legs suddenly emitted a burst of light that transferred to the Twilight Harmony Dragon and healed its wounds.

The Sunburst Yatagarasu also did that for all the other monsters before perching on the middle altar and collecting particles of light using its body. This is the first time that they saw that a monster could heal another by 10% health. Thankfully, the notification stated the time that they need to offset the healed damage.

[The Sunburst Yatagarasu has started to collect the particles of light elemental energy in the surroundings.]

The players timed this interaction and they found out that the Sunburst Yatagarasu would heal the other monsters every five minutes. They also found out that they could attack the Sunburst Yatagarasu as long as it is in the area of the altar. This was proven by Hou Yiwei as he the skill Rain of Arrows to try and bring the crow with three feet down to the ground.

Even if the United States national team does not want to admit it, they are lacking a player that has burst damage which is why having the German national team in their group is a saving grace. Both Faust and Eis are great mages that can deal great amounts of damage to the opponent. The players knew that they might not be able to defeat the sub-bosses if they do not work together.

Adrian noticed that Kanlaon is now having a difficult time fighting his opponents which is why he decided to focus on his battle for the time being. He instructed Kanlaon to make use of his mastery over the two elements skill.

"It is time to make the world dark!" Adrian stated as he commanded Kanlaon to fill the area with darkness.

The whole altar that Kanlaon is fighting on suddenly got covered in a dome of pure darkness. The other players that are facing different opponents noticed it as well as the other floating islands are just in view of each other.

"Fortunately, Kanlaon still has Dragon Scale which reduced all the damage from physical attacks by 50% and elemental attacks by 30% or else he might get defeated. If Eis and Faust were not here, then he might have a better chance with his fight." Adrian thought as he quickly thought of a new strategy.

Faust immediately tried to illuminate the area, but Adrian beat him to it. Kanlaon was commanded to emit a flashing light in a quick motion. The unsuspecting players that were getting used to the darkness suddenly got their eyes assaulted by a bright light.

[You have blinded your opponents.]

"Nice. Now use your dragon breath." Adrian commanded as Kanlaon now gathered the necessary power for his dragon breath without worries.

The audience then saw what the Twilight Harmony Dragon did and thought that it was too intelligent to be a simple AI. The next view that they saw is the decimation of the opponents that battled the dragon as only three individuals survived.

Shado survived because he managed to dive into the shadows as reflex. Totems survive due to pure tenacity while Schutz also survived due to the same reason. Despite surviving, they are not in the best condition to combat a dragon by themselves.

"Now let us focus on the others." Adrian thought as his view switched to Kimat.

Adrian noticed that his soulbound is basically not in full fighting condition due to Hou Yiwei's team with the support of Xinthri. He never thought that a Garuda would be able to tank hits from a boosted monster more powerful than him. He noticed that Xinthri would coat himself with Prana in order to tank the attack.

Hou Yiwei and the twin blades would then launch a counter offensive. The god slayer weapon reacted to Kimat since his form now is a beast blessed by a god. He could be described as a divine beast which made the match-up against Hou Yiwei the most troublesome. What he does not line the most is that Hou Yiwei always dealt critical hits that reduced a huge chunk of Kimat's health.

"The Five Skills available to him would be Replication, Kaleidoscope, Spectrum Armor, Myriad Illusion and Body of Light. Let us go with Replication first then." Adrian stated as he commanded Kimat.

Hou Yiwei thought that the fight is going well since his bow is dealing heavy damage to the opponent. Since the beast is of godly descent, his attacks deal double damage. He could also swat away the annoying black bird that keeps healing the Myriad Colors Tiger King.

Just as he thought that it would only take time for the Myriad Colors Tiger King to die, it suddenly looked like it glitched. The next thing that they saw is that the Myriad Colors Tiger King is now two entities. They thought that the other one is just a copy and would be weak, but they are wrong.

They learned that the copy is as strong as the original when one of the warriors that charged towards the copy died with one bite. Hou Yiwei noticed that the movement of the Myriad Colors Tiger King suddenly changed the moment it looked like it glitched.

"Is someone controlling it?" Hou Yiwei thought but he had no time to think anymore as the Myriad Colors Tiger King looked like it is using another skill.

"Activate Spectrum Armor." Adrian commanded.

Armor made of different colored light suddenly covered the bodies of the two Myriad Colors Tiger King. The skill Replication is different from other clone skills as it creates a true copy of the original. The only downside is that the copy only lasts for 10 minutes with a 20-minute cooldown.

"They would die by that time anyway." Adrian stated as he activated Kaleidoscope.

The altar that held the Myriad Colors Tiger King suddenly got filled with different colored lights. The players inside of that altar thought it must be some domain skill, but they got damaged the moment they touched these lights.

The most frightening thing was that the lights also moved with the eyesight of the Myriad Colors Tiger Kings. They needed to both evade the lights and the two giant tigers. It did not take long for only a few to be left as Kimat steamrolled them the moment it used its skills.

"That should be fine for now and would have Kimat take a breather." Adrian thought as he now focused on the next troublesome opponents. His eyes landed on his slime Dodu as it is having difficulty defeating its opponents since it has limited skills.

What made Dodu have a difficult time is the presence of people not suited to be its opponent. Dodu is basically in battle with Vayu, Anastacia and Apolaki. They are known to be heavy hitters when it comes to magic damage. The most headache in that side would be Frey as she can cut a slime easily with just her basic attacks as if she has a passive skill that can nullify immunities.

"Dodu has five skills as well but only two are for active use. I guess the next best thing would be to make use of his giant body and swallow the others whole." Adrian thought as he commanded Dodu to do just that.

The slime that almost covered half the altar started to form into a tidal wave motion and used its body to slam down those that did not manage to evade in time. The next thing that the audience knew is that half of the contestants are now in the body of the slime trying to escape or find air.

The unlucky ones that got eaten are then turned into health which regenerated Dodu's health back to 95%. The remaining ones that are alive could only see their faces sink in desperation as they did so much just to reduce the health of the Dark Ocean Slime.

What poured salt into the wound is the arrival of the Sunburst Yatagarasu that healed the Dark Ocean Slime back to full health. You could see the face of pure frustration upon the players that tried their hardest. Frey did not accept such answer easily which is why she aimed for the Sunburst Yatagarasu the moment it almost fully heals the Dark Ocean Slime.

"Gungnir!" Frey shouted as her spear hit true.

A loud scream came from the Sunburst Yatagarasu as it fled the scene. Frey then noticed something from the interaction. The damned bird did not recover its own health.

"If we kill the bird first then it would eventually stop healing the other monsters.." Frey told her team members which were also overheard by those around her.

Chapter 822 – Battle Against The Six Monsters II

With Dodu now being in the clear, Adrian changed to another soulbound that is having difficulty. The next one having difficulty would be Charon. He had almost perfect immunity towards magical attacks so the undead did not have a problem with Pendragon's Caliburn or Merlin's spells.

The problem is that other than those two that have great magical attack, all the remaining players attacking him are now purely physical in nature. Even if he can continuously absorb all their health, a small portion of their health is not enough to heal his health as the conversion is an equal ratio.

"Charon has the skills called Abyss Link, Sinking Abyss, High Resistance to Magical Damage, Abyss Miasma and Inversion." Adrian thought as he looked at the battle techniques of his opponents before proceeding with his plan.

Charon is not like other soulbounds that has great attack power as he is more centered on tanking magical attacks while absorbing health from opponents. He has no great power to turn the tides like the others or like Dodu that can eat his opponents in order to turn the fight to his favor.

Adrian commanded Charon to first flood the area with his Abyss Miasma. By flooding the area with his Abyss Miasma, the players would then get damaged per second. With Charon's Inversion ability that turned about 50% of the damage the undead dealt to health, he could continuously get healed.

He then commanded Saena to visit Charon despite her not having enough energy collected. He just needed to heal Charon to 90% of its health. Adrian thought that the tactic is sound, but Merlin launched skills towards Saena that prevented her from even getting close to the Undying Abyss Wraith.

Adrian could only frown as Charon's health only regenerated up to 79% as the undead is still getting attacked continuously. He cannot find any other solution but to activate Abyss Link. The Abyss Miasma that covered the entire altar then stuck to the body of the contestants and sucked their life force by 1% per five seconds.

The priests tried to use Cleanse, but Charon's skill is not a spell that did crowd control. All that Abyss Link does is link the life force of those inside the Abyss Miasma. Unless they have a spell that can reverse a spell in the life attribute, they are not going to detach that link. Thankfully, Anastacia is not facing Charon or else she might reverse the link.

The health that is steadily declining from Charon suddenly started to rise once more while the players started to lose their health. This prompted them to attack aggressively and some even used high damaging skills, but Adrian already prepared for that.

Adrian commanded Charon to use Sinking Abyss and the floor on the altar turned something reminiscent of water. Charon then sunk to the floor, but the other players did not. What is more annoying is that the Abyss Miasma nor the Abyss Link did not vanish in effects.

"Sinking Abyss lasts for about thirty seconds with a cooldown of ten minutes. That should be enough time for them to lose health while Charon would get back to full health." Adrian thought as he now looked at the opponents that Sirius is facing.

Adrian thought that Sirius is having a difficult time but that was not the case. He could see Sirius rampaging on the altar with Creepysoo on his mouth. Cersei wanted to use curses on him, but she became the first target of the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir.

"He is the most intelligent of my soulbounds with only Kanlaon being on par. He managed to decimate the enemy team with nothing but basic attacks. I guess him having evolved twice is a great factor." Adrian thought as he looked at the skills that Sirius has right now.

Sirius has the skills called Unbound Strike, Ravage, Medium Physical Damage Resistance, Medium Magical Damage Resistance, and Ragnarok. He might have lost the bleed effect on his attacks but that was so overpowered when the simulation was done which is why it did not pass. This is still a competition, and the developers wanted the players to have a higher chance of winning after all.

The audience could see that the players were having a difficult time in their fights which they thought would be easy. They saw how powerful the players were in the previous events, but this is the first time that they saw that they are having a difficult time.

In fact, even the developers thought that they are having a difficult time which they did not expect. They then calculated the chance of winning of the players and it dropped down to 30%. Before the match started their chance of winning was 78% but it became lower as the match progressed.

The developers looked at the time and it was only twenty minutes since the event started. They are supposed to send the aid of the gods at the thirty-minute mark, but it seems that they need to send it now to keep the sanity of the contestants. They even contacted Adrian who is in the gaming pod.

"Sir Adrian...um...could you perhaps take it a bit easy on them?" One of the developers stated via the coms.

"They haven't even used their skills yet though. I want to at least erase one of their troublesome special moves." Adrian replied which made the developers stunned.

He is right that the players are not even using skills that made them famous. They might be afraid that they cannot use it against the real raid boss later. The developers then received a call from higher up to release the blessings of the gods.

"Sir Adrian, we will now release the blessings of the gods so that they can see that they can reduce their cooldowns. They might be afraid that they would have nothing to use if they used it on your soulbounds." The developers stated.

"That is fine.." Adrian stated as he was getting bored that the contestants are abusing the infinite revive option.

Chapter 823 – Blessings Of The Gods

In a more secretive room in the arena, the creator of Pandemonium is currently looking at the screen and is a bit saddened that the players are not giving it their all. It might be a sound choice to use the revival mechanic to kill the sub bosses but that would mean the seal will finish before they even defeat one.

[Chance of Losing for the contestants if they do not utilize their powerful skills: 81%], The super AI, Deus, reported.

When his super artificial intelligence, Deus, reported that, he could not believe it. Initially, the chance of them losing was only about 19% which is still acceptable, but it changed when Deus recalculated. The start of the event made the losing chance suddenly jump to 47%.

"Why did the losing chance of the contestants spike?" Mr. Atlas asked his super AI.

[Individual named Adrian has collected enough data about his opponents. With each of the matches that he witnessed; he has been taking notes on his holoswatch. He would then devise a plan of attack against them. His victory rate would thereby increase exponentially but that is not always certain.], The super AI, Deus, replied.

"I guess that is on me to want to recruit a battle junkie for the final boss. If only Eldritch were contactable then we would have another option. Tell them to release the Blessings of the Gods." Mr. Atlas stated but he is still happy with his current decision.

[Affirmative.], Deus replied.

"Valiant warriors, we might have arrived late and our power weak but that does not mean that we will abandon you." The voices of the gods echoed in the distance which made all the six soulbounds look at the heavens with disdain.

After the voice of the gods echoed all throughout the area, orbs of light with different colors suddenly started to appear. Orbs have five different colors that represented the type of blessing.

[The Gods of Pandemonium has sent their blessings in the battlefield despite them having a weaker presence in this world.]

The five colors of the orbs of light are red, blue, green, black, and white. Each has their own special capabilities that will greatly increase the chances of them defeating their enemies. Adrian thought that the white orbs were more numerous, and he could know why.

"I guess I did say that they are not using their skills as much. It would at least make it interesting." Adrian thought but he did not expect that it would just be simple help.

The red orbs increase physical attack damage for a certain duration while also recovering stamina by a little bit. The blue orb increased the damage of the next spell that they cast while also recovering a small percentage of their mana. The green orb is simple as it heals 5% of their maximum health.

The black orb is able to take away one status ailment or status effect affecting them. The white orb is the one that they want the most as it decreases their cooldown reductions by 5% for every orb that they used.

The moment the contestants learned of the effects of the orbs, they turned from wary individuals to ferocious predators. They have finally started using their precious skills as they know that can renew it for the last fight against the raid boss.

The first one to utilize the orbs would be Hou Yiwei, Frey, Pendragon, Blade and Apolaki. Hou Yiwei utilized the red and blue orbs the most as his attacks required both physical and spell damage. Kimat screamed as his body started to get pierced by more powerful arrow spells.

Frey is the one that is more adept in using the orbs as she can practically glide across the battlefield. With an ingenious use of the red, blue and white orbs, she can abuse her high damaging skills. Apolaki being in the same altar with her did not make the battle easy for Dodu. The Dark Ocean Slime could be seen growing little and little as its health gets reduced.

Charon is not faring as well either as the red orb utilized by the contestants facing it made him lose health rapidly. They were no longer afraid of using skills which is why they are now doing their best. Coupled with Merlin's powerful buff spells, the physical damage that they did could decrease Charon's health by 3% with just a basic attack.

"They are finally putting up a fight." Adrian thought as his soulbounds are now below 50% health with the time being one hour.

"Saena, activate Sunburst." Adrian commanded as the Sunburst Yatagarasu that is perched in the middle altar suddenly woke up.

Saena eyes's then became filled with golden light. She emitted a scream and her whole body started to ignite until a miniature sun is summoned in the middle altar. The players thought that it was an attack, but they thought wrong as it is not just an attack.

The miniature sun then exploded as it could no longer contain its power and small sun flares suddenly scattered. The sun flares that fell towards the players did damage to them and even inflicted them with status ailments while their worst fears are realized.

The health that they reduced from the sub bosses suddenly filled back up to full. The players could only hang their mouths as this event is basically demeaning their efforts. The fact that they are not even given great healing orbs made it worse. The sub bosses also looked enraged when the three-legged crow suddenly burst into pure energy.

[Your soulbound, Sunburst Yatagarasu, has used Sunburst and sacrificed its life.]

[Time remaining before its next rebirth: 2 hours.]

In the VIP lounge, two individuals were laughing like a maniac as the faces of the contestants looked downcast. These two are none other than Marlon and Mina as they saw the infamous sly attitude of Adrian.

"Dear...did we do something wrong in raising our son?" Adrian's mother asked her husband but the latter is just laughing dryly as he is afraid to even entertain that question.

Chapter 824 – Overcoming Despair

The face of the contestants could be seen sinking when they saw the health that they decreased to less than half is now back to full. The orbs that floated near them also decreased in number and only generated one color per minute.

This did not deter the contestants as they must now use another set of their powerful skills to defeat their opponents. The next best thing that they could do would be to kill the five monsters in an hour as the power scaling for the King of Twilight is already done by 45%.

If the contestants are happy about something, then that would be the death of the Sunburst Yatagarasu. The healing bird died but it also gave them an unwelcomed parting gift. The five monsters also seemed enraged as their attacks became 50% stronger and blocking their attacks are no longer advised.

Totem had no choice but to lead the attack against the Twilight Harmony Dragon as those in their group are not great at battles that take long. Battling a dragon is a battle of attrition because they cannot be killed using burst damage and one must use piercing attacks.

Fortunately, the German national team and the Brazilian national team had players that focus on dealing penetrating damage. Totem might not like that his team will deal less damage or get as much contribution points, but he must compromise.

If they do not defeat the dragon before the gauge of the King of Twilight, then the Twilight Harmony Dragon will be the least of their problems. Totem needed to stack five possessions which made his body go in a state of breaking down. He might be a druid, but he is still human, and the human body can only take a specific amount of stress.

"Human! You would dare!" Kanlaon shouted at them which did not greatly shock the contestants.

Totem actually pinned down a dragon that is much bigger than him, but he also received help from Eis as she continuously showered the Twilight Harmony Dragon with ice chunks. Faust would then create fire rings that would sear the flesh of the dragon, but it also made his mana disappear quickly.

As Totem with the help of the others pinned the Twilight Harmony Dragon, one of them finally noticed a scale just below the chin of the dragon that is different. The scale might be small, but it is slightly off in color compared to the shining scales of the Twilight Harmony Dragon.

The moment someone shouted the location of the reverse scale, everyone eyed at it like hungry wolves. They now have a great chance in getting more contribution points as killing the dragon would not be a pipe dream. They eyed the reverse scale as if it is the last food in the plate and they have been starved for days.

"I guess that is it for Kanlaon. It is a pity, but they became more aggressive in attacking. If they only focused on defending like they were before then I might have been able to decrease their numbers again." Adrian muttered but his heart is hiding his disappointment.

Adrian might have wanted to fight back more but he also needed to conform with the flow of the battle. He can no longer give commands after an hour and a half of the whole time. He must act like a dungeon boss after all, and he did not want to give away that a player is controlling the monsters.

His other soulbounds are experiencing the same treatment as the players have become more aggressive. They might have been caught in the flow of the battle as they wanted to pace themselves at first. The first of his soulbounds to fall was Dodu as the Dark Ocean Slime is weak against magical attacks even if it becomes empowered.

The altar where the Dark Ocean Slime was transferring its power suddenly became dim and part of it suddenly started to crumble. When the health of the Dark Ocean Slime dropped to zero, they could see a ball of black light shot towards the center altar. This black ball of light is floating beside the small fading light where the Sunburst Yatagarasu used to be.

The next one to fall is the Myriad Colors Tiger King that cannot defend itself against the assault of the God Slayer Weapon. Adrian knew that Hou Yiwei will also be the biggest threat against him later as he also has the qualities of a divine being.

When the Myriad Colors Tiger King died, the altar where it is located also dimmed and became ruined. A ball of light that looked like different colors blinking shot towards the main altar. There are now three balls of light that is hovering above the altar of the King of Twilight.

The third to fall is the Twilight Harmony Dragon. Adrian told Kanlaon that it did a great job enduring getting attacked while being pinned down. He still managed to kill a quarter of the players attacking him. An explosion of light and darkness ensued when the Twilight Harmony Dragon fell from battle.

Kanlaon managed to release Blight before getting killed which affected the players that were left alive. The altar dimmed and crumbled while a soul with that has half white and black flames shot towards the center altar.

When the three monsters fell, a bridge that connected the five altars suddenly formed. Players that managed to defeat their respective sub bosses went and participated on the other two monsters. The Undying Abyss Wraith welcomed new people as it got to absorb more health, but it met its match when Anastacia came to its altar.

The Abyss Link skill is then put to a halt as her presence alone made life elemental energy bow towards her. Without the health absorption, the Undying Abyss Wraith fell in due time. A small ball of dark and bluish light with a tint of red then shot towards the altar located in the center.

The last monster left is the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir which is more than difficult to kill. Its attack can afflict the players with frost and darkness elemental status conditions. The chains that are dangling on its neck and limbs also posed great danger. Whatever those metal bars are consisting of made no player could even scratch it.

What made it worse is that the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir that possessed no ranged attack would even use the chains as a ranged weapon. One attack from the chains even made a mage player explode immediately. This made the melee players wary as that would mean they will only take two hits to explode as well.

Despite having about 13 teams attacking the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir, they are still having a hard time but that does not mean they are not damaging the opponent. The moment all twenty teams gathered to the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir's altar is where the main event happened.

With all twenty teams gathering, the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir health decreased rapidly to 10% but Sirius does not want to go down without a fight. As soon as the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir's health dropped to 10%, he activated the last skill on his arsenal which is Ragnarok.

The surroundings suddenly became dark while the temperature in the area suddenly became frighteningly low. The players wanted to evade the attack by traveling to the other altar, but huge glaciers suddenly materialized that blocked their exits.

"What are you doing! Kill it before it releases its attacks." One of the players shouted which made the others get back their focus.

The Unbound Black Frost Fenrir's body started to grow in size while the chains that were unable to get scratched by players broke as if they are cheaply made. The Unbound Black Frost Fenrir released a deafening howl which made some of the spells they are casting get cancelled.

A few seconds later, bodies of the players near the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir exploded into particles of light. The other players saw this, and they cannot even react as they could not see their fellow contestants get killed. Only certain individuals managed to actually see how fast the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir move.

With the incoming danger, Merlin's Child of Mana activated in response immediately. She did not think that it would activate but it seems the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir is something that she cannot defeat using normal means. Since the monster they are facing is of the darkness and ice element, fire elemental damage dealt great damage to it, but light elemental damage did not.

The players thought it was strange at first but then the master that they serve is a dark god of light and darkness elements. The spell Inferno made the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir stop moving as it chipped at its health greatly. He looked at the mage casting the spell and tried to kill Merlin, but Pendragon blocked the monster.

"Melt everything away! Caliburn!" Pendragon stated as he released an elemental wave of intense heat energy.. It swept across the area and eventually killed the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir.

Chapter 825 – King Of Twilight I

The defeat of the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir came at the cost of the death of half the contestants. The moment he was defeated, the area exploded with darkness and ice. The casualty of the players would not have been that big if the last spell did not get cast.

The last altar giving power to the central altar finally shattered and all monsters have been killed. Even the resurrection of the Sunburst Yatararasu is put to a halt as its siblings is already defeated. The soul of the Unbound Black Frost Fenrir went towards the main altar as well and it was a black light covered in a frosty aura.

The moment all the souls of the six monsters gathered in the altar. The crumbled parts of the other altars suddenly clumped together and filled the gap between the altars. The barrier that protected the central altar also shattered as the protection that the other five altars finally waived.

"It is finally time! I just need to get a good enough performance to earn the best rewards." Adrian muttered to himself as the grand Advent of the King will finally happen.

"Did we win already?" one of the players asked as there was no new enemy appearing.

All they could see is the progress bar of the King of Twilight has stopped at 53% as they managed to defeat all the monsters when that was the progress. Some thought it was over, but the others gaze is now focused on the six spinning balls of light on top of the central altar.

All six of the souls suddenly started rotating faster until they emitted a light that could be seen as two halos that has golden inner ring and an outer ring made of pure darkness. As soon as the two halos appeared, a magic circle appeared at the center of the altar.

The contestants could not move as a great deal of energy is being rained down on their bodies. Some who were not that great in controlling the mana from the surroundings even knelt down due to the pressure.

"I, who have been forgotten, shall rise once more." A voice that is both melodious and deep resonated in the altar.

The magic circle suddenly shone bright as an entity started to rise up from the altar. The entity is covered by a thick mana of light and darkness that his silhouette is only made by those elements. As soon as the players noticed the entity rising from the magic circle, they felt a suffocating force grasp their hearts.

All of them regardless of how well they endured the suffocating energy all knelt due to the pain. The entity then looked at them and waved his hand nonchalantly. A wave of energy containing light and darkness elements swept across all the challengers.

The wave of energy that swept across them immediately killed all the participants which shocked the audience. All of the participants got killed with just a simple flick of the hand. A simple release of energy from what could be called as stretching out as the King of Twilight has just been unsealed.

"Finally, those ants have finally been dealt with. That will be your punishment for killing my family." The King of Twilight, Hay-lale stated with his melodious and deep voice that reverberated all throughout the altar.

"My precious family. You might have been slain because you sent your energy to me, but your revival would not last long once I regained my divinity. Rest in the confounds of my soul for the time being." The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated as he suddenly noticed that the dead ants that he exterminated started to come alive once again.

His blessed monsters just shed their physical bodies, but their souls are safe in the confounds of his soul. They will just need to recover their physical bodies as they were given parts of his soul. In a sense, the six monsters are actually part of the King of Twilight Hay-lale which is why they can unseal him from the prison that the Gods of Pandemonium created.

When the bodies of the players are revived once again, the King of Twilight Hay-lale flicked his hand once again and sent another energy wave to kill them but rays of light shot down towards the heavens. The rays of light formed a barrier that protected the players from dying immediately once again.

"So, all of you finally revealed yourselves. It is a shame that none of you could descend in this world as you stuck ups do not want to sacrifice your divinity. If you really wanted to kill me then come down from your divine realms and deal with me yourselves.

These ants before me can never compete with me. They are not enough even if there are a hundred of them." The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated with his voice that is filled with rage and indignation.

The King of Twilight Hay-lale increased the input of the elemental energy wave and attempted to destroy the barrier protecting the players. He wanted the gods and goddesses to descend so that he can kill them himself. They must pay for the sin of stripping him of his divinity and killing the gods that dared to plot against him.

"Defeat him! Brave Warriors! The dark god must never survive." The Goddess of Light Luminaria stated with her voice that sounded like a beautiful choir but the King of Twilight Hay-lale looked like he is about to puke.

The Gods of Pandemonium then gave their blessings towards the players once again. This time they released them from all the status ailments and status debuffs that are affecting them. All of their cooldowns are even refreshed but this also took a toll on the gods. They can no longer send their blessings as they gave their protection to all the players.

The gods then vanished as they can no longer maintain the connection to the world of Megiddo. The King of Twilight Hay-lale could see that the gods are really bent on destroying him, but they do not want to get dirty themselves.

"I might have been sealed for a long time as I did not remember a race of beings that can revive. Has the Goddess of Life and the God of Death broke their rules? It seems that you may be beings that are the same as those that live back then but your souls are different.

All of you smell like the first beings but more like just lingering scent scattered in the wind. None of you smell pure as if you are just broken up fragments that got revived. The Goddess of Life and the God of Death could do that at the very least." The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated as the players are still not attacking since the barrier is still holding on.

"You are a dark god! So how do you know about the abilities of the Goddess of Life and the God of Death?" Anastacia asked as she is curious since she is the Envoy of Life.

"Ah. The Envoy of Life is with you, and someone blessed by the God of Death as well. What have those foolish group of gods told you? Me...a dark god? Laughable! I was born after the primordial gods have been born. I am older than the gods that have blessed you and I am eternal." The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated.

"Seriously, this dialogue is making me feel things. I will just let the AI control the dialogue." Adrian thought as he thought that the script is a bit cringy.

"You all are proud that you could revive but that does not mean I can never counter that." The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated as he started to summon something.

The thick elemental energies that created a silhouette of his body started to gather. The King of Twilight Hay-lale lifted both of his hands and the light and dark energies compressed into a floating orb. The floating orb is actually a small black sun that is the size of a basketball.

The black sun is then surrounded by the two halos of gold and pure darkness. The weapon of the King of Twilight Hay-lale has finally fully manifested and it freely floated around him. This is the weapon called Silim which is a divine weapon that has been forged by the King of Twilight Hay-lale upon his manifestation in the universe.

With the thick energy of light and darkness no longer covering the King of Twilight Hay-lale, the players could now see what he truly looks like. A robe that is more magnificent than a king with a color palette of white and black that truly symbolized harmony of light and darkness. Long silver hair that freely slowed in the wind, but his face is being blocked by a visor.

When the players saw what the King of Twilight Hay-lale really looked like, they are even doubting that a dark god would actually look so elegant and divine.. With a snap of his fingers, the King of Twilight Hay-lale created twenty magic circles that got applied on the barrier created by the gods.

Chapter 826 – King Of Twilight II

With a snap of his fingers, the King of Twilight Hay-lale created twenty magic circles that got applied on the barrier created by the gods.

"Burst Blight" the King of Twilight Hay-lale muttered.

The magic circles then simultaneously exploded and destroyed the barrier as if it is glass. After destroying the barrier, the King of Twilight Hay-lale raised Silim and activated one of the most powerful spells in his arsenal. One that would make sure that his enemies will waver when fighting against him.

A large magic circle expanded throughout the whole world. Megiddo became a shade of black and white for a few seconds and it retracted back to the King of Twilight Hay-lale weapon. The next notification shocked all of the participants as they would now need to reassess all of their fighting tactics.

[The King of Twilight Hay-lale has activated All is Light and Dark.]

[You can no longer revive upon death.]

"It would be too annoying to have all of you bugs always coming back to life." The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated as he taunted all the players.

As soon as the revival mechanism has been lost, all the players suddenly froze for a minute before they resumed their normal attack patterns. All of the players surrounded the King of Twilight Hay-lale and observed his actions as he is not moving from his location. They thought that he was programmed to not attack first.

"Why are they just standing there? Maybe they want me to attack first?" Adrian thought as he could see that he is being surrounded.

"If no one is going to attack then might as well start decimating them early." Adrian thought as he activated his favorite area of effect skill Vortex but the King of Twilight Hay-lale version.

"Devour everything in the world, Black Sun!" the King of Twilight Hay-lale muttered as his weapon, Silim, suddenly rose to the air.

The small black sun that is inside the two halos suddenly grew larger and larger until it started swallowing everything in front of it. The players could feel that their bodies are getting sucked inside of the black sun. Some of them has actually experience this type of feeling before but they could not pin where they experienced it as they are now at a predicament.

The Black Sun is still continued for a whole minute without stopping but that also meant that their opponent is still channeling. The players that could use attacks that do not get affected by the pull of the black sun.

"It sucks that I cannot cancel this skill, but I still have increased defense when in the channeling state. The damage they are dealing is not that big as some of the spells are getting sucked by the black sun." Adrian thought as he just waited for the skill to end.

After two minutes of channeling, the black sun vanished and Silim returned to the King of Twilight Hay-lale's side. What Adrian did not expect is that some players using the pulling force of the black sun to get a fast trip towards him. About ten players all flew towards his location utilizing the pulling force of the black sun.

"As expected of rankers. One cannot really underestimate them. They cope up pretty fast. It is a pity that I did not kill anyone from the skill, but I should let them know that it will not be that easy to actually get close to me." Adrian thought as he activated the King of Twilight Hay-lale's version of Quantum Dispersion.

"Illuminating Dome." The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated.

A large powerful light suddenly erupted from his weapon, Silim. This powerful light is not that blinding in nature, but it managed to push all the ten players away. The next thing that all the players noticed is that their bodies are tagged with magic circles that were used to destroy the barrier that previously protected them.

"Burst Blight" the King of Twilight Hay-lale muttered.

All of the players suddenly knew that they cannot even try to avoid it as they are literally tagged. Even the audience thought that some of them will die but the spell did not kill them as it only remove a chunk of their health. Some even managed to remove the magic circle as one person instinctively knew that the magic circles were similar to her traps.

Dupe made use of her skill called Trap Transfer to actually peel off the Burst Blight magic circle on the bodies of her team members. Others tanked the damage for themselves while some used their buffs to increase the magic resistance of their team members. They are afraid that one spell could actually kill them all.

Adrian could not move from his position as it is still phase one. He has to act as a boss monster and not a player which is why there are restrictions to his movements. When they did prior test, he was given free reign at first. That was a bad decision as the test players that battled against him when he was given free reign all died within ten minutes.

Adrian's cooldowns are all adjusted to make sure that he does not immediately kill all players within a small timeframe since they were set up to not revive in the battle against him. The First Phase is actually him just being rooted in place until his health drops to 89%. He also has access to four skills as that are the only skills he can use while being rooted.

The four skills are his Quantum Spacemine, Quantum Cascade, Quantum Dispersion, and Vortex. The names and elemental may have changed but they still have the same skill effect. The cooldowns are also fixed which is why Adrian cannot freely use the last three skills as he like. He wanted to also get Rewind added but it was deemed too powerful for the first phase.

The developers wanted an event not a one sided massacre.

Chapter 827 – King Of Twilight III

The players noticed after a few spells being launched that the King of Twilight Hay-lale is not moving from his position. It did not take long for numerous spells to be launched at him which Adrian already knew that they would do so.

The King of Twilight Hay-lale used Burst Blight in an area around him. The moment the spells and long-range weapons hit the magic circles, it exploded and even dealt damage to those that came close to him. The players immediately knew that their attacks became useless once more as they never seen a boss monster use an offensive attack to defend.

"Why do I feel like I am fighting big brother?" Creepysoo blurted out which made his team members look at him as those titles are often only used by him for specific persons. There are three people that he uses that title but only one of those three have monsters and skills that can push or pull a person.

"I mean he is here as an audience member so it should not be him. I guess they only used the data about him which means I have an edge as I know how he fights.

"It is modeled after the Demon!" One of the players made a realization as he was one of the unfortunate souls that were sucked inside a black hole once.

The players may or may not have noticed but the King of Twilight Hay-lale smiled as Adrian also smiled as well. Adrian knew that the misunderstanding is just right as he did not want to reveal that he is actually fighting them. Some of the players then became more enthusiastic about defeating the boss monster as they wanted to know if they can defeat the Demon in game.

"Darkness is always within my grasp. Grasping Darkness!" The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated as the floor area of the central altar got covered in darkness, but it did not damage the players.

"Devour everything in the world, Black Sun!" the King of Twilight Hay-lale muttered as his weapon, Silim, rose once again to the air.

"Everyone, getaway from the floor." Creepysoo stated as he warned all his team members. If it is really modeled after his big brother, then this darkness might be Quantum Cascade. It should be an invisible skill, but they are not fighting a demon right now but a god that can control light and darkness.

It was not only Creepysoo's team that escaped to the area that is covered in darkness as the Japanese national team also escaped to the periphery. When Creepysoo saw them, he immediately knew that the old man was the one that warned them. Some players saw the two national teams go to the edge of the altar, but they were already too late.

The Black Sun made an appearance once more, but the players already know how to counter it. What they did not expect is the next thing that followed. The darkness that covered the floor area suddenly bound their bodies and dragged them to the Black Sun.

Some players managed to destroy the darkness that bound them but about 30% of them got sucked inside the black sun. The tormenting cries of the players that got sucked inside the black sun reverberated as they are almost dead when they were spit out.

"It seems that the enemy is really modeled after Equinox." Vayu stated as their team moved closer to the South Korean National team.

"If they really did then this event would already be a lost cause. I have never really won against big brother but that is just an AI. I will pour all of my frustrations against it as I have not gotten my revenge. Taste my vengeance!" Creepysoo stated as he finally summoned all his undead knights.

"You do know that he might hear you as he is in the audience, right?" Vayu stated as he started gathering wind elemental energy.

"I meant...I will kill this imposter that is using big brother's tactics." Creepysoo corrected himself while trying to look for a camera.

The others finally noticed that the health of the boss monster has finally been reduced to 90%. The King of Twilight might have killed some of them but there are still more than eighty of them. They can still manage, and they soon started to take attention for the contribution board.

The leading ones are the Chinese national team due to the god slayer weapon that Hou Yiwei possesses. They knew that they cannot top that weapon but that also meant that the attention of the boss monster is focused on them. They noticed that all the attacks of the boss monster were headed towards the Chinese national team.

"I am acting like a proper boss monster, right?" Adrian muttered which the developers said that is fine.

His character is still affected by taunting skills and such which is why his aggro switches to the tanks. He already found the most troublesome players but that does not mean he can just move to eliminate them as he must focus aggro on the ones that are identified as priority targets.

"Can't they damage me faster?" Adrian thought as he is already bored being rooted into place, but his prayers are soon answered.

"God Slaying Assault!" Hou Yiwei muttered as he released ten arrows of pure energy.

Adrian did not even block the arrows as his current priority target at that time was Frey. All of the ten arrows hit him cleanly, and his health finally dropped down to 89%. A smile could be seen from the lips of the King of Twilight Hay-lale.

"Finally, it is phase two." Adrian muttered.

The moment the King of Twilight dropped to 89% health, a powerful shockwave dispersed all the players to the edge of the altar. The boss monster that was rooted in place suddenly grew a bit taller and its weapons suddenly transformed into something else. The beautiful floating weapons suddenly turned into a sword.

The King of Twilight then gripped the sword while his robe turned into armor that is fit for a knight.

Chapter 828 – King Of Twilight IV

[The King of Twilight Hay-lale has equipped the Sun Destroyer Sword.]

[The King of Twilight Hay-lale's aptitude has changed to that of a warrior.]

All the players changed their gazes, the moment the boss monster had moved from his position. It is no longer a boss monster that will just stay in place and attack a person with spells but a walking calamity. The sword is the former floating orb which meant that the sword is also divine in nature.

[You are now in Sword Stance Form.]

[You have unlocked the skill Sun Flare Slash.]

[You have unlocked the skill Light Fang / Darkness Fangs Mode.]

[You have unlocked the ultimate skill Vengeance of Light and Darkness.]

"Finally, something interesting than just waiting for them to attack.]

Adrian is now going to present to the audience what they paid for. The moment he gripped the sword, he immediately sent out one of his skills called Sun Flare Slash. An energy wave that contained the light and heat of the sun is sent towards in a direction where many players are gathered.

With his form change, the aggro is also reset which meant that he will not get a priority target as long as he does not get damaged. He sent the Sun Flare Slash towards the largest group as he wants them to scatter. If they group up, then they will have more chances of planning as the communication function is off for this match.

Adrian thought that there is no one brave enough to face him directly, but he is mistaken. Frey did not shy away from battle as a Valkyrie gets more powerful the longer the battle ensues. She is also being fully supported by her team members which meant that she will not die as long as they are also alive.

"Let us cull the problematic priests first." Adrian muttered but his avatar did not speak it as it is not a monologue of the boss monster.

Adrian overpowered Frey for a moment and sent her flying towards the edge. She might be supported by all her team members but that does not mean she can go toe to toe with a boss monster. Adrian wanted to reach the closest priest player, but he got blocked by all of her team members.

As expected, it was not easy for Adrian to just waltz in and defeat the priest players as they are definitely the most essential when it comes to raids. He is thinking of a solution to this dilemma when a rain of arrows suddenly started to reach him. With a simple wave of his sword, all arrows that would have hit his vital part on his body got blocked.

Adrian did not want a priority target, but one player activated it because of the arrows that hit him. His priority target became Hou Yiwei. Adrian charged towards him as he needed to at least deal 30% of his health to delete the priority target on Hou Yiwei.

Everything would have been a breeze if no tank players existed. Their taunts shifted the aggro on them, and Adrian felt that they are more in sync despite being in different teams. The way the tanks players would use taunt is scary to the degree that Adrian could not target the person he wants.

"This must be how boss monsters feel when there is a raid. Do I also have an enrage function?" Adrian thought as the tanks are the most irritating people in this event.

Adrian released another Sun Flare Slash as the cooldown of the skill is already refreshed. Needless to say, the tank players just absorbed the damage that the skill used which made Adrian a bit impatient. He needed to eliminate another 10% or else they would burst him down later as the Sword Stance Form is his most durable form.

"Use Darkness Fangs Mode." Adrian stated as the Silim Sword split into two and darkness enveloped the land.

"I have 86% health left and I can only use the skill Vengeance of Light and Darkness when my health drops to 81%. I just need to damage them enough so that they would be killed when I use the ultimate skill." Adrian thought.

[You have entered Darkness Fangs Mode.]

[Speed is increased by 30% and attacks are halved for each sword swing.]

[Sun Flare Slash has transformed into Dark Twin Star Slash.]

The splitting of the sword made others pause as the taunts that they used became cleansed. The King of twilight Hay-lale suddenly became much faster than before. His first victim is a priest player from the Polish national team.

"Dark Twin Star Slash!" Adrian muttered.

The King of twilight Hay-lale then released two consecutive slashes that contained the pure darkness element. The two energy waves wreaked havoc on the support players that they were aimed at as the first slash was blocked by the tanks but the second one passed through the tanks and hit those behind them.

The King of twilight Hay-lale then charged towards the next support players but he did not notice that a sword is already piercing his stomach. As if having no skeleton is a thing, the King of twilight Hay-lale twisted his body to see the player piercing him and learned that it was Vayu.

Vayu is now fully charged with wind elemental energy which meant that he is already faster than the King of twilight Hay-lale. That is not all as numerous curses suddenly started to be placed on the boss monster's body.

"The old man practically gave them an opening." Adrian muttered as he saw his health bar dropping at a ridiculously fast pace.

The King of Twilight Hay-lale tried to shake off Vayu but the old man is not even budging. It did not take long for Adrian to see that his health has already dropped to 80.76% and is now eligible to use the ultimate skill.

"Vengeance of Light and Darkness!" The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated as his voice echoed.

Chapter 829 – King Of Twilight V

The King of Twilight Hay-lale tried to shake off Vayu but the old man is not even budging. It did not take long for Adrian to see that his health has already dropped to 80.76% and is now eligible to use the ultimate skill.

"Vengeance of Light and Darkness!" The King of Twilight Hay-lale stated as his voice echoed.

A burst of light and darkness elemental energies then came out from the King of Twilight Hay-lale's body. The burst of energy then manifested into two swords that have opposing elements. One sword is made of pure light while the other is made of pure darkness.

The two swords hanging of top of their heads are like two swords of Damocles. The King of Twilight Hay-lale made a downward swinging motion and the two swords of opposing elements came down. The players had no choice but to either evade or block but the area of effect is the whole altar.

One half of the altar is hit by the sword of pure light while the other is hit by the sword of pure darkness. The area affected by the sword of pure light is flooded with a shining light while the area affected by the sword of pure darkness is covered in a swamp of darkness.

[You cannot move due to the recoil of the ultimate skill.]

With just this skill, Adrian has already successfully reduced the contestants to 70%. The downside is that he is now target practice for five minutes. He cannot move from his location for five minutes due to the skill recoil. The players who survived has noticed this and immediately exacted their revenge.

[Your health has dropped to 79.9%.]

A shockwave is once again emitted when Adrian received this notification as another form change will occur. The Silim Sword has changed its form to a long-curved weapon with a string as it is now the Silim Bow.

[You are now in Dexterous Bow Form.]

[All skills related to Sword Stance Form has been deleted.]

[You have unlocked the skill Piercing Blight.]

[You have unlocked the skill Dawn and Dusk Enchantment]

[You have unlocked the ultimate skill Falling Star Apocalypse.]

The players then noticed that the armor that the King of Twilight Hay-lale's has changed from a sturdy looking armor to that of light armor. His weapon is now that of a bow which meant that their opponent will now focus on long range attacks.

"All we got to do is attack in melee range." Sveto stated as he finally can make his move. The sword wielding boss monster is not something he can easily deal with.

Sveto transformed his weapon to a ball chain and shot it towards the boss monster. Since Adrian has just transformed, he did easily avoid the chain ball. The chain ball attached to one of his wrists and Sveto pulled it which made him unable to pull the bowstring momentarily.

Albeit momentarily, being unable to attack meant that he is now in a precarious spot. Magic circles are then placed on his body by an invisible entity while a sword called a Kris went inside of his body. Not only that but he could see invisible strings that are attached to his body that is directed towards a doll.

The King of Twilight Hay-lale pulled on the chain which made Sveto almost fly but Anastacia used her nature magic to solidify his footing. The boss monster could not even attack or move from his position which meant that it is free real estate.

Numerous spells and skills soon came flying towards Adrian which made his health get reduced to a terrifying degree. The speed from 79.9% to 70% is only ten minutes which he feared the most as his defense is reduced in this form compared to his first form.

"No choice! Falling Star Apocalypse!" Adrian activated the ultimate skill as he cannot activate his other skills.

The body of the boss monster that has been bound is suddenly being pulled by a great force. Even the chain ball could not root him into place as he rose a hundred meters above the sky.

"That is not a fun experience." Adrian thought as he released three arrows from his bow simultaneously.

The three arrows soon became larger and larger as they transformed into three black suns. The three black suns are now falling towards the whole altar with no way of avoiding. Those that do not have protection skills or tanks anymore could only lament their misfortune.

Three loud explosions sounded when the three black suns hit the altar. The King of Twilight Hay-lale then descended to the altar once again in an exhausted state. Even Adrian could not see the surroundings as the smoke has yet to settle but he knows the remaining number of contestants left.

[Remaining Contestants: 61%]

The smoke finally cleared with players being heavily damaged. Some were lucky as they were only affected by the edge of the skill, but some took the hit head on like a champ. Many of them died but the fighting spirit of the players have yet to waver.

Before the King of Twilight Hay-lale could even move, a skill in the form of a phoenix came crashing towards his body. The boss monster's body is engulfed in the flames and received significant damage from the fire. The phoenix even dragged the boss monster to the edge of the altar before vanishing.

When the flames in the shape of a phoenix vanished, the body of the King of Twilight Hay-lale could also not be found. The next thing that the players heard is the squeal of one of their own as they turned into particles of light. They turned to the sound of the squeal, but they could not find the perpetrator.

A few seconds later, they heard another scream but this time they saw the player dying. A dagger emerging from the chest of the dying player could be seen while an entity made of pure darkness came from the ground.. The players only realized that the whole floor area is covered with darkness which meant that anyone of them is a potential target.

Chapter 830 – King Of Twilight VI

As soon as Adrian got hit with the Phoenix Shot, he immediately entered the next phase. A shockwave did not erupt from his body this time as the next form is not something that should be flashy.

[You are now in Dimming Twin Daggers Form.]

[All skills related to Dexterous Bow Form has been deleted.]

[You have unlocked the skill Blinking Light.]

[You have unlocked the skill Sinking Darkness.]

[You have unlocked the ultimate skill Fall of Light, Calm of Night.]

The moment he changed his form, he already used the second skill called Sinking Darkness. It is a skill that created a zone covered in darkness and he could freely dive in and out from that darkness. It is different from his Soul Impale skill that increased his attack power as that skill could potentially one shot an opponent if he hits a basic attack.

With the cover of the smoke, the players did not even notice that a thin layer of darkness has enveloped the entire altar. They might have thought it is an after effect of the last skill that the boss monster did, but they are gravely mistaken.

Adrian swiftly assassinated those that can be killed easily. He steadily culled the opponents until they are now left with only less than half of the original. He is about to execute the player from the United States National team called Null as he found it troublesome to deal with her anti-magic.

As his daggers were about to rise from the darkness, a sharp pain suddenly erupted from his shoulder. A pair of daggers are now plunged on his right shoulder. He was attacked sneakily, and he did not even detect the perpetrator.

Because he was attacked while in the Sinking Darkness, his concealment passive got broken and he will need to resurface for one minute. As his body surfaced from the darkness, the one who attacked him also surfaced with him. He looked at the player that managed to attack him and it was none other than Shado.

"As expected of the Shadow Assassin but to think that he could even conceal his presence in the shadow realm. Then again, he is more well versed in moving in that realm than I am. If I had Sirius at my call, then this opponent would not have been able to attack me in the shadow realm." Adrian muttered as his body surfaced to the real world.

The players finally saw the new form of the boss monster that they are facing. The King of Twilight Hay-lale is now wearing cloth armor instead of light armor. The weapon turned into two daggers instead of a bow while a hooded robe made of darkness is flowing behind his back.

Upon seeing the boss monster in a stance fit for an assassin, those that are remaining adjusted their playstyle. The warriors made sure that the boss monster did not leave a certain area as assassins that can freely use the terrain is a real danger. Upon seeing that the boss monster changed to another form, they now verified that the King of Twilight will change form every 10% of his health being reduced.

They might not know how far this function is but if he was based on the player known as the Demon then they can expect at least five weapons. While those that know Adrian know that he will have seven forms if all of his armaments are to be used. The players did not let the King of Twilight to leave their encirclement, but they might have thought that he is easily contained.

"Blinking Light!" The King of Twilight Hay-lale muttered as his body blinked in and out of existence until it vanished.

The King of Twilight Hay-lale then appeared behind Hou Yiwei as he attempted to hit the archer with a back stab. Everything would have been fine, but Hou Yiwei turned his bow into twin swords and parried the attack. The Twin Blades then followed up with attack that the The King of Twilight Hay-lale could not block as his arms became numbed due to parrying Hou Yiwei's attack.

Before his arms could recover from the stun status ailment, Hou Yiwei and the Twin Blades attacked him continuously. The King of Twilight Hay-lale could only try dodging their attacks but the other players did not let him move freely. Multiple status ailments and status debuffs are all aimed at the King of Twilight Hay-lale which greatly reduced his combat capacity.

It did not take long for the King of Twilight Hay-lale's health to steadily decrease once more. Despite being buffed, he is still fighting more than 50 opponents that could be said to be members of the high ranks. His opponents are also getting accustomed to his movements which means he would be at a disadvantage if he does not end the fight early.

"Fall of Light!" Adrian muttered as he needed to cull more of his opponents.

The King of Twilight Hay-lale released a flurry of daggers made of light that did not damage the opponent but marked them. The daggers then emitted a black magic circle to show that they have been successfully marked as a target. Some managed to dodge the daggers but that meant those behind them had been marked instead.

"Calm of Night." The King of Twilight Hay-lale muttered which sent chills down to the bones of the ten players that were marked.

The ten players that were marked, all fell down and turned into particles of light as the body of the King of Twilight Hay-lale vanished. After all the players marked turned into particles of light, the King of Twilight Hay-lale appeared in the center of the altar and could no longer move due to exhaustion.

The players that are left could not follow his movements when he executed the ultimate skill but that did not mean that they cannot avenge their fallen comrades.. A rain of spells and attacks came towards the center of the altar that engulfed the King of Twilight Hay-lale.
