

O Summoner 871

Chapter 871 – The Map Of The Fallen

"She is more in line with what the Church of Light preach as a devil compared to being a goddess. To wipe a race just because they signify that the angels do not need her. I am surprised that the other gods do not want her hanged or something." Adrian stated.

"Back then, the threat of the dark gods was more prevalent and the death of the majority of the Gods of Judgement affected the balance of the godly hierarchy." Elder Nat stated.

Adrian knows about that as the Gods of Judgement were a bit special from other gods as they can put laws to seal the power of gods. As a result of their unique power, they were the second targets after the Asmodians. In the end, only one Goddess of Judgement is left but she is still recovering from her wounds.

"That is for our talk about the past of the giants. We would take years to even finish the story. We must focus on what you came here for. The princess told me that you want to enter the Chaos Springs. I am afraid that will not be possible because of circumstances." Elder Nat stated.

"I was told the same, but can I know the reason why it is not possible. It is not that we are forbidden but you use the word impossible. Is something impeding the process to enter the Chaos Springs?" Adrian asked as he knew the meaning behind the words spoken to him.

"We are not living in this kingdom high up in the clouds just because we want to. The Chaos Springs is a pocket dimension that is located here in our kingdom. The key to enter it is possessed by royalty, but we cannot go in because it is a Chaotic Pocket Dimension. I believe that you know of what I am speaking of." Elder Nat stated.

"Chaotic Pocket Dimensions are pocket dimensions that drastically change in physical laws. It makes them dangerous for those that cannot adapt to multiple elements. We, demons, could survive there as our bodies can even stay alive in dimensions with heavy gravity.

One thing that also makes them unique is that Chaos Pocket Dimensions are filled to the brim of elemental energy of all types. It is one of the reasons why it is a great space to evolve my soulbound that needs the energy of all elements." Adrian stated.

"We would probably die if we stepped foot in that dimension." Solstice stated.

"I agree. We better stay here and protect the entrance just in case." Lycan stated as he wanted an excuse to not go inside.

"That is fine. I just need to go inside the dimension anyways. I have a map so I will not get lost and find the exit once I am done with my business." Adrian replied.

"Did you say map?" Elder Nat asked.

"Yes. I have a map that the elven elders said would be useful in finding the Chaos Springs." Adrian replied as he took out the map as he will do so anyway. He needed to verify if the map is indeed authentic and not just a fake copy that dropped.

Elder Nat looked at the map and exclaimed in surprise. His eyes could not believe what he sees as this was the thing that they need to traverse the Chaos Springs. The Fallen gave this map as an heirloom to the giants but it was lost a long time ago.

The Map of the Fallen has multiple copies of which are now lost in time. The giants only know that this item is needed to safely traverse the Chaos Springs. Of course, the ones that need to traverse the Chaos Springs must have sufficient elemental resistance or else they will likely die even with a map.

"This is the Map of the Fallen! Seeing that the runes is written in our language, this is authentic. Where did you get his one, young demon?" Elder Nat asked but Adrian just answered that he got it from defeating an undead.

"If that is the case Elder Nat, we can send in our warriors with Equinox when he enters. They have sufficient elemental resistance and should survive the journey. It has been told that a treasure is hidden inside the Chaos Springs that can help us against the angels." Princess Dainta suddenly stated.

"I am sorry as the princess is a bit excited. It would be rude for us not to ask Equinox for permission to join since he is the owner of the map. Would you let us partake in the journey inside?" General Goliath asked.

"I have no problem as you guys have the key and I have the map. We cannot go inside without the aid of one another. But we first need to enter with a small force first. If we bring numerous soldiers, then they might get killed if it is dangerous inside." Adrian stated.

"I agree as well. We have opened the gate before and entered. The result was catastrophic as only one out of the ten that went inside returned barely alive. With a demon accompanying them then they might be safe. We humbly impose on you." General Goliath stated as he bowed towards Adrian.

"Bowing is a bit excessive. It is better if we help each other out as we will traverse an unknown chaotic pocket dimension. I wanted to be sure, but you said that you opened the gate. Does that mean that the entrance is here in your kingdom?" Adrian stated as he gestured General Goliath to stop bowing.

"Yes. The entrance is located in the kingdom. You can say that we are also the guardians of that gate since there are some odd monsters that would pop out of the pocket dimension from time to time. It is also the reason why we live high up in the clouds as the Nephilim trusted us to guard this gate.." Princess Dainta stated as the group now learned why the giants live up in the clouds.

Chapter 872 – Entering The Chaos Springs

Adrian agreed to get inside the Chaos Springs with soldiers from the giant race. He will be escorted with two elite guards from the royal guards. The wanted to send at least five but Adrian argued that he cannot easily save them if something were to happen that is out of his control.

Adrian could at least send out two of the giants out of the pocket dimension. He does not want the NPCs to die just because he cannot protect all of them. It would leave a sour taste in his mouth that he would let them die when they are accompanying him in his adventure.

He is accompanied by two of the giant royal guards that seems to be twins. They are five meters tall and are significantly leaner compared to the other giants as it seems they are scouts. They seem to be more agile and also choose to use daggers instead of the traditional maces that giants use.

They gathered in the royal audience hall where a large throne is located with no one sitting on the throne. They already knew the reason why the throne is empty as the current king is now dying from old age. He has yet to decide on a successor because of the incompetent ones he had raised.

The current king might be dying but he can still move in the confines of the castle. Although he is still at rest right now as he cannot be always moving. He had given order to Princess Dainta to open the gate as she already know of the way to process the key.

It seems that Princess Dainta is the one that is acting as the crown princess at the moment and the most viable one for the throne. The only thing that she needs to do is open the gate and she proceeded to the middle of the audience hall.

The middle of the audience hall had a patterned floor that looks ancient to some extent. The only thing that needs to be done is the insertion of the key. Princess Dainta stepped up and took out a golden orb with strange runes that even Adrian could not discern.

She inserted this golden orb inside of the center of the floor pattern and it suddenly started to activate. The circular floor pattern suddenly started spinning and spinning as it lifted itself off the floor. A circular gate like thing suddenly emerged and created a portal.

[You have discovered the Gate for the Chaos Springs.]

[The Map of the Fallen is reacting strongly towards the Chaos Springs.]

The Map of the Fallen that was hiding inside of his inventory suddenly shot out. It glowed in a golden light as well, but it started to dematerialize into golden light. The golden light then merged with Adrian's body.

[The Map of the Fallen has been bound to the player Equinox.]

[You now have access to a Chaotic Pocket Dimension.]

[In order to be able to visit the dimension anytime without the key or passing through the gate, you must be able to fully explore the Chaotic Springs.]

The gate that appeared looked like an ancient portal made by past civilizations. Adrian could feel that the gate tore up the space in front of it. The Chaotic Springs is a pocket dimension that is located at this very location and the golden orb that was the key is something to safely open it up.

Adrian could easily tear up the space to open the pocket dimension as well but that would result in a catastrophic explosion that will create a black hole. A black hole large enough that it would be able to destroy this entire kingdom in a blink of an eye.

"If I completely explore it then I will be able to enter the Chaos Springs at any given time. The Map of the Fallen is no longer in my inventory though. Then again, it was a map with only runes on it and not really a way to tell direction." Adrian stated.

"The map! What happened to the map!?" Elder Nat lamented as he saw that the map suddenly disintegrating when the portal was opened.

"You do not need to worry as it seems to have bonded with me." Adrian replied.

"I wanted to copy it after you have finished investigating." Elder Nat stated as he cried that he was not able to recreate a piece of the relic.

"He is like that so please do not be alarmed. He is a great fanatic when it comes to relics of our pasts. Other than that bad habit of him, he is a great elder that everyone looks up to." Princess Dainta stated.

"I see. It seems that there are no ordinary old men in this world as well. No wonder his eyes sparkled like a kid when he learned that the map was authentic. He even rubbed his face on it which I thought was just a part of the investigation process." Adrian replied with a whisper.

"Anyways, we are entering. I will inform you of the things inside and we will retreat if I deem it impossible to continue at our current strength." Adrian said as he marked the floor in front of the gate using a Dimensional Teleportation magic circle.

In another corner of the world, most of the angels gathered there. They were the missing high officials of the Church of Light that are trying to break the seal of the gate to free the angels. They were resting when they suddenly felt that the seal of the gate was reacting to something.

"Your Eminence Pristina! The gate is reacting to something!" One of the angels reported as the seal of the gate suddenly glowed in a golden light.

"It is the other gate! This gate is reacting to the presence of another gate.. Mark and follow the energy signature before it vanishes!" Pristina stated as she summoned three of the best angels that can detect energy.

Chapter 873 – Inside The Chaos Springs

[You have entered the Chaos Springs.]

[You are not the first player to enter the Chaos Springs. No experience bonus will be acquired.]

"Oh!? A player already entered this place. A chaotic pocket dimension does generate random gates but for them to survive entering one should be pure luck. People who enter unstable pocket dimensions get killed upon entry as the gravitational forces of the dimension will stretch their bodies." Adrian thought.

Adrian went inside the gate with the twin giants, and they were greeted with numerous floating islands. The inside of the Chaotic Pocket Dimension looked normal as the area they came to only looked barren. Adrian thought that it was normal, but he then looked at the twin giants that were sweating.

"Is the temperature hot?" Adrian asked.

The male giant is named Tino while the female giant is named Tina. They were fairly young for giants as they were only 266 years old, but they were skilled for their age. They were the best giants that can adapt to any situation as they were blessed with a different physique compared to the other giants.

"This is nothing, Champion Equinox. We are simply getting used to the hot temperature of this island. It seems that it is barren but the intense heat from the ground and the surroundings are making us sweat." Tino replied.

"Yes. We only need to take a few minutes to become resistant. The Titan of the Sun has blessed us with this physique after all." Tina stated.

The two were indeed blessed by something but it was definitely a dead god. Their prayers might have reached remnants of their god which made a miracle happen. They have the skill called the Physique of the Sun Titan. Both of them are tanner compared to the other giants as a result, but they can easily cope up with any surroundings as a result.

"I see. The ground might be hot, and I cannot feel it because I am floating." Adrian stated as his cloak has a special ability to let him levitate a few inches above the ground. With his demon physique, he will also not be troubled much from the surrounding temperature.

"Greater Summon: Sirius!"

"Greater Summon: Kanlaon!"

"Greater Summon: Dodu!"

Adrian summoned three of his soulbounds in order to start the search for the perfect spot. The current floating island that they are on right now is barren and filled with sand. It also has blazing hot temperatures that will make someone with no heat resistance get damaged. Although, if they manage to survive here for some time then they might be able to get Heat Resistance.

When Adrian summoned the three soulbounds, the twin giants became amazed as the aura of the three monsters is not normal. They even see that a dragon is present which is said to be an apex species.

"Sirius scout ahead and warn us of danger. Kanlaon will fly above us and see if there are aerial threats. Dodu follow behind us and absorb the damage if a sneak attack occurs." Adrian commanded and his three soulbounds followed.

"Paradox, emit mana in a ten-meter radius every minute to detect enemies." Adrian stated.

"Affirmative." The Cube of Paradox replied which also shocked the twin giants.

Tino and Tina were already briefed that they should be respectful towards the guests. They were even instructed to throw away their lives if the demon were to be in danger. The thought that they did not need to worry about their guest occurred to them when he started releasing powerful beasts.

"Let us move. Kanlaon will dictate the way that we will be going." Adrian commanded as only Kanlaon can feel the natural elements.

The group then followed Kanlaon as the map that Adrian has registered is only showing outlines. The details of the map in his interface are only updated when he is in the general area. No wonder, he was instructed to fully explore the Chaos Springs to be granted continuous access.

The group soon ended up on the edge of the current floating island with no means of crossing towards the other side. Sirius, who was scouting in advance, stopped suddenly and emitted a menacing growl. Even Kanlaon that freely flew around the sky suddenly focused on one spot.

The sand on the edge of the island suddenly started to rise up. A red core then appeared with sand suddenly swirling around it. A few seconds later, a golem made of sand suddenly appeared before them.

[The Guardian of the Barren Spring has been awoken.]

[Destroy the guardian in order to get to the next area.]

Monster: Guardian of the Barren Spring

Level: 200

Health: 100%

Mana: 100%

Description: A golem made of sand that is filled with the earth and fire element. Its body is almost immune to physical attacks and will regenerate continuously as long as sand is around.

"Ready for combat!" Adrian shouted.

"Do you think my brother is doing fine?" Solstice asked as she remained in the royal castle.

"He is fine. He can always get out with the magic circle imprinted here. It is a shame that we cannot contact him via the chat since the area he is inside of seems to be special. Maybe a big quest is located there somewhere." Lycan replied.

"Still, maybe we should have accompanied him. It is boring waiting in the castle." Solstice stated.

As soon as Solstice stated that, one of the Hexaminis suddenly flew towards the royal castle while blinking red light. When the guards saw that, numerous soldiers suddenly came out of the castle and charged towards the kingdom's front gate. The two who saw this suddenly came to look for Princess Dainta as they did not see that happen when they came here.

"Princess! Is there something wrong?" Solstice asked.

"I hate to say this, but angels are attacking about to attack our kingdom. The mechanical guards have yet to fully recuperate fighting all of you which means they will have an easier time getting inside.." Princess Dainta stated as she also prepared for combat.

Chapter 874 – Angel Attack I

"We shall help! We are the reasons that the mechanical guards that you have are not fully powered." Solstice stated.

"No...I cannot possibly ask our guests to fight for our kingdom." Princess Dainta replied.

"You do not have to worry as we too have a bone to pick on them. The angels have also persecuted our races and they only stopped when we fully integrated with human society." Lycan stated.

"More like they only stopped because they cannot easily distinguish us from humans." Solstice stated with a bit of anger.

Princess Dainta already knew that the two of them were not humans since they revealed that they are a vampire and a werewolf. In fact, they might be beneficial to the fight as there have been legends in the history books that angels fought vampires in equal strength.

"If you die then the Champion might get angry at us." Princess Dainta argued as she also learned that Equinox was chosen by the Twin Gods as their champion.

"You do not have to worry about that because we will not die easily." Solstice reassured.

"If you are sure then what can I do to stop you. But promise me to escape if things go out of hand. Angels are not easy foes even for us. Only powerful angels could climb here because the mechanical guards were made to intercept them with all their might even at the cost of being destroyed." Princess Dainta stated.

====

"These pesky machines are difficult to deal with and verry annoying." A female angel that wields a spear stated.

"This is the territory of those pesky lower beings. To think that they managed to survive in a place this high." A male angel stated.

"Focus. These machines were made to kill us angels. Some of our brothers and sisters have fallen to them because of they underestimated them." Another male angel stated as he was battling the Hexadrom.

In fact, the number of Hexadrom and Hexaminis dropped by half because of how old their machinery was. The giants have told Adrian's group that there used to be ten times the number of these machines when the kingdom was first created but the machines rusted overtime.

The current Hexadrom and Hexaminis are the latest model before their creator died a few centuries ago. In fact, Adrian and the others were shocked that it was a Nephilim that created them, but she was not a combination of a long-lived race.

The creator of the mechanical guards was a Nephilim that is half angel and half human which also meant that she only had one side of wings. She was unable to fly using her wings, but she was a genius when it comes to creating golems.

She died after living for five thousand years. A Nephilim's life span is dictated by the races of the parent. Angels are beings that do not age as long as they have mana circulating in their body, but Nephilim are different. If they are half human, then they only live for a few thousand years depending on how well they utilize mana.

"An infidel created these abominations. Lower creatures do not even have the capacity of creating something like this." The male angel that seems to be their leader stated as he seemed to know that it was a Nephilim that created these machines.

"You are praising them too much, Ramiel. If our beloved goddess heard, you then you would be punished." The other male angel stated.

"They still had angel blood in their veins, Malach. Where else will they get the great intelligence to create such a thing." The female angel stated.

"You got a point Erelah. It seems that our blood is too great that it would even give great intellect to infidels." Malach stated.

"Are your Principalities' being chatter mouths? The energy signature disappeared above, and we need to investigate. If we fail, then it would be our heads that will be flying." Ramiel stated as even he is having a bit of difficulty battling the Hexadrom.

Just as intended, the Hexadrom and Hexaminis are indeed great for battling angels. The angels mainly used magic attacks using light magic, but they cannot hit the mechanical guards due to the barrier. It was made to perfectly deflect magic spells and somewhat give protection to physical attacks.

The Hexadrom and the Hexaminis would have been enough to deter Malach and Erelah away because they are only Heavenly Messengers in the realm of Principalities. It would have been perfect if Ramiel was not there because the mechanical guards were only created to deter up to the realm of Principalities.

The Hexadrom and Hexaminis were not created to defeat an angel of the Second Hierarchical Sphere of Heavenly Governors. Ramiel's body exploded with great power as his muscles bulged to a great degree when he injected light elemental energy on his body. With a great punch, he managed to create a hole on the body of the Hexadrom and destroy the barrier.

"As expected of a Heavenly Governor in the realm of Powers. A mindless mechanical thing is no match for him." Malach stated as he also managed to slowly damage the three Hexaminis attacking him.

"He is our superior so it should be expected that he can easily do that. He just did not want to use his power earlier as machines are not worthy of our might." Erelah stated as she praised Ramiel and dealt significant damage to the two Hexaminis that she is battling.

"We must finish investigating. No need to hold your powers. The future of the angel race might depend on that energy signature." Ramiel stated as he continued attacking the Hexadrom despite it recovering before its eyes.

The barrier that the Hexadrom keeps using seems to be easily destroyed by Ramiel as if he has a special ability to do so. A Heavenly Governor in the realm of Powers is given a blessing by the Goddess of Light and that means Ramiel has this special ability.

In fact, his ability is great for dealing with the Hexadrom.. The special ability given to him is Barrier Breaker which means he is a direct counter to the Hexadrom.

Chapter 875 – Angel Attack II

With a barrier breaking ability bestowed upon Ramiel, he easily damaged the Hexadrom to the point that it no longer could sustain the barrier on the clouds. The Hexadrom utilized almost all of its mana to repair itself and can no longer support the barrier projection.

The Hexaminis are the same as they were not created to easily deal with Principality level angels. Back then, most angels above the third hierarchy got sealed in the Silver City as punishment. Some of the strongest were not sealed but that did not mean they cannot escape being depowered.

The angels' power mainly come from their connection to the Silver City as it was a city always being bathed with light. It is also the only way for angels to stabilize their bodies that are almost purely spiritual lifeforms because they are made from bodies of fallen gods. Gods are also spiritual lifeforms which is why they cannot easily penetrate the barrier between worlds.

With the connection to the Silver City gone, the angels weakened. The powerful ones that survived were taken down by the Nephilim that had solid physical bodies. In the end, the angels also went into hiding and possessed the bodies of the believers of the Goddess of Light.

They were the reasons that the Goddess of Light could actually become very revered. They performed acts of miracles in helping people in order to hide their barbaric actions of hunting down the Nephilim back then. They acted as the real messengers of the Goddess of Light and put the blame on the Nephilim that the real monsters were the devils and the Nephilim.

They even told the world that the devils and demons were of the same kin and that they will bring destruction of the world. At this point in time, war between the dark gods ended and the living beings lost most of their leaders from fighting the dark gods.

It was the best age to reverse the public sentiment on the Church of Light when only those who need help are great in number. The angels killed almost all of the high position priests from the Church of Light and occupied it with their ranks that possessed human bodies. Even the Envoy of Light that greatly berated the angels for what they have done was cut down by them.

What the living beings remembered back then was the Church of Light helping everyone in their time of need. Afraid that their exploits will be revealed by the dead, they did their absolute best to persecute the Church of Death. In the end, the followers of the Church of Death cannot bear the animosity towards them when all they did was perform proper burial rights.

It was also not a good image for the Church of Death to have their Envoy become a pawn of a dark god. The Church of Light even accused the followers of the Church of Death that they use the dead to do their bidding. In the end, the people forgot what the real purpose of the Church of Death is and believed the Church of Light that helped them in their plight.

"The Hexadrom no longer has enough mana to do its duties." Princess Dainta stated as she peered from the clouds below.

The Hexadrom is already almost destroyed and is only continuing to operate due to the abundance of mana in the atmosphere. It is continuously healing its damage body parts and retreated. The Hexaminis also did the same action. The barrier that separated the clouds above is no longer there.

The angels also noticed this and flew up in the sky. They were greeted with the sight of a marvelous kingdom up in the clouds. The soldiers of the kingdom that were also giants greeted them with weapons large enough to easily squash a man.

"Filthy heathens!" Malach stated with a tone of great disgust.

"To think that these failures were really high up in the clouds." Erelah stated in a condescending tone as she views giants as abominations or failures. They were not perfect like them for the giants have varying sizes of limbs that make them close to abominations.

"The energy signature came from that castle. Follow! We have no time messing around with a bunch of trash." Ramiel stated as he did not even glance at the direction of the giants. He treated them like ants or air that is not worth his time.

Ramiel flew forward but a large bardiche suddenly came swinging down on him. The wielder of this bardiche is none other than General Goliath. Ramiel is supposed to ignore the attack, but he realized that there was a graze on his shoulder albeit a small one.

"If you move forward then the next thing that will fall is your head, you winged bastards." General Goliath stated with a great threat.

The other giant guards also created a perimeter around them. There were also archers on the walls of the kingdom as they were ready to shoot down the angels if they come closer. The angels did not think lightly of this as the ones they see as trash and imperfect beings are being arrogant against them who were the perfectly created beings.

"You dare, trash!" Malach stated as he activated his skill and conjured up swords made of light.

"The abominations need to be reminded of their place. You have to be thought that you must never dare speak again to perfect beings." Erelah stated as her magic power surged and materialized as golden lightning behind her.

"If you do not want your kingdom to burn then you better not block our way." Ramiel stated as his muscles suddenly tightened to the point that he could kill a monster with just one punch.

"You dare call yourselves perfect beings when you are nothing but spiritual lifeforms that need a host in order to even exist in the mortal plane. If you ask me the perfect beings are everyone except your race." Princess Dainta stated as she wanted to reply to her frustrations of being labeled as trash or abominations.

"You dare! Trash!" Malach stated as he launched one of his swords of light to hit Princess Dainta.

The sword of light did not even reach Princess Dainta as a pool of blood suddenly appeared and absorbed the sword's kinetic energy. It then dispersed back to light and the one who did it is none other than Solstice. This action made the angels look at her with great hostility as it was not an easy feat to cancel energy like that.

"Who would dare to block my punishment on the trash!" Malach shouted.

"You know. My brother told me that the angel race was a great pain in the ass, and he was correct. I did not think that they were narcissistic bastards with greatly inflated egos. I hate those people the most as I had my fair share of dealing with bastards like those." Solstice stated.

"You dare!" Malach shouted as he was about to launch another attack towards Solstice, but Ramiel stopped him as the latter knew that she would not be affected by half-baked attacks.

"Use your eyes and see that she is not something that you can easily deal with simple attacks. She might wear a weapon, but the scent of darkness is strong on that armored woman and that man over there." Ramiel warned as he knows that the opposite of light is darkness.

"They are not giants, but people shrouded by darkness itself. The Church of Darkness is no longer as active as we almost purged them from existence. Only a few people worship the God of Darkness Scotus which is why even their best paladins could not defeat us. Did they come here to stop us win our plans?" Erelah asked as light magic is cancelled by equal powered darkness magic.

"No, they are not followers of the Church of Darkness. Their souls are darkness itself as if they were born from within it. They can only be..." Ramiel stated.

"Erebian." All three angels stated simultaneously as they can also see the makeup of souls since they are spiritual lifeforms. Although they cannot see it like Adrian as the latter can see even the tiniest details of souls.

"What do we do? Erebian are not a great match up to go up against." Erelah asked as she knows that Erebian counter the likes of them since their kind can literally swallow light.

"Thankfully, we came during the morning. It also seems that they are not as powerful as me. The only one I sense as a threat is the one that attacked me earlier, but I can deal with him easily. Both of you can easily defeat the two as long as you do not let your guard down." Ramiel shared with Malach and Erelah via telepathy.

"Did you suddenly get scared? You know, my brother told me something interesting about the creation of you pathetic losers. The Goddess of Light, Luminaria, was it? Do not really care. Since she cannot create life easily, she had to beg the Goddess of Life Gaea to grant her some of her powers.

To think that your proud goddess bowed down to another goddess because she was inept of creating something. She also begged to create you narcissistic worthless souls into the world which is a great comedy in and of itself.." Solstice stated as she did not like people calling her trash of all things.

Chapter 876 – Angel Attack III

The insult that Solstice said towards the three angels made them snap. She did not think that it was really effective as it was something that Adrian told him. She did not even know if that was legit or not as she cannot absolutely verify everything that comes out of his brother's mouth.

She just let her mouth run wild as she cannot bear the things that the angels were spurring. People that tend to always run their mouths are also weak when it comes to verbal comebacks. She hit it right in the heart as Ramiel could not stand someone badmouthing their goddess.

The angel, Ramiel, suddenly boosted his body and wanted to separate Solstice' head from the rest of her body. He arrived about two feet away from Solstice and she did not even realized that the former arrived that fast. Solstice activated a defensive skill, but it was not fast enough to completely block Ramiel's hands as she can see that it will not make it.

Thankfully, General Goliath could see react as he charged using his bardiche. General Goliath and Ramiel started to clash head-to-head. Malach and Erelah saw this and immediately started to support Ramiel. Solstice immediately recovered from the shock as she needed to also support General Goliath.

"Wait! You must not join the general's fight." Princess Dainta stated as she stopped Solstice from charging in.

"But he will be overpowered." Solstice stated as she could see the levels of Ramiel and General Goliath.

Solstice could see that Ramiel was ten levels higher than General Goliath who was level 240. She knew that supporting him would be the best course of action, but she soon realized why Princess Dainta stopped her.

The archers on the walls launched their arrows straight towards Malach and Erelah which made them unable to support Ramiel. General Goliath and Ramiel could be seen fighting each other in almost equal strength and if Solstice joins then the general might lose focus.

Sometimes fighting as a team is not better when people have yet to even train with each other. If she joins, then she will only slow down the general. It is better if she focused on the two other angels that are trying to support Ramiel. Unlike them, the three angels have great coordination which means destroying that coordination is key to winning the battle.

"She is correct. Plus, our attacks seem to be extremely effective towards the angels since we are beings of darkness. I guess the elders were not wrong that we are definitely the best way to fight the angels." Lycan stated as he tried attacking Erelah and noticed that she was wary of him.

"If that is the case then, you take the spell casting one while I deal with the arrogant man." Solstice stated.

"We will support you if we see a chance. So, fight to your hearts content." Princess Dainta stated as she started to cast support spells to buff all her allies. Her support spells came in the form of songs as her beautiful voice could be heard throughout the battlefield.

Ramiel noticed this and wanted to charge towards Princess Dainta. General Goliath did not let him even step fifty meters near her. He would always push back the angel Ramiel as if it was easy. General Goliath is definitely someone that can rival a Diabolon when it comes to raw strength.

"It seems that even trash have great abilities." Ramiel stated as he did not want to believe that a giant is overpowering him despite using some of his strength.

"Masking your weakness with narcissism. Typical for winged bastard that can only run their mouths." General Goliath rebuked as both continued on their fight.

"Ramiel is having trouble. We need to help him." Erelah stated as she uses magic to block the ranged arrows that are coming towards their way.

"You are not the only one that thinks that. It is getting annoying trying to swat insects away." Malach replied as he is also doing what Erelah is currently doing. The arrows aimed at them were preventing them from getting close to Ramiel.

"Peekaboo!" Lycan stated as he suddenly appeared in front of Erelah and swiped using his claws. Erelah did not expect the sudden attack and got pushed back with Lycan.

"Erelah!" Malach stated as he manifested numerous swords of light in an attempt to kill Lycan.

"You should worry about yourself." Solstice stated as she conjured a blood red sword and created a large slash on Malach's unguarded back. The angel screamed in pain as this was the first time, he experienced this type of pain.

[You have dealt damage to a being of light. Bonus damage will be given.]

Malach crashed down to the cloud floor and Solstice followed up with a drop kick to his head. Both of them then pierced to the clouds as a result. Erelah saw this and tried to follow but Lycan grabbed her wings and threw him back to the sky.

"Sorry but my lady over there does not like unwanted visitors and nuisances." Lycan stated as his eyes changed from his usual happy smile to an extremely serious killer look.

"You shall pay for that!" Erelah stated as she gathered more light elemental energy around her.

"You have signed your death sentence the moment you challenged a being of light in a place where light is prevalent!" Erelah stated as numerous halos started to be created behind her.

"It is not the first time that I heard that we are at a disadvantage." Lycan stated as his body emitted more power, and his claws became sharper and deadlier.

====

Malach recovered from the shock from the sudden attack and spread his wings in order to stop his descent.. Solstice also flew using magic as she observed Malach who was dripping blood that was yellow in color instead of red which means the possessed body is no longer human in any sense which means the human they possessed has truly died.

Chapter 877 – Solstice Vs Malach

Malach stopped his descent and promptly got some distance from Solstice. He could no longer afford to be careless in front of the woman in golden armor in front of her. She hit him using a weapon, but he could not see which weapon as he can only see her floating as a golden armor.

"You wench! What did you slice my glorious body with!?" Malach shouted as his wound is not healing immediately which was strange. He is almost impervious to slashing attacks as he has already completely assimilated with the body that he received a few centuries ago.

Even angels need compatible hosts in order to fully assimilate in the mortal realm. If not, then the body they possess would rot or explode from the power that they have. It is basically their anchor to the mortal realm since they were spiritual beings.

"If you are shouting like a deranged animal then it must have hurt. Do not worry as I will have your head." Solstice stated as she created another sword using her blood.

"Do not be too confident, you wench!" Malach stated as he conjured a hundred swords made of light.

Solstice saw that her opponent is almost like her, but he uses mana to create weapons. She uses the blood of anything around him, but angels do not bleed as much as she thought. She slashed him at the back deeply, but Malach's blood did not even splatter.

"To think that you are a bloodborne. No wonder your attack stings a bit. We thought that we have completely purged your existence, but it seems that we need to search one more. We need to cleanse this world of the impure." Malach stated as he launched all the swords that he created towards Solstice.

Solstice did not back down and instead use more of her blood to create five small circular blood red shields. The five blood red shields would block attacks that were sure to hit Solstice as she charged towards Malach.

Malach did not even flinch or try to escape from Solstice charge. He just conjured up more swords made of light and attack using a barrage of those. Solstice had no choice but to transform her sword into a shield and block the numerous swords of light.

"Pathetic." Malach stated as he could see that he is now overpowering Solstice.

"He can conjure up that much and his mana is not even getting reduced." Solstice stated as she could see that her opponent is not even using mana.

Name: Malach

Level: 220

Health: 93%

Mana: 100%

She could clearly see that her opponent is not even utilizing his own mana. It means that he has an ability that lets him use the mana in his surroundings, but she does not know the condition for it to activate. She is usually not informed of things like this as she only thought of Pandemonium as a hobby or a past time.

She started learning more about the game the moment that she lost miserably to an NPC. She died to the NPC more than five times and also noticed that her opponent was not losing mana. The spells that her opponent used basically made it difficult for her to even come close.

Feeling the frustration, she dedicated more time to learn of her opponent, but she still lost. In the end, she turned to the forums, but no one has enough battle experience with NPCs that do not utilize their own mana. She decided to ask her brother about it as he had more gaming experience than her.

"An opponent that does not use their own mana. If it is like that then there should be special conditions if they do not use mana when using spells. For example, a lich has their life vessel to collect mana for them in their stead.

In exchange, the lich cannot move far from their life vessel as it has part of their soul inside and their weakness. If you find an opponent like that then your first option would be to scout the surroundings for special items." Adrian's voice ringed in her head.

Solstice looked around and noticed that nothing special is around them. Even the other angels did not have the same ability as Malach as they used their mana compared to him. Angels do not even use life vessels which means no item is holding a part of their soul to siphon mana for them.

"If there is no special item then there must be a condition for them to use mana. Even gods need to use their own mana to cast spells and such which means people who utilize the mana of the surroundings have pre-requisites." Adrian's voice ringed once more in her head.

"I just need to find that condition in order to defeat this arrogant prick!" Solstice thought.

She charged recklessly towards Malach to see the special condition up close. Whenever she tried to get close to him, Malach would create more swords of light and push her back as if he is afraid of Solstice getting near him.

"Why is he not letting me near him?" Solstice thought.

An hour into the fight, Solstice could see that Malach was also moving slowly away from something. He was not in that position an hour ago. She also noticed that he cannot conjure up swords of light when he slightly moved which made her breathe a little.

As she is pondering on why Malach moved, the shadow cast by the bean stalk suddenly fell upon her. Upon noticing the shadow of the bean stalk covering her armor, she finally had an epiphany on the special condition for Malach to continue creating swords of light.

"I still have 75% health from fighting as he is not going all out against me. I need to force a chance of testing my theory on how he is not using mana.." Solstice thought as she sacrificed 15% of her health to create a hundred weapons made of her own blood.

Chapter 878 – Lycan Vs Erelah

"You should worry about that female trash of yours. Malach is not someone that can be defeated by a mere trash. He will probably tear her limb from limb before ending her pathetic life." Erelah taunted as she recovered from being attacked.

She managed to erect a shield to prevent Lycan from hitting her body just in time. She did get sent flying back as a result of the force even though she managed to block the attack. She is currently amassing light elemental energy and creating some sort of sigil behind her.

"If I were you, I would worry about that companion of yours with a foul mouth like yours. She is more powerful than me which is why I would say that the pathetic excuse for an angel like him will die. Since only foul words come out of your mouth, maybe I should make sure that mouth of yours gets ripped." Lycan stated as he started to pour more ferocity into his body.

"No wonder I smell dog. I remember that your race needed to be severely trained back then. I just need to put a leash on you and you will be back to not barking at another person. It seems that your trainer did not push more discipline on you." Erelah stated as she fired the spell 'Light Ray' from her fingertips.

The beam of light from Erelah's fingertips is fast and she did not have the need to chant the magic spell. Her Principality revolved around quick manipulation of light elemental energy. She could easily cancel the cast time of any spell as long as there is an abundant number of light elemental energy in the surroundings.

She was sure that her 'Light Ray' would hit her target, but Lycan was no longer in her line of sight. She did not expect that her target would be gone but she was severely mistaken. Sharp claws suddenly greeted her face and scratched her mouth.

"AHH!" Erelah released a piercing scream as her face is now bleeding with her mouth partially damaged.

Lycan noticed that he did increased damage against Erelah due to him being a child born of darkness. If this is going to be a great boon during this fight, then he could actually win. The enemy in front of him is only a few levels above him and he already broke through level 200 thanks to the experience buff that was given since the Pandelympics was a big success.

"I can win as long as I do not get careless." Lycan thought.

"You mongrel! Piece of trash!" Erelah shouted as she lost all reason from her face being partially deformed from Lycan's attack.

The surrounding light elemental energy suddenly shook as Erelah lost her sanity. The light elemental energy around her started going berserk and she fired light elemental spells recklessly. Her attacks even reached the wall of the kingdom, but the strength was not enough to dent it.

"She almost lost her sanity, but she can still be precise in using spells. All the mages that broke their mind will be jealous of her." Lycan stated as he needed to end her opponent.

Erelah is like a ballista continuously firing light elemental spells and her mana is not even close to getting halved. It seems that she also has a skill that cuts down the mana cost of her skills as long as she does not move from her position. This also meant that Lycan cannot come close to her easily as she is now in pure attack mode.

He tried to come close to land another attack, but all the spells suddenly got directed at him. There was no shred of beauty or majesty from the way that Erelah attacked. She laughed maniacally while releasing multiple low ranked light elemental spells.

"Erelah has gone berserk! She would only calm down after an hour or so." Ramiel thought.

"It seems that your mind is elsewhere. How dare you look down on me!" General Goliath stated as he brought down his bardiche came down. The excessive force from blocking General Goliath's attack made the arrows aimed at Ramiel go out of course.

"You giants are still as stubborn as before. You did not want to submit to us even though you are a lower species that was only born from a lower species born from us." Ramiel replied to which General Goliath responded with more aggression.

In fact, the whole thing was Solstice's plan as they knew that they would lose if they did not agitate their opponents. General Goliath agreed because he could feel that he will not be enough to defeat Ramiel even with the support of the others. They needed to divide the angels first in order to win the battle.

Ramiel thought that the loose beams of light suddenly started to come less. He thought that Erelah might have calm down as her opponent is already torn to shreds but he is wrong. A loud scream of pain could be heard from behind Ramiel to which the voice is recognizable to him.

Ramiel looked around for a split second and he could see a partially transformed werewolf clipping one of Erelah's wings and she could not even fight back. She tried fighting back but her low level spells are not affecting Lycan enough for him to retreat. Ramiel noticed this and activated his Power to the fullest.

Ramiel's body became bigger to the point that he is almost double his size. He shot towards Lycan like a blazing comet which the latter noticed. Lycan sensed the danger and immediately retreated but a fist still greeted his abdomen. Lycan was sent flying away due to the incredible force.

The hit that Lycan received would have given a hole to anyone's stomach if he did not have his transformation on. The damage he received equated to half his total health but that should be the least of his problems because Ramiel is now focused at him.

Solstice matched the number of swords of light that Malach created with her blood weapons. She created more in exchange of her health which suddenly got regenerated after fighting continuously. She knows that Malach cannot move from his position, and she already verified that.

All she needed to verify now is the theory of the shadow being cast on Malach. For this reason, she created multiple blood weapons and have them clash with the swords made of light that Malach created. Her weapons were more tangible and would need two hits to get disintegrated.

She hit these blood weapons in the clouds around them. When she knew that she gathered enough blood weapons, she merged them together to form a thin dome that covered the sunlight from touching Malach's body.

As soon as Malach noticed what Solstice has done, he tried to move away but it was too late. He created swords of light once again, but he used up his mana instead. Just like what Solstice has guessed, Malach can create almost an infinite number of swords made of light as long as two conditions are fulfilled.

The first condition is that he is not supposed to move from his current location. The second being that sunlight must touch his body or his body is facing a source of light. Malach's principality revolved around the power of directly using the light elemental energy around him, but he must be in direct contact of this light.

"I see. To think that angels have interesting abilities like these." Solstice stated as she retrieved the blood back to her body in order to fully recover the health that she lost.

"You getting to learn of my Principality does not mean that you win. It is now time for me to get serious." Malach stated as he flew higher and bathe in the touch of sunlight.

He no longer created more swords of light as he knew that those puny swords are not effective enough for his opponent. She also absorbed back the blood that she lost to heal herself since she probably has gone past her limits. These were the thoughts that floated on Malach's head.

"Sword of Brilliant Light!" Malach shouted as a giant sword started to materialize. This sword had runes engraved and even carvings of angels. It looked like a majestic holy sword that only the chosen ones or protagonists of novels would be able to wield.

The Sword of Brilliant Light measured about a hundred feet and Malach could even control it telepathically. He could easily swing this sword without breaking a sweat. It is also made with pure condensed light elemental energy which means it is very effective on bloodborne like Solstice.

"Have you finally become too afraid to speak? I expected more from trash trying to go against the will of the heavens!" Malach scowled but Solstice is still just plainly looking at him without even blinking.

"I expected a grander attack but that ends here. To think that I will defeat an angel here.." Solstice stated.

Chapter 879 – Child Of Night

"I expected a grander attack but that ends here. To think that I will defeat an angel here. I guess, I really need to spoil my little brother sometimes because he gets me nice things." Solstice stated as she used the skill that Adrian helped him obtain a few days ago.

When Adrian broke through level 200, he wanted to immediately clear the quest that the Goddess of Night has given him. The only problem is that the Herald managed to escape when it last attacked Adrian in the western continent. He looked at the quest that was given to him and he grew a bit greedy to possess the skill book that is a reward.

Quest Name: DRAG HER TO THE ABYSS

The goddess Nox wants you to find her former herald that betrayed her and drag her to the goddess' location. Use whatever means necessary as long as you finish your goal as the former herald is a threat to the world itself.

Reward: Oblivion Skill Book

Requirements: Find the former herald of the Goddess of Night and drag her to the goddess' location in the Nether Realm.

Failure: None

Time Limit: None

He could not find the fallen herald even by the use of teleportation which means that she either died or vanished to another world. He made a trip to the Nether Realm to confirm his suspicions and the Goddess of Night Nox agreed. It seems that the herald is now off world which means he will have a difficult time finding her.

"Why not take on a Champion?" Adrian asked the Goddess of Night Nox boldly as she has no followers. It seems that her church is no longer available in the main world, and she is only living because people pray for safe passage during the night.

"I am not as strong as you think Champion Equinox. I cannot give my power like the Twin Gods to another or else I will be weakened. It is actually amazing that your body could hold the power of two gods. As expected of the power of rebirth." The Goddess of Night Nox stated.

"Can you give at least partial blessing? I am sure that living beings that become powerful at night will want your favor. I also need help in searching for the fallen herald. If you are still not trusting of the person that becomes your herald because of your past herald, then I assure you.

I propose a person that is worthy of your blessing and could give you enough of a following. If you are willing to trust me that is but your blessing is definitely a great blessing for you are a primordial goddess after all." Adrian stated as he knew that offending gods and goddesses are a great crime.

"If that is the case, then I will give the person you chose a test. If they succeed, then I will grant them a partial blessing. If I return to full strength and approve of them then I shall turn them to my champion. Who do you want to refer?" The Goddess of Night Nox asked but she already has an idea of who Adrian wants to refer as she can also see his progress.

"A vampire princess named Solstice." Adrian replied.

"Shut your trap vampiric trash!" Malach stated as he swung the gigantic sword made of light in Solstice' direction.

Malach believed that he already won the battle as the opponent will not be able to easily dodge his attack. Despite the large appearance of the blade, it is still as fast as light which meant it is extremely deadly. His arrogance became his downfall as he already confirmed to the enemy of his weaknesses.

"Child of Night" Solstice mumbled as a deep black aura suddenly burst out of her body.

The deep black aura burst out of her body and the sky that was filled with intense sunlight suddenly turned dark. The large sword made of light that Malach created disintegrated into nothingness as the light elements became scared to even gather. It was in the middle of the day, but everything turned to night.

[You have temporarily made it Night in your general area for one minute.]

The golden armor that Solstice wore receded, and it became an armor made of shadows instead. Not only but Solstice's beautiful face could now be seen. Crimson hair with deep alluring crimson eyes that bewitched even the most arrogant angel. Malach did not want to admit it, but Solstice is even prettier than the female angels that he has encountered.

"Bloody Queen!" Solstice stated.

Solstice immediately activated her most powerful skill that can be used for this combat. Her blood started to come out of her body and transformed into numerous types of weapons. Her health dropped to 10% instantly but it also returned back to full health.

"I wonder if you can survive this attack when there is no light element to even protect you." Solstice stated with an alluring yet cold voice.

Malach became speechless as numerous weapons made of blood launched itself towards him. He could not even mutter any response because he was awestruck by the beauty that Solstice possessed. For the first time in his life, he actually thought of another race other than his as beautiful. For the first time, he thought that light concealed the beauty of the world.

[You have killed the Heavenly Messenger Principality Malach.]

[You have gained the Angel Killer title.]

The ten seconds is up, and the darkness receded back towards Solstice. Her golden armor also returned but she also got hit with weakness.

[You have used Bloody Queen in full power.. Your body will be weak for ten minutes.]

Chapter 880 – Defeat Of Angels

Lycan and General Goliath with the support of the other giants are having a difficult time against the combined might of Ramiel and Erelah. Ramiel is protecting Erelah with his great physique while Erelah fired numerous low level light elemental spells.

Erelah has already regained her complete sanity thanks to Ramiel but the damage to her wings is still visible. She cannot use her wings to fly but can still levitate using mana. She is still infuriated by Lycan for ripping her mouth and tearing one of her wings.

The only downside to the defending group is that their arrows are almost gone. General Goliath, Princess Dainta, and Lycan are already low in stamina from trying to keep up with two angels. The gap between the power of Ramiel and Erelah is apparent because of their specialties.

Ramiel would often go head-to-head with General Goliath and Erelah will use her spells to provide cover fire. Princess Dainta used support magic to always buff General Goliath, but it was not enough to perfectly catch up to Ramiel's strength.

Princess Dainta is also avoiding using support spells that create shields. She noticed that General Goliath becomes more damaged when he is attacked while covered by any shield or barriers. The shields that get destroyed also become shards that damage General Goliath as well when Ramiel destroys them.

"Can you defeat him General?" Lycan asked General Goliath as both of them were sent back from the force of the clash.

"I am not as sure as they become more powerful with the light coming from the sun. Although our strength also rises with the sun, the angels get more power from them as it is an intense source of light." General Goliath replied.

[Solstice has activated 'Child of Night'.]

[The time of day will change to Night for a few seconds.]

As soon as Lycan received the notification, day became night. The spells that the angels were using suddenly stopped as there was not enough light elemental energy in the surroundings. Ramiel's physique could be seen to have shrunk a little when it became dark.

"I will handle Erelah! Do your best against Ramiel." Lycan stated.

"What! Are you sure?!" General Goliath stated but he saw the changes on Lycan.

"Wolf of the Moon! Maximum Ferocity!" Lycan shouted as he changed fully into a werewolf.

His fur is now much more different than before as his fur is now redder in color. The tufts of the fur also turned silvery while his eyes turned red as he is now an Alpha Werewolf. A mystical darkness also swirls around his claws like an aura.

General Goliath already thought that Lycan is fast when it comes to speed, but this was the first time that he lost sight of someone in the battle. Even Ramiel, who is confident in his reflexes, could not see how Lycan move. Ramiel could only hear the scream from behind him.

The wing that was already damaged has finally come off with Lycan biting on it. Erelah tried blocking it with protective spells, but her defenses were breached like butter. Without light elements to fortify her barrier made of small amounts of mana, she cannot properly defend herself.

Ramiel saw this and wanted to immediately kill Lycan. It is burned on Ramiel's eyes of a humanoid wolf tearing Erelah's wings apart. Even with healing magic, it will not be easy to recover a broken wing as it is purely made of mana and soul of an angel.

If an angel's wings are broken, it is also equivalent to damaging their soul. Erelah is now damaged to the core of her being which means she will also become weakened. Lycan did not stop as he aimed for the other wing and Erelah could be seen panicking.

Erelah no longer has her haughty composure from earlier. You can even hear her begging Lycan to stop as her last wing is getting torn. Ramiel wanted to help Erelah but a bardiche aimed for his head. Ramiel is currently weakened so he could not fully defend against General Goliath's attack.

Ramiel's weakening is considerably worse than the power drop of General Goliath that also needs power from the sun. The sound of Erelah's screams could be heard but Ramiel could not help her. The screams of pain and torture soon vanished seven seconds later.

Lycan shredded Erelah's body into pieces and it turned into particles of light. Ramiel suddenly became enraged with this development as this was the first time that his race experienced such thrashing. His body then exploded with light, and he even burned his own health.

[The Heavenly Messenger Principality Erelah has been slain.]

"Infidels! I shall show you the might of the heavens!" Ramiel shouted as his body exploded with great power.

Ramiel's muscles bulged and became reinforced with pure light elemental energy. A halo even formed above his head but the mortal body that he has started to deteriorate. He was willing to sacrifice everything as long as he decimates the entire kingdom of giants.

"I was waiting for you to show your halo. I will grant you the true death that befits your race. Sun Titan Armor!" General Goliath shouted.

General Goliath's armor suddenly started to change as a red full body armor that even covered his face. He then went and charged towards Ramiel that was collecting intense power to his fists. Ramiel plans to blow away the entire kingdom in front of him by sacrificing his current host body. He could always find another body with the great number of believers of the Church of Light.

"Fist of Light!" Ramiel shouted as he launched his fist towards the incoming red armored giant.

"Sun Titan's Pummel!" General Goliath shouted as he planned to match Ramiel's power, but he was still weaker.

"It seems that you have forgotten about me. Savage Moon!" Lycan stated as he executed his most powerful attack in werewolf form. Forgetting the threat of the werewolf behind him became the demise of the angel Ramiel.

General Goliath tanked his powered fist, but Lycan shredded him to pieces as his body already deteriorated to the utmost degree.

[The Heavenly Governor Power Ramiel has been slain.]

[You have gained the Angel Slayer title.]
