

O Summoner 991

Chapter 991

"Big Bro, another angel appeared. That angel has grayish wings instead of white wings. She also seems to be attacking the other angels. She is also using a flaming sword that makes the other angels shudder. What should we do?" Creepysoo stated in their group chat.

"I will be on the way." Adrian replied as he did not think of a sudden occurrence like these.

"Well, we shall now take our leave. We wish that your kingdom becomes bountiful once again after these troubling times." Adrian stated as he activated Teleportation. He and Awraka vanished from the private office of King Jerrick. After they left, the knights protecting the king and the royal mage arrived as they sensed the unusual mana used when the two teleported.

Adrian arrived at the scene and could see four winged individuals fighting against each other. The three angels with white wings were not using all of their strength as they needed to limit the damage they received. They are currently inhabiting humans that are not that compatible with them which is why they are careful when it comes to fighting.

Adrian saw the gray wings of the female angel that Creepysoo stated to have arrived. According to Creepysoo, the angel with gray wings did not attack the devil beast that Cersei prepared but attacked the three angels with white wings immediately. She seemed to have searched for the traces of the energy of devils but immediately attacked the other angels when she encountered them.

The three angels with white wings also attacked her in retaliation but their attacks using the light elements do not damage them greatly. In fact, the angel with gray wings did not even flinch when she got attacked with light elemental spells as if she has natural immunity to them.

When Adrian heard that she has natural immunity to the light element, he immediately thought of the words of the other Fallen. They said that one of them obtained a body of a blessed one unexpectedly and roamed the world to search for the reincarnated individual that has the soul of a Nephilim.

"She is an angel, but she is not one that follows the Goddess of Light. She is one of the Fallen." Adrian stated as he more or less guessed the identity of the girl.

"I only came here to release devil energy and release a devil beast. I did not think that I would be participating in a battle between angels." Cersei commented.

"Shouldn't devils hate the angels though?" Lycan asked as he already knows of their relationships.

"The devils that ascended to godhood could care less of what those glowing birds think. The devils that did not become gods do not have the time to pursue a useless thing such as hating their past lives. They are quite progressive thinkers that do not let the past define their actions. Trust me, even I am shocked about that." Cersei replied.

"Father and big sister Solstice has yet to return. What should we do, Big Brother?" Soleil asked.

"We just need to make sure that these angels do not leave this place while they are still here then." Adrian stated as they just needed to make sure of one thing and that is for the angels not to return to threaten the safety of the other kingdoms.

"I am a bit worried because they are not answering our messages." Lycan stated as he noticed that both Vayu and Solstice are currently silent in the group chat. They do not want to assume the worst but being silent for too long is not something that is normal.

A loud crash suddenly shifted their attention to the ones fighting. The Fallen could be seen extremely hurt from crashing down. The three angels, on the other hand, has used their abilities. The three angels are currently in the second hierarchical sphere with the rank of Powers.

Each angel manifested a different Power, but they are definitely warrior angels that are meant to kill. Each held a different weapon made of pure light energy. A burly looking angel held an axe made of light while the female angel carried a spear made of light. The slender looking angel carried two swords made of light that radiated intense energy.

"Your kind should have stayed hidden. You are a disgrace to the name of our Goddess." The female angel stated as she pointed her spear to the Fallen.

"If you did not see me here then I would have avoided the likes of you. I do not have time to engage with narrow minded individuals." The Fallen stated.

"We shall erase you from this world as you are a stain to the Goddess of Light's legacy." The slender looking male angel stated as he charged with his two swords.

"Should we help? She will definitely die if we do not do something about them." Lycan stated.

"Can you fly? Only Big Bro Equinox can fly among all of us." Creepysoo asked Lycan as the battle is currently being fought in mid-air.

"Great point." Lycan stated.

"We should just shoot them down then." Adrian stated as he suddenly summoned his Primordial Armament: Bow.

[All stats have been changed in accordance with the current Primordial Stance.]

"Apply every enhancement and curse to my attacks. We are going to shoot some birds down. Hunting Season is now open." Adrian stated as he pulled the bowstring.

While the others are currently occupied with the pan. Levin Cloud, Peridot and Kabrakan are currently at New Alfheim. The thing that Cersei wanted their help with is actually territory enhancement as they could influence their surroundings just by being there. Levin Cloud is there to bless the newly grown Tree of Life while Peridot and Levin Cloud are there to protect him.

It seems that a horde of monster will attack New Alfheim whenever a blessing ceremony takes place. Adrian decided for them to all go there when he read the exchange that Cersei wanted for her help. A horde of monsters is definitely not something only one or two of them could defend against.

Chapter 992

"Apply every enhancement and curse spells that you have to my attacks. We are going to shoot some birds down. Hunting Season is now open." Adrian stated as he pulled the bowstring.

[Cersei has applied 'Petrifying Enhancement' to your next attack. Your next attack has a 50% chance to petrify the opponent for five seconds. If the opponent is not petrified, they will be stunned for two seconds and slow them by 80% for two seconds after the stun.]

[Creepysoo has applied 'Undead Touch' to your next attack. Opponents hit by your attack will get debuffed by 40%.]

[Soleil has applied 'Medium Fire Enhancement' to your next attack. Your next attack will inflict a burn to those hit which will decrease their health by 10% of your magic damage per second. The burn will last for ten seconds.]

"Thanks everyone. Leave the next bit to me." Adrian stated as he activated.

"Shooting Star!"

Adrian's mana arrow glowed in a beautiful starlight as he waited for the perfect time to hit the angels. He did not want to easily release the arrow because he knew that casually firing will not result in a hit. He needed to look for a chance where the angels are occupied.

Even if he wanted to help the Fallen player, he must do so in a timely manner. The Fallen player could be seen getting attacked in a coordinated fashion as the angels seem to have great teamwork. The heavy attacks of the axe wielding angel are too powerful for her to just parry which is why she needed to dodge.

After dodging the axe wielding angel's attacks, the spear wielding angel would then try to stab her. The fallen player would have difficulty with this as aerial maneuver is difficult if one is not accustomed to fighting in that manner. The fallen player did have some great skills in fighting mid-air, but she is not as good as the angels.

She would dodge at an awkward angle which made the dual sword wielding angel land attacks on her. Her health continuously dropped as this type of battle progressed, but Adrian already memorized the pattern of the attacks. He saw a small window of opportunity where he could hit all three angels, but he needed to be quick about it.

The axe wielding angel attacked once more, and the fallen player dodged. The heavy axe made of light made the axe wielding angel stagger a bit to the perfect angle that Adrian needed. The spear wielding angel then went for a stab attack once more which is already expected.

"Perfect!" Adrian muttered as he released the arrow.

The dual wielding angel is about to attack when he heard a scream of pain from one of his companions. The axe wielding angel got shot directly at the chest and his body started to turn into stone. The spear wielding angel also got hit but got stunned instead as she suddenly got engulfed by flames.

The dual sword wielding angel is about to hit the fallen player, but he knew that the attack is also headed for him. He cancelled his attack towards the fallen player and used it to block the arrow heading for him. The Shooting Star that is supposed to head towards the dual sword wielding angel got sliced into two which made the attack dissipate after being split.

"Who dares!" The dual sword wielding angel stated as his bloodlust shot to the roof as he tried to locate the one who attacked them.

"To think that a piercing arrow attack could be split into two. That angel's power must have something to do with severing." Adrian stated with a calm tone as he already summoned Kanlaon, Sirius and Dodu.

Cersei got shocked that Adrian actually managed to hit all three with one attack as she was preparing to enchant another attack for him. What she did not know is that the Cube of Paradox also calculated the optimum time to fire the attack based on observations. It is not easy as the Cube of Paradox present three scenarios to Adrian and him choosing the best one is already a testament to his great judgement.

The axe wielding angel turned into stone as his body dropped to the ground while the spear wielding angel got stunned for two seconds and is falling as well. A loud crash could be heard when the petrified axe wielding angel dropped down while the spear wielding angel recovered but the slow affected her in addition to the debuff.

Kanlaon's sudden emergence greatly shocked the female angel, but she immediately composed herself. She would have no problem deflecting Kanlaon's attack if she were at full strength, but she was not. Kanlaon slammed his tail towards the female angel and delivered her to the same location where the axe wielding angel dropped.

"Sirius use Realm Ender." Adrian commanded as the surroundings around Sirius changed to a hellish landscape.

Sirius turned to his nether form and also increased in size. His howl made every being in the surroundings burst into cold sweat as it signified their end. The female angel saw this and tried to escape but Adrian commanded Kanlaon to release his dragon breath to her which sent her faster to the area of effect of the Realm Ender skill.

The axe wielding angel was just turning back to his flesh form when a giant wolf's mouth greeted him to tear his body apart. The female angel tried to escape but she is already damaged beyond the point of easily getting away. With one swipe of his claw, the female angel turned to particles of light.

The axe wielding angel was still alive even when torn apart which is why Sirius finished the job when he killed the female angel. The dual sword wielding angel could not believe that his companions died just like that but he suddenly realized something as the wolf is actually covered by a vile veil.

"Angel killer!"

Chapter 993

"Angel killer! That wolf has killed one of us to gain that title!" The dual sword wielding angel stated but he knew that the wolf is just a creature bounded through a soul contract.

The dual sword wielding angel lost focus on the battle that he is currently fighting as he needed to search for the one that attacked them. He needed to take revenge on the being that killed two of his companions even though he is not that sentimental towards them. To him, the pride of the angels must be maintained, and he needed to set an example.

A flaming sword suddenly pierced the dual sword wielding angel's back as he momentarily forgot about his opponent. The flaming sword went straight through his chest, but he is not yet dead. He might be severely injured, but the dual sword wielding angel tried to counterattack against the fallen player, but his attack did not damage her at all.

Even the fallen player is shocked that she did not get damaged by the retaliation of the dual sword wielding angel, but she did not let this chance fall through. She immediately activated the skill attached to her sword and the dual sword wielding angel ignited into flames. The screams of the remaining angel echoed in the surroundings as he turned to ash.

The fallen player descended to the ground as she knew that she needed to thank her saviors. Even if they did not intend to save her as she could more or less guess that she interfered with their plans. She is greeted by a golden dragon and an ominous looking wolf as she descended but they did not seem to attack her.

A group of people then came towards her which is a weird combination. She could recognize an undead, a woman with devil's energy in her body, a cute flaming girl with a lion stuffed toy, and a demon that is recognized by every player in Pandemonium.

"I take it that you were the ones that saved me. Thank you for that." The fallen player stated.

The group then saw what she looked like up close, and she is a beauty to be remembered. She wore armor that is plated with dark gold with lines of dark green to accent the armor. What made Adrian a bit curious is that she seemed familiar to him, but he could not point his finger on it. He felt like he battled her somewhere, but he would have remembered battling a fallen.

"No need for gratitude as we were supposed to attack them as well. We did not plan to kill them as we wanted to question them about something, but things do not go as expected." Adrian stated.

"I am actually quite sorry about that." The fallen player stated as she blushed with embarrassment. She did not actually think that her investigating the sudden emergence of a powerful devil energy would end up her battling angels.

"Can't you see that she is getting flustered already? Why not give her a breather as she might not have expected that to also happen." Cersei stated but she already knew what kind of player she is. Her guild advisor intuition is telling her to recruit this one to their guild as soon as she can.

"Our plan needs to be adjusted because those angels were just tasked with something. There might be others that will come." Adrian stated.

"They will not come as even the angels are spread thin." The fallen player stated with great confidence.

"And how could you be sure about that...?" Adrian stated.

"Gomory. The name is Gomory. Since you are not asking what I am, I believe that you already know of my race as well. It is nice to meet the one called Demon though. To think I will meet the one named Equinox." Gomory stated as she returned to her stoic expression.

Cersei then went into full guild advisor mode and introduced herself. The others introduced themselves as well since she did not seem to antagonize them. In fact, they might even get valuable information from her as she seemed to know of the movement of the angels.

"Ok then Gomory. What makes you sure that the angels will not move?" Adrian asked as he finds this information very interesting.

Gomory then told Adrian of the movement of the angels since she intruded in their plan. She wanted to at least repay them for saving her as well. She told them that the angels are actually spread thin because they are inciting other kingdoms to go to war. With the Horseman of War still active, inciting wars will be easy as it brings peaceful thinking to a halt.

"It seems that it is not just the three kingdoms that are going to war. It seems that the angels want mass casualty for their plans." Creepysoo stated.

"Not all angels are like that. Well at least those that broke away from the Goddess of Light Luminaria's influence anyway. The angels that broke away from the Goddess of Light Luminaria is finding a way to unseal the other gods of light sealed by her. They want to end the tyranny of the Goddess of Light Luminaria. It seems that fusing with a mortal body has made some of the angels learn empathy." Gomory stated as she already met the angels that searched for the sealed gods of light.

The news came as a shock towards the group as they did not think that gods could be sealed but Adrian has some knowledge about it. The God of Death and the Goddess of Night told him that some gods that were almost killed back then were sealed so that they could recover but the locations of where they are sealed are lost as well.

It was not just gods of Pandemonium that got sealed as the dark gods did this as well. The sealed gods might not be as powerful as the gods in their divine domain, but they will still be powerful when unsealed. They will have a direct influence in the world if this happens.

Chapter 994

Adrian only knew that the angels were planning to open Heaven's Gate, but he did not expect some angels breaking ties with the Goddess of Light. What is even more intriguing is that fact that the angels that broke ties with the Goddess of Light started to search for the sealed gods of light. It seems that the movement of every power in the continent cannot be monitored easily even by the Daemos.

"I have said everything that I can tell you. Thank you for saving and I apologize if I messed up your plans." Gomory stated.

"Not a problem. In fact, we have learned more about the angels thanks to you. I still need one thing from you though if it is okay." Adrian stated.

"What is it?" Gomory asked as she did not mind asking one question.

"Have you found traces of the Nephilim?" Adrian asked and Gomory suddenly became all serious.

"As expected, you already know that I am not an angel but a Fallen." Gomory stated to which Adrian smiled.

"Well, they did say that one of them is roaming around looking for the traces of Nephilim. Your soul also reflects that of the Fallen. Shining as bright as the sun without the assertiveness that the souls of angels have." Adrian stated as his Evil Eye is becoming more and more detailed the more that he used it.

"If you are asking me about the Nephilim then you must have also been tasked with finding the incarnation. I am still looking myself and was just sidetracked here as I sensed the aura of a devil. It is said that the reincarnated Nephilim will have the aura of both an angel and a devil. I do not know if that will be true, but I guess we will find out." Gomory stated.

"I see. Thank you for the information. I hope we find who that incarnation is." Adrian stated as a Shade suddenly manifested before them.

"Lord Equinox, I am sorry for disturbing your talks, but your companion has been trapped by the rival kingdom." The Shade stated as he panted.

"I guess this should be our farewell since you seem to have an urgent business to attend to." Gomory stated.

"But I did not even get a chance to talk to you yet." Cersei pouted as she has yet to invite Gomory to their guild. It seems that Gomory could feel this and immediately wanted to leave.

Gomory then unfurled her wings and flew away at great speed since she enhanced herself. She did not let Cersei talk to her as she knew that she would try to invite her to the Evergreen guild. She does not move well with others, and she wants to move at her own pace which a guild will not let her.

"Can you explain?" Awraka asked the Shade as they needed to know. The Shade that reported to them was the one accompanying Vayu for the talks. The fact that he was captured is really something that no one could have thought.

"We were able to sneak up to the king's quarters, but the king of that kingdom is actually just a puppet. The one pulling the strings for that kingdom is actually the royal wizard. That wizard wanted to examine Master Vayu's body as he is a half elemental.

The royal wizard also wanted to capture me, but Master Vayu made sure that I will be able to get away. The royal wizard seems to be very good at using barrier magic which is why it proved difficult for Master Vayu to escape despite being a wind elemental." The Shade stated which made everyone get shocked.

"You are not seriously going against a kingdom?" Cersei asked as no one would be foolish enough to do that.

"What is the greatest power in that kingdom?" Adrian asked.

"From our investigations, the kingdom that trapped Master Vayu is famed for their magic corps. It is likely due to the fact that it is the royal wizard running the kingdom which is why that is the case." Awraka reported.

"We also have not heard about my sister for quite some time. We should also send a team to get her." Adrian muttered as he thought of the things that he needed to do.

"I think me, and the little boy will go to your sister. You should take the cute princess to her father and rescue him." Lycan suggested.

"This time it is the princess that will rescue the king!" Soleil stated as she knew that her father is in danger. She wanted to be like the Warrior Princess that she watched on television that saves those she loves from danger.

"Are you guys for real?" Cersei asked as she did not know whether she should indulge them or smack them to the real world. Going against a kingdom is no easy feat.

"Well, you have already done our request so we shall not bother you with this one. We thought that it was just the angels that wanted the war, but it seems that we were too optimistic." Adrian stated as he did not think that another factor could be a present.

"Hmm...I got nothing better to do and I feel that I did not help enough for the exchange. I should help you with this as well." Cersei stated as she concluded that she did not exert as much effort as she thought she will. She barely did anything against the fight with the angels as Gomory and Equinox were the one that killed them.

"Thank you in advance. Since we know that Vayu has been captured, me and Soleil with the assistance of Cersei will infiltrate the kingdom. Awraka please aid Lycan and Creepysoo instead as we have no news of my sister and the shade that accompanied her. They might need your ability more than us since he will already lead us to Vayu." Adrian instructed.

"Understood. I hope you luck in your journey." Awraka stated as their group headed towards the direction of the kingdom where Solstice headed.

"Let us go to the kingdom that abducted our samurai." Adrian stated.

"Papa is not a samurai though?" Soleil stated.

"Sorry about that. He has the discipline of one that shows up on the movies which I naturally compared him to." Adrian stated.

"I get it because mama sometimes says that as well." Soleil stated with a cheeky smile.

"How are we going to go there though? Daylight is already breaking through." Cersei stated and the Shade's abilities are severely restricted during the daytime.

"How are you with heights?" Adrian asked.

"I am fairly good with them." Cersei replied.

"Oh! That is great then. Tell me the coordinates of the castle." Adrian stated as he ordered the shade to tell him the coordinates of the kingdom's castle. The Shade then gave Adrian the complete coordinates of the castle and he generated a map using the Cube of Paradox. He then set that destination as the end point.

"Why did you ask if I were great with heights?" Cersei asked as she suddenly felt something wrong with that question.

"Because of this." Adrian replied as he activated Dimensional Teleportation. A portal suddenly appeared below them which all of them fell through. Cersei could be seen screaming but is not able to do as loud as she can because they are currently at the stratosphere.

Kanlaon then appeared as Adrian summoned him since the others could not fly. Kanlaon also made sure that the others will be able to breathe since they will have trouble breathing when they are descending. Adrian started to plan their approach when he saw that his companions are no longer panting heavily to get air to breathe.

"Do you always go like this?" Cersei asked Soleil while she regained her normal breathing cycle.

"Sometimes when big brother has yet to be in that location. He said something about teleporting higher so that we do not get our bodies stuck on a terrain or something. I find it very fun though because it feels like a ride in the amusement parks. Do you not enjoy it?" Soleil asked but her cuteness made Cersei unable to admit that she always died of a heart attack.

"Maybe a little warning next time." Cersei stated.

"I did ask you if you were great with heights and you said yes." Adrian replied.

"Next time maybe be more descriptive of what type of height it will be." Cersei insisted as her elegant demeanor vanished since even her heart could not take that height.

"Maybe we should have asked big brother to teleport us there." Creepysoo stated as they might get there too late.

"Not going to happen. I do not like feeling of free falling from the atmosphere. We also do not have flying mounts that will soften our landing." Lycan replied as he remembered the sensation of falling from a great height that he did not expect.

Chapter 995

The group finally descended to a decent height, but they were still high up in the sky to the point that they are not visible to those to the ground. Adrian stopped their descent at that height because that was the full range of the detection barrier that the royal mage of that kingdom has placed.

If they pass through the detection barrier, then the royal wizard will be informed of their location. They must be the ones that enter without being noticed. He now knows why Vayu and the Shade got detected because the whole barrier covered the kingdom. What intrigues Adrian is the fact that the barrier could cover the entire kingdom easily without any fluctuation.

"It seems that they either have large deposits of mana stones or they are sucking out the mana from every being in this kingdom slowly. If they did the latter, then they must be doing it to a degree that the people do not notice that their mana is being utilized." Adrian muttered as he started to think of a plan.

"What should we do next?" Cersei asked Adrian as she could see that the latter is brainstorming.

"I will be the distraction while you guys will rescue Vayu. The priority for this mission is to save him and not collect anymore attention to us. We need to be swift and precise so that we will need little time in achieving the rescue." Adrian stated.

"But can you sense where Vayu is?" Cersei asked as they cannot send a chat to him.

"That is why we have Soleil over here on our team. She is our ace for this as elementals can sense other elementals. Can you sense where your father is being held?" Adrian asked.

"I can feel an area where the wind elementals are erratic. It is over there." Soleil stated as she pointed to a clear area near the castle.

The area might look like a training ground for the soldiers, but it is still heavily guarded by mages as well. The fact that mages and soldiers were stationed there despite the area not being the area where the magic tower is located makes it suspicious. Soleil is also confident on her answer as she will usually just be quiet if she does not know the answer.

"Ok then. We have a location and about half a plan. How are you going to attract the attention of every combatant in this kingdom?" Cersei asked.

"Simple. Primordial Armament: Spear! Geoforce!" Adrian stated as his clothes transformed, and a spear appeared beside him.

The spear did not need to be held as he could control it using his mind. It is also about ten meters long due to the effect of Geoforce. He rarely used this rune anymore as it only increased the size of weapons but not the damage. It is great for the spear though as he did not need to wield it unlike the other Primordial Armaments.

"Kanlaon will help you with your task. He will be your main source of transportation." Adrian stated.

"I am afraid that I cannot conceal the great being using my dark veil." The Shade stated but Adrian just smiled.

"Do not worry about that. Kanlaon bend the light so that all of you will appear almost invisible." Adrian stated.

Adrian knew that the sun is already up, and the Shade will have a difficult time using their Dark Veil. He opted for Kanlaon to bend the light rays according to his will. It will turn them almost invisible but those with sharp eyesight will be able to tell that they are not invisible.

Kanlaon nodded with Adrian's command and his light dragon ball lit up. The surrounding rays of light then bent to Kanlaon's will that turned them invisible as if they are clear glass. Cersei is once again shocked of this development as she also knew that summoners were more flexible than they were thought to be. She knew this because Mariposa's soulbounds also does extraordinary things that are not in the general information presented about them.

"The signal would be when I break this barrier." Adrian stated as he raised his hand which made the spear fly back.

Adrian then made a downward motion of his hands, and his gigantic spear came crashing down on the barrier. The sound of two metals clashing against each other could be heard all throughout the kingdom which alerted the mages and soldiers. The residents of the kingdom also heard this and made them unconsciously look up as they could see a gigantic spear trying to pierce the barrier that protected the kingdom.

"Royal Wizard! Someone is trying to destroy the barrier protecting the kingdom." One of the mages reported as they needed to resupply more mana from the damage that the barrier incurred.

"Do not worry. Attacks like that will not destroy the barrier. Assemble the flying unit as we need to teach that arrogant being a lesson." The Royal Wizard stated as she assembled the mages that can use flight magic and another magic at the same time.

The citizens of that kingdom already proceeded to evacuate into their homes as they know that someone is attacking them. They might not be able to see who is attacking them but the fact that they are brazen enough for a frontal assault meant that they are powerful.

Adrian could feel that the barrier is not even getting pierced or scratched as it is very durable. He had no choice but to use his trump card immediately as rescuing Vayu is the top priority right now.

"Perfect Assimilation: Sirius!"

"Nether Domain!"

"Netheros True Form!"

Adrian immediately activated three skills that he often saves for the last part of the battle as his trump card. Sirius' magic circle appeared in mid-air and passed through Adrian as both him and his soulbound merged to become one entity.

[You have used Perfect Assimilation with your soulbound Sirius.]

[Inherit 100% of his stats for the duration of the assimilation.]

[Your attacks now apply the passive skill Poison of God.]

[The skill Nether Rush is now available to be used by you.]

A wolf demon humanoid became Adrian's new appearance as his clothes mainly turned to be covered in fur while wolf ears appeared near his horns. His human ears have also vanished as his main source of hearing is now the wolf ears. He also grew a tail from behind that is the same as Sirius' tail.

"Oh my! How dashing!" Cersei commented as Adrian's current appearance could be said to be eye candy for those who like furry things. He looked like a rabid dog that will bite those that try and harm him which incites the fantasies of certain people.

After Adrian successfully fused with Sirius, the nether mist started to roll into the surroundings. Adrian's figure became made of nether mist as well, but he retained his current shape but much bigger. The spear also changed as it became much bigger than before.

Adrian flicked his hand up once again as the spear flew back in order to gain momentum. This time different as he did not launch the spear immediately as he made it spin like a drill as he poured everything that he can pour into that attack. He just needs to make a big enough hole in order for his other companions to fit.

"Paradox, apply nether energy continuously to the spear while use all Primordial Essence into it." Adrian stated as his spear suddenly emitted heavy power to the point that it is manifesting as lightning.

Adrian saw the incoming mages flying towards him with their flying artifacts, but they should pose no threat. His preparation is already complete, and they will not be able to fortify the barrier to combat the viciousness of his attacks.

Adrian brought his hand down and the spinning spear came crashing down upon the barrier. Unlike before where it did not even damage it one bit, the barrier immediately started to crack upon the first impact. It is also starting to shatter slowly which made Adrian smile as his attack could rival a level 280 boss with all his enhancements.

"Fortify the barrier!" The Royal Wizard stated as she whipped out her wand and launch barrier spells onto the existing barrier to fortify it.

As expected of a royal wizard that is proficient in creating barriers, the durability is no joke and it almost stopped Adrian's attack. Unfortunately for the enemy kingdom, Adrian's first plan is already finished as his companions already entered undetected since they came in the moment the barrier slightly broke.

"It seems that being proficient in using barriers is a really good spell class. Paradox, prepare the Quantum Spacemines and overlap them. Make sure that the propulsive force of the explosion will push the spear." Adrian commanded as he is waiting for another chance to enter the barrier. He looked like a wolf stalking its prey.

Chapter 996

With the help of the Cube of Paradox, Adrian created five Quantum Spacemines and used the explosion to push the spear. He also continuously poured all of the nether energy that he has, and the barrier started to get breached as its property is slowly being corroded by his nether energy.

"Greater Summon: Kimat! Slam onto the barrier with your Silver Thunder Armor." Adrian commanded as Kimat got hit by lighting that came from the sky as a silver armor coated his body.

With Kimat's aide in the attack, the power that they could muster made the mages lose more mana than they anticipated. In fact, the royal wizard did not use as much mana as she could because she needed to spare some just in case the intruder in front of them manages to break through. This selfishness proved to be almost fatal to the other mages as their mana circuits got damaged due to overuse.

The mages fell one by one due to their mana not being circulated properly. Adrian frowned as his Perfect Assimilation does not last long and even his Netheros form as well. He decided to not keep up a front that he cannot enter because of the barrier. He did not enter the barrier because he needed the attention of the others, but his team members are already inside, so he did not need to play the part.

Adrian disappeared in a puff of nether mist and the mages that protected the barrier became shocked because the intruder vanished. The mages did not dare to slack as the intruder must be waiting for a chance to enter the barrier, but a puff of nether mist suddenly appeared behind the royal wizard.

Since the detection barrier covering the capital is deployed by the royal wizard, she could immediately sense those that did not enter using the proper means. She reflexively raised a barrier behind her as Adrian launched the spear at her with the intention of fatally wounding her.

Adrian knew that she must be the target because her mana is the same color as that of the barrier. When the spear hit the royal wizard, she got pushed back and became a bit disoriented from the attack. The barrier covering the kingdom flicked a little as a result of the attack which further solidified Adrian's guess.

The royal wizard then found it strange that the being in front of them could have easily entered the kingdom but chose a roundabout way to enter. If it could just enter like that, why did it try to forcefully destroy the barrier. The royal wizard suddenly felt something amiss and told the mages to stop Adrian while she goes to protect the king.

Kimat, on the other hand, landed on the ground with a great loud crash but still not that harmed. He got surrounded by the soldiers of the kingdom, but Adrian told him to lure them away the designated area. Adrian does not want them to be anywhere near the extraction point.

Just as Adrian is checking up on Kimat's status, the royal wizard tried to escape towards the castle, but Adrian used Quantum Cascade already to pull her back. He then finally used the last skill on his transformation as he collected all the nether energy in the surroundings so that he could create an explosion.

All the mages could feel that the strange but powerful energy in the surroundings is starting to shatter space itself. The royal wizard knew that they will not be able to survive fully if they get hit by that. She immediately crushed something from the bag on her waist and her mana completely recovered back to full.

The Royal Wizard then started to weave numerous barriers to create layers of security. She even instructed the mages that could still fly to pour all their mana to her. The mages did as they were instructed, and the royal wizard managed to create ten barriers of differing colors to protect them.

A great explosion of energy suddenly shook the space above but the mages that were protected are left unscathed. Adrian did destroy about eight barriers while the ninth is almost at the point of breaking. It seems that the tenth barrier is sturdier than he ever thought but the mages he is battling already has no mana.

Adrian commanded his spear once more as it continuously tried to attack the mages. He wanted to initiate a skill, but his Primordial Essence is not filling fast enough. It seems his Primordial Essence will not fill up if he just damages barriers instead of actual enemies. He is still buying time which is why he did not bother making a huge attack.

"Master! Help!" Kimat's voice sounded as he is now cornered by not just the knights of the kingdom but also the players.

He did not expect that so many players would help this kingdom as he read that the king would never give a title to a player despite them having great contributions. He knew that players that could not become nobles tend to leave that kingdom alone as they wanted their efforts to mean something.

"Limit Break: Summoner!" Adrian stated as he used the level 200 summoner skill that lets the summoner use all his or her soulbounds for a given duration.

"Greater Summon: Charon"

"Greater Summon: Dodu"

"Greater Summon: Saena"

Adrian could not summon Sirius yet as he needed to rest a little bit as the Perfect Assimilation skill takes a toll on both the summoner and the soulbound. All of his soulbounds landed on the ground and supported Kimat that is now using Metallic Copy to create a copy of itself.

When the players saw the other soulbounds, they are now sure that it is the Demon. They are now extremely confused because the Demon known as Equinox only attacks the followers of the dark gods. They did not expect him to attack a kingdom that barely had any interaction with a player. The players then thought that maybe a dark god is hiding in this kingdom.

Cersei, Soleil and the Shade managed to land safely without much detection. Some of the mages that were protecting the area flew away as a response to the attack that Adrian did. They are thankful that his attention gathering plan is very useful as they did not need to fight numerous opponents.

Cersei suddenly summoned a dark looking book with a devil on the cover. She then proceeded to chant a few words and those words became silent whispers to the ears of the two remaining mages. When the two remaining mages heard what she whispered to them, they immediately became sluggish and started to slowly fall asleep. It only took five seconds for the two mages to get knocked out.

"Wow! Big sister is amazing!" Soleil praised as she thought of fighting those two mages.

"We do not need to waste our time on them. Something must be happening down there because they will not have mages stationed here if it were not." Cersei stated.

She knew for a fact that the thing that they were heading towards must be pretty important. In fact, there might be more guards that will show up when they are down there.

"How is the dragon going inside the though? He is pretty big to fit in that small entrance." Cersei stated as she waved her hand to destroy the illusion covering the entrance.

"No problem." Kanlaon stated which surprised Cersei.

Kanlaon then slowly put them down as he emitted a golden smoke. From that golden smoke, a ten-year-old boy wearing regal purple robes with golden hair appeared before them. He had the temperament of a royal prince and six dragon balls floating beside him that is the size of a baseball.

"Let me open the door then." The Shade stated as he is determined to lead them.

The Shade touched the door, but a protection mechanism activated as a special key is needed to open the door. When the Shade touched the door, a barrier pushed him back as he did not have the key. Cersei casted a few spells as well but it only weakened the barrier instead of making it disappear.

"I guess I am up. Let us go Regulus!" Soleil stated as she tossed her stuffed toy.

Regulus that is supposed to usually bigger than a house transformed into a two meter tall flaming lion instead. It seems that Soleil has achieved great mastery over her abilities. Regulus then covered its body in flames and slammed the door which destroyed the weakened barrier.

Since they have Kanlaon near them, any elemental attacks that they do will be boosted. This resulted in Regulus' attack become much more powerful than before. The group is greeted by a dark alleyway that is sizable enough for three people to walk at the same time.

Regulus returned to Soleil's arms while Cersei has a look of disbelief in her face. She did not expect that a cute and small child will be someone that could kill players easily with a stuffed toy. The Shade immediately used Dark Veil when all of them entered the tunnel as it is dark inside.

The Shade is the one that led them as they do not have perfect vision in the dark. Soleil needed to stop her flames as well so that they will be perfectly concealed. They did not want to encounter an enemy or any unnecessary fights because they needed to save Vayu. The tunnel did not wind long as they reached the other side in just fifty meters.

Soleil could then feel the essence of an elemental at the end of the tunnel. She told them that her father might be at the end of the tunnel. All of them got ready for combat as they did not know what they will expect at the end.

They reached the end of the tunnel only to be greeted by numerous prison cells that held different people. It seems that the prison cells are made to specifically hold them as barrier magic is made to maintain the prison. They could also feel that the mana from the prisoners is getting sucked out of them.

In one of the prison cells, Vayu is being held using a special barrier that does not let the wind elemental energy near him. He is also chained using special means so that he cannot muster any physical strength to destroy the barrier.

"It seems this prison is connected to someone. This is basically a Mana Plant where a wizard will use slaves or captives to continuously draw mana from them. This practice has been banned because it is inhumane but to think that I would see one." Cersei stated as all her information is told by her contracted Devil God.

"Someone is here." Kanlaon stated which made everyone stop talking. They might be hidden visually but they are not hidden audibly.

Heavy footsteps could be heard in the room, and chains being dragged as well. They suddenly looked at the other entrance to this prison as that is the source of the sound. They saw a humanoid figure entering the room, but it was not human.

The humanoid figure has reddish tint skin while having four arms that are all bound by a metal board connected to its neck. The humanoid figure also stood at a height of three meters while its eyes are just pure white as if it is a mindless servant.

The four armed humanoid could be seen dragging a huge cart filled with food. The four armed humanoid would then throw pieces of bread to the prisoners. The prisoners that received the bread ate it like starved animals as their mana was taken just moments ago and their bodies are weakening.

"What is that?" Cersei asked Vepar.

"That is actually a Tiny Titan. An offshoot of the titan race that should be hundreds of meters tall. It is said that the Tiny Titans are a result of using titan blood on a homunculus. To think that one is still alive to this date." Vepar replied.

Chapter 998

"That is actually a Tiny Titan. An offshoot of the titan race that should be hundreds of meters tall. It is said that the Tiny Titans are a result of using titan blood on a homunculus. To think that one is still alive to this date." Vepar replied.

"What are the things that we need to be wary off when fighting one?" Cersei asked.

"That is just it. You do not fight one. Even if it is a watered down version of a titan, it is still a titan. It has the strength of a thousand men, but you could probably just focus on rescuing the half elemental. It is currently chained up and is being slowed down by heavy shackles." Vepar replied.

"What should we do next?" Soleil asked.

"Someone needs to distract the Tiny Titan while we free Vayu." Cersei stated.

"I can be the distraction, but I will need support since my abilities are restricted in this human form." Kanlaon stated.

"I shall support you then. Soleil and the Shade will be enough to find a way to free Vayu." Cersei stated.

With the roles now defined, the group immediately leap into action. While the Tiny Titan is busy with giving out food, Kanlaon used his frost dragon ball to blast the Tiny Titan into an ice sculpture. Soleil and the Shade immediately went to Vayu's location while hidden by the Dark Veil.

"He actually blasted it into an ice sculpture with just that one attack." Cersei muttered as he is in clear shock.

"He is still a dragon, my darling Cersei. Even if he uses human form that is still a Genesis Dragon. That attack will also not stop something like a Tiny Titan that easily." Vepar stated as the ice began to crack.

The Tiny Titan then emitted a loud grunt as it shattered the ice that froze its body. It only took three seconds for it to break through. If it did not have inhibiting shackles on its body, then it would have taken less than one second to do just that.

"Darkness!" Kanlaon stated as a wave of darkness swallowed the Tiny Titan.

The wave of darkness that swallowed the Tiny Titan would then be ripped to shreds by the enemy as if it is paper. Kanlaon did not expect something like that would happen as darkness is intangible. He even got tips from Sirius to use the darkness element.

"How is that possible?" Cersei asked as she started to use hexes and curses on the Tiny Titan.

"That should be the innate ability of the Titan Race called Indomitable. It makes them unaffected by elemental restraints which is also the reason they are feared back in the day. They make the world bend to them due to their sheer size and might. It seems that the Tiny Titan has that ability despite not being a proper Titan." Vepar stated.

"You could have started with that. I already used binding curses against it." Cersei stated as she also informed Kanlaon of the ability of the Tiny Titan.

"You should not worry about curses because it is the bending of natural elemental order. It should be effective against the Tiny Titan, but you will not be able to damage it as they are also thick skinned as a result of that ability." Vepar stated.

"That should be enough!" Cersei stated as she completed the hex.

A black rope made of devil energy then wrapped around the feet of the Tiny Titan. Due to this, the Tiny Titan dropped to the floor face down because it tripped. Kanlaon then utilized his earth dragon ball to create earth spikes to keep the Tiny Titan pinned to the ground. He then followed it up with more elemental attacks to make sure that it stays down.

"Lady Soleil! This is the prison." The Shade reported as they could see Vayu chained up.

"Papa!" Soleil stated which made Vayu look at the direction of the voice to make sure that he is hearing correctly. He might be chained but he could still wiggle his way to the direction of the voice.

"How did you get here?" Vayu asked as he has been trapped here for quite some time.

"Big Brother Equinox helped us get here when we finished dealing with the angels. We hurried here after the Shade reported that you were captured. Do you know how to get out of this prison barrier?" Soleil stated.

"I could have gotten out if I could exert strength, but these chains are restricting it. The barrier is also sapping my mana which is why I cannot muster any elemental magic. You can break the barrier using Regulus' full attack power." Vayu stated as he knew that only pure physical power could break the barrier.

Regulus might be an elemental animal that Soleil summons, but it is also of the fire element. The fire element is versatile as they could either turn themselves into fire or into physical force. Only those that can control the fire element perfectly are able to this which Soleil has already mastered. She could make any fire mage cry for their lack of talent in this field.

"Go! Regulus!" Soleil stated as Regulus opted for a three meter tall appearance this time.

Regulus filled itself with so much fire elemental energy that its crimson fire mane became physical in nature. Its body is also starting to turn into a physical manifestation while Soleil collected a lot of mana from the surroundings to create this feat.

When Regulus' appearance became solid enough, Soleil casted support magic on Regulus to boost his physical defense and attack even further. With just one slam of its gigantic red body, Regulus shattered the barrier that imprisoned Vayu and also cracked some of the barriers next to him.

Soleil touched the chains that bound Vayu, but her strength is also restrained as a result. It seems that the chains are something that affects everything it touches. They would need to cut or destroy it using a weapon.

Chapter 999

"Adventurers of the Kingdom! Help me in purging the demon attacking our beloved kingdom and I shall reward you." The Royal mage announced using voice modulation magic as she knew that she will not be able to defeat Adrian without the aid of adventurers.

The players are hesitant to attack Adrian's soulbounds because of his fame. They also do not know the reason why he is attacking the kingdom but the reward from the royal mage is something anyone would want. The only thing that is preventing them from helping is that no notification quest popped out.

Without the quest notification to guarantee their reward, the players are debating where to attack or not. Some of them decided to not bother because no quest notification showed up and they just left the scene. These are the people that have yet to build an achievement or those that have been in the kingdom long enough to know that they will not get a great reward even with helping.

Some players did join the attack against Adrian and his soulbounds. These players are either after fame or those that are hungry for achievements. Adrian did not find them fault as they are players like him, and he would have considered it. There are also those that started investigating why Adrian was in this particular kingdom.

"To think that you fooled some people to help you." Adrian stated as he dodged an incoming arrow aimed at him.

With the arrow making him lose concentration for a split second, the spear also stopped moving in that timeframe. The royal mage immediately crushed another one of her trinkets hanging on her waist as her mana filled back up to full. She then commanded the other mages to maintain the barrier protecting them while she will deal with the demon.

It is not just arrows and magic spells launched at Adrian as some players that could fly started attacking him as well. The most troublesome one is a dragonkin wielding a spear as he almost landed a hit on Adrian's wings. Soon other players with flying mounts or vehicles joined in on the aerial battle.

"Gravity Control: 10 times" Adrian stated as the gravity in the area around him got heavy.

The mages are still protected in the barrier, but one could see that they are also affected by it as they are now kneeling. The players that flew suddenly felt their bodies become heavy while those with flying vehicles crashed entirely due to the strain on the equipment. The downside is that Adrian only got left with 5% of his total mana since he applied Gravity Control in a wide area.

"Finally! Be trapped in eternity! Eternal Cube!" The royal mage stated as she finished casting the spell.

[You have been trapped inside the Eternal Cube for a given set duration.]

[You will not be able to use spatial movement while inside.]

[Attacks made inside the Eternal Cube that hit the barrier will increase the durability of the barrier instead.]

[If the durability of the Eternal Cube breaks from the outside then you can get out early.]

Adrian suddenly got trapped inside a cube made of pure mana and the spear just bounced on the outer side of the barrier. It seems that even attacks outside needs to be very powerful to even attempt to break it. He no longer has his transformations so he will not be able to force his way out.

He is really trapped inside, and he could not get out. The only good thing would be that the players could no longer attack him. The bad thing is that the royal mage is now going towards the direction of the facility that his group went to as if she got notified by something.

"Let us try forcing the way from the outside." Adrian stated as he took out two talismans and drank a mana potion to restore his mana to at least half.

The two talismans that Adrian took out are the Epic Tier talismans that he created due to pure luck. He also only created one of each which is why he will have a difficult time creating them again. Unlike what other games do, a created item's recipe is only stored and there are no mastery bonuses even if you create more of them.

Item Name: Power Attack Talisman

Tier: Epic

Type: Consumable

Effect: Increase the damage of a weapon by 200%. This effect can only happen for three successful attacks.

Duration: none

Mana Cost: 100 mana points

Cast Time: Instant

Description: An epic talisman created by pure luck by an unknown Scribe. He would be lucky to make another one. It is a straightforward talisman that increases POWER!

Item Name: Weapon Multiplier Talisman (Fifty Variant)

Tier: Epic

Type: Consumable

Effect: Multiplies the weapon of the user by fifty times. It will retain all the effects applied to the weapon while it is currently multiplied.

Duration: 1 minute

Mana Cost: 100 points

Cast Time: 5 seconds

Description: An epic talisman created by pure luck by an unknown Scribe. He would be lucky to make another one. It is unknown whether this could be used by other people correctly. This is not a melee user friendly talisman.

"Seriously, who makes the description for the talismans?" Adrian muttered as he activated the two talismans.

The two talismans then turned to ash as they got used up, but the runes embedded on them suddenly transferred to the spear that Adrian controls with his mind. The spear glowed with a reddish aura as its attack damage got increased and it then started to split into multiple spears.

The multiplication of the spear only stopped when all fifty are accounted for. Adrian commanded the spears to point towards the Eternal Barrier. With a flick of his hand down, all the spears came crashing down on the Eternal Barrier, but only small cracks formed. The small cracks then disappeared moments after as mana is supplied on the barrier once again.

Chapter 1000

"Hmm...Two attacks left but it seems that the barrier will not break even if I use the remaining two attacks on it. I just hope that my soulbounds could survive the onslaught of attacks from the players and soldiers combined." Adrian muttered but he suddenly thought of another way to use the remaining two attacks.

The players are having a difficult time with Adrian's soulbounds as they worked so in sync with one another. At first, they thought that killing the white bird will help them win but all attacks that are sent towards her would be invalidated.

When arrows would target her, she would be invulnerable against physical attacks. When a magic spell would hit her, she would then be taken inside the coffin or be blocked by the undead. The most irritating thing for them is the fact that an unknown chain that they could not break is attached to their body.

These chains also suck in their health but only in a slow pace. What irritates them is the fact that a lot of people are affected which means lots of health is sucked. To make matters worse, the health sapped from them is turned into a barrier that coats every soulbound.

The effect of the Limit Break: Summoner skill is ten minutes, but they felt like they have been battling for an eternity. None of their normal attacks or spells are putting significant damage on the soulbounds. They could now feel the frustration that the players that fought in the Pandelympics felt.

"Are they immortal or something?" One of the players grumbled as she already run out of mana but the damage that she dealt is not that great.

"The country representatives make it look so easy." Another player stated.

These players are actually under the illusion that they could defeat Adrian's soulbounds since they are no longer boosted. The sad reality is that the country representatives battled each soulbound in groups. Unlike in the Pandelympics, Adrian's soulbounds are working together creating a perfect synergy that he weaved together.

The AI of the soulbounds would remember the command patters of their masters. This is to make sure that they could operate even if they are far away from the summoner. This also means that they would become equivalent to field bosses if their summoner is great at commanding them.

The players are now seeing what a powerful summoner Adrian really is. One could even say that they are still being spared because Sirius and Kanlaon is not there. If his two most powerful soulbounds were there, then the players and the soldiers will not stand a chance.

"Maintain the Eternal Barrier while I investigate the prison. My slave has sent a signal that it is currently being attacked. The demon will not be able to move out or break it from the outside anyway." The royal mage stated as she passed a trinket to one of the subordinate mages and flew towards the prison. All they needed to do is pour mana on it to make sure that the Eternal Barrier will get fixed.

"Master, we will need assistance." Kimat stated via their soul link as numerous soldiers are now reaching the location of his soulbounds.

"Do not worry. Help is on the way." Adrian stated as he pointed his index finger downward.

All fifty spears that he could control suddenly pointed downwards instead of towards him. The mages maintaining the Eternal Barrier all looked down as well and noticed that the spears are aimed at those below.

"Take cover." One of the mages shouted using voice amplification magic.

"Take cover?" The people below heard the shout, but they did not know who is issuing the warning. It was only when one of them shouted the word again as he saw the incoming spears coming from above.

"TAKE COVER!" All of them shouted as fifty spears came crashing down on them.

Some managed to hide but some are not lucky enough. The scene of people getting turned into particles of light after being skewered by a spear haunted the vision of those that survived. Due to the sudden breathing room, Kimat roared as dark clouds suddenly covered the sky.

Lightning then struck the area around the soulbounds and damaged those that were not killed by the spear attack. Adrian then raised his hands once again as the fifty spears could be used for fifteen more seconds.

Since his soulbounds have more breathing space now, he looked at the mages protected by a barrier. His smile sent a chill down the spines of the mages protected by the last barrier created by the royal mage earlier.

"Do you think that the barrier will be able to block the attack of those spears?" One of the mages asked.

"Pray that it does." Another mage stated.

"I do not have a denomination though." Another mage added.

Adrian pointed at the mages and all fifty spears flew towards them at great speed. He even added the nether energy that he managed to recover to increase the power of the attacks. The terrified expressions of the mages could be seen as the fifty spears all came at them.

The mages are already using all their mana fortifying the Eternal Barrier since it would get dispelled without constant mana pumped into it. All their worries are for nothing though as the barrier that protected them did not get broken by the fifty spears.

The barrier did look like a porcupine as the spears breached the barrier but did not reach the mages. All the mages breathed a sigh of relief as they live to do magic another day. The spears vanished after the time duration is up and only one spear is left.

"Time to use the spear skills as I have collected enough Primordial Essence." Adrian muttered as he prepared to use the skills, but the loud roar of a dragon suddenly reverberated in the distance. A gigantic golden dragon came flying out of the ground with a three meter tall humanoid in its mouth.
