

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 123 The Couple Who Stunned Everyone

Jack had always wanted to meet the president of Eagle Group. But unfortunately, he had never had the chance.

Henry also wanted to meet that person. So both of them stood straight, waiting.

A waiter called out the couple's names. This attracted the attention of a lot of people in the banquet hall. After all, Eagle Group had been very eye-catching these years. Everyone wanted to curry favor with them and seek cooperation.

At that moment, Johnny and Ceres showed up.

Time seemed to stop abruptly.

Jack, Henry, and Zara were all stunned.

Everyone was stunned!

That was because Johnny walked in instead of sitting in his wheelchair!

He was still tall and mighty with delicate features and a poker face. The president of the Winsor Group and the future heir of the Winsors family! Johnny Winsor!

All the light shone on him. He was born to be a king, to look down on all beings.

His well-tailored suit brought out his noble temperament. His pair of black eyes were so condescending. He came like an emperor.

The woman beside him was no inferior. Her curve was accentuated by her red evening dress. The huge bow on her back was like a pair of fiery wings. Her dress was short in the front and long in the back, showing her straight and slender legs.

The couple was simply a match made in heaven. Ceres was so pretty and flawless. She was just like a queen. The light in her eyes made everyone want to bow down and kiss her feet.

What a perfect couple!

Jack stared blankly at his son. He was so shocked that he couldn't come back to his senses for a long time!

Just by showing up, the couple had conveyed too much information.

First, Johnny could stand up now! Second, he came with his wife, which meant he finally recognized her as his wife! Third, he was the president of Eagle Group!

Each of these messages was big news!

All the guests turned to look at them. The couple was just too dazzling!

They completely overshadowed the bride and groom!

Ceres's red dress was much eye-catching than Mary's wedding dress.

Johnny's innate nobility was truly superior to Henry!

"Oh my god! Johnny can walk now! He will be the president of the Winsor Group!"

"He's the president of Eagle Group. Isn't it shocking?"

"Is the woman by his side the one who married him to help him get rid of bad luck? She's so beautiful!"

After the initial silence, everyone started to talk about them.

Mary was so shocked and speechless. The red spots on Ceres's face disappeared!

It had already happened twice. Why? What was going on with the red spots on her face? What concealer did she use?

No bride could tolerate other women overshadowing her on the day of the wedding.

"Sorry, I'm late," Johnny nodded.

He brought Ceres to the front of Henry. "I wish you a long and happy marriage, Henry. This is your sister-in-law, Ceres. You haven't seen her before, right? Now you know her."

Johnny introduced Ceres to Henry on purpose. He wanted everyone to know that he was already married. And his wife was Ceres!

In front of everyone, Henry always acted like he and Johnny were closed. On such an important occasion, he had to continue to fake it!

"Johnny, Ceres, thank you! I also wish you two can be together forever."

Mary was so angry that her teeth were chattering!

"Alright. Sorry for interrupting your wedding. Please proceed." Johnny said. He then brought Ceres to the VIP seats.

Jack's pair of shrewd eyes revealed a cold light.

Such a fatal blow!

Mike patted his head. He was doomed!

He never expected that Johnny would be able to stand up again. No matter how many sons Mary had, none of them would be the heir.

He had been lending money and losing friends!

Johnny sat next to Jack. Ceres sat by Johnny's other side. Her hands were sweaty. Only God knew how scared she was.

Johnny held Ceres's hand tightly and even patted the back of her hand.

He was always with her.

Jack saw the couple holding hands and turned his head to the other side. After all those maneuverings, his plot fell apart due to a woman.

"So, Johnny. You've recovered," Jack finally spoke.

"Yes, Dad. I can walk now thanks to Ceres. I would still be a vegetable without her marrying me. I won't be able to recover so quickly without her taking care of me. Our whole family should thank her. Do you have any reward for her, Dad?"

Ceres's heart almost jumped out of her throat. What was on his mind? They showed up so suddenly. And everyone just knew who she was. Now he was asking for a reward. He must be mad!

She was really afraid that Jack would slap her in the face. That would be so humiliating!

Jack was expressionless and even grave.

"There are rewards, of course," he said. This was not the time to make a scene.

With so many people here, if he lost his temper, the reputation of his family would be damaged.

Jack glanced at Ceres. And Ceres happened to peek at Jack. The two of them met eyes.

Ceres immediately turned back. With just a glance, she knew that Jack wanted to kill her!

His eyes were so terrifying!

"Thank you, Dad, on Ceres's behalf," Johnny said.

"Ceres?" Jack remembered that the girl was called Mary. Where did this Ceres come from?

"Yes, Dad. You still don't know, right? Ceres is the girl who marry me to help me get rid of bad luck. She was the daughter of Mike's wife and her ex-husband. That girl standing on the stage is Mary. They are sisters with the same mother but different fathers. Don't you think they look very alike?"

Jack understood what Johnny meant. Mike didn't want his daughter to marry Johnny. So he found the daughter of his wife's ex-husband!

And his good son, Henry, also concealed this!

He had been deceived for so many years!

At this moment, Mary suddenly cast a look at Ceres grudgingly!
