

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 170 Divorce Again

Ceres knew that Kirs's proposal was serious.

A bright smile appeared on Kirs's face, "It's fine now. Don't worry, I will protect you from Johnny. Please take this ring."

Ceres shook her head firmly, "Kirs, you heard it too. Johnny and I did not divorce. He did not sign the divorce agreement, so I..."

Ceres knew that Johnny and Annie were engaged, so she believed that Johnny must want to marry Annie. Since he wanted to marry Annie, he would definitely sign the divorce agreement she left.

Therefore, she believed that as long as two years passed, they would automatically divorce even if they didn't go through the formalities.

But Ceres did not expect that Johnny did not sign the divorce agreement!

Legally speaking, they were still husband and wife. It was too dramatic!

Kirs was still smiling brightly, "Ceres, you will get divorced sooner or later. Johnny and Annie will get married sooner or later. If he wants to marry Annie, he must divorce you first. So it's okay for you to agree to my proposal now."

Ceres looked at Kirs's sincere eyes and shook her head, "No, Kirs, it is unethical to do this."

"I need to deal with my relationship with Johnny first." She pushed the ring back.

Bob quickly helped Johnny find out the relevant information. He handed a stack of documents to Johnny.

"These are some materials about the Cosmos Group over the past three years. Ceres is now the director of the Technology Department of the Cosmos Group. It can be said that the products produced by the Cosmos Group on the market now are largely attributed to her."

"Over the past three years, Ceres has been with that man named Kirs Shaw. Oh, his name is now Kirs Fell. Johnny, you still remember him, right?"

Johnny, of course, remembered him. In fact, he was shocked when he saw Kirs yesterday!

He never expected that the boy who worked as an intern at Eagle Group, Ceres's childhood sweetheart, would suddenly become the president of the Cosmos Group and become his biggest competitor!

But at that time, his attention was all on Ceres, and he did not take Kirs seriously.

"How did he become the president of the Cosmos Group?"

"The former chairman of the Cosmos Group didn't have a son. Later, the chairman found Kirs out of nowhere and said that Kirs was his only son, so Kirs took over the Cosmos Group. He does quite a good job. As soon as he came back, he made the group prosperous and got along well with his employees."

"In addition, many people said that he and Ceres are a perfect match in the field of artificial intelligence. All the products were finished by the two of them. In the eyes of everyone in the Cosmos Group, the two of them are a couple."

Johnny snorted coldly.

He didn't expect that Ceres had been hiding under his opponent's command. No wonder he couldn't find out anything about her these years. It turned out that she went to the Cosmos Group!

Bob paused and continued, "Johnny, you may not want to hear this, but you and Ceres misunderstand each other badly. Don't you find that after Ceres went to the Cosmos Group, every product of the group seemed to be against us? If she is the one who did all this, then what's her purpose?"

Of course, Johnny knew what her purpose was. She must take revenge on him.

She couldn't be cruel enough to kill him. Maybe she also felt that killing him was meaningless, so she wanted to defeat him. . She knew he could not accept failure. He was a person who would not allow himself to fail.

"My woman really knows me well."

Johnny was in mixed feelings.

"Johnny, why don't you tell Ceres everything that happened back then? You'd better take the initiative to look for her and explain everything to her first. I think Kirs has a bad intention. The two of them grew up together, and they are both keen on artificial intelligence."

In Bob's opinion, Ceres and Kirs were more suitable for each other.

"No, she will come to me." Johnny took a breath slowly.

Bob shook his head and said, "You've lost your mind for the past few years in order to find her. Now that she's back, can't you be more active?"

Johnny looked up at Bob and said with a faint smile, "You don't know her well."

He did this just to get back together with Ceres.

"Fine, I don't care. As long as you know what you are doing," Bob said.

As the two of them were chatting, the secretary Ben knocked on the door and said, "President, there is a Miss Ceres who is looking for you."

"Damn, Johnny, you're so amazing!" Bob looked at Johnny, stunned.

After saying that, Bob hurriedly left. Since Johnny and Ceres had not seen each other for so long, they must have a lot to say.

Ceres was brought to the president's office of the Eagle Group. Every step she took made her heart ache. This place was too familiar to her. This was the place where she had worked hard, and it didn't change at all.

Soon, Ceres sat opposite Johnny, and Johnny was staring at her.

It was her. It was the woman in his dream.

There was still the heroic spirit he liked in her eyes, and she still looked smart. But he also felt that she was getting mature and was somewhat restrained.

In the past, she was like a bird, free and unrestrained.

But now, he felt as if he had seen the shackles on her body.

Being stared at by Johnny, Ceres was a little shy. She coughed, took out a document from her bag, and handed it to Johnny. "Mr. Johnny, please take a look at this first."

Johnny looked down and saw that the title of the document was "divorce agreement."

He threw the document into the trash can.

Ceres looked at Johnny in astonishment. Then, she gritted her teeth and picked up the document from the trash can, "I advise you to take a good look at it. Since things are not going well between us, don't you think we should get all this end quickly?

"Are you so eager to get married again?" Johnny asked.

"It has nothing to do with remarriage. I'm here to talk about divorce with you today. In the divorce agreement, I said that I would give up everything. You gave me a villa before, and I'll return it to you. Besides, your father once gave me five percent of the shares, and I'll also return it to you."

"As for the rest of my property, it has nothing to do with you. I'm sincere enough. Just sign it!"

Ceres pushed the divorce agreement to Johnny again.

Looking at Ceres' face, Johnny was lost in thought.

Did she really want to divorce him so badly and be with Kirs?

She used to be so dependent on him. Did she really change now?
