

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 172 Swedum

At that moment, Johnny's mind was going to explode!

He remembered the scene when Kirs proposed to her. It never occurred to him that they slept together. Ceres had boundaries.

"You're lying!" Johnny said fiercely.

However, Ceres narrowed her eyes and smiled. "For more than three years, we have been together day and night. I am lonely, he is alone, and we go together to the bar sometimes, isn't that normal for our age?"

Johnny stared at Ceres, he became outrageous!

Ceres knew this would make him uneasy.

She knew he would not go near to a woman who had been with another man. So she lied to avoid him.

Johnny straightened up, Ceres followed.

She tidied up her clothes and said, "Johnny, I will send you another paper. My patience is on the clock, hope you think about it!"

Ceres left his office.

Johnny punched the table angrily!

Why did she hate him so much? They used to have such a good spark, could it be over?

He betrayed her once but all the goodness he had done to her didn't make amends.

...

City M.

In a villa in the city center, Ceres's assistant, Nick, picked up the phone.

He answered her with caution, "Yes, he has been doing very well in kindergarten. He adjusted to the environment. He said he have missed you. Except that everything is in order, don't worry."

The boy was playing with his fake guns while Nick was on the phone. And he looked at Nick mischievously.

This little boy was called Swedum and this name came from his mother who wished him the best with a blessing.

He resembled the exquisite look of his mother, Ceres. When he entered kindergarten, a lot of little girls had a crush on him.

Nick was relieved when he hung up the phone. "Kid, are you happy now?" he asked.

Swedum shook his head, "Not yet. I want you to take me to Imperial City."

And that made Nick flinch, "Swedum, are you serious? You want me to lose my job and my girlfriend, don't you, my boy?"

Ceres was not at home, so Nick took his girlfriend with him in the middle of the night. This secret was Swedum's power over Nick.

"If you don't take me, that is fine. But don't blame me when I tell my mom about the secret, and this!" He was holding a condom!

Swedum had no idea what it was but Nick's reaction made him realize this thing could be used as a bargaining chip.

Nick looked at the condom and freaked out. If Ceres knew her young child was exposed to this, she would kill him!

He was with his girlfriend for not so long and he couldn't afford to lose his job.

"Oh, my boy! Give me a break! Please!"

Swedum shook his head and said, "You buy the ticket to Imperial City and I will let go of this."

"But your mom told me you can't go to Imperial City! She wants you to be here and attend classes."

"Well, I don't see a problem in this. I can handle it if you take me there. Please, Nick!"

Swedum was smiling excitedly.

Nick was softened by him. He couldn't say no, so he bought two tickets to Imperial City and they began hitting on the road.

Along the journey, Nick kept a close eye on him, made sure he was safe and sound.

He would be doomed if something bad happened to the boy.

It was the first time Swedum took a train. He was high-spirited along the way and behaved very well.

They descended from the train, headed towards the resting area. "Swedum, are you thirsty? How about I get you a bottle of water and make a phone call to your mom? She may pick us from the train station."

Nick hadn't been to Imperial City. Everything around here was unfamiliar to him. Plus, he didn't know where Ceres live. So he had to call her first.

"Don't call mom! I don't come here to see her, I come here to look for my dad!" Swedum declared.

He was looking at Nick, naughtily.

Nick was confused, "Oh my god, kid. Do you know who he is and where to find him?"

Nick had been doing this job for a while, but he never heard about Swedum's biological father. Kirs had been in love with Ceres, but he was not the father.

There were some rumors about the father. But rumors were rumors after all. No one knew in the end who the father was.

"I don't know," replied Swedum.

"So how will you get to him?"

Swedum took out a box from his backpack, "By this."

Nick opened it. It was a diamond ring!

"Oh boy! You stole this?"

Nick didn't know the price tag. But it was big and shiny. That must be worth a million. He couldn't believe they arrived here with such a precious item.

What if they lost it? How could he survive then! He was literally going to cry out.

"My mom puts on the ring all the time. Who would give her that except for my dad? I think it is my dad. Before she left, she took the ring away on purpose. It means my dad is in Imperial City, or she wouldn't have to take off the ring! I can find my dad with this ring."

Swedum was proud of his plan.

"But the city is too big. It is impossible to stop every stranger in the street and ask them about the ring."

Nick rolled his eyes. Kids were kids after all.

"Of course we don't go like that! This ring is pretty expensive. They don't have it in some average jewelry stores. It must be a fancy jewelry shop. I've looked up the fancy ones. In Imperial City, there are ten of them, and they all belong to three headquarters. So, we only need to find the three stores. So easy."

Swedum explained it clear and cut.

"Even if we find out the store, we can't identify who bought it," Nick stuttered.

Swedum crossed his arms and stared at him, "Nick, what is the thing above your neck?"

"Above my neck..."Nick literally touched his neck and cried out, "It must be my head!"

"Yes, so use it! It is a good thing!"

Nick got it now. He was played by Swedum!
