

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 177 The Young Master of the Winsors

Brice laughed out with a sneer.

He looked at the broken car and laughed, "Buy a pile of junk then!"

As Brice spoke, he made a face at Swedum.

Mary grabbed his wrist and said with anger, "Stop! Don't you feel embarrassed?"

As Mary spoke, she pulled Brice away anxiously and was about to leave. But she was stopped by the clerk.

"Excuse me, Madam. Your young master broke our car, so you need to compensate."

"Bullshit! Can you prove that? So what even if I did? It is your honor!" He sneered, "And you should thank me!"

Brice looked up high with his hands behind his back as if he despised everyone.

"What's so great about the Winsors? It has been going downhill for several years, and they might go bankrupt soon."

"That's true. No wonder the Winsors is getting worse. Looking at its young master, I estimate it will collapse within a few years!"

"What a spoiled boy! If the Winsors fell into his hands, it would be destroyed."

Hearing those words, Mary was in a rage.

Over the past three years, the Eagle Group had been starting various businesses, snatching a lot of them from the Winsor Group. What's worse, it didn't have a reliable president.

It had indeed been going downhill!

The Winsors, an ever noble family, slowly became more and more insignificant in just three years.

Mary immediately took out a bank card from her handbag to the clerk, who hurried to swipe the card.

"Mommy, why? What can they do to us?"

Brice didn't realize that Mary was angry.

Just as he said this, Mary slapped him on his face.

Brice was stunned, then he cried.

"Bring him back to the car!" Brice shouted at the servant beside her.

The servant hurried forward and carried Brice away.

"Do you want to keep this?" The clerk packed the broken car and asked Mary.

Mary didn't even look at it as she walked straight ahead. Then she suddenly stopped and turned around. She glared at Ceres for a while and then walked out quickly!

The people who were gabbling gradually dismissed.

Ceres sighed when she remembered what Mary had done.

To slap her son in front of so many people, wasn't she too ...

Swedum tugged at Ceres's clothes, and Ceres soon recovered, "Swedum, did you get hurt?"

Swedum hurriedly shook his head, "Mommy, that woman seemed to know you. She looked at you so angrily as if she wanted to kill you."

Ceres sighed. Mary had been wanting to kill her long ago. Perhaps she even intended to kill both Ceres and her son now.

"Swedum, you like that toy car very much?"

Swedum nodded in regret, "But they just have one."

Ceres brought Swedum to the clerk and said, "Please inform me if this toy car is available. And I'll come to buy it, okay?"

But the clerk said with an apology, "Madam, this car is limited to sale. This broken car is the last one all over the country. And its production has been halted."

"Alright."

"It doesn't matter, Mommy. We will find a better one!" Swedum didn't feel unhappy and comforted Ceres.

Ceres patted Swedum's head and said to the clerk, "Thank you anyway. And if you get any new arrivals, inform me please."

"Okay."

"We have other products on it, you can contact us once you are interested." The clerk gave Ceres a brochure and said.

Ceres took the brochure and looked at it. She suddenly realized that this shop belonged to the Eagle Group.

She was very surprised.

She didn't know that the Eagle Group had started to carry out children's smart products so secretly.

The Eagle Group had always been the biggest opponent of the Cosmos Group. Naturally, the latter had been watching the former closely.

In recent years, artificial intelligence had developed rapidly. AI had been used in some large enterprises, followed by home appliances.

The market for children's products is of great potential. All the companies engaged in developing AI wanted to tap into it. But not like adults, children were in a higher position in a family in these years. Parents treasured their children like pearls.

So the priority of developing children-used AI products was taking their safety and health into account, which was difficult to perform.

The Cosmos Group had taken down the market with an AI accompanying robot, becoming a hit. They also survived their bankruptcy crisis. However, they didn't continue developing new products later.

Because a few customers complained that their children had almost swallowed the machine parts by mistake. Some referred to the radiation issue, and the others reflected that the outer shells of the products were not environmental-friendly and could lead to children's deformity.

All these issues brought the Cosmos Group into a terrible situation. They could only stop selling and turn to the adult market.

Johny deserved his fame. It seemed that the Cosmos Group had been left behind by the Eagle Group.

She had to find a way to catch up now.

Brice was brought back home by Mary. Yet he was still crying. Mary was anxious about it, so she asked the servant to lock Brice in the room and didn't allow him to get out.

Though Brice was only three years old, he had self-esteem, too. He had been feeling that he was superior, but he didn't expect that his mother slapped him in front of so many people.

He once rallied everyone in the house to punish a servant and ordered the butler to slap the servant. Now Brice felt like he was like that servant and was humiliated.

At this moment, Mary was anxious in her room.

She thought, 'Now Ceres came back with her son who might be older than mine, then her son will be superior to Brice in the Winsors!'

'Everything I had painstakingly planned will be destroyed!'

'How could I calm down?'

Mary immediately called Sally, "Mom, I need you to come here quickly. Ceres is back!"