

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 187 It Should Be Johnny Who Did It

Ceres slowly walked over and gently stroked the feathers of the rooster.

Its feathers were even more beautiful than before, and even under such faint light, Ceres could see how spirited the shiny feathers were.

The rooster heard the noise and looked at Ceres. It stretched its neck and made a sound.

It seemed to be greeting an old friend.

Ceres remembered how this rooster had fought for her. When they met again, Ceres couldn't help but burst into tears.

Sofia, who was at the side, also secretly wiped her tears, "Madam, you are finally back, and the happiness also comes back to this family. During the time when you were not here, Mr. Johnny kept looking for you and almost went crazy."

Hearing Sofia's words, Ceres suddenly stood up. She slowly retreated, retreated, and retreated.

Finally, she turned around and dashed out.

"Madam! Madam! Where are you going?"

Ceres went out quickly and sat in her own car. Her heart was still beating so fast.

She kept telling herself that Johnny was the one who killed her father.

Ceres started the car and returned to her home.

She sat on the sofa, holding her cell phone with her eyes open. She just kept sitting there until dawn.

When Kirs came, he found out that Swedum had gone missing last night. Kirs blamed himself and apologized to Ceres.

"Ceres, I'm really sorry. If I hadn't invited everyone to celebrate yesterday, such a thing would not have happened."

"Kirs, this has nothing to do with you. It's just that someone coincidentally chose such an opportunity. If it wasn't yesterday, it might also be today or tomorrow. As long as that person had such a malicious thought, he or she would always find an opportunity."

Ceres comforted Kirs in turn when she saw that he was blaming himself.

In fact, she didn't have the mood to say this at all. After all, finding Swedum was the most important thing right now.

"Ceres, I can't help you at all. I'm so useless!" Kirs held his head in frustration. He was already the president of the Cosmos Group, but he still seemed so powerless.

"Johnny has already gone to look for Swedum. There should be news soon," Ceres said absent-mindedly.

She kept staring at the screen of her phone, afraid that she would miss out on any news.

In fact, Johnny was already on his way home with Swedum. Nick was injured and was arranged to be in another car.

Swedum was probably a little frightened and hid in Johnny's arms without a word.

"Daddy is here. No one can hurt you." Johnny stroked his head.

"Daddy?" Swedum turned to look at Johnny.

"Yes."

Johnny felt a little upset when Swedum called him "daddy". He actually became a father in this way.

"Swedum, as a man, you will encounter many difficulties in your life. You may be afraid, but at any time, this kind of emotion will not help you. It will only disturb your thinking. If you want to get out of trouble, you have to calm down, drive away your fear and panic, and then think."

Swedum nodded seriously.

They then smiled at each other.

"Daddy, you still love mommy, don't you?"

Swedum suddenly asked such a question.

Johnny didn't know how to answer. He certainly loved Ceres, but he didn't know how to tell this to a three-year-old child.

"I know that you must still love mommy. If you didn't love mommy, you wouldn't have lost to mommy on purpose."

Johnny frowned and looked at his son. "How do you know that I deliberately lost to her?"

"If my guess is correct, you wanted to lose to mommy from the beginning. You deliberately exposed the weakness of your left arm to mommy and let her attack you. Otherwise, you would have surely won in yesterday's competition!"

Swedum looked at Johnny with admiration.

"Do you like robots too?"

"Of course! My mommy is very good. I find that daddy is better than mommy! Daddy, can you teach me?"

"Of course I can."

Swedum was his son, and of course Johnny would be willing to teach him everything he knew.

"That's great!"

They then chatted happily, and soon, they were already home. Johnny carried Swedum out of the car.

He rang the doorbell. It was Ceres who opened the door, and Kirs stood behind her.

Johnny glanced at Kirs and then turned to look at Ceres.

"Swedum!" Ceres hurriedly hugged Swedum in her arms, kissed him on the cheek, and rubbed his face. "You scared mommy so much!"

"Your assistant is injured. I asked my men to send him to the hospital."

"Is it serious?" Ceres immediately asked with concern.

"It's not serious. It's just a small injury, but it's better to let the doctor have a check."

"Alright."

Kirs looked at Johnny and smiled, "Thank you, Mr. Johnny."

Johnny knew what Kirs meant by saying so. Kirs thanked him as Ceres's boyfriend. Johnny was very upset when hearing it.

"No need to thank me. I just saved my son." Johnny said in a calm tone.

Johnny didn't even look at Kirs when he said this. His gaze was fixed on Ceres. "Swedum has been frightened. Take him to have a good rest."

"Yes." Ceres hugged Swedum tightly and thought of what Sofia had said last night. She could not say any more words.

"Mr. Johnny, you are really so great. You found Swedum so quickly."

Kirs stood by the side and looked at Johnny.

The words "my son" just now made him very uncomfortable. At least Johnny and Ceres had a son, whereas Kirs seemed to have nothing to do with Ceres.

Johnny, of course, could hear the hidden meaning in Kirs's words.

He wasn't a fool.

He knew clearly Kirs was implying that it was Johnny who took away Swedum and sent him back.

He didn't say anything. He just glanced at Kirs and left.

Kirs clenched his fists tightly as if he had been greatly mocked!

If Johnny refuted him and argued with him, Kirs could still accept it, but Johnny actually didn't say a word!

Kirs found that Johnny was always so lofty and noble. He hated it so much!

"Kirs, it's nothing here now. You can go back. I'll take Swedum to have a good sleep."

"How can I be at ease? You didn't eat much last night. I'll go and make something delicious for you two." Kirs rolled up his sleeves and went straight to the kitchen.

Ceres carried Swedum up the stairs.

Johnny leaned against the car before he removed his disguise.

He was injured.

"Mr. Johnny, are you alright? Do you want to go to the hospital?"

"No, have you found out who did it?"

"Yes, it's Mike."