

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 213 We Are Engaged

Alice sat in front of the table and was a little prim. Thanks to Bill, it was the first time that so many media were watching her.

The grandest press conference she had attended was about a TV series where she was the third billing. That TV series made a hit, but unfortunately, she remained unknown.

Because she was to clarify her relationship with Bill, she was dressed in an informal dress with light makeup.

Bill came later. He was dressed in a red suit and looked spirited. With hairspray, his hair was styled, which was what he always did.

Sitting next to him, Alice subconsciously moved away from him to avoid misunderstanding.

As reporters began to take photos, the press conference began.

"Mr. Jaden, it is rumored that you spent a night with Ms. Alice in the hotel, so are you in a relationship?"

"Mr. Jaden, a photo shows that you and Ms. Alice were in the hospital, so is she pregnant?"

"Mr. Jaden, what is the relationship between you and Ms. Alice? Can you tell us how you date each other?"

"Mr. Jaden...?"

The media all focused on Bill and ignored Alice. After all, she was not famous.

She was even very satisfied that they didn't forget her.

Alice had anticipated this in advance, so they had prepared the answers before.

With a confident look, Bill laughed in high spirits.

"Everyone, quiet down. You should ask in order. Don't make any noise!" Bill's assistant tried to maintain order.

Bill couldn't answer such a series of quickfire questions.

Bill cleared his throat and said, "I'd like to address here. Ms. Alice and I are not in a relationship."

Alice heaved a sigh of relief. Finally, he made it clear.

"We are engaged!" Bill said as he directly entwined his fingers with Alice's and showed them to the media.

Alice had put her hands on her legs. However, before she figured out what was going on, he grabbed her hand!

What arrant nonsense!

Engagement?

They had never talked about this before!

"What are you talking about?" Alice turned her head and looked at him in surprise.

Bill looked determined. "We went to the hospital to visit a friend, so Ms. Alice is not pregnant. I will announce it in time when she is pregnant."

His words stunned the media for a while, and then everyone went mad!

"Did you hold the engagement ceremony? Have your parents known about this?"

"According to Mr. Harper, you are not allowed to date the artists in your company."

"Ms. Alice, you looked a little surprised. Did you know this before?"

...

Bill pulled Alice up and walked backstage.

His assistant hurriedly said, "Well, that's the end of the press conference!"

"Mr. Jaden, can you answer the question?"

"Ms. Alice, why do you keep silent?"

The reporters continued.

Bill and Alice got rid of them and returned to the lounge upstairs. They couldn't walk out until the reporters all left.

Back in the lounge, Bill laid on the sofa and took out his phone to play games.

Alice stood in front of him and shouted, "You didn't tell me about the engagement. You should go out and explain it to the media!"

She had wanted to clarify her relationship with him. Nonetheless, he announced the engagement. And her career would be over!

Bill was indifferent. "It won't work. Now that I have announced it, they won't believe me if I deny it."

"But..."

Alice was irritated. What bad luck to meet him!

"You don't understand what you did to me!" Alice almost freaked out, pacing back and forth.

"Don't worry. In return, I will ask the company not to sack you and you can play some important roles in the following plays. What do you think?" Bill looked up at her and put his phone into the pocket.

"What do you mean?" Alice looked at Bill in confusion.

"Let's make a deal. I need a fiancée while you need an opportunity to prove yourself. I'll give you a hand, but you need to act as my fiancée, okay?"

Alice realized that Bill wanted her to act as his fiancée.

"But..."

"Don't worry. When everything is finished, I will post on social media that we had a peaceful breakup. It benefits both of us, right?"

Alice bit her lips. On second thought, she was not at a disadvantage. She needed opportunities to prove herself to the public. If Bill could do her a favor, it was a good chance.

Moreover, if she became Bill's fiancée, those directors, deputy directors, or staff wouldn't dare to offend her!

In entertainment, actresses were always at a disadvantage. With Bill's protection, Alice wouldn't be pestered anymore.

"Well, it's a deal."

After she agreed, Bill got happy. "It's a deal, but you should keep it a secret. You can't even tell Ceres about it!"

"Do you mean I must hide it from Ceres?" Alice had never hidden anything from Ceres.

"Yes! Otherwise, it will be spoiled! Besides, you should be cooperative in public!"

Alice nodded.

When they left the hotel, the reporters had all gone. Bill asked his driver to send Alice home.

Alice held her phone. She had thought she would receive a call from Ceres after Ceres watched the press conference on TV. However, Ceres didn't call Alice or contact her on WeChat.

This was so strange.

Thus, she made a call to Ceres but found that Ceres' phone was turned off.

Alice muttered to herself, "Is she in the hospital?"

In the hospital, Johny texted Ceres many times, but he still did not receive any reply. He called Ceres directly, only to find that Ceres had turned off her phone.

Why did she turn off her phone in the daytime?

When Nick brought Swedum to the hospital. Swedum looked sad. "Daddy, I feel a slight sense of foreboding. Will something go wrong with Mommy?"

"No," Johny said, but he was anxious as well.

"But the last time I had such a kind of feeling, Mommy had a fever." Swedum was still a little worried.

Alice also came to the hospital. She wanted to tell Ceres about what had happened today. After all, they were best friends.

"Where is Ceres?" Seeing that Ceres was not in the ward, Alice was confused.

All the signs showed that something went wrong with Ceres.
