

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 228 Are You My Nemesis?

Bob slammed the door immediately.

He quickly took off his coat and wrapped it around Nyla!

Johnny quickly got up and rushed into the bathroom. He thought that he must calm down.

The cold water washed his head, and the heat on him slowly disappeared.

To Nyla's surprise, Johnny refused her by hurting himself!

She was stunned.

The security guards also rushed in. They saw a woman on the ground. Take a closer look at her, and they found that she was the woman who often pestered Johnny.

"It's you again! Why are you always here? The whole place is guarded. How can you get in?" the security captain said and was ready to take Nyla away.

Bob snapped, "It's none of your business here. Get out."

"Mr. Johnny called us personally. I'm afraid we can't leave yet."

"I will explain it to Mr. Johnny personally," Bob said in a cold voice.

The security captain said, "Alright." Then, they left together.

The office was quiet again. Seeing the spray on the ground and hearing the sound of water from the bathroom, Bob guessed what probably had happened.

Nyla glared at Bob, and she pushed Bob away. "Are you my nemesis? It's all your fault that makes me fail!" Nyla said.

Bob squatted, and then he was pushed to the ground without any preparation.

He never thought that Nyla was so ungrateful.

"Nyla, you should be ashamed of yourself. If it wasn't for me, do you know what would have happened when the security guards rushed in just now?"

However, Nyla seemed to be indifferent. "So what? I've told Johnny, but he still called the security guards. Since he is not afraid of being seen, what am I afraid of? Besides, it's normal for men and women to do such a thing!"

Hearing Nyla's words, Bob was struck dumb.

He could hardly imagine that she was such a brazen person.

Nyla stood up and walked towards the bathroom. Bob also stood up and said, "Are you going to humiliate yourself?"

Nyla stopped.

Johnny refused to look at Nyla even after she took off all her clothes. Although Johnny had been drugged, he still managed to turn her down.

Nyla thought, 'Am I really bad? Why does he hate me so much?'

"You know he doesn't like you. Give up!"

Nyla turned around and looked at Bob. "Am I not as good as Ceres? Why doesn't he like me?" Nyla asked.

She was the apple of their parent's eyes, and she was good at everything. Countless men were surrounding Nyla since she was a child. However, even though she acted so actively in chasing Johnny, she could not move him at all.

After all, Nyla was a girl, so she must feel sad.

It was just that she was unwilling to reveal it.

"You are no worse than Ceres. However, Johnny only cares about her."

Bob said with force, "When Johnny first met Ceres, there was still a red spot on Ceres's face. Everyone said that she was ugly, but Johnny still fell in love with her. So, love has nothing to do with anything."

These words made Nyla a little sad.

"Ceres has forgotten about Johnny. Johnny wants to chase her again, so he manages to create new memories with her to be with her again! Don't you understand what Johnny means?"

Bob explained it to her seriously.

Then, Nyla wore a long face. She had long understood, just unwilling to admit it.

"Let me say something you dislike. Even if you had a sexual relationship with him today, it wouldn't change anything. It would only bring you and the Yoder family a fatal disaster. Johnny is willing to do everything for Ceres."

Bob's words seemed to threaten Nyla.

She raised her neck as if she could not understand what Bob said at all. "It's about to succeed. It's all your fault!" Nyla said.

After that, she glanced at her clothes on the ground and wrapped Bob's coat tightly around her.

Nyla walked to the door and suddenly stopped. "Next time, I will succeed," she said.

Then, she immediately walked out of the office.

Bob was boiling with rage when hearing her words.

He did not understand why Nyla was so stubborn.

Thinking that Johnny was still in the bathroom, Bob walked to the door and knocked. "Johnny, are you alright?" Bob asked.

"Nothing." Johnny immersed his head in cold water.

"I'm sorry. Nyla is too crazy."

"It's none of your business," Johnny replied.

"Take care of yourself. I'll go back first." Bob did not know what else to say except this.

After all, Nyla was Bob's fiancée. After such a thing happened, both of them must feel somewhat embarrassed. It was better not to meet at this time.

Therefore, Bob left the office without waiting for Johnny to come out.

Bob took the elevator directly to the parking lot. Just as he was just about to drive off, he heard faint crying.

Then, he found that Nyla was crying in the corner.

It was his first time to see Nyla cry.

Nyla curled up in a ball, her hair covering her face.

She had never been so depressed before.

She also had never felt so frustrated before.

Nyla thought that all the frustration in her life was brought by Johnny.

She wondered, 'I can even give up my dignity for Johnny. Why is he still so unmoved?'

Bob suddenly realized that he didn't understand Nyla at all.

He wanted to walk over, but he stopped.

Bob thought that perhaps Nyla needed dignity.

The drug's effect lasted for a long time. During this time, Johnny shut himself in the bathroom, frantically missing Ceres.

After a long time, he felt no more pain and left the bathroom.

Then, Johnny changed his clothes and sat at his desk.

There were still clothes left by Nyla on the ground. He immediately called Ben over to clean them up.

Ben arrived very quickly and said, "Mr. Johnny, these clothes are..."

"Throw them away."

Ben picked up those clothes. Suddenly a shiny thing fell out of the pocket and rolled to Johnny's feet.

Then, Johnny picked it up for a look.

It was a ring with a six-pointed star in it.

Johnny became serious.
