

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 255 All for You

This case can only be pushed back for the investigation.

The people outside didn't know what had happened and were still waiting for the good news of Kirs.

When Kirs walked out of the door, the fans swarmed him.

"Mr. Kirs, did you win? We have to celebrate!"

"I knew that Mr. Kirs would win!"

"Mr. Kirs, say a few words to us!"

Kirs kept silent.

When Kirs heard those words, he only felt it was very ironic. He strode to his car and left the scene with disappointment.

Back in the company, Kirs paced back and forth in the office with his hands on his hips.

He thought, 'When exactly did she remember? When exactly did she start to detect it?

She actually had so much evidence and even kept their recording!

I hadn't noticed anything!"

Kirs was furious in the office, waving all the documents off the table. The books on the bookshelf were also thrown down, and the ornaments of the glass were all over the ground.

Several roars came from the president's office.

All the employees did not dare to breathe and surrounded the door, not knowing what was going on.

They also thought that the Cosmos Group would win the lawsuit, but looking at Kirs, it was definitely not a good result.

Several people who accompanied Kirs to the court also told everyone about Ceres's betrayal.

Everyone was stunned.

Ceres appeared in everyone's field of vision while everyone was discussing. They all stared at Ceres with strange looks.

No one would have thought that the one who betrayed Kirs was Ceres. Everyone knew that they were childhood sweethearts and that Kirs had even proposed.

Ceres walked into the president's office under everyone's astonished gazes.

Kirs roared at the door, "Who let you in? Don't you know to knock?"

When Kirs saw that it was Ceres, he immediately seemed to have gone mute.

"You still dare to see me."

Ceres looked at the mess in the office and put the resignation letter on the messy table.

"This is my resignation letter."

"Ceres!" Kirs gritted his teeth and called her name, "Am I not good to you? Why are you doing this to me? Why are you doing this?"

"Am I not good to you? Why are you doing this to me? Why are you doing this?"

Ceres repeated what Kirs said. She was roaring!

Kirs was stunned.

This was the first time he had seen Ceres in such a state.

"Because you like me, you don't care about anything else? Even if you hurt me, you don't care?"

Kirs was silent.

He was speechless.

"You clearly knew the consequences of hypnotizing me, which would lead to my mental disorder, which might cause me to be depressed or commit suicide, but you still did it. You used me to threaten Johny again and again, repeatedly using the chip he developed. I never knew that the Kirs I knew was such a despicable and shameless person!"

Ceres hadn't been living well these days, and she almost had to rely on the sleeping pills to fall asleep.

She trusted Kirs so much, but he treated her like this!

In her mind, Kirs was an upright and kind man, but he did the most despicable and shameless thing!

"I'm doing this for you!" Kirs argued, "Yes, I like you! I have liked you since I was young, and I gave up so much for you! But what about you?

"How did you repay me?"

Kirs closed his eyes painfully and opened them again, "When my father found me, in order to be with you, I even refused to return to the Cosmos Group and refuse the identity of a young master. When I saw you with Johny, I realized that women all liked money, so I returned to the Cosmos Group.

"Do you know what this means? It means that I will give up my favorite artificial intelligence and become a president with shackles! It means that I will live in battles every day, which means that I will become a thorn on the side of the family!

Kirs clenched his fists. "All of this is because of you!"

Ceres looked at Kirs and shook her head, "No, you are wrong. All of this is not because of me, but because you like me. You want to get me. In the end, it is because of your own desires!"

Kirs was speechless.

"Putting everything aside, you like me, you pay for me. That is your own behavior. It has nothing to do with me! I didn't ask you to like me, nor did I ask you to pay so much for me. It was your own choice!"

Ceres felt that her words were heartless, but she felt that she was right.

"On this point, you will never be able to compare to Johny because he will never care about it."

Ceres sighed deeply. "Kirs, this is the last time that I call you Kirs. I gave you a chance. I once told you to stop developing new products. We can research on our own. It is you who does not listen. You insist on stealing the research results of others."

I have also wavered, my evidence has long been collected, I am the director of the technical department, it is too easy for me to get any information, but I have not taken it out, why? Because I want to give you a chance because you in my heart are not such a person. Even before going to court, I have been hesitating.

But standing in the court, you pointed at my nose and said those words, which made me determined that my choice was right!

Kirs closed his eyes.

"In fact, you don't like me that much. Think about it, what do you like about me? In court, didn't you abandon me without hesitation, saying that I sold you out and even wanted me to lose my reputation? In fact, you still love your group more than you love me."

Ceres turned around and left. She walked to the door and stopped. "This matter has nothing to do with Johny. He didn't know it before, and the reason that he came out of court today was that he was determined to lose. He would rather lose the lawsuit and make the Eagle Group bankrupt to protect me."

The corners of her lips curled into a beautiful arc.

This was the gap between them.

"You helped me, and I also helped you create glory. We are even."

Ceres left the office. Outside the office, everyone was gathered. They had all heard their conversation.

Seeing the familiar faces, Ceres stood still.

"I have already submitted my resignation letter. From today, I will no longer be your director. Everyone is well, and take care of yourselves."

Ceres bowed deeply and left with a firm pace.

Walking out of the Cosmos Group building, the sun was a little glaring. Ceres subconsciously raised her hand to block the sun.

Then she saw Johny under the sun.

He stood in front of the car, waiting for her.