

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 303 What She Said Is True

Jamie was crying so pitifully, and what she said was true.

Ceres was confused. Could Jamie really mean it?

"Ceres, I've finally had a reunion with my father. Now I am the heir of the Bullock Group. You know me. I am addicted to money. I can't live without money!"

Ceres sneered. Jamie knew herself well.

"I can't bear to mess things up. So, can you leave?"

Jamie looked at Ceres pleadingly. "I'll give you a bottle of fake antidote. When the time comes, please don't expose me."

Looking at Jamie's pitiful face, Ceres wanted to believe her.

What Jamie said was true so far.

Maybe Jamie was really worried about her future.

Seeing Ceres hesitate, Jamie continued, "I will give you as much money as you want. Hit me if you like!"

As Jamie spoke, she knelt down.

Jamie tried to take Ceres' hand, but Ceres refused.

"I'm really sorry, Ceres. I know I deserve it!" Jamie began to slap herself.

Ceres had never seen Jamie like this.

Jamie really couldn't bear to lose her wealth.

Jamie had always been arrogant. She would only make a concession in matters of money.

"Enough!"

Jamie stopped. Her face was red and swollen.

"Ceres, you agree?"

Jamie stood up.

Ceres bit her lips. She wanted an answer.

"I have something to ask you. If you answer me honestly, I will leave as you wish."

"Alright!" Jamie raised her hand and made an oath, "If I lie, I will die miserably!"

"No, if you lie, Caleb will kick you out!"

Ceres said seriously as she stared at Jamie's eyes.

But Jamie looked straight at her. "Alright, I swear, if I lie, my father will kick me out. I will lose everything and everyone will look down upon me!"

Now Ceres believed that Jamie was serious.

"Okay, tell me, who killed my father?"

Jamie looked at Ceres in astonishment, "Ceres..."

Ceres tried to avoid Jamie's eyes as she realized that Jamie looked at her in the same way Sally had done.

"An accident happened to me, and I can't remember things clearly. Just tell me the truth. Don't forget the oath you made."

Ceres took out her mobile phone from her pocket. "I have recorded our conversation just now. If you lie to me, I will tell Caleb about it."

"Please don't!" Jamie was frightened.

"Then tell me the truth!"

"It ... it was Johnny who killed your father."

Hearing Jamie's words, Ceres' legs were so weak that she could hardly stand. How was that possible?

"Nonsense!" Ceres grabbed Jamie by the collar. "This is impossible!"

Jamie was frightened, "I am telling the truth! Johnny loves you so much. You know it. But the Winsors would never allow a murderer's daughter to marry Johnny. So Johnny killed your father."

Ceres released Jamie's collar and stepped back against the wall.

Some messy fragments flashed through her mind.

She remembered that she had stabbed a dagger into Johnny's chest!

Ceres beat her head with her hands. She couldn't believe her memory.

Jamie was secretly delighted when she saw Ceres lose control.

"Ceres, are you alright?"

"Tell me in detail!"

"Johnny must marry you, but his father disagreed. They had a huge fight about it. In order to marry you, Johnny had to sacrifice your father.

"I was Henry's wife and I overheard Jack's words. I tried to sow discord between you and Johnny, so I told you about it."

Jamie hurriedly grabbed Ceres' hand, "I'm sorry, Ceres, I'm really sorry! I was jealous of you back then!"

"Tell me how Johnny and I met each other." Ceres tried to keep calm.

"At that time, Johnny was still in a vegetative state. A fortune-teller told the Winsors that I was the suitable wife for Johnny, so they wanted me to marry Johnny. But my father wouldn't let it happen. So he married you to Johnny.

"But Johnny woke up later. I wanted him back. After all, he was the heir of the Winsor family. But Johnny was in love with you. So I married Henry. I helped Henry compete with Johnny. Because of this, I had hurt you several times."

Ceres believed in Jamie's words. She knew Jamie had always been such a person.

Jamie did not lie to her.

"When I married Johnny, were there red spots on my face?"

"Of course not!" Jamie replied, "Neither my father nor the Winsors would let a woman with red spots marry Johnny. At that time, my father promised you that he would help your father redress his grievance, so you agreed to marry Johnny."

Ceres became more and more depressed.

She didn't expect that so many things had happened between Johnny and her.

"Ceres, do you have any other questions?"

Ceres had got her answer. But she still didn't know what to do.

"Are you sure you didn't lie to me?"

"It's true! Ceres, all I want is money. You can ask Mom. Mom knows all those things!"

"You can go." Ceres looked pale. She believed that Jamie would not dare to lie to her.

The key problem was that she had some fragmented memories.

And these memories matched Jamie's words!

When Jamie told Ceres what had happened, Ceres could vaguely remember some of them.

So what Jamie said was true.