

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 310 | Only Believe in You

Only Johnny and Ceres were left in the room, and it suddenly quieted down.

"What are you talking about? Something interesting?" Johnny sat by Ceres's bed and gently brushed away the messy hair on her forehead.

"Caleb asked me to be his goddaughter. I don't agree," Ceres answered honestly.

Johnny smiled faintly and said nothing.

There was nothing more between them to talk about.

Johnny asked the doctor about the details of Ceres being shot. Johnny left no details about it. Ceres sat on the bed and listened. She watched Johnny frown while asking. Ceres felt warm.

It seemed that Johnny cared about her a lot, but how could he kill her father so ruthlessly?

Ceres thought, 'I must have mentioned to Johnny how important my father is to me.'

After the doctor left, Johnny sat by the bed and fed Ceres dinner. Ceres stopped eating after only a few bites.

Johnny thought that she did not have any appetite in the hospital, so he didn't force her to eat.

"Johnny, sit here. I have something to tell you," Ceres finally made up her mind.

Johnny sat down and held Ceres in his arms, "What do you want to say?"

Looking at Johnny's charming and deep eyes, Ceres took a deep breath, "My head was painful when the explosion and the gun battle occurred. At that time, many fragmented memories flashed in my mind as if I had experienced it before."

Johnny didn't say and thought, 'Of course, you have experienced it before.'

When he had just woken up from a vegetative state and needed to use a wheelchair, he had experienced the same scene as her. That time, he had also been shot to protect her.

It was also at that time that Ceres confirmed her feelings for Johnny.

"Back to the time in Country M, some fragmented memories flashed from time to time. It feels terrible. I think I don't want to have it anymore."

"So?"

"Can you tell me everything from the moment we met to the time I received hypnosis?"

"No."

Johnny refused simply.

Ceres felt choked. She had explained so much, but Johnny was still unwilling.

"Why?"

Johnny took Ceres' hands and asked, "Didn't we agree to start over again and ignore the past? Don't think about the past anymore."

Ceres was a bit unwilling to be rejected just like that.

"But I don't want to lead such a life. Do you know how painful it is for a person to suffer memory loss? I even don't remember this man who is sleeping beside me and what we have experienced. I don't even remember that I have a son!"

"I know you're doing this for my own good, but I'm fine now. If you tell me, things might get better. Nothing will be worse than the fragmented memories flashing in my head from time to time and my imagination running wild, right?" Ceres shook off Johnny's hand.

Johnny looked at Ceres's anxious eyes and his heart ached.

If possible, he was willing to take this torture on her behalf, but it was impossible.

"Ceres, what happened in the past is already in the past. Is the past really that important?"

Ceres pushed Johnny away, "It's important! You can't understand how I feel!"

Johnny pondered for a moment, "Stop poking, okay?"

"So you mean I'm being capricious? Johnny, why can you do nothing as I'm in so much pain? Why don't you tell me what happened in the past?"

Ceres suddenly sneered, "I can only suspect that you are hiding it because you did something wrong in the past, right?"

Johnny had a sense of foreboding, "Did someone tell you something?"

It seemed that the thing Johnny was worried about had happened. Someone must have interfered.

"Who was it?"

'Jamie?'

However, Ceres was so smart that she would never tell Jamie that she had been hypnotized and lost a part of her memory. Even if Ceres showed through some of her actions, Jamie would never know which part of the memories Ceres had lost.

"No one told me anything! I just want to hear you say it!"

Ceres' attitude suddenly changed. She hugged Johnny's waist and said, "I only believe you. Johnny, tell me. As long as you tell me, I will believe you."

Her eyes were full of love and tears, and she looked at him affectionately.

Cere looked at the man she loved deeply.

Johnny shook his head, "Don't think about the past anymore. The past is already in the past. Since we said to start over again, let's start over again. We agreed on this, didn't we?"

Johnny could not say it by any means. Nyla had told him that even if Ceres was fine now, with time passing by, those memories would slowly restore. The only thing he could do was to help Ceres was to create new memories and cover up the past memories.

Even if Johnny could not make it, he had to delay the restoration as much time as possible.

Ceres' hand slowly loosened, hanging down from Johnny's waist.

"I've already begged you like this, but you still refuse to tell me?"

"Ceres..." Johnny extended his hand but Ceres immediately retreated.

"Don't touch me! Johnny, when we were together before, you were so overbearing, right? You have the final say in everything, and you never consider my feelings, right? There are many things that you can do if you want to, and you will never discuss them with me, right?"

Johnny was speechless. He was indeed too overbearing before.

"I'll ask you one for last time. Do you want to say it or not? As I've said it before, as long as you say it, I will believe it, even if you lie to me."

Ceres struggled for the last time.

"Ceres, I will still say the same thing. Let's start over again."

When Ceres heard Johnny's words, two streams of tears flowed down her cheeks, "Alright, you said that. Don't regret it!"

While speaking, Ceres pressed the bell next to the bed.

Soon, someone arrived.

"What are you doing?"

"Chase this person away! Chase him away!" Ceres roared.

This was Caleb's exclusive ward. Everyone was Caleb's men. These people knew that Ceres had saved Caleb. Therefore, they did not dare to neglect her order.

"Ceres, why can't you..."

The bodyguard came forward and pulled Johnny. As Johnny was skilled, those people couldn't stop him.

Roy and Caleb were soon attracted over.

"Ceres, what is going on?"

"Didn't you say that you want me to be your goddaughter? As long as you chase him away, I will agree to it!" Ceres wiped away the tears on her face.

Caleb sneered, "My dear Johnny, it seems that you are not welcome here. Do you want to be driven out or do you invite yourself out?"