

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 322 A Riding Accident

Ceres almost lost her balance on the horse, so she gripped the rope tightly.

But the horse was out of control.

Everyone turned pale with fright when they saw this scene.

"Ceres, be careful!"

Jamie was so scared that she cried.

Even the trainer was frightened. He blew the whistle, but the horse made no reaction. The trainer could only retreat to the side. It would be dangerous if being tramped by the horse. He didn't want to lose his life.

Roy rushed up and ran quickly, trying to grab the rope, but he could not keep up with the speed of the horse!

"Go get the anesthetic!" Roy shouted.

Soon, someone brought over an anesthetic gun. Roy took it and aimed at the horse's butt. However, the horse had gone crazy and it was difficult to aim at it. After a while, Roy let off the aimed shot.

The anesthetic needle stabbed into the horse's butt, and the horse gave a loud neigh. Ceres couldn't balance herself and fell off the horse.

Roy jumped and caught Ceres. They kept rolling over on the grass.

The anesthetic soon functioned, and the horse fell to the ground.

Roy and Ceres were still in shock.

Jamie saw what had happened and felt annoyed. Roy saved Ceres again!

"Are you alright?"

Because of holding the reins for so long, Ceres's gloves had been worn out and she grazed her hands. Fortunately, she didn't get badly hurt.

"Ceres, are you alright?" Jamie ran over while crying.

Roy helped Ceres up.

At this time, Caleb came back. He managed to return because he wanted to join them in riding. After he heard Jamie mention it yesterday, he planned to come back earlier today. Therefore, he put the meeting forward and returned.

"Ceres, did you get hurt?" Jamie grabbed Ceres by the hand.

Ceres jerked her hand away and slapped Jamie.

Caleb saw it and immediately stopped.

Everyone was stunned!

All the servants saw it.

Jamie did not expect that Ceres would give her a slap. "Ceres, I'm sorry. It's all my fault. I shouldn't have invited you to ride a horse."

Roy frowned and looked at Ceres. He was puzzled because he thought she was a stable woman. He wondered if Ceres was still frightened.

"Seriously? Jamie, I know it's your scheme. You invited me to go riding and prepared such a crazy horse for me. You want me to be killed in a fall from the horse, or to be trampled to death, right?"

Ceres shouted angrily at Jamie.

"No, no. Ceres, you got me wrong. The trainer recommended this horse to me. I thought it was indeed a good horse, so I took it to you. I didn't expect it would go mad..."

"Stop talking nonsense! This is definitely your conspiracy! Ever since I came to the Bullock's, you had never been nice to me but managed to get rid of me. I can see through your thoughts. Say it! What did I do? Why do you want to kill me?"

Ceres yelled at Jamie.

Jamie suddenly knelt on the ground. "Ceres, you misunderstood me! I know you broke up with Johnny. I wanted to make you happy, so I took you out and went riding. What happened today was really an accident. Ceres, you must believe me!"

"I will never believe you. You vicious woman!"

Ceres raised her hand again and was about to slap Jamie's face.

However, someone grabbed her wrist. It was Caleb.

Caleb looked sullen.

He let go of Ceres's hand. Ceres was a little embarrassed because she had behaved like a good girl in front of Caleb.

"Caleb? Why are you here?" Ceres was about to pull Jamie up, but Jamie was so calculating and kept kneeling on the ground.

"Dad, please persuade Ceres to forgive me. It was indeed my fault. I shouldn't have asked her to ride a horse. I'm responsible for the riding accident. Fortunately, Ceres is fine. If something worse happens to Ceres, I won't forgive myself! I'm sorry, Ceres. It's all my fault!"

Caleb helped Jamie up from the ground and glared at Ceres.

"Carly, I know you've been in a bad mood recently."

"I ... I was just joking." Ceres hurriedly lowered her head.

"Stop it. I saw everything!" Caleb snorted, "In the past few days, Jamie has been tolerating you. She gave you the room and the jewelry. She tried her best to please you. Indeed, she did something wrong to you, but now she has changed!

"Everyone makes mistakes. Carly, you should give Jamie another chance."

Caleb was so angry. He continued, "I thought you were a good girl. I didn't expect you to be so arrogant. Carly, you really disappoint me!"

"No, Caleb, you don't know what happened. The horse I rode went crazy just now! Only my horse. Think about why she brought me here to ride a horse. It's all her conspiracy!

"She had been good at scheming before. Don't be deceived by her innocent face!"

Ceres argued.

"That's enough!" Caleb roared.

Caleb didn't know what to say. He had a new impression of Ceres.

He turned around and looked at Jamie. "Jamie, are you alright?"

"I'm fine. Dad, don't be angry about it. It's all my fault. Ceres has been in a bad mood and was frightened just now. That's why she lost her temper."

Caleb snorted and went to the villa. Jamie followed, and suddenly she turned around and smiled at Ceres smugly.

Ceres looked at their backs with a smile.

Roy walked over, "You are not calm as usual. What happened?"

Ceres quickly became expressionless.

"I was frightened. Today, I'm the loser. I deserve it!" After that, she also walked toward the villa.

Roy frowned. He didn't believe what Ceres had said. He thought she was planning something.

Caleb brought Jamie back to the room. He ordered the servants to bring a towel and personally covered it on the swollen part of Jamie's face.

"Dad, don't be angry. It doesn't matter that Ceres slapped me. Actually, I can understand her."

"Understand?"