

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 359 Make a Baby

Ceres couldn't let it go.

Roy smiled. "I don't think you really mind it. You are worried about Johnny, right?"

"Can you read my mind? How can you know me so well?" Ceres turned her head to Roy.

She lowered her eyes and sighed deeply. "I can convince myself to be strong and not to care about the rumors. But I am not alone now. I have a husband and sons. I have to care about their feelings. They will face the same problem as me. Things can be even worse."

Roy looked at Ceres's worried face. He had never seen that before.

"Only kind people look out for others. In fact, I think you are overthinking it. They love you, and you love them. Maybe they don't care about that."

"I know, but I still feel upset," Ceres said with a faint smile, her eyes lowered.

She didn't even dare to discuss this with Johnny.

"As far as I know, Johnny is here now. It seems that he wants to expand the business. But I think he is here for you. Maybe he is worried about you."

Ceres turned to look at Roy.

"Don't misunderstand me. I didn't follow you. I have met many people from rich and powerful families. They are not very good at expressing their feelings, or their way of expressing them is very puzzling.

"I don't know how Johnny got along with you. If you are really worried, you can have a heart-to-heart talk with him. You have been through a lot. Why don't you open your heart and have a talk?"

Ceres took Roy's words seriously. Since she lost her memories, she and Johnny hadn't had a serious talk.

Perhaps, it was time for them to have a talk.

"I understand. I know that Johnny is nice to me. He loves me very much, but what about the future? I've become ugly. I'm not sure about the future."

Roy smiled. "Now that you don't know what will happen in the future, why should you worry about it? If you were worried about tomorrow, wouldn't it be a waste of today?"

Ceres was enlightened. She thought, 'He is right!'

"Thank you, Roy. After chatting with you, I suddenly became enlightened."

"I am very happy to be able to help you," Roy smiled.

The next day, Ceres went to Johnny's villa while Caleb was at work. Unfortunately, Johnny was not there. She sat on the steps of the door and waited.

There were many things in her mind, and she didn't know how long she had been sitting there before she finally heard the sound of a car.

Johnny saw Ceres sitting at the door from afar and immediately told the driver to drive faster. "Why didn't you tell me you were coming?" he asked.

"Johnny!" Ceres suddenly sat up and jumped onto Johnny's embrace like a monkey, with her hands around his neck.

Johnny was worried that she would fall and quickly hugged her. It had been a long time since she did this before.

Johnny carried her into the living room and went upstairs into the bedroom.

"How long have you been here?"

"A long time. I missed you." Ceres gave sweet words.

"Flattering."

However, he enjoyed it.

Johnny did not believe that she would say sweet nothings for no reason. "Why did you come for me?"

"I missed you, so I came."

Ceres pecked Johnny on the lips.

Johnny's expression was still cold. After Ceres kissed him, he directly kissed Ceres's lips. He hugged her, kissing her lips that were soft like flower petals.

When Johnny was about to carry Ceres to the big bed, Ceres stopped and looked at Johnny blankly.

"What's wrong?"

"Johnny, I want to ask you a question. How could you kiss me when you looked at my ugly face? Didn't you feel bad when you made out with me?"

Ceres wanted to ask him a long time ago. When she washed her face every morning, she would sometimes feel disgusted while looking at herself in the mirror, let alone Johnny.

"What the hell is this?"

Ceres took a deep breath. "Let me put it this way. Don't you really mind the red mark on my face? Don't you really mind that I'm so ugly?"

Johnny seemed to be a little displeased. "You've asked many times."

"Why can't you answer a few more times?"

"What a waste of time."

Ceres felt annoyed about Johnny's answer. As long as the red mark on her face was still there, she would ask this question again and again.

But he wasn't even patient enough to answer a few more times.

Seeing that Ceres was a little displeased, Johnny rubbed his chin against her face, making her raise her head.

"I'll answer you for the last time. Listen carefully." Johnny's eyes were extremely serious. "I don't mind."

Ceres was somewhat gratified. "Even if others gossip about you and say how ugly your wife is? They will say that your wife is not only ugly but also a ... slut."

Johnny frowned when he heard this. "What nonsense are you talking about?"

"I know everything about the wedding. Many people think that you were acting and think that I am a ... slut."

"You don't mind that?" Ceres bit her lips.

"I don't mind." Johnny sat on the bed with her in his arms. "Ceres, ignore them. You just need to be yourself."

"That's why you asked Swedum to tell me about Elsie's mother," Ceres said with a bright smile.

Ceres would naturally know the truth. She knew that Johnny wanted to comfort her.

"Swedum and I don't mind the mark on your face. In our eyes, you are still the same as before. There is no difference."

"Johnny, I love you so much." Ceres hugged Johnny's neck and threw herself into his arms.

"You don't need to feel guilty just because of your own face. You don't need to make any compromises. You don't need to change," Johnny added.

"Alright, even if you abandon me tomorrow, I will still love you with my life today."

Johnny didn't like the word "abandon", but he didn't want to make any promises because he felt that it was affected.

"Don't think about that. Let's make a baby!"