

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President

Chapter 360 How Dare He!

Ceres was very happy when they had sex. She hugged Johny tightly, her heart filled with satisfaction.

She had made up her mind. Even if Johny couldn't stand those rumors in the future and wanted to abandon her, at the very least, she would do her best to love him now.

Because he was worth her love.

In Country A.

Alice was going to be in a variety show today. During the shooting of the drama on network TV, she did not do any other work. The budgets for dramas on network TV were limited, so the actors and actresses were not well-paid. Now that she had finished the job, she needed to make some money.

The show was like a group chat. The host would invite a few celebrities to chat together, mainly about makeup and other private stuff as support.

There was only one main guest. And the rest was just foil. Alice was the foil.

The show was popular, and the stars invited were more and more famous. Alice, who was not famous enough, got the chance with the help of Bill.

Alice sat in the makeup room to do her makeup. Because she came early, there was no one in the makeup room. Alice waited for a long time, and finally, the makeup artist came.

However, the makeup artist had no intention of putting on makeup for her.

"Hello, are you the makeup artist? Can you put on makeup for me first?" Alice asked politely after walking over.

Alice was considerate. After all, the makeup artist would be busy if all the guests came over.

However, the makeup artist looked at her with contempt. "You want a makeup artist to put on makeup for you? Come on. You're not popular enough. Here are the cosmetics. Just put on makeup by yourself. Anyway, the cameras won't focus on you."

After that, the makeup artist lowered her head and continued to look at her phone.

Alice was naturally a little depressed. She did not expect her to be not popular enough to make the makeup artist work for her. But that was common in showbiz.

She had no choice but to sit in front of the mirror. She opened the cosmetics bag and began to put on her makeup. Anyway, this was not the first time she had put on makeup for herself. She had basically put on makeup herself before.

When the makeup artist saw that Alice made up by herself, her lips curled into a mocking smile. "What happened to Mr. Bill? Did he get tired of perfect women?"

Of course, the makeup artist looked down on Alice. After all, Alice, an obscure actress, had hooked up with Bill. People had looked into Alice's background. Everyone thought that Bill was just having a fling and that Alice would be dumped sooner or later.

Alice didn't mind when she heard this. Recently, she had heard a lot of gossip. Perhaps after Bill announced the dissolution of the engagement, those people would go further. She had to get used to it now.

Just then, a woman walked into the dressing room, surrounded by people. The makeup artist hurriedly put away her phone. "Ms. Summer, you're here!"

Summer Kash was the main guest. She and Alice both worked for Glory Entertainment and almost debuted at the same time. However, Summer had already become a popular star because of a TV series. It was said that she earned ten million through it.

Summer took off her sunglasses and handed them to her assistant. She glanced around the room and saw Alice doing her makeup. She couldn't help but smile contemptuously.

"Hurry up and do my makeup. I'm in a hurry."

"Alright, alright, alright." The makeup artist was flattering, which was nothing new to Alice.

Suddenly, Summer pointed at Alice and said, "I want to sit here."

The makeup artist looked over and hurried to walk up to Alice. "Hey, get the seat next to you. Ms. Summer wants to sit here."

Alice had self-esteem. She would not let people bully her for no reason. "I came first. There are so many seats."

"Hey, miss, you've been an actress for a long time, right? No one cares about when you came! Hurry up! Don't waste Ms. Summer's time," the makeup artist said as she tugged at Alice's clothes.

Alice still did not move and continued to do her makeup.

Summer walked over with her arms crossed. "Hey, look at her! Isn't this Mr. Bill's fiancée? Your name is ... Oh, what's your name again? I can't remember it."

The assistant beside her laughed. People only remembered that she was Bill's fiancée, but they didn't even remember her name.

"I'm Alice Clark." Alice continued to do her makeup. When she introduced herself, her voice was also deep and powerful.

"Oh, Ms. Alice, I have to remind you that you will suffer a lot once people know that you throw your weight around with Mr. Bill backing you up. I will ruin the reputation of yours and Mr. Bill."

Summer was arrogant.

"Then what about you? Who got you back?" Alice sat in front of the mirror and looked at her makeup. "The company? That will ruin the reputation of the company too."

An assistant behind hurriedly said, "Ms. Summer is popular. So what if she acts like a diva? She's not you. You are not popular. But you are arrogant. How embarrassing!"

"That's right! Sooner or later, you will be abandoned by Mr. Bill. How dare you be so proud? Who do you think you are?"

"I am not proud. But I think you don't have the right to take my seat because I'm sitting here. That's all." Alice was still sitting here, unmoved.

"What? Is your name written on it? Hurry up and get up. Don't waste Ms. Summer's time!"

Summer still looked at Alice with her arms crossed. Summer felt that Alice couldn't be a pushover because she managed to win Bill's heart. After all, Summer had tried so hard to seduce Bill back then, but she failed.

Besides, Bill had so many girlfriends before. But he held a press conference to announce their engagement for Alice.

The makeup artist suddenly had an idea. He knew that Summer was deliberately making things difficult for Alice. It could be depressing to work in showbiz. Tricks happened all the time.

It was a good opportunity for her to cheer Summer up. The makeup artist immediately stepped on the button on the chair that was used to adjust the height and angle of the chair. When she stepped on it, Alice was unprepared. She fell from the chair and directly fell to the ground.

People in the room all laughed.

At that moment, Alice felt extremely humiliated.

She stood up from the ground and walked towards Summer. "Don't go too far!"

"So what if I went too far?" Summer raised her chin.

Alice could only stare at her. She could do nothing else. Summer looked at her eyes and raised his hand to slap her. "How dare you glare at me!"

Alice was about to fight back after being slapped in the face.

Suddenly, a person rushed over like a gust of wind and slapped Summer in the face!
