

Paragon 1351

Chapter 1351 1351: Meeting The Team

Nari's torture lasted for an hour, as she had said.

The 11 immortals kept screaming, filling the space with their haunted cries, the entire duration of the torture. However, after an hour, they all dropped dead, the True Immortal included.

Asha collected their bodies, while Nadia took their souls.

Asha had yet to reveal her true strength after she became an Early Immortal. However, the fact that her guards—Linx and Jinx—were already at the High-Level Early Immortal stage was all the reason one needed to know she had become a monster.

The same could be said for Nadia, who had also become low-key dangerous. Her puppets had been undergoing an upgrade for a while now, so there was no telling what horrors would be coming out soon.

"What do we do next?" Queenie asked. Although the immortals had been killed, they knew the Black Flag Syndicate wouldn't stop.

They would try everything in their power to make sure they got their hands on the planet. So they had to address it, and Queenie knew Klaus was the best person to do it.

"Why so serious, Queenie? Don't you miss me?"

Klaus pinched her cheek and moved closer, locking lips with her... "I suggest we go back first and catch up. The stars know we have a lot to catch up on. As for the Black Flag Syndicate, leave it for now. I will handle them later."

The ladies nodded.

Klaus stored the spaceship that the now-dead immortals had brought. The next second, they were back on the last floor of the Tower of Defiance.

Every last one of them became naked the next second, and what happened next was as one would expect.

Klaus came mainly to spend time with them. So starting off with sex was the right move for them. They needed him after all, and what better way to do that than to have an orgy session.

[Planet Baski]

After Rory and Klaus went back to the garden, four other Immortal Lords were there waiting for them. Lord Victor was also there.

Klaus didn't need a genie to tell him these people were the other four immortals he would be leading to the Jade Ant Queen's Nest.

The strange part was that all four of them were stronger than Rory, from what Klaus sensed. That said a lot, considering she had six Immortal Rings, the same as them.

This can only mean that the four of them have become Immortal Lords much faster than Rory.

Three of them were male, and the last was female.

They were all Stella Humans, as evidenced by their silver hair. All Stella humans, like Rory and Lord Victor, have silver hair.

"How did it go?" Lord Victor asked the moment Klaus and Rory arrived in the garden.

"Better than I had hoped."

"Oh, how did you hope it would have gone?" Knowing Klaus was the Paragon, he wanted to know more about him. His family was alive today because of him, so finding an interest in learning more about his benefactor was essential.

It would help him to better understand why his grandfather told them to always treat the paragon well.

"I expected powerful beasts popping up so I could absorb more tribulation runes. However, it ended before I could push my cultivation base to the Medium stage."

Lord Victor merely smiled and said, "You will get them next time."

"Hopefully."

The four Immortal Lords remained seated on the side, though they seemed a bit surprised seeing their mostly stern leader casually converse with Klaus.

Even Rory was a bit surprised, despite knowing who Klaus was. Her father was rather cold and a bit unreasonable, so seeing him smile and casually talk with Klaus made her wonder just what kind of monster Klaus was.

She was an Immortal Lord, so despite Klaus's amazing feats, she placed no emphasis on him. Of course, she recognised his combat experience, but she wasn't about to think Klaus could kill her.

She was several times stronger than Blood Shadow, so she wasn't afraid of him. But it was a bit humbling to see her father, who could easily contend with a demigod, smile with Klaus.

"We will talk more about that later. For now, I want you to meet the warriors you would be entering the Jade Ant Queen's Nest with."

They began introducing themselves, starting with the men.

"My name is Omen. I am a swordsman."

"I am Manes, also a swordsman."

"You can call me Slate, a spearman."

"And I am Echo, a combat mage. I use both the staff for spell casting and combat."

"Well, I am Klaus, but you can call me the Renegade Hunter if you prefer that. I am a spirit master, but I can fight in close combat using the scythe, the spear, the sword, or just any weapon."

"So you are something of a weapons expert," Slate asked.

"I believe you can say that."

"I suppose that explains how you were able to win against Blood Shadow," Echo said, a bit apprehensive, learning about what Klaus was capable of.

"Well, if I had missed on my first attack, she would have won. However, I played dirty, and she fell for it. This also means that aside from my weapons expert nature, I like to win, meaning I play dirty, so you have to know that."

Klaus knew all four Immortal Lords staring at him were not happy with the arrangement Lord Victor had made. They were beings who had lived for years now, so the idea of a low-level Early Immortal leading them didn't sit well with them.

While it was true they would be suppressed to the True Immortal stage upon entering, if they met a True Immortal, they wouldn't have to do much to kill them.

They would still have their Immortal Rings. This means their cultivation level would be the only thing to drop.

So if that is to be considered, then it means Klaus was the only one who was not qualified. They believed they were overqualified to follow him into such a dangerous place.

Klaus could see that, but he said nothing.

"The mission is in five months. However, since you six will be venturing into the nest together, I wanted you to meet and get to know each other.

There is no doubt this mission will be dangerous, so the faster you learn to trust each other and find a way to work together, the better."

After saying that, Lord Victor vanished, but not before leaving a message for Klaus. "Rory, after you are done here, bring Klaus to the tower."

After he was gone, Klaus leaned back in his chair and smiled. "So I believe you guys are not happy with me leading, right?"

"No offense, Mr Renegade, but how can an Early Immortal lead a team of five Immortal Lords? I have been cultivating for years, and so I can boldly say this is just not something I am happy about."

Klaus smiled and replied, "For starters, I am just 23 years old, but that shouldn't be a measure to determine who qualifies to lead and who doesn't.

All I know is that Lord Victor wants me to lead, not because I am stronger than you. The heavens know I am nowhere near your level. My job here is to make sure you five come back alive because, as you already know, I am the Renegade Hunter; my job is to keep people alive or avenge them.

This means whether you like it or not, I will be leading. The question, however, is whether you can do away with your ego and let me do what I do best... keeping you alive."

Chapter 1352 1352: Leaving Planet Baski

The conversation with the team lasted three hours. In the end, all six agreed that Klaus would lead the team, but they would be in charge of battles.

That was a nice arrangement for him. He had no plans of making them his enemies, so he accepted their proposal. The place they would be going to is not exactly a place he can joke about.

He would need capable and trustworthy warriors. Of course, he would have help from Maud, his wives, and his beast legion, but he also needed his immediate team to have his back.

So the arrangement seems fine to him.

However, he pointed out that when it came down to their safety and the mission, he would make the call, and they would have to accept it. Klaus is already aware of the dangers involved with the mission, so he wanted them to understand his role well.

After their conversation, Manes, Slate, Echo, and Omen left, leaving only Klaus and Rory.

"You don't seem bothered by the arrangement your father made. Does that mean you are fine with me leading?" Klaus asked when it was just him and Rory left in the garden.

"My father selected you to lead the team, so I have nothing to object to here. He saw potential in you and wanted you to lead us. Of course, while I have no issue with that, the same cannot be said for the others.

They are some of the best warriors we have, so it would be nice if you cut them some slack. However, you also should know that my father selected you to lead us, so do so and make sure you do not fail."

Klaus nodded.

Maybe when things got bad, and there was no other way, they would listen to him. For now, he would accept the arrangement they had reached, and hopefully they would return in one piece.

"My father wants to see you, so we can go there next."

"Sure. I have to visit the Mission Hall headquarters next and then go to the Warrior Tower, so I must wrap things up here."

Rory nodded, and soon they were gone from the garden. She led Klaus to a tall tower and up to the top floor, where Lord Victor was waiting for him.

"How did the conversation go?" Lord Victor asked.

"It went well. We have come to an understanding, so in five months we will enter the nest and retrieve the treasure you wanted."

"That is good to hear. However, now that you have a few months to prepare, what do you plan on doing?"

"I plan on going to the Warrior Tower, Mission Hall, and the Academy to register and redeem my rewards. Since they wanted to meet me in person, I would do that."

"I will let Rory take you there, since it would be safer traveling with her. She may only have six Immortal Rings, but she is very powerful."

"If that won't be inconvenient for her."

"Don't worry, she wouldn't mind. You can even use this time to give her some pointers."

Klaus smiled and asked, "Shouldn't I be the one asking for pointers? She is both older and stronger than I, after all."

Lord Victor also smiled.

"That should have been the case. However, we both know you have more experience than any of us, so teaching her wouldn't be too bad. I am sure if you meant to, you could help her make some progress within a few weeks."

Klaus nodded. He knew Lord Victor merely wanted what was best for his daughter. As he said, he indeed had more experience than she did.

He already had High-Level mastery of space law. However, when it came to actually using it, his experience ran far deeper than it seemed.

His past lives are, of course, the cause.

That was why he could fold space and lock it so easily. So if such knowledge was given to Rory, who had perfect mastery over space law and the Ice Element, her combat power would expand even more.

"I will do my best. After all, she saved and guarded me till I woke up."

Lord Victor nodded with a smile. He then said, "She can be a bit arrogant, so bear with her and take no offense when she goes off a bit."

"I believe she and I are going to be best friends." He was known to be rather arrogant, so there was no telling which of them would surpass the other in the field of arrogance.

"Before I leave, can you tell me something about the Galactic Mission Hall Leader?" Klaus asked.

"I don't know much about him, but I know he is a True God and a powerful soul cultivator, so I advise you to be careful around him. Even I wouldn't mess around before him."

Klaus nodded.

All soul masters are Spirit Masters.

They mostly use their Spirit Master aspect when in combat.

However, that doesn't make them any weaker.

It is just that when someone is introduced as a soul cultivator, it means they focus only on that, not on the Spirit Master class that comes with it.

It is a dangerous path to take, but since this person has become a True God, he is extremely dangerous. Klaus already knew that, so he would do his assignment before meeting with him.

"I will be careful then." Klaus later left the tower. He found Rory waiting for him outside.

"Don't you have friends you can go spend the afternoon with? Why wait for me like you're my guard? FYI, I don't mind you being my guard."

"My father ordered me to keep you safe, so don't overthink it. After you are done being useful, I will dump you and focus on other things."

"Dump me? Makes me wonder if you think we're dating." Klaus walked and stopped before her, blocking her path. "Are we dating?"

Rory narrowed her eyes at him but said nothing. Instead, she vanished from sight, leaving one last message for him... "Meet me at the docking bay in an hour. It would take us three weeks to get to the Mission Hall Headquarters."

"Very uptight lady," Klaus smirked and left the scene.

"Father, do I really have to guard that bastard? I know he is the Paragon and all, but I can't stand him. He is just too annoying," Rory complained to her father, who merely smiled, hearing her worried words.

"He is the Paragon, Rory. If Grandpa hears he is back, I am sure he would already be here. So, from now until he is back or I reach the stage to go to the Forbidden Universe, we must maintain a good relationship with him.

Plus, he is very intelligent and resourceful, so maybe endure, and who knows, you might finally make a friend."

"I can never be friends with such a bastard."

"Then be his guard and make sure no harm comes to him. I will activate other assets to ensure extra security. But for now, keep him safe and well, and learn something from him.

In case you are not aware, he is far older than your great-grandfather, even if he is merely 23 years old now."

Rory stood there for a few seconds before nodding. "I will be sure not to kill him."

She teleported away, leaving her father smiling. "Good luck, dear. This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. I hope you make the best out of it."

An hour later, Klaus and Rory left Planet Baski and headed to Planet Bluemoon, where the headquarters of the Milky Way Mission Hall could be found.

Chapter 1353 1353: Two-Week Marathon

[Two weeks later]

Having 29 ladies in one bed is just something not to joke about. It is a lot of work, pleasure, and moaning.

Klaus found himself with that many women, each an Early-stage Immortal. Naturally, they are all fit and full of energy, which is a lot for a single man to handle.

But for the past two weeks, after taking care of the Black Flag Syndicate members, he had never stopped thrusting his dick. He went from my pussy to another, making sure he left them satisfied.

One good thing about the apocalypse was the ability to boost one's stamina.

Klaus sure has more than enough stamina for that many wives. No normal warrior could handle that many wives unless their stamina is on another level.

In the end, 26 of them passed out, some lying on the floor since the bed is too small for all of them.

The only ones who survived his intense marathon were Queenie, Tifa, and Lucy. Lucy survived only because she kept cheating by healing her stamina whenever she ran out of it.

Tifa has two immortal rings, so she has twice the stamina she needed to last two weeks of sex. While many would love to use their immortal rings for battles, she was using them for sex.

As for Queenie, now that she has awakened her Asura body, she basically has the power to defeat Klaus if she puts her mind to it. She just has to keep circulating her blood, and that would allow her to go on for weeks nonstop.

"Mmmmmhhh," Lucy moans, Klaus's fangs poking holes in her boobs as she sucks her blood. Her blood is just too delicious for him. Maybe it was because of her race or because she had inherited the legacy of the mother tree.

But Klaus just couldn't get enough of her blood.

But he wasn't the only one enjoying. While he was enjoying Lucy's blood, Tifa, being a vampire, was also enjoying his blood. Her fangs sank into Klaus's still hard dick, blood dripping from the corner of her lips as she sucks him dry.

Queenie had his balls in her mouth, sucking on them too. The blood from Klaus's dick keeps dripping on her, but whenever the blood touches her skin, it gets absorbed.

It is just weird, but it seems she had become more Asura than she was supposed to be. All of them have become so powerful and more evolved.

"Aaaahhhh,"

Klaus pulled his head back, his fangs retracting as the hole on Lucy's boobs healed. Tifa also pulled back, and just like with Lucy, the hole she left in Klaus's dick also healed.

"I miss this," Klaus said, brushing Queenie's hair with his hand while she continued to suck on his balls.

"We also miss you, Love," Lucy said, pushing her boobs toward Klaus. She wants him to take more.

"Relax for now, Lucy, I have plenty of time to kill before going back, so save your blood for now," she nodded.

When he leaves this time, he won't be back for a couple of years, so he wants to leave them in a happy mood. The two-week marathon was merely prelims for what he had planned.

Initially, he had only one body to do everything. But now that he can easily create more bodies, he can choose to spend more time with his wives without worry.

If not for how complex Heaven's court does their things, he could choose to remain in this body and only keep having sex over and over again with his wives while his body, currently with Rory, goes on to be the Renegade hunter.

However, he had to play his cards right, and that meant this body, the one unlinked to the paragon, had to work. The moment he becomes a god and his identity as the paragon is revealed, he will be able to do that.

When that time comes, all ten bodies will be one, so he can dedicate one body to spending time with his wives while the other nine work to make him very powerful.

The Nine Reincarnation Body had only partially awakened for now.

Of course, his wives also have to go to Planet Caelmir, where he wants them to train and become True Immortals before coming out. He wants them to also make names for themselves, but first, they must become True Immortals.

That would be enough time for him to get to the beast universe and activate his Paragon forces, which he had been creating for nine generations already.

They would keep his wives safe while he ventures into the dreadful places the universe has to offer.

After sucking his balls for a few minutes, Queenie pulled back and smiled at Klaus. She then turned and saw her sisters passed out, every last one of them wearing a smile.

"Not only are you a monster on the battlefield, but also a monster in bed. Just what can't you do?"

Klaus smiled and answered:

"I guess we will find out one day. But for now, I have reached the stage where satisfying all of you is within my reach."

"Oh yeah, we can see that alright," Tifa said, turning her body around to face Klaus with her fat ass. She wants Klaus to sink his fangs into her ass and drink from there.

The more he drinks their blood, the stronger he becomes after all.

"So how many ladies have you sunk your fangs into when you left home?" Lucy asked.

"None aside from Maud. Though I have my eyes on someone, maybe two someones," Klaus replied with a smug smile.

Many people have sex merely for fun. But he does it for fun, pleasure, and the reward. Thanks to the paragon mark, he and his wives can strengthen stats and their bloodlines.

He had already reached the point where he didn't need to use bloodline points anymore. All three bloodlines he had awakened so far are all at 100%.

But that was before he became an immortal.

After he became an Immortal, the paragon mark underwent some upgrades, and now, he can strengthen his Immortal Rings using the Paragon points.

For now, his immortal ring gives him a 30% boost. But with just 1000 paragon points, he can add one more percentage to it.

This means he can even make it so that just one immortal ring can boost his strength by 100% or even more, provided he has the paragon points.

So while having more wives and more sex can solve his problem, he wasn't about to chase just any pussy he met.

He already has 30 wives. Even with Anna away, the 29 he had in his bed had already given him hundreds of thousands of paragon points.

"We wouldn't mind if you had more wives. I mean, we want what is best for you, but even if we don't, you already have 30 wives. What is preventing you from getting more?" Queenie said with a giggle before taking his dick into her mouth.

Klaus just smiled and sank his fangs into Tifa's ass and started drinking her blood.

She has a point, though. Klaus already told them what would happen when he ascended to godhood. So if one day, when that dangerous moment arrives, and he is able to summon over 50 beautiful goddesses to come to his aid, wouldn't that be awesome?

He hadn't lived nine lives merely for himself. He lived those nine lives to build an army. His wives would play a pivotal role in that army.

So if he is going to build a harem of beautiful women, then he might as well build it around women he loves and wants to be with forever.

Chapter 1354 1354: PTSD from the Past

Klaus walked out of bed three days later, his soft dick dangling between his legs. It had been a long two weeks and three days, but he survived.

His wives woke up two days ago, and since then, they have been catching up.

Of course, by catching up, he and his wives had been spending time in each other's arms. But they managed to catch up on a lot of things.

He learned that Anna had become an early-stage Immortal and even managed to open the gate to the Ice World, a place only she and her sister could enter.

The only person to ever have the power to open the gate to that place was Klaus. But since then, he hadn't been able to do anything more.

However, hearing Anna was able to open the gate and even ventured into that icy world made him happy. What made him even happier was learning that she had met his uncle monks and was now travelling with one of them.

Although Anna reached out to him and said she is fine, he wanted to see him. However, Anna said that when they get to Planet Caelmir, they can meet.

But just learning that his uncle Monks is still alive made him happy. Anna promised to tell him more later.

But even without knowing much, his day had been made.

He then learned that Queenie can sense the Asura race.

Obviously, that shows they are still alive and perhaps waiting for her to come to their rescue. Of course, he didn't know what would go into saving. But yet again, Anna had answers for that, so right now, when they get to Anna, they would find out more from her.

But learning that the asura race still lives and that Queenie can sense them is all he needed to know. Soon, he would be meeting the strongest warriors the universe had ever seen.

Before the Asura races were betrayed by the heavenly court, they were their strongest allies. So when they appear again, the heavens' court is going to have a very hard time.

He will make sure of that.

Aside from saving the universe from the grip of whatever or whoever is controlling it, he would also be getting his revenge. There are some people he wants dead, and so he would work towards that.

After these happy reveals, the major reveal was something he never saw coming.

It turned out the paragon mark did more than just let them strengthen their immortal rings and bloodlines.

It turned out that the paragon mark can now allow them to temporarily bestow their immortal ring on one person.

Of course, there is the issue of whether the person can handle all the immortal rings. But even if they can handle just a few, the fact that they can share immortal rings is just too broken.

The girls had already done their experiments, and aside from Queenie and Tifa, who can, at the moment, wield five immortal rings, the rest of them can handle only four.

But that would be four immortal rings on an Early Immortal. That is just not something to joke about.

And an Early Immortal like Queenie, with five immortal rings, can easily defeat a true Immortal, including an Immortal king, if she puts her mind into it.

Of course, with this reveal, they all wanted to see how many rings Klaus could handle, so they did a little experiment, and the results were rather shocking.

He was able to take Nine Immortal Rings, each giving him a 30% boost. That is just too much for him to even start to think about.

Having the ability to take on this many immortal rings is just too awesome. Of course, there is the issue of the price.

While it is a huge boost, he would have to pay nine times the energy drain. This means that if he can fight with one immortal ring for 9 hours, the moment he starts using nine immortal rings, he can only go for an hour.

It is both taxing and rewarding.

Klaus had already seen what harnessing the power of the paragon mark is capable of, so he wanted to experiment later and see how much he can handle that will give him enough edge, and also not drain him too much of his energy.

In the end, he realized that he and his wives had become very powerful.

Standing at the edge of the fifth floor of the tower of defiance, Klaus let the sea breeze brush over his body.

Suddenly, Vida appeared behind him and hugged him. Since she is taller than he is, her boobs became a pillow for Klaus to rest his head on.

She is a barbarian, so her height is normal. Of course, she can use her transformation ability to increase her height and body size, but this is her normal form.

"What are you thinking about?" Her hands move over his shoulder and grab his soft dick. That is how tall she is.

"Nothing to be worried about." Klaus replied, then he asked, "Vida, do you plan on seeking out the Barbarian race and leading them again as you did in the past?"

"Yes, however, I am not in a hurry. I want to first grow strong and make them come to me."

"Oh. I never knew you already had a plan. Makes me wonder what plans the rest of your sisters had already drawn for their futures."

Vida smiled and said, "We all want to be ready for when your nature as the paragon is revealed. So if going back to the Barbarian race is the way forward, then I might as well get on that one day.

But I must become a god first. The barbarians value the strong after all,"

"Oh, you don't have to tell me. I know firsthand how destructive you can be," Klaus laughed, recalling how wrecked he had become after his meeting with Vida's past self.

She smiled, her cheeks turning red. "That was before. Now, I am gentle and docile like you wanted me to be back then,"

"And I am happy. I wouldn't want you breaking my bones just because you like the sound of bones breaking." Clearly, the PTSD he has acquired from his meeting with the Barbarian Queen still follows him to this life.

"What are you two smiling about?" Nadia appeared beside Klaus, a smile playing on her face.

"Nothing too serious. I was just complaining about how barbaric Vida was to me back in the day when I mistakenly ended up on the planet ruled by her."

Nadia laughed, drawing the attention of the rest of her sisters. Vida had already told him how she and Klaus met.

She even shared the memory of the battle she fought with Knox (Klaus's second incarnation).

So they know how wrecked he became at the end of their duel. They have already had their fairshare of amusement after she told them the first time. However, hearing Klaus say it cracked her up.

"I am glad you found it funny, Nadia. I will punish you later," Nadia laughed for a few minutes before she managed to calm herself down.

When they are bored during their seclusion, they mostly share stories from their past lives, so they basically know everything about each other.

Like how Nia nearly killed Klaus after hunting him down for three years, or how Lily came this close to actually killing him had it not been for Amelia coming to his aid.

"I need to freshen up and go see my in-laws. I am sure Lady Danika would be happy to see me again."

Nadia smile but there was a grin in there somewhere, "Oh, trust me, she keeps asking when you would return,"

"Then I'd better go see her. I am craving her delicious cupcakes."

Chapter 1355 1355: Go Get Em' Mom

After spending the afternoon with his wives, Klaus left for Ross City to meet Nadia's mother. And since Lucy's family is also there, he planned on passing by before heading to the other cities to visit the rest of his in-laws.

He planned to spend little time with them, since he had come only this time to be with his wives.

So his intention in going there was merely to catch up with them and be on his way. They are all busy after all.

His other body with Rory is still a week out from Planet Bluemoon, and the one with Maud has yet to come out of the cocoon, so he wants his main body to be free for any emergency should the need call for it.

It took him less than a minute to get to Ross City. Normally, that should have been a 6-hour flight before the apocalypse had descended. But Klaus was able to travel that fast thanks to the evolution he had been through over the years.

Of course, if he wanted, he would have done that in less than three seconds using Space and Void Law. But it wasn't important enough to go that far.

When he arrived, Lady Danika was inside the kitchen cooking. Klaus stayed outside for a while, making sure he entered at the moment she was done.

Twenty minutes later, she was done and walked out of the kitchen. Klaus knocked on the door, and when it opened, Lady Danika became stunned.

She never expected Klaus to be at her door, not when she and her daughter talked about him just two weeks ago.

Her mind quickly went back to what she and Nadia had talked about. This and the fact that Klaus had become even more handsome left her stunned and a bit flushed.

"Good to see you are well, Lady Danika," Klaus said, his smile enchanting.

"Klaus... You are here."

"I am indeed here. Didn't Nadia inform you I would be coming by?" Klaus asked, a bit taken aback that Nadia didn't inform her mom he would be coming by.

"It doesn't matter if she said anything or not. Now that you are here, I guess it is fine." She opened the door wide. "Please come in."

Klaus walked in, his nose already searching for the infamous cupcakes Lady Danika is known for making.

"Please sit down. I will be back." Klaus nodded and sat down. He had already picked up on the smell of the cupcakes, so he knew she was going for them. Three minutes later, he was smiling as he was served what he came for.

"You are the best, Lady Danika." Klaus is shameless when it comes to food.

Lady Danika smiled. "Enjoy yourself. I will freshen up and change into something presentable."

"I don't mind what you put on, Lady Danika. Nadia's mother is eye candy, so even if you have rags on, I wouldn't mind."

"Fancy words, Klaus, but I need to look presentable before my son-in-law, so I will be back." She left the dining hall and went to take her bath.

However, instead of entering the bathroom, she went for her phone and called her daughter.

"Brat, why didn't you warn me that Klaus was in town and that he was coming to see me?" Clearly, she started to panic. Over the past two weeks, she had been thinking about getting close to Klaus, as her daughter wanted. But she never seemed to come up with something.

Now, Klaus is here, and she is lost on what to even say or do.

Nadia smiled and replied to her mother, "Mom, you don't have to do anything now. Klaus would be staying for a couple of months, so there would be plenty of time to make your move."

For now, get comfortable around him. Ask him about his trip and anything else you can think of. I know this is a hard step for you to take, but Klaus is not a monster, so get comfortable. After today, if you like him, you will know."

Lady Danika stood there for a few minutes before she nodded.

"Great. Go get 'em, Mom."

Lady Danika hung up the call and entered the bathroom. She quickly freshened up, and within ten minutes, she was ready.

She put on a loose-fitting gown that hid everything. She may be trying to get to know Klaus, but that doesn't mean she should make it obvious for him.

"Well, you surely know how to make a man happy, Lady Danika. These cupcakes are magical," Klaus said when she walked back to the dining hall.

"I am glad you like them. Since Nadia became a warrior, she has cared little about food."

"Well, for what it is worth, my stomach is open for as many cupcakes as you can feed me."

"Then in that case, let me know when you will be leaving so I can prepare a batch for you," Lady Danika smiled and asked playfully, "I hope it is not too soon, though."

"Not really. I will be spending a couple of months here, so you take your time to give me many flavours. Trust me, while there are many amazing restaurants in the universe out there, they don't have cupcakes this delicious."

Lady Danika smiled, "I guess I should one day open a bakery."

"I will be your first and regular customer." Klaus bit into a pineapple-flavoured cupcake, letting the taste travel down to his stomach.

"Mmmhmmh"

Lady Danika laughed. She was happy that Klaus liked her cupcakes. Now, all she needed to do was make sure he liked her body too.

"So, how is it like out there?" she asked.

"Very beautiful. Although it was made up of only humans, there are all kinds of human species that I can't even begin to describe. Most of them are just like you and me, while some are more alien than human.

However, in all, aside from the dangers, the worlds out there are filled with so much beauty that I am sure you will like. I know I did and would do when I see more of it."

"Sounds like you had an amazing time."

"I did. But being back home is also amazing. I get to meet my wives and spend time with all of them."

"I can only imagine that," Lady Danika said, a smile playing on her lips; however, inwardly, she seemed a bit sad.

Klaus saw this and smiled. "Don't worry, Lady Danika, a day will come when you can travel anywhere you want without a worry."

"I can't wait for that day. For now, I can only imagine."

"How about this. When Nadia and her sisters are heading to Planet Caelmir, you can join them. I am sure you would enjoy the change of scenery."

"That would be amazing."

"Then it is decided. You will be leaving with them in a couple of months." Klaus took a bite of another cupcake, and his smile bloomed.

Lady Danika smiled also, and then a thought entered her mind.

"How about I teach you how to make it. This way, even when you are away, you can prepare some on your own."

"That would be awesome."

Lady Danika smiled and decided to make her first move here... Getting to know more about Klaus seem to have presented itself.

Chapter 1356: Catching On Quick

Lady Danika obviously never expected her day to turn out more fun when she woke up this morning. Klaus arrived unexpectedly, and after spending just 2 hours with her, her world was filled with happiness.

Klaus indeed brought the joy she needed today.

Of course, while Klaus came for her cupcakes, she used the time to learn more about him. In the past, she never had this much interest in him, but now she did, and it was amazing.

She is not like Aoi's sisters, who would probably be more straightforward with him. She is a bit shy, and so she lacks the confidence to flirt with him.

However, she had her own way, and that was baking.

The cupcakes were the answer, and after spending two hours teaching Klaus how to make them and even giving him her recipes, she managed to find what she wanted to know about Klaus.

Klaus had revealed more about himself within those two hours that she now knew how to go about getting him into her bed. Klaus may not have come here to get in her pants, but before he leaves, he most certainly would pick up on the hints.

"That was amazing, Lady Danika. I had fun and learned a lot." Klaus was thrilled he could now make his own cupcakes. Of course, he was also thankful he got to spend the day without being sucked dry by his wives.

"I suppose since you are the only living person who enjoys my cupcakes, having the recipe is the right thing. Just make sure it doesn't fall into the hands of the wrong person."

"I promise on my honour I will guard the recipe with my life, Master Danika."

Lady Danika smiled and asked, "Since when did I become your master?"

"Just now, when you bestowed your recipe on me. It is like a master passing her mantle to her disciple."

"You watch too many movies, Klaus. There is no need to call me Master. I am sure Nadia wouldn't want her all-powerful husband to suddenly start calling me master."

Klaus smirked, "She wouldn't mind, Lady Danika. I am sure she would be happy her mom is finally getting the recognition she needs."

Klaus laughed, and so did Lady Danika. "Fine. Just don't make it shameless. I learned you are known to be shameless about a lot of things."

Klaus shook his head and walked out of the kitchen with Lady Danika. Their cooking lesson had come to an end. Klaus was a quick study, so they didn't need to spend more time on anything.

"Thank you for today, Lady Danika. I will come back later so we can talk some more." Klaus said that it was time for him to leave.

He didn't want to spend too much time on the outside just yet. After he met with the mission hall leader, he would go to the warrior tower to register there, too.

This means there might be some things his main body would be needed for. Of course, they are the same, but there are some things that might go wrong if he is not careful, so his body needs to be alert and ready for anything.

After his other body met the mission hall, he would return to spend time with Lady Danika.

"Alright, Klaus, see you around."

Klaus soon left and headed to the Ross Mansion to see Lucy's family.

After he was gone, Lady Danika quickly called her daughter.

"How did it go, Mom?" Nadia asked, her expression showing signs of happiness. The look on her mom's face doesn't show that she is nervous, so there is a chance that things went well for her.

"I had a great time with Klaus. He is a positive person to be around."

"Look at you, already having high hopes for him. Are you sure your opinion of him wasn't influenced by these cupcakes?"

Both the mother and daughter laughed. Klaus indeed loved the cupcakes, so maybe she is indeed a bit biased in her opinion.

"So what do you think, Mom?"

"He is a great guy, as I said. However, he only sees me as his mother-in-law, so I honestly don't know if he likes me the way I want him to. However, I know I want him. He is sweet to be around."

"Don't worry, Mom. Klaus will soon catch on to your feelings, so let him be for now. I will see what I can do for you."

"Okay." After a few more talks, they hung up.

Meanwhile, Klaus, walking toward the central area of Ross City, smiled, amusement appearing on his face.

"So that was what you ladies had been up to, huh?"

If there is one thing about Klaus, it is his ability to read people. He can easily read a person's behaviour and know what they are up to.

Before leaving Earth, he met Lady Danika several times. Back then, anytime they met, she was chatty and a bit mature.

However, when they met today, she seemed shy and a bit eager to learn more about him. Klaus now has 500 minds, showing his thinking capacity is on another level.

This allowed him to see through her behavior and know something was up. So when he left, he made sure his senses were still covering every nook and cranny of the house.

Now, it seems he had a chance at something big.

"Well, Lady Danika is gorgeous, so there is no harm in making sure she is happy." Klaus grinned. He had already made up his mind that next time he would take her to the pound town.

Klaus paused his steps, a smile playing on his lips. An idea quickly popped into his mind. This made him broaden his sense.

One part traveled all the way to Hiroshi City. He didn't need a genius telling him his wives had made some decisions in his absence. It seems they want their immediate inner circle to join them, and Klaus already has a read on it.

So he wants to confirm and, if possible, make it happen on his own terms.

So he chose to observe Aoi's sisters while another part of his senses traveled to Felin City to have a look at Emily, Lily's sister.

Just a few minutes later, the answer he sought was found. This put a smile on his face. "Interesting. Looks like coming this time around would be more fun than I think."

Klaus resumed his journey to the Ross Mansion while keeping his senses on the four people he knew deep down would all want to become his.

"Ah, what the hell. None of them is married, so it isn't like I would be doing anything bad." Klaus decided to take matters into his own hands.

So he decided to organize a barbecue in two weeks' time, inviting Lady Danika, Emily, and the Hiroshi sisters.

Since they had already made up their minds to be his, he would escalate things and make sure they got what they were after.

They are not liabilities since, in a way, he always finds a way to bring out the best in them.

"If it is the star juice they want, then I will be sure to pump them full."

Chapter 1357: Unique Hunter

Since Klaus had nothing to do on their way to Planet Bluemoon, he decided to check his hunter profile and see what had changed.

After all, he had already become a special kind of hunter in the mission hall, so he was bound to have some benefits.

The first message he saw when he opened his profile was a congratulatory one.

[Congratulations, you are now a B-class Hunter.]

[Rewards have been transferred.]

[You are now eligible to pick missions from the epic mission board in every star system in the Milky Way galaxy.]

"Finally." One reason he had been stuck in the Dervas Star System was that he was only eligible to pick missions from the star system he had registered in.

This meant that since he registered in the Derva Star System, he was eligible only for missions in that system.

However, now that he had become a B-class Hunter, he could pick missions from anywhere he wanted.

But that is not all. Klaus is more special than that.

He had become a special kind of hunter, so his privileges also extended further than those of a normal B-class Hunter.

[Because you are the first-ranked hunter on the Rising Star Hunter Chart, you are now eligible to pick missions from the Legendary Mission Board.]

[You have earned a specialized badge called Unique Hunter.]

[Unique Hunter: You have been recognised by the mission hall as a special hunter due to your achievements. You can now reserve a mission, provided it is not urgent. All reserved missions will have an indefinite completion time.

You can also be assigned missions based on urgency and specialty.]

Klaus smiled, already aware of this. Just like how he would become a unique warrior under the Warrior Tower, he was now a unique hunter, allowing him more flexibility than other hunters.

Back on Earth, Klaus also kept a smile on his face. He could see anything his other bodies were seeing, so these messages were exactly what he expected to see at the moment.

He went through the other messages, but most were just about some petty badges he had unlocked and how they had boosted his ranking.

In the end, he found out that aside from being the first-ranked hunter on the Rising Star Hunter Chart, he was also the 45th-ranked hunter on the Milky Way Galactic Hunter Chart and the 450th-ranked hunter on the Human Universal Hunter Chart.

Going against an Immortal Lord had raised his credibility to another level, giving him the reputation he needed to go anywhere he wanted.

Although he had yet to swim with the sharks, he now had some reputation that would enable him to do more than he could have if he hadn't saved Star-Lord Victor's daughter and fought two Immortal Lords.

[[Hunter's Name: Renegade]]

[[Hunter's Rank: B]]

[[Progress: 5,615/8,000]]

[[Missions Completed: 4]]

"I just need to complete one more daring mission, and I will become an A-class Hunter."

[Back on Earth]

After Klaus noticed his wives had planned to add new candidates to the harem, he decided to play it safe. After visiting the Ross family, he went back to the Tower of Defiance and took his wives for a swim.

Since the tower is standing in the middle of a vast sea, they had a rather large pool of water to themselves.

Klaus planned to explore the ocean floor, so he used that excuse to take his wives swimming. In two weeks' time, they would have a barbecue night, and he would make sure everything was addressed then.

[One week later]

Meanwhile, a week later, his other body with Rory had finally arrived on Planet Bluemoon. It is home to the Lunar Humans, one of the strongest human races in all of the human universe.

They used Rory's spaceship, so it took less time than it should have taken.

Even so, three weeks felt like a long time for Klaus, considering that the moment they took off from Planet Baski, Rory entered a secluded state with the excuse that she was comprehending a technique.

Klaus, of course, knew she merely didn't want to talk to him, so she faked her seclusion.

He didn't mind, but he planned on paying her back for depriving him of the precious time to have a nice conversation with her.

After reviewing his hunter profile, the rest of the time was rather boring.

"I have already informed planet control of our visit, so we will be heading straight for the headquarters of the mission hall," Rory said, opening her eyes.

"Oh, she talks," Klaus also said, a grin appearing on his face.

Rory turned and glared at him but said nothing. She knew Klaus was merely looking for a way to start a shameless conversation with her.

She had lived for 12,000 years already and knew when to entertain someone like Klaus and when not to. If she were to start with him now, there is a definite chance she would regret it.

"How boring. Girls your age by now are out there having fun, but here you are, being as boring as you can be," Klaus smirked and stood up, walking toward the window of the spaceship.

He stared out, and his gaze landed on a blue planet surrounded by a large metallic rim, the kind that houses thousands of weapons.

'Icon, what am I looking at?'

[It is a planet guard housing both shields and weapons. Most of the weapons are defensive kinds, but there are a few SS-class offensive weapons.]

'I see. In any case, if I were to want the same thing for Earth, where do you suppose I would go for this?'

[The master must know that getting these kinds of weapons would, without a doubt, depend on one's reach. First, you must register Earth, which would make the entire universe aware of its existence.]

Second, you must gain the recognition of the Universe Bank since they are the owners of this type of weapon.]

'Yeah, I have no plans on bringing the universe's attention to Earth just yet. I need to establish myself and secure a backer who can deter others if they dare to come any closer to Earth.

So until then, Earth will remain hidden. I will find a way to deal with the Black Flag Syndicate later.'

Klaus could only look as they headed closer to the planet.

Eventually, they came to a stop for inspection. However, before they could do so, a command came from the planet's surface, waving off those inspections.

They soon entered the planet's surface.

What greeted them was a beautiful landscape of towering buildings, some even reaching into the clouds.

"That is just showing off at this point," Klaus smirked as they moved at a terrible speed toward a rather large building.

In no time, they slowed down and came to a stop. Below them, three people stood, waiting for them to alight.

Klaus recognised Darius right away. The other two were also Immortal Lords. Klaus paid attention to the lady because she seemed to pose a hidden danger.

She has blue skin, just like every last Lunar Human.

The other Immortal Lord is a High Human, just like Darius. But his danger level is a bit low.

Klaus and Rory landed on the ground and moved toward them. Darius was, of course, happy to see the kid who had given him some credibility because of his achievement.

"Welcome to Planet Bluemoon, Renegade Hunter,"

Chapter 1358: Space Isolation

"Glad to be here, Lord Darius. Sorry it took a while to come," Klaus responded, his expression showing some form of politeness.

While he is the Paragon, that doesn't give him the qualification to look down on just anyone. He knew he had to be polite when the need called for it.

"Nothing to be concerned about, Renegade Hunter. I can see you are now an Early Immortal, so it is perfectly understood."

Klaus nodded, wearing the same polite smile.

"Lady Rory," Darius nodded toward Rory, who nodded back. She is the daughter of the mighty Star-Lord Victor, after all.

Darius turned to the other two Immortal Lords standing beside him and introduced them. "This is Lord Declain. He is the Mission Hall leader on Planet Bluemoon. Lady Ingix is the leader of all the mission halls in the southern quadrant of the Milky Way Galaxy."

"Pleased to meet two seniors," Klaus gave them a light bow, which they reciprocated.

Lord Declain held a smile on his face, showing he was just like Darius, a bit lighthearted. Perhaps they had known each other for a long time, considering they both are High Humans.

However, Lady Ingix kept a rather close eye on Klaus, making him feel like she wanted to eat him.

'Icon, do you have any idea why she is looking at me like that?' Klaus asked, but Icon was useless in finding what he wanted.

[The master is overthinking everything.]

Klaus smiled inwardly, already trusting his senses over what Icon said. He could tell the lady was looking at him weirdly, something he never expected from a peaceful visit to Planet Bluemoon.

"Now that we know each other, I think we should go back to meet the leader, considering he has been waiting for a while now," Darius said and turned toward Lady Ingix. "We wouldn't want him waiting for too long, now would we?"

She stood there for a few more seconds before nodding. It seemed she had a problem with Klaus, and Darius knew something.

Darius gestured forward, and a sleek jet appeared. "Let's go, then."

Soon, they were on their way to the location where Klaus would meet the leader of the mission hall in all of the Milky Way.

Klaus knew Darius knew something, so after he settled down properly, he used Icon to connect telepathically with him.

If he tried using his star qi to talk to him, the others would notice and, to some extent, even sniff out what they would be saying.

Of course, there was also the issue with the kind of person they were going to see. He is a True God, someone way above Klaus's league, so he wouldn't take that risk.

'Lord Darius, I can't help but pick up on the hostility Lady Ingix is showing. While subtle, my senses are too sharp to miss it. So, mind telling me what I did wrong to warrant such a reaction?'

Lord Darius already had a smile on his face, so while he was shocked that Klaus was able to link to his mind without his permission, he made no expression to indicate otherwise.

'I am sure by now you have already seen the changes to your hunter profile.'

'Yes,' he saw the unique hunter title already.

'Let's just say, while I am happy about things, not everyone seems pleased. Lady Ingix seems to be one of these people. They don't want you having this many privileges. To them, you are not qualified.'

'Oh, I see then. I guess not everyone appreciates my awesomeness. However, I hope her hostility won't go beyond the looks she was shooting me.

I may have fought an Immortal Lord, but that doesn't mean I can fight another one, especially someone I am meant to trust.'

'Rest assured, Renegade Hunter, when it comes to your safety, none of us will compromise that.'

'Good to hear that.'

Klaus sighed, then turned to Rory. "You could have waited for me in the spaceship. I am in safe hands here."

Rory turned and looked at him for a little longer than a second before turning away. "My father said I should protect you, so regardless of where you are or how safe you are, I will be by your side. Do you have a problem with that?"

"Not really," Klaus grinned. "I just think since you are not talking to me, you wouldn't waste your time coming with me. Lord Darius and the others are here to protect me."

"I am here now, so deal with it." Rory is not much of a talker. However, when she wants to talk, there is no stopping her.

"I guess not many are thrilled to be in the company of an awesome hunter like myself," Klaus directed his statement to Rory, but Lord Darius knew he was talking to Lady Ingix.

This made him smile. "Rest assured, Renegade Hunter, everyone is thrilled to have you here. I am sure Lady Rory is jet-lagged, so maybe cut her some slack."

"I suppose you are right, Lord Darius." Klaus smiled and leaned back in his chair. What he had done now was an indirect provocation to make sure Lady Ingix knew he was aware of and prepared for any opposition.

Although he is not particularly bothered, it would be nice to have someone important like Lady Ingix on his side.

Ten minutes later, they arrived atop a small mountain where only a small mansion could be seen. In front of this mansion is a small garden and a pavilion.

Under the pavilion sat a young man with short dark hair and green eyes. He looked human, just like Klaus, but he had slightly longer ears than a normal human.

'That is a Half-Elf,' Klaus said inwardly, his eyes narrowing a bit.

The question that came to mind was, Why is a Half-Elf the leader of the Milky Way Mission Hall?

Klaus kept the question to himself, for he knew gods can be unreasonable sometimes.

They disembarked from the jet and started walking toward the pavilion.

A few steps in, Klaus sensed that his surroundings were starting to change. It was as if he were being isolated from the others.

'Space Law'

He sensed what was happening; however, he made no attempt to show he knew. Outside him, Rory and the others reached the young man while Klaus remained a few steps away, his expression calm.

In his eyes, he was still walking with the others.

'Space isolation, huh? Looks like he is testing me.'

Klaus smiled, then he raised his index finger and turned his head toward the pavilion. However, instead of looking at the young man whom he believed was the true god, he looked at Rory, showing he knew he was isolated.

"This is your first lesson. Whenever you have been trapped in a space isolation, all you have to do is poke the air."

Klaus pinched the air with his index finger, and like glass breaking, the space around him shattered.

"Impressive," the young man said, but no expression appeared on his face to show if he was truly impressed. However, Klaus knew he was indeed impressed.

Well, he had to be, for the space law he had just broken was a high-tier one. He was able to break it because he had done it before.

"Welcome, Renegade Hunter. You can call me Sir Lux."

Chapter 1359: Meeting Sir Lux

Klaus nodded to the true god, who now seemed to have a satisfied smile on his face, unlike the Immortal Lords standing beside him.

What Klaus had just done is beyond ordinary.

Space Isolation is similar to Space Lock. However, instead of merely locking the space, Isolation goes two steps further.

First, aside from merely locking the space around him, it also seems to cast an illusion spell that keeps the isolated person believing they are with those they were with.

It is mostly used for assassination.

Just now, for a split second, Klaus felt that. However, his understanding of the space law is too advanced to fall for something that basic.

The second thing, of course, is the nature of the space lock. The ordinary space lock focuses on locking the space around the target. However, space isolation locks it in a form of distortion. This makes it hard to even see through anything.

It further strengthens the spell that makes it so the target is not aware that he has been isolated.

With both methods combined, it becomes extremely difficult to break a space isolation than breaking a space lock.

So Klaus breaking it like it was mere brittle glass was a bit of an achievement.

"I guess the remorse is true; you are indeed not an ordinary person," Sir Lux said as Klaus moved toward the pavilion.

He smiled and said, "I was lucky to have access to advanced knowledge while starting out as a warrior."

Sir Lux gestured for him to sit opposite him, while Rory and the others sat on the side. This isn't an interview, so they can stay and hear what Sir Lux wanted to say to Klaus.

"There is one thing to have the knowledge and another to learn, master, and apply it. You, my friend, have just proven that you know what you're doing. I say that is admirable by all standards,"

"I guess I will take that as a compliment,"

"You deserve it."

Klaus, in a way, felt good about having impressed Sir Lux. Many would be offended by how easily their test was passed by someone like Klaus, who isn't even a quarter of their age and cultivation base.

Sir Lux seems rather pleased with Klaus and even more happy he was able to break his space isolation.

Of course, it might be a front or an act, but from where Klaus sat, he didn't think Sir Lux hated him or was angry that he had casually broken his space isolation.

"So tell me, Renegade Hunter. Why did you become a hunter?"

"I decided to become a hunter because I learned the higher I climbed, the more my reputation builds up. And well, while I may lie and say it was to make the universe a better place, I know I alone cannot do that.

So I was more concerned about my access and the ability to travel unrestricted. The thing is, I like to roam and go places that will make me happy.

However, we both know that without the highest reputation, some places may be restricted, so by becoming a powerful hunter, I can move unrestricted. That was why I became a hunter."

"That is a bit unexpected; however, I understand where you are coming from. Most hunters, including me, became hunters for the money, but along the line, it became something more.

Saving those in need and making sure criminals are back where they belong gives one a sense of purpose, something I can sense in you.

You had every reason to abandon your mission when it became difficult. You could have made a run for it when things became a bit dangerous; however, you chose to hold on and fought harrowing battles to ensure the safety of your packages.

I say that is admirable and shows the character of a true hunter."

Klaus smiled. Hearing a god praise him for his sense of purpose as a hunter made him very happy. It does not happen every day, so he is happy to hear that.

Of course, there is the issue of why he is being nice to him. Nobody does anything without a reason, so there might be something deeper to why he was being praised this much.

"I am glad I was able to live up to the standards of a hunter," Klaus said...

"That you are. Though I might ask, do you have plans to continue on this path you have chosen, or is this only a means to an end?"

"I believe I will always be a hunter. I have no plans on ever stopping. Of course, nobody knows what the future holds, but for me, as long as the universe doesn't collapse on my head, then I will always be a hunter."

"That is good to hear, Renegade Hunter."

Klaus knew that the day his nature as the paragon would be revealed, the mission hall and all other organizations he planned to join would become his enemies.

Of course, he has plans to make sure that this time around, there will be those who would question the heavens. He planned to build a solid reputation so that, when the day came, the heavens would have a hard time convincing the general public that he was evil.

But even so, he knew his access as a hunter would be revoked, and he would be barred from ever enjoying the privileges being a hunter had given him.

But until then, he would take his job as a hunter seriously.

"I believe as long as you remain a hunter, the universe will have some hope. Believe me, the universe at the moment is hanging on by a thread. So it needs people like you, hunters who aren't afraid to face dangers.

You have proven how capable you are, and for that, I believe you qualify to be a Unique Hunter. However, that privilege or title comes with work, and that is why I asked you to be here."

Sir Lux reached into his space ring and pulled out a device. He set it down and pressed a button. At once, a map projection appeared.

There are several red dots and a few green dots.

Judging by how the red dots populated the map, Klaus concluded that those must be danger zones. His theory was confirmed by Sir Lux the next second.

"This is the map of a planetary system that had been overrun by demons. This planetary system once belonged to the Elven Galaxy; however, it is now in the hands of the Demons.

The problem is that this planetary system is not part of the Universe registry, meaning the Universe Court or Warrior Temple had no obligation to offer aid.

But that doesn't stop the mission hall. Our aid goes anywhere, and so when they called for help, we offered. However, as you can see, in about ten years' time, every last planet in this planetary system will be overrun.

The mission hall had already made plans to send more hunters there; however, as it stands, only a few have accepted the mission.

I ask you here today to see if whether you are up for such a mission. It is a dangerous one for sure, considering there are many Immortal Kings and even a few Immortal Emperors involved."

Klaus looked at the map for a few seconds, then asked, "How long do I have?"

"Three years," Sir Lux answered, then added, "You have three years before that place becomes a danger zone nobody would be advised to go."

"I guess I have time then."

Chapter 1360: Accepting an Advance Mission

The mission hall has many stages of missions.

There are the common, rare, epic, Epic, Legendary... The Epic missions are mostly for B-class Hunters, where the targets are mostly within the Early Immortal and Real Immortal stages.

Of course, there are some situations in which the target can be a True Immortal. But those are rare situations.

However, when it comes to Legendary missions, the target can be from the Early Immortal stage to as far as the True Immortal stage.

Those are missions many Hunters fancy because they are high-paying in both money, Hunter points, and safety.

The hunters who go for Legendary missions are mostly True Immortals. They would basically be within their element. But even if it turned out to be dangerous, they could escape.

However, when it comes to the next category of missions, that is where many hunters start turning their necks.

Advanced missions are all dangerous. The least advanced mission has multiple True Immortals and sometimes even multiple Immortal Kings as the baseline for target strength.

The maximum strength level of an advanced mission is sometimes within the ranks of Immortal Emperor and Immortal Monarch.

This made them some of the most difficult missions, only for S-class and SS-class hunters to undertake. Most hunters even go in groups to ensure maximum security.

So, for Klaus to now be offered such a mission, there is a great chance that the mission itself is more dangerous than that. Of course, for them to want him to take this mission, there must be something extremely wrong.

If they thoroughly want the mission completed well and on time, sending an SSS-class hunter will do the magic. However, they are asking a B-class warrior like him to take on such a mission.

"I know you have questions. However, you can ask them later, after I send you the mission details. Of course, after you receive the mission details and you feel like you can't handle it, there would be no harm caused."

Klaus nodded.

Since he now has many bodies, he can do many things at once. This means that with his body dedicated to the life of a hunter, warrior, and disciple, he would be handling this mission.

But since he had to be ready in a few months for the mission Lord Victor had given him, three years seemed like a good time to prepare.

He will be able to finish all minor missions before the three years are up.

Even if he works extra hard, he can become a Real Immortal within a few months. However, Klaus wants to relax in his main body and give his other bodies that chance to advance.

This decision is to throw suspicions away from him.

Three powerful youths appearing in the limelight almost at the same time is a bit suspicious. However, if they both have different cultivation bases, then naturally, nobody would point fingers at him.

All three bodies would meet with the intention of trying to kill each other one day. Klaus sure knows that the moment the paragon appears, both the mission hall, warrior tower, and the academy will send people like him to hunt him down.

So he practically has more time to prepare well before the three years are up.

The mission to the Jade Ant Queen's Nest wouldn't take more than five months, so he will be ready before then.

"Please kindly send me the details of the mission. And well, if I can get the grade of the mission, that too would be fine," Klaus smiled, knowing he was asking for something many would run from.

Icon had already researched the planetary system that had been taken by the demons and found out the kind of danger he would be walking into.

However, to prove to Lady Ingix that he is capable and qualified to be a Unique Hunter, he asked for it verbally.

"It is an Advanced Mission, one of our top ten."

Be it Rory or Lord Darius, all four Immortal Lords there widened their eyes when they heard what Sir Lux said.

"Manageable. All I have to do is kill their leader, and the rest will scatter," Klaus said, making Sir Lux smile.

"That is the spirit." He didn't know what kind of person Klaus was, but there was absolutely no reason to doubt his resolve.

The mission is an Advanced Mission.

It can take years to complete it, but to think Klaus already has a plan on how to go about it, he knew he had made the right decision not to give up on the poor elves fighting for their dear lives.

"Rest assured, Sir Lux, I will take this mission and make sure I get it done." Klaus turned to Rory. "There is nothing better than challenging myself to see my limits."

"Good. I will send the details to you, and when you are ready to go, you can contact me through the dark space. I have some things to give you which I believe will aid you in the mission."

Klaus nodded.

What better way to cement his stand and win the heart of the masses than saving an entire planetary system filled with people who had already given up hope?

After a few more talks, Klaus and Rory left. He needs to go redeem his rewards now that he has signed a unique deal with the mission hall.

"My Lord, are you certain he can handle such a mission?" Lady Ingix asked, her expression a bit shaken. She is against the idea of giving the Renegade Hunter the title of a Unique Hunter.

However, she seems a bit shaken now. Klaus had accepted a mission, knowing it was an Advanced Mission. That just doesn't make sense to her.

That is just not how she expected Klaus to behave, not when she believed he hadn't done anything to warrant the deal the mission hall had given him.

"Before he appeared, how many of us believed an Emphyrean could face an Immortal Lord and live to tell the tale? I know I didn't, because it doesn't make sense. However, now I believe we all know it is possible, and he has done it.

So what is preventing him from doing it again, especially now that he has become an Immortal?" Sir Lux chuckled.

"I don't know what you guys saw, but while you only see him as an Early Immortal, know that he had already formed an Immortal Ring."

"WHAT,"

"That is what I saw, and trust me, that is not even the most impressive thing I saw about him. When I look into your souls, all I can see is a sea of soul energy, but when I look into his, I see a vast sea, one that stretches as far as the eye could see.

So trust me when I say this kid could either bring about big change in this universe or bring it to its knees. Either way, we need him, so we might as well support and protect him to the best of our abilities."

They nodded, but Lady Ingix seemed a bit hesitant to accept that Klaus had already formed an Immortal Ring. In her head, she had to see it first.

Sir Lux seems to understand her thoughts, so he merely smiled.

"For now, keep the information about him accepting the mission under wraps. I will reach out to the elves and let them know that in three years, someone will come to help them."