Chapter 1451 1451: Rapidly Leveling Up

<You have absorbed a large amount of blood essence>

<Supreme Qi has been discovered in the blood essence you have absorbed>

<Divine Qi has been discovered in the blood essence you have absorbed>

<Immortal Qi has been discovered in the blood essence you have absorbed>

<Your body is too weak to absorb these energies>

<Error...Error...Error...Error...Error...Error>

""""""AAAAAGGHHHHH""""""

Painful howls escaped from Klaus and his four bodies, causing everyone present to break into a sudden crashing silence of fear—then they scrambled.

"What is happening?"

Klaus's skin started to swell, and cracks appeared on his face. From the cracks, blood started to spill.

The same could be said for his four bodies. They all held their heads, saliva pouring from the corners of their lips as they screamed their souls out.

It appeared they were in so much pain that someone with extreme pain tolerance, such as Klaus, was left reeling from it.

Queenie and her sisters tried to rush to his side; however, King Alric stopped them. "Relax, ladies, he has just consumed the blood essence of a god who had lived for millions of years; there is bound to be some pain involved."

"But—"

"It is okay, he will pull through," Queen Leah stepped in. "While it may not look like it, the blood essence he has consumed contains a slight amount of Supreme Qi. I am sure that is the reason for the pain."

They sighed; however, as Klaus clutched his head and screamed, they grew worried.

Meanwhile, Goddess Nivara sat before Klaus with a clenched fist. Her cultivation base had drained to the Awakened stage, making her no different from a mortal.

She had none of her previous strength left.

In fact, watching Klaus go through all this pain, she failed to see the rows of text appear before her. If she did, she would have recognized them as the text that appears when one awakens.

However, instead of an already prepared text, this one was more suggestive, asking her to select her class and elemental affinities.

It was as if she had broken the system that manages the status of awakeners.

But that was not of importance to her at the moment. Her grandson, who was the cause of it all, was now in pain, and so she wanted to help him.

But as a mortal, there wasn't much she could do. However, she is a mother. While two of her children were scum of society, she managed to raise one into a fine warrior. So one could say she has a motherly instinct.

Seeing her grandson in pain, she reached out and held his hand, giving him a gentle squeeze. She may be a mortal, but her body is refined, like a god's. It had been tempered to this stage, so her gentle squeeze reached Klaus, sending waves of electricity through his body.

This gave him the assurance that he wasn't alone.

However, he continued to scream for a few more hours before he suddenly stopped. At that point, a new text appeared before his vision.

<The Nine Paragon Star Diagram has activated.>

<All nine paragon stars are in sync.>

<The Nine Paragon Star Diagram is trying to convert the Supreme Qi.>

<Failure...Failure...Failure...Failure...Failure...Failure>

<The Nine Paragon Star Diagram is trying to convert the Divine Qi.>

<The Nine Paragon Star Diagram has successfully converted a part of the Divine Qi into Star Qi>

<10,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<10,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<10,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<You have leveled up>

<You have leveled up>

<You have leveled up>

<The Nine Paragon Star Diagram is trying to convert the Immortal Qi.>

<The Nine Paragon Star Diagram has successfully converted a part of the Immortal Qi into Star Qi>

<10,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<10,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<10,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<You have leveled up>

<You have leveled up>

<You have leveled up>

Klaus let a grin form on the corner of his lips. This sight made his grandma smile, too. It seems her grandson is out of danger. However, she still held his hand and continued to wait for him to finish.

Already, while she didn't have the sense to see how much stronger Klaus was becoming, she could tell something profound was happening to him.

In truth, those who could see what was happening saw that Klaus had already reached the peak of the Early Immortal stage, while the four bodies had even ascended to the Real Immortal stage.

However, as the seconds passed, they kept leveling up, propelling them to the next realm.

As it happened, the little Divine Qi Goddess Nivara had left in her blood essence was more than enough to aid five immortals in leveling up several times.

It took some time for the Nine Paragon Star Diagram to kick in. But when it did, the result was just as Klaus expected.

His cultivation method is the Nine Paragon Star Art.

It is a complex cultivation method that works on the principles of star mapping and coordination. Every star inside his soul coordinates with the paragon stars, giving him the right amount of push he needed to stand above others.

He had long been cultivating this method, and at every step of the way, he made so much progress with it.

It was this same method that helped him transform his spiritual Qi into Star Qi. Initially, he could only use the first three stars. It turns out the star diagrams are also connected to the Nine Doors located inside his soul sea.

Back when only three were opened, he was allowed access to only the first three forms of the Nine Paragon Star Diagram.

However, things are different now.

All nine doors are now open, so he can utilize the power of all nine nodes in the diagram. This enabled him to refine the Divine Qi and convert it into Star Qi.

The same can be said for the Immortal Qi, which was even more than the Divine Qi. Since she had lost her god core, most of her divine essence was taken away. However, her Immortal Qi was still there.

So while he was benefiting more from her Divine Qi, the Immortal Qi wasn't paling in comparison at all.

If anything, now that Klaus himself had reached the Real Immortal stage, and there was no sign of running out of essence to absorb, it can be said that the Immortal Qi he had absorbed this time is much more than he bargained for.

The only problem now was the errors he was getting when the Nine Paragon Star Diagram tried to refine the Supreme Qi.

It was as if he were missing something.

The Divine and Immortal Qi had been refined successfully. However, the Supreme Qi was proving a bit stubborn. He had tried several times to make it work, but the error kept appearing.

This made him realize that maybe he isn't at the stage yet to refine the Supreme essence.

'Damn it.'

He sighed inwardly and was about to resign himself to his fate when something deep within his soul stirred.

Inside his soul sea, the green light he had tried to approach a day ago but failed to stir. It was still unknown and formless; however, it started to awaken.

Outside, Klaus didn't know what it was or why it was formed.

But at least he knew what it could do. The rows of text appearing before him said it all.

<Your ?????? have partially awakened.>

<Your ?????? sense a strand of Supreme Qi in your blood and is trying to refine it.>

<Your ?????? have started refining and converting the Supreme Qi>

<100,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<100,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<100,000,000,000 Star Qi absorbed>

<Congratulations, your P1 body is now a True Immortal.>

Chapter 1452 1452: True Immortal

"Well, I will be damned,"

A smile appeared on Klaus's face. It transformed into a grin, and before long, a resounding laughter tore through his mouth, spreading and echoing all over the broken world.

Everyone present was stunned, their eyes widened not with fear but with astonishment and disbelief.

Klaus was laughing because the unknown energy that had been forming inside his soul after drinking Lady Danika's blood turned out to be this useful.

He never expected that.

In his mind, it wouldn't be for several other sessions with Lady Danika before he would be able to see the use of this new energy.

However, who would have expected that merely a day and a half after this energy started to form, it could already refine supreme essence?

Klaus was blown away by this discovery.

He never expected it to come in handy this early. But it did, and this also finally told him the strange energy isn't one he should fear.

It aided him when he needed help the most, so it can be trusted. Too bad it had only partially awakened and was unknown at this point. But with the refinement of the Supreme Qi, his cultivation started to skyrocket.

That was where the onlookers' stunned expressions came in.

Aside from Klaus, who is only at the High Level Real Immortal stage, three of his bodies are at the Peak Real Immortal stage, with one already at the True Immortal stage.

Five minutes later.

<Congratulations, your P2 body is now a True Immortal.>

Klaus blinked a few times and smirked.

'Looks like the naming I gave them wasn't recognised by the system,' he thought for a moment and decided to come up with different names for them.

Before that, however, he knew he had to factor in some things that would likely occur in the future. Already, the universe is aware that the Paragon is back.

They had yet to see him in person, but he is back, and so he is bound to make waves. This time, however, he wouldn't be the only one making waves.

In fact, there will be at least five people swimming in the thrill with him. One of them is, of course, the Renegade Hunter who had already been suspected of being the Paragon.

While that accusation had been resolved, the mere fact that his nature was linked to the Paragon is bound to stay with him for years to come.

The second is the criminal body, which had also been linked to both the Renegade Hunter and the Paragon. He, too, is off the leash now, but he would surely be on the radar.

The other three he had plans for were the one joining the Warrior Tower, the one he planned to send to the Demon Universe, and the Bounty Hunter Persona he had yet to create.

Once all these bodies of his start to make waves, the Heavens Court will start making connections between them and the Paragon.

This is something Klaus wanted, but he doesn't want them to have it easy; he also wants them to make some connections.

The day he becomes a god, the entire universe will know he is the Paragon. So he wants them to at least suspect all the bodies he will be putting out there.

This way, when the news comes out, many wouldn't be too surprised.

To achieve this, he first had to use names from his past lives. However, instead of making it obvious, he planned to change things up a bit.

The criminal body was created from the Primordial Vampire Monarch's bloodline. Calling him Magnus would make this more obvious, so he chose a different name instead. Thus, the Heavens Court would have no choice but to suspect, make speculation, but cannot draw conclusions.

'Icon, give P1 the name Rhazor. It fits perfectly with him being a vampire and all. Then give P2 the name Orion.'

[Acknowledged, Master.]

Klaus nodded inwardly and thought of a better name for the body he planned to send into the void. After a few moments of thinking, he named him Kaden, and the one being sent to Earth was named Efad.

This way, when they appeared in the universe, people could relate to them using their names. It would be shocking to see an elemental user, one as deadly as the 8th Paragon, called Efad, a common name in the universe, but also the name of the 9th Paragon.

The Heavens are bound to have a hard time making sense of anything.

That out of the way, Klaus continued to absorb and refine the essence he was being fed.

30 minutes later, he himself had finally reached the True Immortal stage.

While that was happening, out there in the universe, news started to spread about the Renegade Hunter's sudden level-up.

Considering he alone had amassed trillions of followers, over 90% of them monitored his profile every day to see what he had accomplished.

Today, they all received the shock of their lives when his cultivation base suddenly began to rise.

This news shattered everyone's minds, some wondering just how any of it was possible.

"I mean, even if he has a solid foundation, which I know he does, considering he is from the Zorvian family, that doesn't explain why he was leveling up this fast when he had to take the tribulation after every rank-up."

"Indeed. Is he exempted from taking on the Heavenly Tribulation?"

These questions soon spread everywhere, causing many to wonder the same thing.

They could all see his level rise in real time.

Every few minutes, Klaus levels up, and the fact that he jumped from the Early Immortal stage to Real Immortal and now True Immortal left them with more questions than answers.

Many began to wonder whether he was indeed the Paragon they said he was. After all, it was only that freak of nature who could pull off something this shocking.

Thankfully, and perhaps unexpectedly, they received their answer when the Burning Angel used the Mission Hall channels to send out a warning.

His words were simple... "I have taken in the Renegade Hunter as my disciple, so he is under my care. Anyone who dares label him as anything other than the Renegade Hunter will face my wrath."

His words sent a chilling message throughout the universe. All who tried to ignite the assumption that the Renegade Hunter was the Paragon retracted their words, many deactivating their profiles.

It is a known fact that, in the universe, among the Celestials, the Burning Angel ranks among the top 10 strongest.

Not even the Heavens Court would dare mess with him. In fact, even the Supreme Celestial, who many claim is the strongest Celestial, is wary of the Burning Angel.

So his declaration made everyone fearful of calling the Renegade Hunter the Paragon.

However, while on the surface everything appeared calm, beneath the surface, the Burning Angel had stirred the pot. Declaring the Renegade Hunter as his disciple caused other powerhouses—the Heavens Court, to be precise—to become hostile.

Already, it was in the plan to groom the Renegade Hunter into a poster boy. However, now that he has found a teacher, their plans are bound to face some hiccups.

If it were just any Celestial, perhaps mitigating it would have been simple. But considering who was involved, there is bound to be chaos soon.

Chapter 1453 - 1453: Immortal King

Klaus had no idea he was again trending all over the universe. Even if he did, there was just no way he would have minded, considering his cultivation bases were still climbing even after his main body had become a True Immortal.

Right now, he had reached the Medium-Level True Immortal stage, making that body the weakest in terms of level among the five bodies.

Rhazor, who would be playing the role of the criminal, had already reached the Peak True Immortal stage and was slowly bridging the gap between that realm and the Immortal King.

ImmortalKlaus didn't know how much of the essence it would take to enter the Immortal King stage with Rhazor. So instead, he halted his cultivation at the peak and began aiding Orion, Kaden, and Efad in reaching it as well.

The same can be said for his main body.

Since both the missions given to him by both Lord Victor and the Mission Hall require him to be below the Immortal King stage, his main body will never ascend past the True Immortal stage.

The realm of the Jade Ant Queen requires one to be at the True Immortal stage and below. If they are above that stage, the laws of that space will limit them to the True Immortal stage.

Naturally, that would also limit the amount of energy they can channel, since the laws there will limit them to the stage it wants and considers perfect for a True Immortal.

If that were to happen, there is a chance that more of his unfathomable, vast sea of energy will be suppressed too much. So he will keep his cultivation at the True Immortal stage.

As for the other four, he doesn't really care. Already, the Renegade Hunter had come under the radar again. This time, however, Klaus planned to use his fame to his own good.

Since Rhazor, the criminal, had already declared he would kill the Renegade Hunter, the challenge would soon be issued, and Klaus would have to respond.

Of course, he wouldn't make it look obvious.

The reason why he and Blue (the Supreme he used to con people with back in the day) left for the remote planet was to meet some of the people from his past life when he was the Paragon of Shadows.

Klaus didn't know how long had passed, but he knew he needed a backer, and one of those people would do. With a celestial backing him, he would rise to the same status as the renegade hunter.

Once that happens, he would be able to roam the universe without Gods, Supremes, and Celestials personally coming after him.

If that were to happen, he would be able to challenge the Renegade Hunter and show the entire universe what he is capable of.

He wants to make it so that one day, the Renegade Hunter and Rhazor will have a rivalry between them. Then, once the Paragon arrives, they would have no choice but to turn on him.

Klaus wants to create a dynamic among the Paragon, the Renegade Hunter, and Rhazor, where the three become inseparable and entangled to the point that many would wonder who among them is the best.

The Paragon would have his moments, but to what end? How vast would the gap be between them?

There is just no way the Heavens would see all this coming. They would focus so much on these three that they would fail to notice the others that he planned to use as the underdogs.

This was all his plan for the future. One day, the entire universe will learn of his identity, but unlike before, this time, he will be able to control the narrative.

The Renegade Hunter will have fame, and so would the criminal (Rhazor). With them being the main faces of his final incarnation, when the Paragon becomes a god, the universe will finally see what he has been trying to show them.

But for that to happen, he needed to make Rhazor strong enough for the Underworld Slaughter Tournament.

Millions would be sent out into a vast battlefield, and at the end of the tournament, only seven were expected to remain, each standing at the socket of the large underworld skull.

Klaus is powerful, but the same cannot be said when he goes against Immortal Lords who have been killing for their entire lives.

Honestly, Klaus didn't feel confident in himself to win that tournament.

Deep down, he knew the people coming for the tournament weren't the same kind of weaklings he had fought in the past. He knew they would be monsters just like him, so he was preparing to face them with all he had.

So, long story short, he wanted Rhazor to become an Immortal King. This way, even when inside the tournament, while he might not be able to reach the Immortal Lord stage, he would be able to hold his own against even Immortal Lords.

He learned that the tournament only accepts immortals.

Reaching the peak of the Immortal King stage, Klaus pushed his other three bodies to that peak as well. Then, before long, he decided to push Rhazor through to the Immortal King stage.

Standing 200 meters away, his wives, King Alric, Lista, and Queen Leah, were all left stunned by how fast Klaus's cultivation was rising.

In their eyes, it had only been a few hours, but he went from Early Immortal to True Immortal. While that was shocking enough, the real kicker came when they considered his four bodies.

There was just no way one person could have five different cultivation bases.

They wondered what would happen if he were to augment his main body with all four other bodies. For a moment, they all froze when they realized they may have initially underestimated the power of his other bodies.

Looking at the five Klaus'es, they could tell they each had a different aura. This meant they had each awakened or formed different immortal ring compositions.

Knowing all this, they also knew that all five bodies were Klaus's, so naturally, he could merge with them. It was possible, and Klaus had already cleared that a few days ago.

But if that was the case, then what would become of him when he did that? Already, Rhazor had six immortal rings while only at the Peak True Immortal stage.

If his six were to merge with the five each from Orion, Kaden, Efad, and Klaus, what then would become of the Paragon of the Nine Stars?

"Suddenly, I feel threatened by the power of the Paragon," Lista muttered, a bit stunned when she considered the prospect of what all this meant in the grand scheme of all things.

Klaus's wives laughed, and Anna responded:

"There is a reason why he is called the Paragon. The rules we played with had no hold on him. What the Heavens would never allow to happen had already been achieved by Klaus, and there is nothing they can do about it.

So when you look at the Paragon, regardless of how insignificant he may look before your eyes, know that at the end of the day, he is not the same as us. His power is immeasurable, unfathomable, and all-encompassing."

Somewhere along the way, Rhazor let a grin form at the corner of his lips. Right on cue, his aura shifted, and a terrible wave of aura erupted from his body.

<Your body, called Rhazor, has become an Immortal King>

Chapter 1454 - 1454: End Of Cultivation

The moment Rhazor became an Immortal King, Klaus felt a part of his soul sea start to evolve.

Already, moving from the Early Immortal stage to the True Immortal stage had expanded and transformed his soul sea to the point he couldn't explain.

However, now that he had become an Immortal King, he could tell a profound change was happening deep within him.

But that wasn't the only thing he sensed changing.

All the way back on Earth, still on the moon, every last member of his Beast Legion was seated in a lotus posture, all 8,400 of them in their humanoid form.

They each had star tattoos on their foreheads, their auras rising from Early Immortals to Real Immortals, some even radiating the power of True Immortals.

Klaus could sense their auras all too well, but had no explanation for the reason behind it.

All he knew was that the moment he had become an Immortal King in one of his bodies, these changes happened.

But while his Beast Legion had become monsters, the most unbelievable change Klaus just couldn't wrap his mind around was the fact that the connection he shared with his Beast Legion and every last person who had drunk his Star Monarch blood essence had deepened.

He could sense so much more about them, and to some extent, even feel where they all were.

He could sense his male friends, Danny and co., speeding away from a planet somewhere in the Human Universe. The same could be said for his Undead and Doom Legion.

Asmodeus led them from Earth, taking them around the Human Universe and finally leading them to the Vampire Galaxy to meet an old friend.

They had all become Immortals, with Asmodeus even reaching the Real Immortal stage. The reason why they didn't seem to have much fear was that he already had powerful Immortals in his Undead.

He had even given three Immortal Kings, two Immortal Emperors, and an Immortal Lord to Danny and his friends for protection while out there.

Asmodeus explained that now that he had reached the Immortal stage, he could break the seals limiting his Undead. He also had this unique ability to create Undead five realms above him.

So Klaus wasn't the only monster in the family. Asmodeus had already become a terrifying foe to everyone who dared mess with him.

Klaus could sense it all, and so he allowed himself to be absorbed by the thrill.

He even failed to see the changes happening to his body. While he was lost in the thrill, a wave of golden energy moved around his arm and fused with his chest.

Then, while still lost in the thrill, a message appeared, displaying something he would love to hear, but he missed it amid the euphoria.

Eventually, he managed to pull himself together when he sensed every last Immortal Qi and Divine Qi absorbed.

It was then that he saw the message.

<Your Primordial Vampire Monarch Bloodline has undergone an upgrade: Supreme Grade → Celestial Grade>

Klaus smiled, already looking forward to all the amazing things he could do with it.

Eventually, however, only Rhazor became an Immortal King. However, all four remaining bodies had reached the Peak of the True Immortal stage.

The changes that happened within him felt so powerful that he sat for ten good minutes before he managed to make sense of everything.

He sensed a profound change deep within his bones, along with an untamed power emanating from all five bodies. His main body managed to form six immortal rings using the last remaining essence he had left after Rhazor became an Immortal King.

Forming six immortal rings while only at the True Immortal stage is just too shocking, to say the least. Even the best of the best don't even come close to forming five, yet he did.

That power, coupled with the fact that he is now a True Immortal, makes him someone to be feared.

But that wasn't all. His three other bodies, Orion (Paragon), Efad, and Kaden, had each formed five immortal rings. The shocker is Rhazor, who, for reasons even Klaus himself couldn't explain, had formed eight immortal rings.

Klaus turned and looked at the bastard who was examining his own body despite fully being aware of the changes already.

Sensing his gaze, Rhazor looked up and grinned:

"Why so surprised, Klaus? Do you feel threatened by me?"

Klaus smirked, an annoyed look appearing on his face. "It feels good having so much power, huh? Mind if I borrow two immortal rings permanently?"

The grin on Rhazor's face shattered, a frown appearing on it. "You can try. But don't blame me when I knock your teeth so far down your throat, you will stick a brush up your ass to brush them."

"Big talk for a short man. Mind if we have a go for old time's sake?"

"Why not?"

Before Goddess Nivara could stop them, Klaus and Rhazor locked in a fierce combat. The broken world quaked under their assaults.

Orion raised his head and looked at his two bodies with an annoyed gaze. "I am too lazy for this shit."

Turning his head, he looked at Goddess Nivara. "I have no relations with them, Grandma, so don't look at me with those amused expressions."

A laugh escaped Goddess Nivara's lips. "I can see that, kiddo. Though I have to ask, do you not feel like joining them?"

Orion paused for a moment, then he turned and looked at Efad. Sending his gaze, the green-haired brat frowned. "You wouldn't do that."

"Watch me."

And just like that, they also created their battlefield and started testing their powers.

Kaden shook his head repeatedly for a few seconds before he moved close to his grandma. Seeing the amused smile on her face, he chuckled and said:

"I am a lot, as I said."

"I can now see that."

Kaden nodded and pressed his finger against his grandma's forehead. "I am transmitting a Celestial Grade cultivation technique to you. Once you receive it, I will give you a drop of my blood and help you absorb it. That will get you started."

She nodded, and a few minutes later, Kaden was done transferring the technique to her. He then extended his palm, and golden blood appeared.

"This will sever your connection to the Heavens, allowing you to walk the path of immortality and transcendence unhindered."

She nodded again. It was then she noticed the message to select her class and affinity hovering before her. She quickly informed Kaden.

"Let it be. My blood will give you a much better class than the one the Heavens are offering."

With no reason to doubt him, Kaden gave her the blood essence, and she swallowed it without any hesitation.

Kaden wasted no time and quickly pressed his finger against her forehead. Soon, her cultivation base started to rise. Klaus gave her the purest concentration of his blood, so she was basically flying through the levels and ranks.

(A/N: They are all Klaus, so don't get confused.)

Meanwhile, his four bodies were still locked in melee. The main body and Rhazor had already exchanged thousands of blows, and while neither used any technique or the immortal rings, the main body was pushed back a few times.

Klaus laughed, feeling the thrill of combat where every small opening was exploited, making it seem like he was fighting an actual enemy.

Chapter 1455 - 1455: Five Deadly Body Shenanigans

"I thought I have seen it all, but this is just too much," King Alric muttered, stunned and a bit amused as he watched Klaus' four bodies fight with deadly blows.

No matter how one sees it, there is just no way a single person was the same four people clashing in the air. Klaus (main body) wielded a large red scythe radiating thick blood qi, while Rhazor wielded a broadsword.

Their movements were so precise and focused that a seasoned warrior like King Alric could only watch in awe. There was no wasted movement; every attack landed where it was aimed.

Klaus was moving so fast that none of his wives could track him. The same was true for Rhazor, who even looked relaxed to the point that it could be seen clearly that he wasn't putting in any effort.

"Is that how monstrous he becomes whenever he ranks up?" Lista managed to break through her shyness and asked.

The fact that the main body was exerting more strength in the battle against Rhazor, who happens to be an Immortal King, shows that the gap between them is very huge.

Tifa, who knew Klaus at his peak during the Paragon of War era, smiled. "This is nothing. The Klaus I knew was a monster in every aspect." She sighed and revealed something small, "When he was Magnus, I was sent to kill him by the hateful heavens, of course.

Back then, he was a demigod while I had already reached the God King stage. In fact, I was given a treasure that stripped him of 40% of his strength. However, after three years of battle, I was defeated.

It took me a while to come to terms with that loss. However, when I finally did, I noticed something crucial about him. This brat is the type that will always win, provided you fail to kill him in the first quarter of the battle."

"Why is that?" King Alric asked. He may be the father of the brat, but he realized he knew nothing about him.

This time, it was Lily who answered...

"It is because, aside from his monstrous strength, he is someone who learns from his mistakes. The longer the battle drags on, the stronger he becomes until you can no longer measure up to him. Then he will kill you, and there is nothing you can do about it."

Every last one of his wives who had a not-so-friendly past with him smiled.

They, at one point in their lives, crossed him and tried to kill him many times—that is true for Lily, who came close to killing him many times, and Nia, who actually managed to sever his left arm and blind him in one eye.

All these people had the advantage over him. But in the end, not only did he defeat them in combat, he also defeated them in bed.

They called the Paragon the most dangerous being to ever live. As it turns out, he indeed is dangerous to everyone, especially ladies.

As they continued to watch, they all started to see a change in Rhazor that suggested what Tifa talked about was happening.

Initially, he was more relaxed. However, now he is putting more effort into it, and as the minutes passed, he kept adding more strength.

"Are you tired already?" On the other side, Orion, who was wielding a spear, paused and asked Efad. The green-headed handsome man smirked, spinning a crescent-shaped weapon with one finger.

"I can do this all day, buddy." As if to prove his point, the crescent disc split in two and then four, and before long, 32 discs hovered behind him, spinning with razor-sharp focus.

"I haven't even used 2% of my strength. You, on the other hand, have used 2.75%... That is a great loss on your side."

Orion smiled and winked at Queen Leah. Seeing this, Efad turned and looked, but it was then that he realized he had fallen for his own scheme.

"Bast-"

BOOOM

He was sent crashing into a pile of broken earth and jagged stones, dust rising into the air.

"I will kill you, bastard," Efad exploded from the ground and lunged at Orion. However, before he could get close, Kaden's authoritative voice filled the broken planet.

"ENOUGH"

As if being commanded by a higher authority, all four bodies froze in their steps. A second later, they all turned and glared at Kaden.

"Oh really," Klaus asked, a crazy smile appearing in his eyes.

"Don't tell me this bastard just used the Star Monarch Authority on us," Orion asked, a deadly aura spilling from the corner of his left eye.

"I say we cut both arms and toss him into a space tunnel for 1 year," Efad suggested, and Rhazor nodded.

"I second that."

Klaus grinned. "Then it is decided. On three, execute."

Before he could begin to count, Kaden ran and hid behind Goddess Nivara. "Grandma, save me from the bullies."

Goddess Nivara blinked a few times, her mind wandering as she wondered how to even proceed. In her eyes, all five bodies are the same grandson she loves and cares for. So being bullied by himself felt out of the domain of normal understanding.

And now that she is a mortal, there's just no way her fragile mind could comprehend what was happening. Klaus is the same person as Kaden, but looking at them, one might even say Kaden is their mortal enemy.

It is bizarre and, honestly, a bit unnatural. However, as a loving and sweet grandma, she merely smiled and took Kaden's hand.

"Gather around, kids." As if bewitched by her loving touch—something they all could feel, considering she held Kaden's hand—they rushed to her side.

"How about we return to Planet Caelmir, where the air is clean and smells nice? I will cook your mom's favourite dish, and we celebrate my becoming a mortal again and you becoming," she paused and looked between the five handsome brats before she added,

"four True Immortals and an Immortal King."

Klaus and his four bodies nodded with beaming smiles. "That sounds like a good plan, Grandma."

She nodded, and they helped her stand up.

Klaus's blood had helped her climb all the way to the Nether stage. While that was good, she would have to spend at least a year at the stage to better temper her body.

Klaus planned to do with her what he did for his ladies.

She would temper her body to the point that she can land a slap on a Nether stage warrior, and their head will explode without using her cultivation.

Luckily, she has a God body, so her progress will be swift. As for her class, it was one linked to both Death and the Angel race.

[Death Angelic Queen]

This class allows her to wield the innate talents of Death and divine angelic might as a queen should. Klaus even felt her connection with death strengthen.

All the way on Planet Kumil, Maud, who had followed Rhazor (criminal body), also felt Klaus' grandma's connection to the Death Realm. She was even able to sense her current location without having to enter the Death Realm.

That shows she is now more rooted in the power of death, and so in the future, when her grandson becomes the Overlord of Death, he can easily promote her to become his Subject or even Queen.

After all, good things must always remain in the family.

Chapter 1456 - 1456: The Paragon, the Hunter, and the Criminal (End Of Volume 9)

Perhaps due to her finally being free from the clutches of the heavens, Lady Nivara—as she insisted she should be called now—entered the kitchen with some of Klaus' wives the moment they arrived back on Planet Caelmir.

Klaus and his four bodies came together. After the dinner, they will return to their own lives, where the missions he had for them will commence.

But before that, all five of them took a tour around the planet, each body going in a different direction. By the time dinner was ready, they had seen all they wanted to see.

Lady Danika had also woken up and was present when Klaus returned to the Royal Estate, where the dinner would be happening.

In no time, they were seated and ready to go.

Seeing Klaus sit with all five bodies, ready to eat, made everyone feel weird.

Klaus clearly told them he is the same as all five. So if that were the case, why would they have to eat with all five bodies when just one can eat, and all five would benefit?

Perhaps hearing their thoughts, Klaus smirked... "It will be best if you don't use common sense to explain my life. As you can see, none of me makes sense, so save yourself the headache."

His life indeed doesn't make sense at all. There was

In the end, they had to accept his words, and that actually put their minds at ease. Klaus smiled and turned to his four bodies.

"We each eat a different dish so we can have all tastes."

"Sounds like a good plan," Kaden nodded.

"I am for it," Rhazor also accepted the offer.

"I call dibs on the pasta," Orion smiled and started serving himself. The other four bodies clicked their tongues but said nothing.

Soon, they served themselves and began eating. They knew Klaus was already a heavy eater, so they weren't surprised when he and his four bodies started devouring the food.

Luckily, Lady Nivara prepared more than enough, having been told about her grandson's eating capabilities.

The dinner was lively.

Queen Leah and her children, Lista, Rania, and Steven (son, also a demigod), were present. The same was true for her mother, Supreme Elder Narcisa and Queen Leah's big sister, Supreme Elder Idalie, who were also present.

Aside from them, the two gods who were present during the first dinner were also present, along with one last important person who was seated right beside Orion.

He was Klaus's uncle, a monk. He was in seclusion when he arrived. Now, he had formed his law core and made one stride toward the realm of a demigod.

Seeing Klaus again put his mind at ease and increased his happiness. The brat who had given him and the other monks so much trouble during the renegade era had finally returned to his side.

They will have so much to talk about later. For now, they were having a celebratory dinner to commemorate Lady Nivara's return to mortality and Klaus's ascension to True Immortality.

While this was happening, out in the universe, a post started spreading across Uniweb, slowly catching everyone's attention.

This post was made by someone nobody seems to know, yet somehow, a trend started to emerge.

The post titled "The Emergence of the Three-Body Problem - The Start of a New Era" was spreading, and no matter how ridiculous it sounded, many couldn't deny its content.

In the post, they shed light on the sudden emergence of the Renegade Hunter, the Criminal of the Underworld, and the Paragon.

They didn't take the roundabout route Supreme Elder Juo took; their words hinted at a major conspiracy that would soon envelop the universe.

They claimed the hidden forces of the universe had finally made their move. In their discussion, they said the coincidence of everything was not predetermined but preplanned.

The Renegade Hunter, as they claimed, was the work of the Righteous Faction. They claimed he was released to restore the righteous faction to the light. In their own words, "There is nothing righteous about the righteous faction."

They believed the name and the mission of the Righteous Faction had been tainted, and so they needed redemption. The Renegade Hunter is that redemption. He is here to make the universe what he is capable of.

As for the Criminal of the Underworld, they believed he was sent by the demons. Since the Criminal Underworld's headquarters is located in the Demon Universe, they believed he was sent to spread the encroaching corruption of darkness.

While they also claimed he was sent to oppose the light of the Righteous Faction, others claimed the Underworld merely wants to have a presence.

This argument sparked many discussions both in the Uniweb and the Dark Space. They wanted to make sense of it all—something they couldn't, considering there was a third presence: the Paragon.

What they couldn't make sense of was where the Paragon fit into all of this.

Many said he hated the Righteous Faction, since that was how they had been brainwashed to believe. The Paragon of the Nine Stars is the enemy of the heavens, and so he is the enemy of the Righteous Faction.

While that is true, the authors of this piece outlined a chilling argument that ignited something in everyone's heart.

In their write-up, they said, "While the Paragon is indeed an enemy of the heavens, he is also an enemy of the Dark Faction. He hates them with every fiber of his being for reasons none of us seem to know or recall. If that is indeed the case, then can we really say the Paragon is an enemy of the heavens? But even if he is the enemy of the heavens, the demons are also under the heavens, so where do we put them?"

This piece of writing was what suddenly exploded in the face of every Heaven's Court fanatic. They suddenly found themselves wondering if the Paragon is indeed a problem.

Someone whom they claim hated what is good had actually fought against the demons who now plague the innocent people of the Righteous Faction.

Some even said that, because of his conflict with the demons, the Righteous Faction enjoyed a semblance of peace for a few eras. That, and the fact that the heavens are struggling to hold them back now, sparked the conversation that made many feel like Heaven's Court is hiding something.

This, coupled with all the facts that every piece of information about the Paragon out there portrayed him as the bad guy, ignited a topic that would remain relevant for the next thousand years.

"Is the Paragon really the evil the heavens claim he is?"

Chapter 1457 - 1457: Back to the Void World

[One Month Time Jump]

A ship landed on the void planet, and Efad walked out, clad in the Ancient Void Living Armor.

Since Klaus is now a True Immortal, his Nine-Headed Ancient Hydra Dragon Living Armor can be considered an Immortal Emperor. It is a sentient living armor and two realms above him, so it has become so powerful.

Now that he has multiple bodies, he has decided to share the armor among them based on the missions they will undertake.

Efad's mission took him back to the void planet.

A few years back, Hanna, Kathy, and Vida discovered this planet. Apparently, while the planet appeared to be filled with green life, part of it had descended into the void, linking it to another planet that happened to be home to void wraiths.

This planet holds critical information about a world that lived during the Primordial Era and may have been guardians of a void gate.

They spent a few months, which was actually a couple of days on Earth. Time in there runs much faster. However, aside from the accelerated time, it also helps ordinary warriors gain affinity for the void and level it up by killing wraiths and absorbing void fragments.

After they managed to leave, they reported to Klaus, who later came with them, and, through several battles, they discovered a void vortex.

Already along the way, he received a reward in the form of a void crystal from an unknown source and was instructed to toss it inside the void vortex.

So when they finally found a void vortex, he tossed it in. It was then that he learned the reason this place exists. Apparently, the world he saw in the memories was plagued by the sudden opening of a void gate.

While Klaus had no idea why the rest of the universe never knew something like that had happened, he saw that the guardians of that world came up with two plans to save their planet and send out help to the rest of the universe.

He didn't see much to know whether they succeeded in sealing the void and sending help, or if they failed. However, he received a quest that demanded him to conquer all 12 void vortexes and use the void crystals to see all the memories left within them.

Klaus knew, deep within his heart, that this threat was credible, and so, after building his strength, he returned to address it.

Initially, he planned to come himself, which, given the many responsibilities he now had, he wouldn't have had the time.

Thankfully, he had more than enough bodies to handle the other missions that demanded his attention.

Efad was assigned to handle the void mission.

This decision was reached since, aside from being at the Peak True Immortal stage, he had also formed 6 Immortal Rings.

Also, for reasons Klaus and Icon couldn't explain, the Supreme Elemental Bloodline that his 8th incarnation once had has now transformed into the Celestial Law Bloodline.

This means, aside from having an affinity for elemental law, which included all elements, his bloodline now allows him to easily learn other laws, too.

So now, instead of waiting for Pickle Berry to do all the heavy lifting, Efad can also help.

Klaus sent that body to the Void planet along with the Void Armor. He would have to know everything that had happened, and only then would he seek help from others to finally address the potential danger that might soon plague the universe.

The other reason he was confident Efad could handle this mission was that, after he had reached the Immortal King stage in one of his bodies, his Hivemind had both strengthened and tripled in size.

Per calculation, one mind now holds the power of what ten minds had when he was at the Early Immortal stage.

So with 1,500 minds now forming the Hivemind, Efad is good to go.

Efad took a deep breath before moving forward. Soon, he vanished into the void region, making his way toward the first void vortex.

It took just a few seconds for him to start seeing wraiths. However, for reasons he couldn't explain, they didn't attack him. They merely stood and watched him pass...

Efad wasn't bothered by the eerie nature of how the hundreds of wraiths were staring at him. If anything, he found it a bit amusing.

The last time they were here, thousands of wraiths attacked them. Now, it seems they have become wary of him.

"But of course they had to be. Not only have I become a True Immortal, but I also have super affinity for the void. On top of that, I have 6 Immortal Rings, which I can increase to 12 without my body exploding. Even Immortal Lords would have to be wary of me."

Efad smirked, feeling rather smug as he traversed the uninviting depths of the void region.

A month ago, after the dinner on Planet Caelmir, Klaus decided to spend some more time with the people in his life.

This decision was reached because he knew that when he left, it would be a few years before they would see him again. So they had a couple of eventful weeks.

While the main body was having fun with his wives, the other four bodies were spending time with the others.

Efad, being the carefree one, decided to engage the warriors of Caelmir. He fought quite a few, and while most ended in a draw simply because he didn't want to cause too much chaos, he managed to earn their respect.

They had no idea he was the Paragon.

On the other side, Kaden spent almost every passing second by his grandma's side. He wanted to learn more about his mother, so he disturbed Lady Nivara every single day to tell him everything.

Rhazor alternated between his Uncle Monk, Lista, Rania, and Steven (Rania's big brother). He even became sworn brothers with Steven. This, of course, made things easy for the sneaky Orion, who is the ladies' man.

While the main body was sweating profusely, the sneaky bastard was there charming Queen Leah, her mother, and her big sister. Whenever he is around, their cheeks turn red from all the blushing.

Basically, he had the best time of his life on Planet Caelmir. However, everything good must surely come to an end, so after a month, the other four bodies had to go back to their lives.

Efad is now on the void planet, advancing steadily toward the first vortex. A few minutes later, he reached it, and without any resistance, he crossed it and started heading toward the second.

"Finally, I cannot hold back again. In here, I can go all out," he said to himself, and then he slowed down.

Ahead, thousands of wraiths, each having the strength of an Emyrean, rushed toward him. Efad let a faint smile appear on his face, seeing such a sight.

A few years ago, he would have panicked at the sight of thousands of such beings coming after him. However, he is so powerful now that even if he allows them to attack his defenseless body, they wouldn't be able to scratch even his armor.

They are weak, and so Efad merely pointed his finger forward, and thousands of spears formed from void qi appeared in the air. Then, with a gesture, they shot forward and impaled the approaching wraiths.

Chapter 1458 - 1458: Second Void Crystal

As an Immortal, taking out a few thousand Emphyreans was as simple as flicking a finger. Efad easily dealt with the wraiths and, without slowing down, advanced quickly.

The last time he was here, he had learned a skill called [Void Manipulation].

This skill allows him to manipulate void energy to form any weapon he wants.

Initially, he was only able to form spears and other basic weapons; however, after using them for a while, he mastered a few additional abilities that gave him more control over the Void Manipulation skill.

Now, he can do more.

He can use an ability called [Void Devour].

This ability allows him to devour all attacks that land on his body or on defenses he constructed using void essence. The absorbed attack is converted into void energy, which he can then use to create his own attacks.

While some attacks can't be absorbed due to how dangerous they may be, the kind of defense stat he has while inside the void is too much for someone at his level.

Naturally, the [void devour] ability is overpowered thanks to a passive ability he had learned a few days into his first time here.

The [Void Heart EX] causes his attributes to perform at 70,000% of their usual strength when inside the void. Right now, he is surrounded on all sides by the void, so his defense is now 70,000% more powerful.

Unless, of course, the attacks came from people with a much higher understanding of the void than he does, then the [Void Devour] would never fail him.

But for it to fail, his attackers would also have to be much more powerful in terms of cultivation than he is. Klaus is confident he would be able to handle even an Immortal Lord and escape from a Demigod.

So while in here, he is confident in his defence.

So moving toward the second void vortex isn't too taxing, like it would have been before he became a True Immortal.

More wraiths came his way, but with the kind of attacks he was manifesting, they all died before taking a few steps.

The void fragments kept flooding into his system, but with his current understanding of the void and the strength level of the wraiths he was killing, reaching the Perfect affinity level was not going to be simple at all.

Even so, he kept moving. Eventually, while the wraiths' cultivation level never increased, he sensed their strength slowly rising.

This made him aware that he was drawing near the second void vortex, and he might soon receive the void fragment.

As if right on cue, after killing a wraith with white eyes, he saw the message flash before his eyes.

«You have received a Void Crystal. Toss it into a void vortex and glimpse the truth hidden behind the layers of the void»

With the fragment received, he increased the speed of his assault.

He deployed the second ability he received from the Void Manipulation skill, called [Void Zone]. This created a domain vast enough to hold thousands of wraiths.

Those caught within the domain will have 50% of their strength taken away.

Of course, the more they understand the void, the less the domain affects them. However, as long as his understanding is higher, the effect remains at 50%.

These wraiths are very weak.

So the moment he deployed it, all the wraiths became sluggish. But Efad didn't stop there. He activated one of his immortal rings, using it to activate his gravity law.

This caused a terrible pressure to descend on every last wraith, causing them to explode into smoky fragments.

Efad merely continued to walk forward, leaving the wraiths to the mercy of the domain and gravity.

20 minutes into his dominance, he saw the void vortex appear in sight. This made him advance much faster, and before long, he was standing before the void vortex.

The last time he stood before one, he was ready to toss the first fragment, unsure of what would happen when he did that. But today, he knew that the moment he did, his consciousness would be pulled into the world he had seen the last time.

Thankfully, he was also made aware that while inside the trance, his body would be protected. So he had no fear in that regard.

Lastly, he might end up staying in the memory for a few years, which, on the outside, would be months. Since that was the case, Efad paused and made his other bodies aware of what might happen.

The last time, his Hivemind nearly broke, so there was a good chance it would again. Regardless, there was no telling what he might see or what the general effect would be on him.

Klaus knew he had to protect his other bodies from the effect, so he assigned 500 minds to only Efad. The remaining four bodies would share the 1000 minds left.

After making adequate preparations, he sat down and tossed the fragment in. The next second, his consciousness was pulled away.

He would be inside the memory for a while...

[Inheritance Tower]

Meanwhile, back inside the second floor of the inheritance tower, Kaden stood before a battle doll, his gaze scanning it.

He had been assigned a training mission. His job basically was to train all the skills and techniques they had learned in their past lives.

Although Klaus can use them effortlessly, he still wants to train them in different combat styles. Thankfully, Kaden was created from the Star Monarch Bloodline, so he could utilize the versatile nature of that bloodline to master them.

Since the 9th paragon (star monarch) could transform into any beast he had contracted and use their battle styles even in his human form, this mission would see him blend all kinds of battle styles, techniques, and even laws to create a variety of battle styles.

His mission description included merging a few techniques to create better ones and even creating new ones from scratch. He had many battle dolls, ranging from True Immortals to Immortal Lords, to train with.

Aside from that, Icon can later evolve the dolls into Demigods and even Gods. So he would be there for a while. Luckily for him, his wives would be coming over to train with him, so he wouldn't be too bored.

And while training was important, the last reason he came was, of course, to earn more points and unlock the treasures in the Treasure Vault.

His mission was important, and so after admiring the battle doll for a few minutes, he decided to start training in [Scythe Art].

This decision was reached since in a few days, Klaus, alongside Rory and three others, would be venturing into the Jade Ant Queen's nest.

Initially, they were a team of seven, but it was announced that the Jade Ant Nest allows only a five-person team to enter per jade key. And since they had only one key, two of them were dropped.

So he started the battle, choosing an opponent who was proficient in close combat with the scythe.

The training hall improves one's focus while training. This allows them to easily learn from their opponent and correct their mistakes.

With how vast Klaus's Hivemind is, the benefits he is bound to reap will be just immeasurable.

After clashing for a few seconds, Kaden smiled bitterly, seeing how terrible he was with the scythe. This also meant Klaus was terrible with the scythe. After all, they have the same mind, feelings, and soul.

Due to this, whatever he learns affects all his bodies, and so now that he saw how terrible he was, it meant all five bodies were terrible.

But that was why he was there, so he locked in with the battle doll, and for the next few days, he would not stop until he saw a great improvement.

Chapter 1459 - 1459: Preparing To Leave Planet Caelmir

While Efad was away on the Void Planet, working to clear the void quest, and Kaden was locked in a fierce battle with the training dolls, Klaus was also getting ready to leave Planet Caelmir.

Already, Rhazor had returned to Planet Kumil, where Blue and Maud were waiting for him. Surprisingly, after he returned, Maud protested that she wanted to follow Orion instead.

Klaus was a bit stunned when Maud made this declaration. All four bodies are his incarnations. They are the same as him, so why choose to abandon one who is even stronger just to follow another?

It was like the classic case of rejecting the devil only to follow Satan.

Maud, however, explained that since the Paragon Incarnation was created to wield the power of death, she would be able to aid him more.

This explanation was accepted by all incarnations, so she teleported back to Planet Virel, where Orion would soon be making his way toward the Beast Universe.

Rhazor had to prepare for the Underworld Slaughter Tournament, so he would be heading to one of the battlefields against the demons.

Since the Heaven Defying Body can only take him as far as the Immortal King stage, he wanted to find ways to strengthen himself further.

Killing demons would do. Of course, this battlefield also serves as a no-man's land, so demonic beasts can be found there.

Klaus wanted that incarnation of his to venture there and use a new skill he had awakened to see if they could find blood essence more in tune with the power of death, so he could absorb it.

The place he would be going is called the Maw of Death, a no-man's land where even gods run the risk of dying if they are reckless.

His mission was simple: kill and hope to find blood essence that would strengthen the Paragon's bloodline.

With the missions for his four incarnations settled, he was left to go back to his own.

Already, his relationship with everyone had strengthened. His incarnations helped the main body connect with everyone.

Lady Danika, Mio, Miko, Emily, and Rory had also grown closer to him. He had already expressed his desire to take the next step with all five of them; however, they said they were not ready yet.

He was a bit stunned when even Rory said the same thing. For a moment, he thought maybe they didn't like him anymore.

However, their reason was revealed by their wives during their one-year sex marathon.

It turns out that after witnessing how powerful all 27 of them are when they sparred with Klaus, they felt lacking, so they demanded his blood and have since gone into seclusion.

They want to reach their level or close the gap somehow first.

This was the second time it happened, so Klaus was a bit taken aback. However, with 27 women already in his bed, he allowed them to do as they pleased.

With many of himself out there, who is to tell how many women will soon be gracing his bed?

As for Queen Leah, Lady Narcisa, Rania, Idalie, and Lista, he didn't know how Orion did it, but they are now smitten with him.

Actually, he did know what he did, considering it was him all along.

Somehow, the sneaky bastard rizzed the family of five, making them all submit to him. Somewhere along the line, he set a date with all five of them spanning five days.

After those dates, their relationship became close to the point that Klaus had no choice but to promise he would make it up to them before leaving.

Klaus was even shocked that he had pulled off such a feat. Even his old man was stunned when he saw an incarnation of his shameless brat holding hands with Lady Narcisa in the royal garden.

He couldn't help but recall an event that happened when she was the queen. Back then, three Celestials came to Planet Caelmir to ask for her hand in marriage. When she rejected them, they tried to use force.

It was that day that many in the universe recognised how monstrous Planet Caelmir really is. The three Celestials barely made it out alive.

King Alric himself was part of the warriors who gave them a good beating. Since then, no man with two balls has dared to approach women in the Caelmir royal family.

So, for his son to be this bold, he had to say his bloodline sure had some boldness in it.

His shock, however, multiplied when, in a span of five days, all five royal ladies currently on Planet Caelmir had a date with him in the same garden.

He was even compelled to grab his son and give him a good beating for his boldness, which seemed a little over the top.

In the end, he merely smiled and decided to mind his own business.

Klaus planned to leave everyone happy, so seeing the normally rigid members of the royal family smile, he was happy for them and proud of his son.

The first people he spent time with were, of course, his wives.

He used one of the five time crystals King Alric gave him to spend an entire year with his wives.

They wanted to be with him for a while, so in what seemed like a day, a year actually passed. During those eventful 365 days inside the pagoda, they only had sex.

Once they were done, he gave them his blood, which instantly caused their cultivation bases to surge to the Real Immortal stage without tribulations.

Anna, who had already reached the Real Immortal stage, surged to the True Immortal stage.

When that was handled, Asha revealed how terrifying her Insect Legion had become. It turned out the only thing holding her back was mortality.

Now that she had become an Immortal, and a real one at that, her bloodline and control over the Insect domain had grown. The Ancient Forge had also become overpowered.

So, using the many resources she unlocked unknowingly inside the Insect domain, she upgraded her five insect queens to the Immortal King stage.

Once that was accomplished, the queens also aided her in upgrading their soldiers. Each queen has 2,500 regular soldiers, 1,500 elite soldiers, 900 royal soldiers, and 100 Abyssal soldiers.

Right now, the weakest insect soldier under her command is a True Immortal, with the Abyssal already within the ranks of Immortal Emperor and below.

The 12 Death Agents had also been upgraded to the Peak of the Immortal Monarch stage.

However, the most shocking part was when she revealed her two generals, Linx and Jinx, had already become Immortal Lords.

When they heard this, aside from Nadia, everyone widened their eyes, jaws hanging loose.

It turned out that when she reached the peak of the Early Immortal stage, a section of her Insect domain called the Insect Vault opened. Inside this vault are treasures so powerful that even gods would kill to have.

Asha explained that when she was awakening her bloodline during their final preparation before the world awakening, her past self visited her and bestowed the Insect domain's main inheritance upon her.

She said that as her memories slowly returned, so would the true nature of the Insect domain begin to awaken. Basically, the more memories she recovers, the more she can do.

She had already recalled up to the point when she became a god, and so she was able to accomplish all this. She said that in the past, she lacked the necessary army to face her enemies, so she made sure in this life she would never lack one.

The only thing left now was to become a True Immortal and recover more memories. Once that happens, there is a chance she would welcome the first Demigod or have all Immortal Lord insect soldiers under her command.

Commanding an army of over 25,000 Immortal Lords is not something to scoff at. During the Primordial Era, she commanded millions of insects with over a hundred Celestials under her command.

This time, Asha wanted to surpass that stage. She wants to go into battle with a force that even the Heavens Court will tremble in their shoes.

Nadia took over after Asha was done and revealed that she had also received the same visit. However, her past self hadn't left her any inheritance. Instead, she revealed where the manual that explained how best to use her job class was hidden in her Puppet Workshop.

She found it ten months before they left Earth, and since then, she had been working tirelessly to improve her puppets.

She has 5,000 puppets in total, each with a demon soul.

However, unlike Asha, who has True Immortals as her weakest, 3,500 of her puppets are Immortal Kings, 1,000 Immortal Emperors, 495 Immortal Monarchs, and the last five are Immortal Lords.

Vlad, the sneaky bastard who put his life on the line to protect Nadia during the awakening, is part of the five. Faye, the first Angel Puppet Nadia had, was now an Immortal Lord as well. The other three are also demons in their own right.

Chapter 1460 - 1460: Time with the Five Royals

Klaus was left wondering if he should really worry about his wives. It turns out he had nothing to fear. They had all become monsters, especially Nadia and Asha.

Hearing how monstrous they had become, he became proud. He realised the way he suffered in the past would be limited in this life.

His wives are a part of his strength, so he had nothing to be scared of. Asha alone is enough to protect them all.

The moment they saw his worry had softened, they revealed the issue with the Asura race to him. Hearing what Anna had discovered, he was inclined to create another incarnation to get on that.

However, his wives stopped him. They wanted to handle that themselves. They needed three keys to unlock the realm that the Asura race had ended up in after their supposed death.

Thankfully, they had located one of the keys. When Klaus learned that Blood Shadow was the first key, he let a defeated smile appear on his face. It turns out she would not be dying by his hand, not when he needed her help.

Klaus wanted to argue that Blood Shadow is a danger, that she is an Immortal Lord. However, learning that Nadia has five Immortal Lords and Asha has two made him shut up.

His Uncle Monk, who had finally become a Demigod thanks to Klaus's Star Monarch bloodline, promised to keep them safe while out there.

Hearing this, Klaus gave them the go-ahead to make their appearance in the universe. The universe may have changed since they last dominated. However, with the power they have now, it is only a matter of time before they become terrors capable of dominating several sectors of the universe.

After their time together ended, Klaus helped the others sever their connection to the heavens. His Star Monarch bloodline is now powerful enough to even aid a Celestial in accomplishing such a feat.

Five days before he left, he decided to address the budding relationship between him and the five royal ladies.

He started with Lady Narcisa, considering she is the oldest. The day started with them having a nice coffee in the royal garden. Since there were no maids around, they had the privacy to do as they pleased.

Klaus took the opportunity to get to know her better. It turns out she is a hardened warrior. She had been to the foreign battlefield and back, making her one of the many Supremes to have a presence there.

Klaus was even stunned when he learned her name was on the Supreme Foreign Battlefield Chart. She ranked 504th, making her one of the most wanted beings the foreign race sought to kill.

As a warrior himself, they connected on an issue related to battle. Before they knew it, the day was coming to an end.

They returned to the mansion, and one thing led to another; Klaus was in her room.

"I learned from Queen Leah that your other name is the Fiery Vixen, considering because of you, three Celestials nearly lost their lives pursuing you." Klaus laughed, and Lady Narcisa blushed.

Klaus used the chance to pull her closer and sank his fangs into her neck, inciting a subtle moan. After drinking her blood for a few minutes, he pulled back and licked his lips.

Before him, however, messages he suspected but never expected to appear showed up.

<You have absorbed Supreme Qi from a supreme blood.>

<Your ?????? has refined and absorbed the essence. Once you have absorbed enough essence, ????? will awaken>

<Progress: 35%. Status: Incomplete>

This change happened when he drank Lady Danika's blood a second time. Icon managed to find a way to speed up the awakening by using all absorbed essence to feed this strange energy.

Since he is now a True Immortal, he knew that until he finished his missions, he could not level up, and since his other incarnations do not need it, he decided to use all the absorbed essence to feed the strange energy slowly awakening within his soul sea.

"Tastes great," Klaus smiled, and using his finger, he slid the arm of the pyjama Lady Narcisa had on, freeing her left boob.

"Now, how about I drink from the main source?" With a smile on his face, he bit into her beautiful, pale breast and started sucking her blood.

"AaaahhHH" Lady Narcisa let out a moan and continued to moan the more blood Klaus drank.

The rest of the night was him drinking her blood. Later, they kissed and slept together. It was a great night, one that Lady Narcisa would never forget.

The next day, it was Lady Idalie, Queen Leah's sister's turn.

They didn't have tea; instead, they sparred. She turned out to be a battle maniac, ranking 402 on the Supreme Foreign Battlefield Chart.

The bounty on her head is 100 billion Supreme Coins. That is 10 trillion God Coins or 1 trillion Universe Coins.

That kind of bounty is one even people from the righteous faction tried to claim, only to die in ways they never saw coming.

After the spar, which lasted the entire day, Klaus spent a steamy session with her, too. He drank from her neck, boobs, and even her butt.

Klaus was even surprised when she slid her hand into his pants and gave him a handjob, drinking the cum afterwards.

The third was finally Queen Leah's turn. To Klaus's shock, she brought a diary to their date, wanting to know all about Magnus, his 7th incarnation.

They had a great day, one Klaus would forever remember. When night came, they also spent a good, sexy night. Queen Leah discovered she is a kisser, so they spent hours exploring all kinds of kissing.

When the day broke, Klaus was shocked to find out Lista had locked herself in her room, too shy to face him for their date.

Rania stepped in on her behalf. She had already been dying to have her blood drunk, so she took the chance to jump into Klaus's arms.

Unfortunately for her, she is much weaker, so after spending the entire day eating one candy after another, she only lasted two hours before she passed out from merely having her blood drunk.

The next day, Lista was finally brought out.

When they left the mansion, she remained quiet for hours, unsure of what to say. Eventually, she decided to ask about how best to cultivate her mind.

Klaus managed to tell her a few things that didn't violate Karma's rules. In the end, she became more comfortable with him. They had a great time after that.

Finally, night came, and they returned inside.

She sat on the bed like a statue, unsure of what to do. Klaus just laughed and entered the bathroom to bathe. When he walked out, he was nude.

This sight caused Lista's body to heat up.

Klaus expected her to run away screaming. However, what she did next shocked him. She held back for a while, then she reached for his dick.

Two hours later, slurping sounds filled the room.

She happened to have a dark side to her, and that was discovered when she saw his dick. They ended up spending the entire night with her sucking and drinking the sweet star juice.

Klaus only drank her blood for a few minutes before allowing her to have her moment. All five of them will one day become his baby mamas, so there is no need to deprive her of her kink.

The next morning, which happened to be the day Klaus and Rory would finally be heading back to planet Stella, they woke up with Lista holding his cock.
